An exhortacyon to the study of thee holye Scrypture gathered oute of the Byble.

Christ vnto the people. John v

Searche the Scryptures: For they are they that testyfye of me.

Paul to Tymothy. ii. Tymothy. iii.

All Scryptures geuen by inspiracyō of god, is profitable to teache, to improue, to amend & to instruct in rightwesnes, that the man of god may be perfect & prepared to all good worckes.

The same to the. Romay. xv

Whatsoeuer thynges are wrytten, are wrytten for ourre learnyng: that we thorow pacience and comforthe of the scrypture, myght haue hope.

Salomon. Prouerbe. xxx.

All the word of God is pure and cleane, it is a shyld vnto them that put their trust in it. Put nothynge vnto hys wordes, leaste he reproue thee and thou be founde a lyar.

Moses to the people. Deu. xii.

Ye shall not do euery man what seameth hym good in hys owne eyes: But whatsoeuer I commaunde you, that take hede ye do: and put noughte thereto, ner take oughte therfrom.

The Lorde vnto Josua. Josue. i.

Let not the boke of thys law depart out of thy mouth: But recoarde therin daye & nyght, that thou mayest be circumspect to do accordyng to all that is wrytten therin. For then shalt thou make thy way prosperous, and then shalt thou haue vnderstandyng. Turne therfrom nether to the ryght hande, ner to the left: that ỹ mayest haue vnderstandynge in al that thou takest in hande.

The same to the people. Exod. xiii.

And thou shalte shewe thy sonne at that tyme, sayinge: Thys is done because of that whyche the Lord dyd vnto me when I came out of Egypte. Therfore it shal be assygne vnto the vpon thyne hande, and a remembraunce betwene thyne eyes, ỹ the Lordes lawe maye be in thy mouthe. For wythe a stronge hand the Lord brought the oute of Egypte.

Moyses. Deutero. xxxi

Se that thou reade thys lawe before all Israell in theyr eares. Gather thee people togeather, bothe men, wemen, and chyldren and the strangers that are in thy cyties: that they maye heare, lerne, and feare the Lorde youre God, to kepe all the wordes of thys lawe.

The summe and contente of al the holy scripture, both of the Olde and Newe Testament.

Deute vi. 1. Timo. ii. Gen. vrſe. Exodi xv. Genesi. Psalm. x. Exodi. iii Jeremy. x. Roma. ix. Esay. liii. Jeremy. x

FIrst the holy writin ges of the Byble teache vs, ỹ ther is one god, almyghty, that hath nether begynninge ner endyng which of his owne goodnes dyd create al thynges: of whom al thynges proceade, and wt oute whom ther is nothyng: which is ryghtewes & mercyful: & which worketh al thinges in al after his wil: of whō it may not be demaũded wherfore he doth this or ỹ.

Gene. i. Sapien. ii Roma. v

The that this very God did create Adam the first mā after his owne Image & similitude, & did ordene & apoite him Lord of al the creatures in ỹ erth. Which Adā by the enuy of ỹ deuel, disobeyng the commaundemente of his maker, dyd fyrst synne, & brought sinne into this world, soch & so great, ỹ we which be sprong of him after ỹ flesh, ar subdued vnto sinne deeth, & dānaciō, brought vnder the youck & tyranny of the deuel.

Ephesy. ii

Gen. iii xii. xxv. xxviii Exodi. iii

And further that Christ Jesus his sōne was promesed of god ỹ father, to be a sauour to this Adam, Abrahā, Isaac, Jacob, Dauid & the other fathers: which shuld deliuer thē frō their sinnes & tyrannye of the deuel, ỹ with a quyck & lyuyng fayth wold beleue this promes, and trust to this Jesus Chryst, hopyng to haue this delyuerannce of & by hym. And truly thys promes, is very oft rehearsed in ỹ bokes of the old testament, ye & ỹ old testamēt is this promes, as it is called the newe, whych teachethe that thys promes is fulfylled.

And that in the meane ceasō whyle the fathers loked for saluacyon & delyueraunce promesed, because mānes nature is soch that he not onlye cannot, but also wil not cōfesse hym self to be a synner, & specially soch a synner ỹ hathe neade of the sauyng health promesed, ỹ law was geuē were through men might know syn, & ỹ they are sinners: whē they se that they do none of the thynges that ỹ law cōmaundeth, wyth so glad & wyllynge a minde as God requyreth: but rather agaynst their wylles, wythout affec tyon, & as thoughe they were cōstrayned wyth the feare of that hel whych the law threatnethe, sayinge: Cursed be he that mayntayneth not al ỹ wordes of this lawe to kepe them. And ỹ this law was geuen, to thyntente that synne & the malyce of mens hert beig therby ỹ beter knowē, men shuld the more feruently thrist ỹ cōmyng of christe, whiche shulde redeame them from theyr sinnes: As it was fygured vnto the Jewes by many ceremonyes, hostes, and sacryfyces: whych were ordeyned of God, not to thyntente to take awaye synnes, but to shewe & declare that they shuld be put away by fayth in the saluation promesed thorowe Chryst and whych now are put awaye by the comynge of that Chryste, whych is the very hoste of the father that taketh awaye all synne.

Last of all by the Bokes of the newe Testament, we are taught, that that Chryst whych was promysed & shadowed in the olde Testament, is sente of the father, at soche tyme as he had determyned wyth hym selfe, at soche tyme (I saye) as all wyckednes florysshed. And that he was sent not for any mans good workes (for they al were synners) but to thyntent ỹ he wold truly shew the aboūdant ryches of hys grace, whych he had promysed.

¶ In the newe Testamente therfore it is most euydently declared, ỹ Jesus Chryst the true lambe and hoste, is come to thyntent to reconcyle vs to the father, payinge on the crosse the punyshment due vnto our synnes: & to delyuer vs from the bondage of the deuyl (vnto whom we serued through synne) and to make vs the sonnes of god, syth he hath geuē vs the true peace & tranquylyte of conscience, that we no longer do feare the paynes of hell: which feare is put away by the fayth, confydence and assurauncce that the father geueth vs drawinge vs vnto his sonne. For that fayth is ỹ gyft of God, wherby we beleue that Christ is come into thys worlde to saue synners:

wbych is of so great pyth that they wbych haue it, desire to perfourme al ȳ duties of loue to al mē, after the exāple of christ or fayth ones receueth god geueth his holy ghost, wherwith he tokeneth & marcketh al ȳ beleue: wbyche is the pledge & earnest, that we shal surely possesse euerlastyng lyfe, & that geueth witnes vnto our spyrete, and grafteth thys faith in vs ȳ we be the sōnes of god: powryng therwith that loue into our hertes which paull xiii. describeth and setteth out to the corynthians. By that faith and confydence in christ wbych by loue is myghty in operacyon, & that sheweth it selfe thorow ȳ workes of loue, steryng man thereto, by that (I saye) we are Justyfyed: that is, by that fayth, chrystes father (whyche is become oures also thorow ȳ chryste our brother) counteth vs for rygtewes & for hys sōnes: imputyng not our synnes vnto vs, thorow hys grace.

To conclude, he came to thintēt ȳ we beyng cleansed frō our synnes, and sāctyfyed vnto god the father: that is yalowed vnto the vse of the father to exercyse good workes, renuing & forsaking ȳ workes of the flesh, shuld frely serue hī in rygbt weisnes & holynes al our lyfe lōge: thorow good workes wbyche God hath ordeyned to thintēt ȳ we shuld walke in them. declaryng oure selues therby to be surely called vnto this grace wbych workes whosoeuer hath not, declareth that he hath not fayth in chryst.

Vnto whom we must come, & folow hym with a chearefull herte, that he maye instruct & teach vs, for he is our maister, meake & hūble of hert: he is our exāple of whom we must learne the rule of good lyuyng: further, he is our prest, hye bysshop, & only medyator: wbych now sytteth on the rygbthād of God the father, is our aduocate & prayethe euer for vs: wbych wyl vndoutedly obtaine whatsoeuer we desyre, ether of hym, or of hys father in his name: yf we beleue that he wil do it when we requere it: For so hathe he promysed. Let vs therfore no doute, although we some tyme sinne, with a confydence to come vnto him, and with out lyuyng & vndouting faithe, that we shall obtayne mercie. For therefore came he to thintent to saue sinners: nether requireth he anye thinge moare of vs, then to come vnto him with out feare.

which after he hath killed the mā of sinne with the breath of his mouth, shal sit in his mayestie & Judge al men, geuing vnto thē that shalbe on his righte hād. Come ye blessed children of my father, inherit ye the kingdom prepared for you frō the beginninge of the worlde: And vnto thē that shalbe on his left hād, Departe frō me ye cursed, into euerlastinge fire: which is prepated for the deuel & his angels. Thē shal the end come & he shall deliuer vp ȳ kingdom to god the father.

To thintent that we shulde know thys, by the goodnes of God working by his holy spyrete, at the holy wrytynges of the Byble geuen vs. That we shuld know (I say) & beleue that ther is one God: and Jesus Chryst whome he hath sent: and that in beleuyng we shuld haue euerlastyng lyfe thorow hys name

Another foundacyon then thys can no man lay. And saynt paul despyteth that he be holden a cursed wbych preacheth any other fayth & saluacyon, then only by Jesus chryst: yee although it were an angel of heauen.

For of hym, and thorow hym, and for hym, ar all thinges:
to whom, with the father
& the holy ghost, be honour & glorie for euer more.
Amen.

¶ Merite.

In lokyng ouer the Byble, as well as thee new as ꝑ old testamẽt, I haue not found thys word merite. Merite then is nothing: for to merite, is to bynd god vnto his creatures. & to obscure ꝑ merite of Iesus christ, by which only we ar saued/not accordyng to our workes or merites, but according to his holy purpose & grace, which was geuẽ vnto vs before all tyme, ii, Timo.i,b. Tit.iii.b/ It is then by grace ꝑ we are saued through faithe, & not of vs, but by ꝑ gift of god, to thyntẽt that none do bost himself. Ephe.ii. Roma, iii.viii, For ꝑ tribulatiõs of this world, ar not worthy of ꝑ glory that shalbe shewed vnto vs. Rom. viii. And yf we haue pacyence in thẽ, that cometh of god, i.cor.in.xiii. How thẽ can we glorye/ ꝑ we do merite ꝑ thyge which is none of ours, in as moche as God doth and accomplysheth in vs the good wyll. Philii.

¶ Masse.

This word masse is not in ꝑ Byble, translated by S. Jerom, nor in none other ꝑ we haue and therfore could ꝛ not tel what to note therof, but to send the reader to the louper of our lord Jesus christ, i, Cor.in.xi. Act.xx.b.c

Unto

Unto the Reader W. T.

THoughe a man had a precious Juel, and a ryche, yet yf he wyste not the value therof, nor wherfore it serued, he were nether ỹ better nor rytcher of a strawe. Euē so, though we reade the scripture and bable of it neuer so moch, yet yf we know not the vse of it, and wherfore it was geuen, & what is therin to be sought, it profyteth vs nothinge at all. Jt is not ynough therfore to reade & talke of it, but we must also desyre God daye and nyght, instantly to open our eyes, and to make vs vnderstand, and fealc wherfore the scripture was geuen, that we may applye the medicine of the scripture, euery man to his owne sores, vnlesse thē we entend to be ydle disputers, & braulers about vayn wordes, euer gnaweng vpon the bytter barcke wythout, and neuer attayninge vnto the swete pyth wythin, and persecutinge one another for defending of lewde ymaginations and phantasyes of oure owne inuention.

The scripture wherfore it is good.

Paule in the thyrd of the second Epystle to Tymothe sayth, that the scripture is good to teache (for that ought mē to teach) and not dreames of theyr owne making, as the pope dothe) & also to improue, for that scripture is the touchstone that tryeth all doctrines, and by that we know the false from the true. And in the .vi. to the Ephesians he calleth it the swerde of the sperite, bycause it kylleth hypocrites & vtterethe and improueth theyr false inuentions. And in the .xv. to the Romaynes he sayth: all that are wrytten, are wrytten for oure learninge, that we thorow pacience and cōfort of the scripture myghte haue hope. That is, the ensamples that are in the scripture, comforte vs in al our tribulations, and make vs to put our truste in god, and pacientely to abyde hys leysure. And in the .x. of the fyrste to the Corinthiās he bryngeth in examples of the scripture to feare vs & to bridle the flesshe, that we caste not the yoke of the lawe of God, from of our neckes, & fal to lusting and doinge of euyll.

So now the scripture is a lyght and sheweth vs the true waye, both what to do, and what to hope: and a defence from all errour, and a comfort in aduersite that we dyspeare not, and feareth vs in prosperite that we synne not. Seke therfore in the scripture as thou readest it, chefely & aboue all, the couenaūtes made betwene God and vs. That is to say: the law and cōmaūdemētes which god cōmaūdeth vs to do. And then the mercye promysed vnto al them that submyt them selues vnto the lawe For al the promises thorow out the hole scripture do include a couenaunt. That is: god byndeth hym selfe to fulfyll that mercy vnto the, onely yf thou wylt endeuour thy selfe to kepe hys lawes: so that no man hath hys parte in the mercy of god, saue he only that loueth hys lawe and consenteth that it is ryghteous and good, & fayne wolde do it, and euer mourneth because he nowe and then breaketh it thorow infyrmytie, or dothe it not so perfectely as hys harte wolde.

And let loue interprete the lawe: that thou vnderstande thys to be the fynall ende of the lawe, & the hole cause why the lawe was geuen: euen to bring the to the knowledge of God, howe that he hath done all thyng for the, that thou myghtest loue him agayn wyth all thyne harte, and thy neyghbour for hys sake as thy selfe, & as christ loued the. Because thy neighboure is the sonne of god also, and created vnto his lykenes as thou arte, and bought wyth as dere bloud as arte thou. Whosoeuer feleth in hys herte that euery man ought to loue hys neyghbour as Christ loued hym, and consenteth therto and enforseth to come therto: the same onely vnderstādeth the law & ryght and can interprete it. And he that submytteth not him selfe in the degre he is in, to seke hys neyghboutes profyte as Christ dyd hys, can neuer vnderstande thee lawe, though it be interprete to hym. For that loue is the lyght of the lawe, to vnderstande it bye.

And behold how ryghteous, how honest, & how due a thinge it is by nature, that euery man louc hys brother vnfaynedly euē as hym selfe: for hys fathers sake. For it is the fathers great shame and hys bye dysplealure, yf one brother hurte another, If one brother be hurte of another, he may not aduēge hym selfe, but must cōplayne to hys father or to thē that haue auctorite of hys father to rule in hys absence. Euen so yf any gods chyldre be hurt by any of hys brethre, he may not aduēge hym selfe w hand or hert. God must aduenge. And the gouerners & ministers of the lawe ꝑ God hath ordeyned to rule vs by, cōcerning our outward cōuersatiō of one wyth another they must aduēge. Yf they wyl not auēge, but rather mayntayn wrōge & be oppressers thē selues, thē must we tarye paciētly tyl God come which is euer ready to reape tyraūtes frō of the face of ꝑ erth, assone as theyr synnes ar ripe. Cōsyder also what wrath, vēgeaunce and plages god threateneth to thē ꝑ ar rebellious and disobediēt

Thē go to & reade the storyes of ꝑ byble for thy lerning & cōfort, & se euery thinge practysed before thyne eyes: for according to those ensamples shall it go w the & all mē vntil ꝑ worldes ende. So ꝑ into (whatsoeuer case or state a mā be brought, according to whatsoeuer ensāple of ꝑ bible it be) his ende shalbe accordig as he ther seeth & readeth. As god ther warneth yer he submit, & suffreth lōge yer he take extreme vēgeaūce, so shal he do w vs. As they ꝑ turne, ar ther receaued to mercy, & they ꝑ maliciously resist, perishe vtterly, so shal it be w vs. As they ꝑ refuse the coūsell of God, perishe thorow theyr owne coūcel, so shal it be wyth vs vntyl ꝑ worldes ende. As it wēt w theyr kinges & rulers, so shal it go with oures. As it was w theyr cōmon people, so shal it be w oures. As it was w theyr spiritual officers, so shal it be w oures. As it was w theyr true prophetes, so shal it be w oures vntyl the worldes ende. As they had euer amōg thē false ꝓphetes & true: & as theyr false, ꝓsecuted the true, & moued the princes to sle thē, so shal it be w vs vntyl ꝑ ende of the world. As there was amōg thē but a fewe true herted to god, so shal it be amōg vs: & as theyr ydolotrye was so shal oures be vntyl ꝑ ende of ꝑ world. Al mercy ꝑ was shewed ther, is a ꝓmyse vnto the, yf ꝑ turne vnto god. And al vēgeaūce & wrath shewed ther, is threatened to the, yf thou be stoubourne and resyst. &c. And this lerning & cōforte shalt thou euermore finde in ꝑ playne texte & literal sence. Nether is ther any story so homely, so rude, yea, or so byle (as it semeth outwarde) wherin is not exceedynge great comforte. And whē some whych seme to thē selues great clerkes say: they wote not what more profyte is in many gestes of the scrypture yf they be read wout an allegorie, thē in a tale of robynhode, say thou, ꝑ they were writtē for our consolatiō & cōforte, that we dyspeare not, yf such lyke happē vnto vs. We be not holyer thē Noe, though he were once dröke. Nether better beloued thē Jacob, though his owne sonne defyled hys bed. We be not holier thē Lot, though his doughters, thorow ignorāce deceaued hym or paraduēture holier thē those doughters. Nether ar we holier thē Dauid, though he brake wedlocke & vpon the same cōmytted abhominable murther. Al those mē haue witnesse of the scripture that they pleased god & were good men bothe before that those thinges chaūced them & also after. Neuertheless soch thynges happened them for our ensample: not that we shuld countrefayte theyr euyl, but yf, whyle we syghe wyth our selues enforsing to walke in the law of god (as they dyd) we yet fal likewyse, that we dispeare not, but come agayne to the lawes of god and take better holde.

We reade sens ꝑ tyme of christes death, of virgins ꝑ haue ben brought to ꝑ comen stues, & ther defiled, & of martyrs that haue ben boūde, & hores haue abused theyr bodyes. Why? The iudgemētes of god ar bottōlesse. Soch thinges chaūced, partelye for ensāples, partly god thorow sinne healeth synne. Pryde can nether be healed nor yet appere but thorow soch horrible dedes. Paraduēture they were of ꝑ popes secte & reioysed fleshly, thinkinge ꝑ heauē came by dedes & not by christ, & ꝑ the outwarde dede iustified thē & made thē holy, & not the inward spirite receaued by fayth & the cōsent of the harte vnto the lawe of God. As thou readest therfore thinke that euery sillabe pertayneth to thyne owne self & sucke out ꝑ pith of the scripture, & arme thy self against al assaultes. Fyrst note w strōge faith ꝑ power of god in creating al of nought. Thē marke ꝑ greuous fal of Adā & of vs al in hī, thorow the light regarding of the commaundement of god. In the. iiii. chap. God turneth hym vnto Abel and then to hys offringe, but not to Cayn and hys offerynge. Where thou seest that thoughe thee dedes of thee euyll appeare outwardelye as gloryousse as thee dedes of thee good: yet in the syghte of God whyche loketh on the harte, the dede is good because cause of ỹ mā, & not the mā good because of his dede. In ỹ. vi. God sendeth Noe to preach to ỹ wicked & geueth thē space to repēt: they ware hard herted, god bringeth thē to nought, & yet saueth Noe euē by the same water by which he destroyed them. Marke also what folowed the pryde of the buylding of the tower of Babel.

Cōsider how god sendeth forth Abrahā out of his owne cōtre into a strāge lande ful of wicked people, & gaue him but a bare ꝓmise w̄ him, ỹ he wold blesse him & defende him. Abrahā beleued, & ỹ word saued & deliuered him in al parelles: so ỹ we se how ỹ mās lyfe is not maintained by bread only (as christ saith) but moch rather by beleuing ỹ ꝓmises of god. Behold how soberly, & how circūspectly both Abrahā & also Isaac behaue thē selues amōg the infideles. Abrahā byeth that which myghte haue bene geuē him for nought, to cut of occasiōs. Isaac whē his welles whiche he had digged were takē frō hi, geueth rowme & resisteth not. Moreouer they eat & sowe & fede their catel, & make cōfederatiōs, & take perpetual truce, & do al outward thinges, euē as they do which haue no faith: for god hath not made vs to be ydle in this world. Euery mā must worke godly & truly to ỹ vtmost of ỹ power ỹ god hath geuē him: & yet not trust therin: but in goddes worde or promesse, & god will worke with vs & bringe ỹ we do, to good effecte. And thē whē our power wil extēde no further, goddes promysses wyl worke al alone. How many thinges also resisted the promysses of god to Jacob: & yet Jacob cōfuteth god w̄ his owne promisses, saying: O god of my father Abrahā: & god of my father Isaac, o lord which saydest to me, returne to thyne owne cōtre & vnto ỹ place where ỹ wast borne, & I wyl do ỹ good. I am not worthy of ỹ leste of those mercyes, nor of ỹ trouth whych ỹ hast done to thy seruāt. I wēt out but w̄ a staffe, & came home w̄. ii. droues, delyuer me out of ỹ handes of my brother Esau, for I feare him greatly. &c. And god delyuered hym, & wyl lykewise al ỹ cal to his ꝓmisses w̄ a repēting hart, were they neuer so great sinners. Marke also ỹ weake infirmities of ỹ mā. He loueth one wyfe more thē another, one son more thē another. And se how god purgeth him: Esau threateneth hym: Laban begyleth him: The beloued wyfe is longe barē: his doughter is rauisshed: hys wyfe is defyled, & ỹ of his owne son. Rahel dieth, Joseph is takē away, yea, & as he supposed rent of wilde beastes. And yet how glorious was his ende? Note ỹ wickednesse of his childrē, yea & the synne of thē, & how god thorow their owne wyckednesse saued thē. These ensamples teache vs, ỹ a mā is not at once perfect ỹ fyrste day he beginneth to lyue wel. They ỹ be strong therfore, must suffer with the weake, and helpe to kepe thē in vnite and peace one with another vntyl they be strōger. Note what the brethrē sayd whē they were tached in Egipt, we haue verely synned (sayde they) agaynst our brother in ỹ we sawe the anguische of his soule whē he besoughte vs, & wold not heare him: & therfore is this tribulaciō come vpō vs. By which ensample ỹ seist how ỹ cōsciēce of euil doyēges sēdeth mē out at the last. But namely in tribulatiō & aduersite: their tēptatiō & also desperatiō, yea, & the very paynes of hel find vs out: there ỹ soule feleth the fearce wrath of god, & wisheth moūtaynes to falle on her and to hyde her (yf it were possible) from the angrye face of God.

Marke also how great euyls folowe, of howe lyttle an occasion. Dina goeth but forth alone to se ỹ doughters of the cōtre, & how great mischefe & trouble folowed? cause of ỹ mā, & not the mā good because of his dede. In ỹ. vi. God sendeth Noe to preach to ỹ wicked & geueth thē space to repēt: they ware hard herted, god bringeth thē to nought, & yet saueth Noe euē by the same water by which he destroyed them. Marke also what folowed the pryde of the buylding of the tower of Babel.

Cōsider how god sendeth forth Abrahā out of his owne cōtre into a strāge lande ful of wicked people, & gaue him but a bare promise w̄ him, ỹ he wold blesse him & defende him. Abrahā beleued, & ỹ word saued & deliuered him in al parelles: so ỹ we se how ỹ mās lyfe is not maintained by bread only (as christ saith) but moch rather by beleuing ỹ promises of god. Behold how soberly, & how circūspectly both Abrahā & also Isaac behaue thē selues amōg the infideles. Abrahā byeth that which myghte haue bene geuē him for nought, to cut of occasiōs. Isaac whē his welles whiche he had digged were take frō hi, geueth rowme & resisteth not. Moreouer they eat & sowe & fede theyr catel, & make cōfederatiōs, & take perpetual truce, & do al outward thinges, euē as they do which haue no faith: for god hath not made vs to be ydle in this world. Euery mā must worke godly & truly to ỹ vtmost of ỹ power ỹ god hath geuē him: & yet not trust therin: but in goddes worde or promesse, & god will worke with vs & bringe ỹ we do, to good effecte. And thē whē our power wil extēde no further, goddes promysses wyl worke al alone. How many thinges also resisted the promysses of god to Jacob: & yet Jacob cōfuteth god w̄ his owne promisses, saying: O god of my father Abrahā: & god of my father Isaac, o lord which saydest to me, returne to thyne owne cōtre & vnto ỹ place where ỹ wast borne, & I wyl do ỹ good. I am not worthy of ỹ leste of those mercyes, nor of ỹ trouth whych ỹ hast done to thy seruāt. I wēt out but w̄ a staffe, & came home w̄ ii. droues, delyuer me out of ỹ handes of my brother Esau, for I feare him greatly &c. And god delyuered hym, & wyl lykewise al ỹ cal to his promisses w̄ a repēting hart, were they neuer so great sinners. Marke also ỹ weake infirmities of ỹ mā. He loueth one wyfe more thē another, one son more thē another. And se how god purgeth him: Esau threateneth hym: Laban begyleth him: The beloued wyfe is longe barē: his doughter is rauisshed: hys wyfe is defyled, & ỹ of his owne son. Rahel dieth, Joseph is take away, yea, & as he supposed rent of wilde beastes. And yet how glorious was his ende: Note ỹ wickednesse of his childrē, yea & the synne of thē, & how god thorow theyr owne wyckednesse saued thē. These ensamples teache vs, ỹ a mā is not at once perfect ỹ fyrste day he beginneth to lyue wel. They ỹ be strong therfore, must sufferr with the weake, and helpe to kepe thē in vnite and peace one with another vntyl they be strōger. Note what the brethrē sayd whē they were tached in Egipt, we haue verely synned (sayde they) agaynst our brother in ỹ we sawe the anguisshe of his soule whē he besoughte vs, & wold not heare him: & therfore is this tribulaciō come vpō vs. By which ensample ỹ seist how ỹ cōsciēce of euil doyēges sēdeth mē out at the last. But namely in tribulatiō & aduersite: theyr tēptatiō & also desperatiō, yea, & the very paynes of hel find vs out: there ỹ soule feleth the fearce wrath of god, & wisheth moūtaynes to falle on her and to hyde her (yf it were possible) from the angrye face of God.

Marke also how great euyls folowe, of howe lyttle an occasion, Dina goeth but forth alone to se ỹ doughters of the cōtre, & how great mischeffe & trouble folowed: Jacob loued but one sonne more thē another, & howe greuous murther folowed in theyr hartes: These ar ensamples for our learninge to teache vs to walke warely & circūspectly in the world of weake people, that we geue no mā occasions of euyl.

B And as ſoone as they were in the feldes, Cayn fell vpon Abell his brother, and ſlewe hym. And the lord ſayd vnto Cayn where is abell thy brother? And he ſayde: I ca n not tell, am I my brothers keper? And he ſayde: What haſt y doone? The voyce of thy brothers bloud ‡cryed vnto me out of y erth. And now curſed be thou as perteynyng to the erth, whiche opened her mouth to receyue thy brothers bloud of thyne hande. For when thou tylleſt the ground ſhe ſhall henceforth not gyue her power vnto the. A vacabōnde & a rūnagate ſhalt thou be vpō y erth: And Cayn ſayde vnto the Lorde: my ſynne is greatter then that it may be *forgyuē. Behold thou caſteſt me out this day from the face of the erth, and frō thy ſyght muſt I hyde my ſelfe, and I muſt be wandryng and a vagabunde vpō the erth: Moreouer who ſoeuer fyndeth me, wyll kyll me. And the Lorde ſayde vnto hym: Not ſo, but whoſoeuer ſleyth Cayn, ſhalbe punyſhed. vii. C folde. And the lorde put a marke vppon Cayn that no man that found hym ſhuld kyll hym. And Cayn went out frome the face of the lorde, and dwelte in the lande Nod, on the eaſt ſyde of Eden.

And Cayn laye withe his wyfe, whiche conceyued and bare Enoch. And he was buyldinge a cytie, and called the name of it after the name of his ſōne, Enoch. And Henoch begat Irad. And Irad begatte Mahuiael. And Mahuiael begat Mathuſael. And Mathuſael, begat Lemech And Lemech toke hym two wyues: y one is called Ada and the other zilla. And Ada bare Jaball, of whom came they that dwelt in tentes, & poſſeſſe catell. And hys brothers name was Jubal, of hym came all that exercyſe them ſelues on the harpe and on y orgāns. And zilla ſhe alſo bare Tubalcayn a worker of metall and a father of al y graue in braſſe & yron. And D Tubalcayns ſyſter was called Naema:

Then ſaye Lamech vnto hys wyues, Ada and zilla: heare my voyce ye wyues of Lamech, & herkē vnto my wordes, for I haue ſlayne a man & woūded my ſelfe, and haue ſlayne a yonge mā and got my ſelfe ſtrypes: for Cayne ſhall be auēged ſeuenfolde, but Lamech ſeuentye tymes ſeuenfolde. Adam alſo lay with his wyfe yet agayne, & ſhe bare a ſonne and called his name Seth. For God (ſayde ſhe) hath geuen me another ſonne for Abel whom Cayn ſlewe. And Seth begat a ſonne, & called hys name Enos. And in that tyme began men to call on the name of y Lord of Ararat, thee.xvii.daye of thee.vii. moneth. And the waters wēt away, & decreased vntyll thee.x.moneth. And the fyrste daye of thee.x.monethe, the toppes of the mountaynes appered.

And after the ende of.xl.dayes Noe opened ꝑ windowe of the arcke whych he had made, & sent forth a raué, which wēt out, euer goyng & comming agayne, vntyl the waters were dryed vp vpon the earth.

Thē sent he forth a doue frō him, to wete whether ꝑ waters were fallē frō of the earth. And whē the doue could fynde no restyng place for hyr fote, she returned to
B hym agayne vnto the arcke, for thee waters were vpō the face of al the erth. And he put out hys hande, & toke her, and pulled hyr to hym into the arcke.

And he abode yet.vii.dayes more, and sent out the doue agayn out of the arcke, & the doue came to hym agayn about euē tyde, & beholde, there was in hyr mouth a lefe of an olyue tree whych she had plucked: wherby Noe perceaued that the waters were abated vpon the earth. And he taryed yet.vii.other dayes, and sent forth the doue, whyche from thence forth came nomore agayne to hym.

C And it came to passe, the sixte hundred & one yere & the fyrst day of ꝑ first moneth, that the waters were dryed vp vpon thee earthe. And Noe toke of the hatches of ꝑ arcke, & loked: & behold, the face of ꝑ erth was drye. So by the.xxvii.daye of the second moneth the earth was drye.

And God spake vnto Noe, saying: Come out of the arcke, both thou & thy wyfe & thy sonnes, & thy sonnes wyues with ꝑ. And al the beastes that ar with the whatsoeuer flesche it be, both foule & catell & all maner wormes that crepe on thee earthe,
D bringe out wꝑ the, & let thē moue, *growe & multiply vpō the earth. And Noe came out, & his sonnes, & his wife, & his sonnes wyfe with him. And al ꝑ beastes, & al the wormes, & al the foules, and all that moued vpon the earth, came also oute of the arcke, all of one kynde together.

*Leu.xi.a And Noe made an aulter vnto the lord, & toke of al maner of *clene beastes, & all maner of clene foules, & offered sacrifyce vpō the aulter. And the Lorde a smelled a swete sauour, & sayd in hys hert: I wyl hence hencefoorth nomore curse the erth for mās sake, for the ymagination of mans herte is euyl, euen frō the verye youth of hym. Moreouer I wyll not destroye frō hence forth al that liueth as I haue done. Neyther shal sowinge tyme and haruest, cold and hete, somer and wynter, daye & night ceasse, as longe as the earth endureth.

The Notes.

a The lordes smellinge of sauoure, is the alowāce of the workes of the faythfull, as in Exod.xxix. Leuit.i.iii.iiii.

C God blesseth Noe and his sōnes. He forbiddeth to eat the bloud of beastes, & forbiddeth the shedinge of mās bloud. The law of the swerd. Se ꝑ ye encrease, & ware, and be occupied vpō the erth, and multiply therin. *Lc.vii.c. and.xvii.d *Gen.i.d.

B Furthermore god spake vnto Noe and to hys sonnes wyth hym, saying: See, I make *my bond wꝑ you and your sede after you, and wꝑ all lyuinge thinge that is with you: both foule and catel, and al maner beastes of ꝑ erth, that is with you, of al that cometh out of the arcke, whatsoeuer beaste of the earthe it be. I make my bond wyth you, that hence forth al flesche shall not be destroyed wyth the waters of any floud, and that hence *forth ther shal not be a floud to destroye the earth. *Gc.viii. c.

And God sayd: This is the tokē of my boud bond which I make betwene me and you and betwene all lyuynge thynge, that is C wyth you for euer: I wyll sette my bowe in the cloudes, and it shalbe a signe of the apoyntmēt made betwene me & the earth: so that when I bringe in cloudes vpō the earth, the bowe shal appere in the cloudes And than wyll I thynke vpon my testamēt whych I haue made betwene me and you & all that lyueth whatsoeuer fleshe it be. So that hence forth * there shalbe no more waters to make a floud to destroye all fleshe.

* Ecclesi. xliii.c.

The bowe shalbe in the cloudes, and I wyll loke vpon it, to remember the euerlastynge Testament betwene god and al that lyueth vpon the earthe, what soeuer fleshe it be. And God sayde vnto Noe: This is the sygne of the testament which I haue made betwene me and all flesshe that is on the earth.

The sōnes of Noe that came oute of the arcke were Sem: Ham & Japheth. And Ham he is the father of Canaā. These are the .iii. sonnes of Noe, and of these was all the worlde ouerspred.

And Noe beynge an husband man, wēt
D forth & plāted a vyneyarde, & drāke of the wyne & was drōke, and lay vncouered in the myddest of his tent. And Ham the father of Canaā saw his fathers preuyties and told his .ii. brethren that were wout. And Sem & Japheth toke a mātell, and put it on both theyr shulders & wēt backwarde, and couered theyr fathers secrets, but theyr faces were backward, so ỹ they sawe not theyr fathers nakednes.

As sone as Noe was awaked from his wyne, and wyst what his yongeste sonne had done vnto hym, he sayde: Cursed be Canaan and a seruaūt of all seruauntes be he to his brethren. And he said: Blessed be the Lorde God of Sem, and Canaan be his seruaūt. God to increase Japheth that he may dwell in the tentes of Sem. And Canaan be theyr seruaunt.

And Noe lyued after the floude thre hundred and fyfftie yere: so ỹ all the days of Noe were .ix. hundred and fyftye yere, and then he dyed.

The .x. Chapter.

THese are the generatiōs of ỹ sonnes of Noe: of Sem, Hā and Japheth, which begat thē chyldrē after the floude. A *i. par. i.a

The sonnes of Japhethe were: Gomyr, Magog, Madai, Jauan, Tuball, Mesech and Thyras. And the sonnes of Gomor were: Ascenas Riphat and Togarma. And the sonnes of Jauā were: Elisa, Tharsis, Cithim and Dodanim. Of these came the Iles of ỹ gētyles in theyr contreys, euery mā in his speach, kynred and nacyon.

The sōnes of Ham were: Chus, Mistraim, Phut, & Canaā. The sōs of Chus, were Seba, Heuyla, Sabta, Raima and Sabtema. And the sons of Raima were Sheba, & Dedā. * Chus also begat Nērod which begā to be myghtie in the erth. He was a myghtie hunter in ỹ syght of ỹ Lord. Wher of came ỹ prouerbe: he is as Nērod ỹ myghty hūter in the syght of the Lorde. And the begynnig of his kigdome was * Babel, Erech, Achad & Chalne in the lāde of Synear: Out of ỹ land came Assur, & buylded Ninyue, & the citie Rehoboth, and Calah, & Ressen betwene * Ninyue and Calah. That is a greate cyte. And Mizrim begat Ludi, Enamim Leabim, Naphtuhim, Pathrusī and Casluhi: frō whēce came the Philistins, and the Capththerynes. B *i. par. i.a *Gen. xi.b *Iona. i.a C

Canaā also begat Zidon his eldest sōne & Heth, Jebusi, Emori Girgosi, Hi, arki, Sini, Aruadi, Zemari & Hamati. And afterward sprāg the kynreds of the Canānites. And the costes of the cananites were frō Sydon tyll ỹ come to Gerara & to Asa & tyll thou come to Sodoma, Gomorra, Adama, Zeboim, euen vnto Lasa. These were the chyldren of Hā in theyr tonges, landes, and nacyons.

And Sem the father of al the chyldren of Eber, and the eldest brother of Japhet begat chyldren also. And his sones were Elā Assur, Arphachsad, Lud & Arā. And the chyldren of Aram were: Uz, Hul, Gether and Mas. And * Arphachsad begat Sala, and Saala, begat Eber. And Ebat .ii. sōnes. The name of ỹ one was Phaleg, for i his tyme the earth was deuyded D *i. par. i.b

the name of hys brother was Jaketan.

Jaketan begat Almodad, Saleph, Hyzarmoneth, Jarah, Hadoza, Usal, Dykela, Obal, Abimael, Seba, Ophir, Heuila, & Jobab. All these are the sonnes of Jaketan. And the dwelling of them was frō Mesa vntyl thou come vnto Sephara a mountayne of the east lande. These are the sonnes of Sem in theyr kinredes languages, contrees and nacions. These are the kynredes of the sonnes of Noe, in theyr generations & nacyons. And of these came the people that were in the world after the floude.

The buyldinge of the tower of Babel. The confusyon of tonges. The generacion of Sem, the son of Noe vntil Abrā which goeth with Lot vnto Harā

The.xi.Chapter.

A ND all the world was of one tonge, & one language. And as they came from the easte, they foūd a playne in the lād of Synear, & ther they dwelled. And they sayde one to another: come on, let vs make brycke and burne it wyth fyre. So brycke was theyr stone, & slyme was theyr morter. And they sayde: Come on let vs buylde vs a cyte & a towre, that the toppe maye reache vnto heauen. And let vs make vs a name, for parauenture we shall be scattered abrode ouer all the earth. And the Lord came[a] downe to [b] see the cytie and the towre whych the chyldrē of Adam hadde buylded. And the Lorde sayde: See, the people is one, & haue one tonge among thē al. And thys haue they begon to do, and wil not leaue of from al
B that they haue purposed to do. Come on, let vs descende, and myngle theyr tonge euen ther, that one vnderstonde not what another sayeth. Thus the Lord skattered them from thence vpon al the earth. And they left of to buylde the cytie. Wherfore the name of it is called Babell, because that the Lorde ther cōfounded the tonge of al the world. And because that the lorde from thence skattered them abrode vpon all the earth.

These ar the generatiōs of Sem: Sem was an hundred yere olde and begat Arphachsad. ii. yeare after the floude. And Sem lyued after he had begot Arphachsad. v. hundred yeare and begat sonnes & doughters.

C And [c] Arphachsad lyued. xxxv. yeare & begat Sala, & lyued after he had begat Sala. iiii. hundred yere & .iii. & begat sonnes and doughters: And Sala was. xxx. yeare olde and begat Eber, and lyued after he had begot Eber. iiii. hundred & thre yere, & begat sonnes & doughters. When Eber was. xxxiiii. yere olde, he begat Peleg, and lyued after he had begot Peleg, foure hundred and. xxx. yeare, and begat sonnes and doughters.

And the seruaunt put his hande vnder the thye of Abrahã and sware to hym as concerning that matter. And the seruaunt toke .x. camels of the camels of his master & departed, & had of al maner goodes of his master w̃ hi, & rode by, & went to Mesopotamia, vnto the cytie of Nahor. And made his camels to lye downe without the cytye by a wels syde of water, at euẽ: aboute the tyme that women come out to drawe water & he sayde.

Lorde God of my mayster Abraham, sende me good spede this day, and shewe mercy vnto my mãster Abraham. Loo, I stonde here by the well of water, and the doughters of the men of thys cytye wyll come out to drawe water: Now the dãsell to whom I say, stoupe downe thy pitcher and let me drynke. If she say: Dryncke, and I wyll gyue thy camels dryncke also, the same is she that thou hast ordeined for thy seruaunte Isaac: yea and therby shall I knowe that thou hast shewed mercye on thy master. And it came to passe yer he had lefte speakynge, that Rebecca came out, the doughter of Bethuell, sõne to Milca the wyfe of Nahor Abrahams brother, and her pytcher vpon her shoulder: The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and vnknowen of man. And she went downe to the wel and fylled her pytcher & came vp agayn: Thẽ the seruaunt ranne vnto her and sayd: let me sup a lytle water of thy pytcher. And she sayde: dryncke my Lorde.

And she hasted and let downe her pytcher vpon her arme and gaue hym drynk And when she had gyuen hym drynck, she sayde: I wyll draw water for thy camels also, vntyll they haue dronck ynough: And she poured out her pytcher into the trough hastely, and ranne agayne vnto the well, to fette water: & drewe for all his camels. And the felow wõdred at her. But held his peace, to wete whether the Lorde had made his iourney prosperous or not. And as the camels had left drynckynge, he toke a ✝golden earinge of halfe a sycle weyghte and two bracelettes for her handes, of .x. sycles weyght of gold, & said vnto her: Whos doughter art thou? tell me: is ther rowme ī thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? D way to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ranne and tolde theym of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And Laban ranne out vnto the man, to the well: for as sone as he had sene the earynges, and the bracelettes vpon hys systers handes, and herde the wordes of Rebecca his syster saynge, thus sayde the man vnto me, then he went oute vnto the man. And lo: he stode yet with the camels by the well syde. And Laban sayde, come in thou blessed of the Lorde. Wherfore stondest thou without? I haue dressed the house, and made rowme for the camels. And then the man came in to the house: & he vnbrydeled the camels: & brought lytter & prauōder for the cameles, & water to washe hys fete & theyr fete that were with hym, & there was meate set before hym to eate. But he sayde: I wyl not eate, vntyll I haue sayde myne earande. And he sayde: say on. And he sayde: I am Abrahams seruaunt, and the Lorde hath *blessed my master out of measure, that he is become greate, and hath gyuē hym shepe oxen, syluer, and golde, menseruauntes, mayd seruauntes, camels and asses. And Sara my masters wyfe bare hym a sōne when she was olde: and vnto hum hath he geuen all ȳ he hath. And my master made me swcare saynge: thou shalte not take a wyfe to my sonne amōge the doughters of the Cananites in whose lande I dwel. But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house and to my kynred, and there take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: what yf the wyfe wyll not folowe E me? And he sayde vnto me: The Lorde before whome I walke, wyll sende his aungell with the, and prospere thy iourney ȳ thou shalt take a wyfe for my sōne, of my kynred and of my fathers house. But & yf (whē thou comest vnto my kired) they wyll not gyue the one, thē shalt thou bere no perell of myne othe.

And I came this day vnto the wel & sayd O Lorde, the god of my master Abrahā, yf it be so that thou makeste my iourney which I go, prosperous: beholde I stond by this well of water, and when a yyngyn cometh forth to drawe water, and I saye to her: gyue me a lytle water of thy pytcher to dryncke, and she say agayne to me dryncke thou, and I wyll also draw water for thy camels: that same is the wyfe whome the Lorde hathe prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of spekynge in myne herte: Beholde Rebecca came forth, and her pitcher on her shulder and she went downe vnto the well & drew And I sayde vnto her: gyue me dryncke. And she made haste, and toke downe her pytcher from of her, & sayd: dryncke, & I wyll geue thy camels dryncke also. And I asked her saynge: whose doughter arte thou? And she answered: the doughter of Bathuel Nahors sōne. whō Milca bare vnto hym. And I put the earynge vppon her face and the bracelettes vpon her hādes. And I bowed my self, and *worshypped the Lorde, and blessed the lorde God of my master Abraham which had brought me the rhghte waye, to take my masters brothers doughter, vnto his sonne. A When Rahel sawe that she bare Jacob no chyldren, she enuyed hyr syster, & sayd vnto Jacob: Geue me chyldrē, or els I am but deed. Thā was Jacob wrooth with Rahel saying: Am I in Gods stede which kepeth from the, the frute of thy wombe? Thē she said: here is my mayde Bilha: go in vnto her, that she may beare vpon my lappe, that I may be encreased by her. And she gaue him Bilha hyr hādmayde to wyfe. And Jacob wēt in vnto her: & Bilha cōceaued & bare Jacob a sonne. Thā sayd Rahel. God hath geuē sentence on my syde, & hath also herde my voyce, & hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rahels mayde conceaued agayne, & bare Jacob another sonne. And Rahel sayde: God is turned, and I haue made a chaunge with my syster, and haue gotten the vpperhāde And she called hys name Nepthali.

B When Lea sawe that she hadde lefte bearynge, she toke zilpha hyr mayde, and gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And zilpha Leas mayde beare Jacob a sonne. Thā sayd Lea: Good lucke: & called hys name Gad And zilpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Than sayde Lea: happy am I for thee doughters wyll call me *blessed. And called hys name Asser.

And Ruben went out in the wheat haruest and founde apples of mandragoras in thee feldes, and broughte them vnto hys mother Lea. Than sayde Rahel to Lea geue me of thy sonnes mādragoras. And Lea answered: Is it not ynough that thou hast taken awaye my husbande, but woldest take away my sonnes mandragoras also? Than sayde Rahell: well, let him lye wythe thee thys nyghte, for thy sonnes mandragoras. And when Jacob came from thee feldes at euen, Lea wente oute to mete hym, and sayde: come in to me, for I haue boughte the with my sonnes mandragoras. And he slepte wyth her that nyght. And God herde Lea, that she conceaued and bare vnto Jacob the .v. sonne Than sayd Lea. God hath geuen me my rewarde, because I gaue my mayden too my housbande, and she called hym Issachar. And he sayd: what meanest thou wyth al the droues which I met. And he answered: to fynde grace in the sight of my lord And Esau sayd: I haue ynough my brother, kepe that thou hast vnto thy self. Jacob answered: oh nay, but yf I haue found grace in thy syght, receaue my present of my hand: for I haue sene thy face *as t. Be. xlix. c. Heb.) v. d. though I had sene the face of god: wherfore receaue me to grace and take my blessyng that I haue brought ỹ, for god hath geuē it me, And I haue ynough of al thinges. And so he compelled hym too take it. And he sayd: let vs take our iourney and C goo, and I wyl goo in thy company. And he sayde vnto hym: my lord knoweth that I haue tendre chyldren, ewes and kyne wyth yonge, vnder myne hande, whych yf men shuld ouerdryue but euē one day, the hole flocke wolde dye. Let my lord therfore go before hys seruaūt and I wyl dryue fayre and softely, accordyng as the catel that goeth before me and the chyldren, be able to endure: vntyll I come to my Lord vnto Seir.

And Esau sayd: let me yet leaue some of my folke wyth the. And he sayde: what A needeth it? let me fynd grace in the syght of my lord. So Esau wente hys waye agayne that same day vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourneye towarde Sucoth, and bylt him an house, and made boothes for his catel: wherfore the name of the place is called Sucoth,

And Jacob came peaseably into the cytte of Sichem in the land of Canaan, after that he was come from Mesopotamia and pytched before the cytye, & boughte a parcell of grounde where he pytched hys tente, of the chyldren of Hemor Sichems father, for an hundred lābes. And he made there an aulter, and there called vpon the myghtye God of Israell.

¶ The rauishinge of Dina Jacobs doughter by the men of Sichē. And of the great bloud shedīg done by the sonnes of Jacob.

The. xxxiiii. Chapter

A Dina ỹ doughter of Lea whych she bare vnto Jacob, wēt oute to see the doughters of the lande. And Sichem thee sonne of Hemor, the Heuite lord of the cōtrey, sawe her and toke her, and a‡ lay with her, and forced *her: and hys hart laye on Dina the doughter of Jacob. And he loued the damsell and spake kyndlye vnto her, and spake vnto his father Hemor sayinge, gette me thys mayden vnto my wyfe. And Jacob herde that he hadde defyled Dyna hys doughter, but hys sonnes were wyth the cattell in the felde, and therfore he helde hys peace, vntyll they were come. Then Hemor thee father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to cōmē wyth hym. And the sonnes of Jacob came oute of the feld as soone as they herde it, for it greued thē, & they were not a lytle wroth because he had wrought folye in Israell, in ỹ he had lyen wyth Jacobs doughter, whych thynge ought not to be done. And Hemor comened wythe them sayinge: the B soule

ii. Re. xiii. c.

the soule of my sonne Sichē longeth for your doughter: geue her him to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: geue your doughters vnto vs, and take our doughters vnto you, and dwel with vs, and the land shall be at youre pleasure, dwell and doo your busynes, and haue your possessions therein. And Sichem sayde vnto hyr father and hyr brethren: let me fynde grace in your eyes, and whatsoeuer ye appoynt me, that wyl I geue. Are frely of me both the dowry and gyftes, and I wyl geue according as ye saye vnto me, and geue me the Damsel to wyfe.

Then thee sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem and Hemor hys father deceytfully, because he had defyled Dina theyr syster. And they sayde vnto them, we cannot doo thys thynge that we shulde geue oure syster to one that is vncircumcysed, for that were a shame vnto vs. Onely in thys wyl we consent vnto you: Yf ye wyl be as we be, that all thee men chyldren amonge you be circumcysed, than wyll we geue oure doughter to you and take youres to vs, and wyll dwell wythe you and be one people. But, and yf ye wyl not harken vnto vs to be circumcysed, than wyll we take our doughter and go our wayes.

¶ And theyr wordes pleased Hemor: & Sichem hys sonne. And the yonge mā deferde not for to do the thinge, because he had a luste too Jacobs doughter: he was also most set by of all that were in hys fathers house. Than Hemor, and Sichem wente vnto the gate of theyr cytye, and comened wyth the men of theyr cytie sayinge: these men are peaceable with vs, and wyl dwel in the land and do theyr occupation there in. And in the land is rowme ynough for thē, let vs take theyr doughters to wyues and geue thē oures: only herein wyll they consent vnto vs for to dwel with vs and to be one people: yf al the mē chyldrē that are amonge vs, be circumcised as they ar Theyr goodes and theyr substaunce and all theyr catell are oures, onely let vs consent vnto them, that they may dwel wyth vs.

D And vnto Hemor and Sichē hys sonne, harkened all that went out at the gate of hys cytie. And all the men chyldren were circumcised what soeuer wente oute at the gates of hys cytye. And the thyrd day when it was paynefull to them. ii. of thee sonnes of Jacob Symeon and Leui Dinas brethren, toke ether of thē his * swerd and went into the cytye boldely, and slewe all that was male, and slewe also Hemor & Sychem his sonne with the edge of the swerde, and toke Dina theyr syster out of Sychems house, and went theyr waye. Gen. xlix. c. Judith. ix. a

Than came the sonnes of Jacob vpō the dead, & spoyled the cytye, because they had defyled theyr syster: & toke theyr shepe, oxen, asses and whatsoeuer was in the cytye and also in the feldes. And all theyr goodes, all theyr chyldren and theyr wyues toke they captyue and made hauocke of all that was in the houses.

And Jacob sayde to Simeon and Leui: ye haue troubled me and made me stinke vnto thee inhabitatours of thee lande, bothe too the Canaanytes and also vnto the Pherezytes. And I am fewe in nomber. Wherfore they shall gather them selues together agaynst me and sley me, and so shal I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: shuld they deale wyth our syster as wyth an whore?

AND Jacob dwelt in the land wherin his father was a strãger, that is to saye in the lãd of Canaan. And these ar the generatyons of Jacob: whẽ Joseph was .xvii. yeare olde, he kepte shepe wyth hys brethren, and the ladde was wyth the sonnes of Bilha and of Zilpha hys fathers wyues. And he broughte vnto theyr father an euyll saytnge that was of them. And Israell loued Joseph more than all hys chyldren, because he begatte hym in hys olde age, and he made hym a coote of many colours.

¶ Whẽ

When hys brethren sawe that theyr father loued hym more than all hys brethren, they hated him and coulde not speake one kynde worde vnto hym. Moreouer Joseph *dreamed a dreame and tolde it hys brethren: wherfore they hated hym yet the more. And he sayd vnto them: heare I praye you thys dreame whych I haue dreamed: Beholde, we were makynge sheues in the felde: and loo, my sheefe arose and stode vp ryghte, and youres stode rounde aboute and made obeysaunce too my sheefe. Than sayde hys brethren vnto hym: what, shalte thou be oure kynge or shalt thou teygne ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the more, because of hys dreame and of hys wordes.

And he dreamed yet another dreame and tolde it hys brethren sayinge: behold, I haue had one dreame more: me thought the sunne and the moone and eleuen starres made obeysaunce to me. And when he hadde tolde it vnto hys Father, and hys brethren, hys father rebuked him and sayde vnto hym: what meaneth thys dreame whyche thou haste dreamed: shall I and thy mother and thy brethren come and fal on the grounde before the? And hys brethren hated hym, but hys father noted the sayinge.

Hys brethren wente too kepe theyr fathers sheepe in Sichem, and Israell sayd vnto Joseph: do not thy brethren kepe in Sichem? come that I maye sende the too them. And he answered *here am I. And he sayd vnto hym: goo and see whether it be well wyth thy brethren & the sheepe, and bring me worde agayn. And it fortuned about the same season C that Joseph entred into the house, to doo hys busynes: and there was none of thee houshold by: in ỹ house. And she caught hym by the garmente sayinge: come slepe wyth me. And he lefte his garment in hyr hand and fled and got hym out. Wohẽ she sawe that he had left hys garmente in hyr hande, and was fledde oute, she called vnto the men of the house, and tolde thẽ sayinge: See, he hath brought in an Hebrewe vnto vs to do vs shame, for he came in to me, for to haue slepte wyth me. But I cryed wyth a loude voyce. And when he hearde, that I lyft vp my voyce and cryed, he lyft hys garment wyth me and fled awaye and got hym oute,

And she layde vp hys garmẽt by her, vntyl hyr Lord came home. And she told hym acordynge to these wordes sayinge. D Thys Hebrues seruaunte whyche thou hast brought vnto vs, cam vnto me to do shame. But as soone as I lift vp my voyce and cryed, he left hys garment with me and fled out. Wohen hys mayster herd the woordes of hys wyfe which she told hym sayeng: after thys maner dyd thy seruãte to me, he waxed wroth.

And there contynued he in preson, but the Lord was wt Joseph, & shewed hym mercye, & got hym fauore in the syght of the keper of the prison whych commytted to Josephs hande al the presoners ỹ were in ỹ preson house And what soeuer was done ther, that dyd he. And the keper of thee pryson loked vnto no thynge that was vnder hys hande, because the Lorde was wyth hym, and because that what soeuer he dyd, the Lorde made it come luckely to passe.

Ioseph expounded the dreames of the two prysoners.

The.xl.Chapter.

A AND it chaunced after thys, ỹ the chefe butlar of the kynge of Egypte and hys chefe baker had offended theyre lord ỹ kyng of Egypt. And Pharao was angrye wyth theym and put thē in warde in hys chefe marshals house: euen in the preson wher Joseph was boūd And ỹ chefe marshal gaue Joseph a charge with them, and he serued thē. And thei contynued a season in ward.

And they dreamed ether of them in one nyght: both the butlar and the bakar of ỹ kynge of Egypte which were bownde inỹ
B presone house, ether of them his dreame, & eche manes dreame of a sondrie interpretacion Whē Joseph came in vnto them in thee morynge, and loked vpon them: behold, they were sadd. And he asked them sayinge wherfore loke ye so sadly to daye they answered hym, we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue noo man to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them. Interpretynge belongeth too God but telle me yet And the chefe butlar told his dreame too Joseph and sayde vnto hym, In my dreame me thought there stode a vine before me, and in thee vyne were. iii. braunches, and it was as thoughe it budded, and her blossoms shot forth: and the grapes there of waxed rype. And I had Pharaos cup pe in my hand, and toke of the grapes and
C wrong into Pharaos cup and delyuered Pharaos cup in to his hand. And Joseph sayd vnto him, this is ỹ interpretacīo of it The. iii. braūches ar thre days: for within thre dayes shall Pharao lyfte vp thyne heade, and restore the vnto thyne offyce agayne, and thou shalte delyuer pharaos cuppe in to his hand, after the olde maner euen as thou dyddest when thou wast his butler. But thynke on me with the, when thou arte in good case, and shewe mercye vnto me. And make mēcyō of me to Pharao, and helpe to bryng me oute of this house, for I was stollen oute of the lande of the Hebreus, and here also haue I done nothynge at all wherfore they shulde haue put me into thys dongeon.

When thee chefe baker sawe that he hadde well interpretate it, he sayde vnto Joseph, me thoughte also in my dreame, that I hadde thre wyker baskettes on my head. And in the vppermooste baskette of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And the byrdes ate them out of the basket vpon my heade.

Joseph answered and sayd: this is the interpretatiō thereof. The. iii. baskets are thre dāyes, for thys daye thre dayes D shall Pharao take thy head from the, and shall hange the on a tree, and the byrdes shal eate thy flesshe from of the.

And it came too passe the thyrde daye whych was Pharaos *byrthday, that he mat. xiiii. a made a feast vnto all hys seruantes. And he lyfted vp the head of the chefe buttelar and of thee chefe baker amonge hys seruauntes. And restored the chefe buttelar vnto hys buttelarshyp agayne, and he reched the cuppe into Pharaos hande, and hanged thee chefe baker: euen as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. Notwithstāding the chefe buttelar remembred not Joseph, but forgat hym.

¶ Pharaos dreames are expoūded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer al Egypt. He hath twoo sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. The derth beginneth in Egypt.

The. xl. Chapter.

AND it fortuned at two yeares ende, ỹ Pharao A dreamed, and thoughte ỹ he stode by a riuers syde, & that ther came out of the ryuer. vii. goodly kyne and fatt flesshed, and fedd in a medowe, and hym thought that. vii. other kyne came vp after them out of the ryuer euell fauored and leane flesshed and stode by the other vpon the brincke of the ryuer And the euyll fauoured and leane flesshed kyne ate vp the. vii. well fauored and fatt kyne: and he awoke therwith. And he slepte agayne and dreamed the seconde tyme, that. vii. eares of corne grewe vpō one stalke, rancke & goodly. And that. vii. thynne eares blasted wyth the wynde, sprang vp after them: & that the. vii. thynne eares deuoured the. vii. rancke and ful eares. And than Pharao awaked: and se, here is hys dreame. Whē the morynyng came, his spryte B was troubled. And he sente & called for all the sothsayers of Egypte and all thee wyse men thorof, and tolde them his dreame: but there was none of them that coulde interpretate it vnto Pharao. Thã spake thee cheke buttelar vnto Pharao saynge. I doo remẽbre my faute thys daye, Pharao was angrye wyth his seruaũtes & put in warde in the cheke marshals house both me & the cheke baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght, & eche mãs dreame of a sondrye interpretation.

And thet was wythe vs a yonge man, an Hebrewe borne, seruaũt vnto the cheke marshal. And we tolde hym, and he declared oure dreames to vs accordynge to ether of oure dreames. And as he declared them vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. I was restored to myne office agayne, and he was hanged.

Than Pharao sente and called Joseph. And they made hym haste oute of * pryson. And he shaued hym selfe & chaunged hys rayment, and went in to Pharao And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: I haue dreamed a dreame & no man can interprete it, but I haue heard say of the that assoone as thou herest a dreame, thou doest interpretate it. And Joseph answered pharao sayinge: God shall geue Pharao an answere of peace wythout me. Pharao € sayd vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought, I stode by a ryuer syde. and ther came out of the ryuer. vii. fatte fleshed and wel fauored kyne, & fedd in the medowe. And then seuen other kyne came vp after them, poore and very euell fauoured, and leane fleshed: so that I neuer saw theyr lyke in all the lande of Egypte, in euell fauouredneesse. And the. vii. leane and euell fauoured kyne ate vp the fyrst seuen fatt kyne. And when they had eaten them vp a man coulde not perceaue that they had eaten them: for they were styll as euell fauoured as they were at thee begynninge. And I awoke. And I sawe agayn in my dreame. vii. eares sprynge out of one stalke full and good, and seuen other eares wythered, thynne and blasted wyth wynd sprynge vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured the seuen good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the sothesayers, but no man can tell me what it meaneth. Thẽ Joseph sayde vnto Pharao: bothe Pharaos dreames are one. And god doth shewe Pharao what he is aboute to do. The seuen good kyne ar seuen yeares: and the seuen good eares ar seuen yeare also, and it is but one dreame. Lykewyse, the seuen thynne and euell fauored kyne that came D out after them, are seuen eares: and the seuen emptye and blasted eares shalbe seuẽ yeares of hunger. Thys is that wherych I sayde vnto Pharao, that God doth shew Pharao what he is about to do.

Behold there shal come seuen yeare of great plentcousnes throughe out all thee land of Egypt. And there shall aryse after them. vii. yeares of hunger. So that all the plentcousnes shall be forgotten in the lande of Egypt. And the hunger shall cõsume ỹ lande, so that ỹ plenteous shal not be once a sene in the land by reason of that hunger that shall come after, for it shalbe exceadynge great. And as concerninge that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the secound tyme, it betokeneth that the thynge is certaynly prepared of God: and that God wyll shortely bring it to passe.

Now therfore let Pharao prouyde for a man of vnderstandinge and wysdom, and sette hym ouer thee lande of Egypte. And let Pharao make officers ouer thee land, and take vp the tyft part of the lande of Egypte in the seuen plenteous yeates and lette them gather all the foode of these good yeares that come, and laye vp corne vnder thee power of Pharao, that there may be foode in the cytyes, and ther let them kepe it: that ther may be foode in store in the land, agaynste the. vii. yeares of hunger whyche shall come in the lande of Egypt, and that the lande perysshe not thoro ve hunger.

And the sayinge pleased Pharao & all € hys seruauntes. Than sayde Pharao vnto hys seruauntes: where shall we fynde soche a man as this is: that hath the spret of God in hym: wherfore Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: for as moche as God hath shewed the all thys, there is no man of vnderstandyng or of wysdom lyke vnto the Thou therfore shalt be * ouer my house, & accordyng to thy worde shal al my people obeye: onely in the kynges seate wyl I be aboue the. For it was wythout nōbre. And vnto Joseph were borne two sonnes before thee yeares of hounger came, whych Asnath the doughter of Putiphar priest of On, bare vnto him. And he called the name of the fyrste sonne *Manasse, for God (sayde he) hath made me forgett all my labour and all my fathers household. The second called he Ephraim, for God (sayde he) hathe caused me too growe in thee lande of my trouble.

And when the. vii. yeares of plentcousnes, that was in the lande of Egypt were ended, than came the. vii. yeres of * derth, accordinge as Joseph had sayd. And the derth was in al landes: but in the land of Egypt was ther yet fode. Whē now all ȳ land of Egypt began to hunger, thā cried the people to Pharao for bred. And Pharao sayd vnto al Egypt: go vnto Joseph and what he sayeth to you that doo. And when the derth was thorow out al the lād Joseph opened all that was in the cytyes and solde vnto the Egyptyans. And hunger wared sore in the land of Egypt. And all countrees came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye corne: because that thee hunger was so sore in all landes.

Ps.cxxvii.a to Machir the sonne of Manasses were chyldren borne, ⁊ sat on Josephs knees.

And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren: I dye, And God wyl suerly ⁊ vysett you and bryng you oute of thys lande, vnto the lande which he sware vnto Abraham Isaac, and Jacob. And Joseph toke an oothe of the chyldren of Israell and sayd God wyl not fayle but vysette you, se therfore that ye carye my * boones hence. And so Joseph dyed, whē he was an hundred and.x. yeare old. And they em- balmed hym and putte hym in a cheste in Egypte

Boke of Moyses called Exodus.

IF ỹ preface vpõ Genesis mayst ỹ vnderstand how to behaue thy self in this boke also & in al other bokes of ỹ scripture. Cleaue vnto the texte & playn storie & endeuour thy self to serch out ỹ meaning of al ỹ is described therin & ỹ true sence of al maner of speakinges of ỹ scripture, of prouerbes, similitudes & borowed speach, wherof I entreated in ỹ ende of ỹ obediẽce, & beware of sotle allegories. And note euery thing ernestly as thinges ptayning vnto thyne owne hert & soule. For as god vsed him self vnto thẽ of ỹ old testamẽt, euẽ so shal he vnto ỹ worldes end vse him self vnto vs which haue receaued his holy scripture & ỹ testimonie of his sõne Jesus. As god doth al thinges here for thẽ ỹ beleue his ꝓmises & herkẽ vnto his cõmãdemẽtes & wyth pacièce cleaue vnto hym & walke w̃ him: euẽ so shal he do for vs, yf we receaue ỹ witnes of christ with a strong faith & endure pacièntly folowing his steppes. And on ỹ other syde, as they ỹ fel frõ ỹ ꝓmises of god thorow vnbeleke & frõ his law & ordinãces thorow impacièce of theyr owne lustes, were forsakẽ of god & so perysshed: euẽ so shal we as many as do lykewyse & as many as mock w̃ the doctrine of christ & make a cloke of it to lyue fleshly & to folow our lustes. Note therto how god is foũde true at the last, & how whẽ al is past remedy & brought into desperatyõ, he thẽ fulfylleth hys ꝓmyses, & ỹ by an abiecte & a cast away, a despysed and a refused person: yea & by a waye impossible to beleue.

The cause of all captiuite of gods people is this. The world euer hateth them for theyr faith & trust which they haue in god, but in vayn vntyl they fal frõ ỹ faith of ỹ ꝓmyses & loue of ỹ law & ordinãces of god, & put theyr trust in holy dedes of theyr owne lust & pleasure wout regard of god or respect of theyr neybour. Thẽ god forsaketh vs & sendeth vs into captiuite for our dishonouring of his name & dispising of our neybour. But the world ꝑsecuteth vs for our fayth in christ only (as ỹ pope now doth) & not for our wicked liuig, for in his kingdõ ỹ mayst quietly & w̃ licẽce & vnder a protectiõ do what soeuer abhominatiõ thy hart lusteth: but god ꝑsecuteth vs because we abuse his holy testamẽt, & because ỹ whẽ we knowe the truth we folowe it not.

Note also ỹ mighty hãd of ỹ Lord how he playeth w̃ his aduersaries & prouoketh thẽ & sturreth thẽ vp a litle & a litle, & deliuereth not his people in an houre, ỹ both the pacièce of hys elect & also ỹ worldly witte & wylye polycye of the wicked wherw̃ they fight agaynst god myght appeare. Marke ỹ lõge suffring & softe pacièce of Moses & how he loueth ỹ people & is euer betwen ỹ wrath of god & thẽ, & is redy to liue & dye w̃ thẽ & to be put out of ỹ boke ỹ god hãd wrytte for theyr sakes) as paul for his bro thẽ, Ro. ix.) & how he taketh his own wrõges pacièntly & neuer auẽgeth him self. And make not Moses a figure of christ w̃ Rochester: but an ensãple vnto al princes & to al yat in authorite, how to rule vnto gods pleasure & vnto theyr neybours profyte. For ther is not a ꝑfecter life in this world both to ỹ honour of god & ꝓfite of his neybour nor yet a greater crosse, thẽ to rule christẽly. And of Aarõ se ỹ ỹ make no figure of christ vntil he come vnto his sacrifisin, but an ensample vnto al preachers of gods word, ỹ they ad nothing vnto gods word or take ought therfro. Note also how god sendeth his ꝓmyse to the people, & Moses cõfermeth it w̃ miracles & the people beleue. But whẽ temptation cometh they fall into vnbeleke & fewe byde stãding. Wherefore thou seest that all be not christẽ ỹ wyl be so called, & ỹ the crosse tryeth the true frõ the fayned: for yf the crosse were not, christ shulde haue disciples ynowe. Wherof also ỹ seest what an excellẽt gyfte of god true fayth is, & impossible to be had wout the spret of god. For it is aboue al naturall power ỹ a mã in tyme of tẽptation when god forgeth him shuld beleue stedfastly how ỹ god loueth him & careth for hi & hath ꝓpared al good thinges for him, & ỹ that forginge is as ernest ỹ god hath elect & chose hym.

Note how oft Moyses sturreth thẽ vp to beleue & to trust in god, putting them in remẽbraunce al waye in tyme of temptation of the myracles & wonders which god had wrought before tyme in theyr eyspght. How diligently also forbiddeth he al that myght wythdraw e theyr hartes from god: to put nought to gods word, to take nought therfro: to do onely that whyche is ryght in the spght of the Lorde, that they shuld make no maner ymage to knele downe before it: ye that they shuld make none ne altar of hewed stone for feare of ymages: to flee ỹ hethē Idolatres vtterly & to de stroye theyr Idolles & cut down theyr groues wher they worshipped. And ỹ they shul de not take ỹ doughters of thē vnto theyr sonnes, nor geue theyr doughters to ỹ son nes of thē. And ỹ whosoeuer moued any of thē to worship false gods, how soeuer nye of kinne he were, they must accuse him & bring him to deth, ye & whersoeuer thei hard of mā, womā or cytie ỹ worshipped false goddes, they must slee thē & destroye ỹ cytie for euer & not bild it agayn. And al because they shuld worship nothing but god, nor put cōfidēce in any thing saue i his word, Yea & how warneth he to beware of witch craft, sorcery, inchātmēt, negromātie & al craftes of ỹ deuel, & of dreamers, sothsayers and of myracledoers to, destroye his word, & that they shuld suffer none soch to lyue.

Thou wylt happely say: They tel a mā ỹ truth, & what thē? God wyl ỹ we care not to know what shal come. He wil haue vs care only to kepe his cōmādemētes & to cō= myt al chaūses vnto him. He hath ỹmysed to care for vs & to kepe vs frō al euel. All thinges ar in his hād, he cā remedy al thinges & wyl for his truthes sake, yf we praye him. In his ỹmises only wyl he haue vs trust & ther rest & to seke no farther.

How also doth he prouoke thē to loue euer rehersing the benefites of god done to thē already, & the godly promises ỹ were to come? And howe godly lawes of loue ge= ueth he? to helpe one another: & ỹ a mā shuld not hate his neybour i his hart, but loue him as him self, Leui.xix. And what a charge geueth he in euery place ouer ỹ poore & nedy: ouer the straūger fredlesse & wedowe? And whē he desyreth to shew mercy, he re herseth w̄ al, the benefites of god done to thē at theyr nede, ỹ they might se a cause at the lest way in God to shewe mercy of very loue vnto theyr neybours at theyr neade.

Also ther is no law so simple in apperāce thorow out al the fiue bokes of Moses, but ỹ ther is a great reason of the māking therof, yf a mā serch diligētly. As ỹ a man is forbid to sethy a kid in his mothers milke, moueth vs vnto cōpassiō & to be pitiful, As doth also ỹ a mā shal not offer ỹ syre or dame & ỹ yōge both i one day. Le.xxii. for it might seme a cruel thing in as moch as his mothers milke is as it were his bloud, wherfore god wil not haue him sod therin: but wil haue a mā shew curtesy vpō ỹ ve= ry beastes: As in another place he cōmādeth ỹ we mosel not ỹ mouth of the ox ỹ trea deth out the corne (which maner of threshing is vsed in hote coūtrees) & ỹ because we shuld moch rather not grudge to be liberal & kynd vnto mē ỹ do vs seruice. Or hap= ely god wold haue no soch wātō meate vsed amōg his people. For the kyd of it self is norishing & the gotes milke is restauretyue, & both together myght be to rancke & therfore forbodē or some other like cause ther was. Of the ceremonies, sacrifices, & ta bernacle w̄ al his glory & pōpe vnderstāde, ỹ they were not permytted only, but also cōmaūded of god to lead the people in the shadowes of Moses & night of the old te= stamēt, vntyl the light of christ & day, of the new testamēt were come: As childrē ar led in the phātasies of youth, vntil the discretiō of mās age become vpō thē. And al was done to kepe thē frō ydolatrye. The tabernable was ordened to the entēte they might haue a place apointed thē, to do theyr sacrifices openly in ỹ syght of ỹ people & namely of ỹ prestes which wayted therō: ỹ it might be sene ỹ they dyd all thinge according to goos word, & not after ỹ ydolatrie of theyr own ymaginatiō. And ỹ costlines of ỹ ta bernacle & ỹ bewtie also pteyned ther vnto, ỹ they shuld se nothig so bewtyfull amōg the hethē, but ỹ they shuld se more bewtiful & wōderful at home: because they shulde not be moued to folow thē. And in lyke maner ỹ diuers factōs of ỹ sacrifices & cere= monies was to occupie theyr myndes ỹ they shuld haue no lust to folowe ỹ hethē: & ỹ multitude of thē was, ỹ they shuld haue so moch to do in kepig thē ỹ they shuld haue no leysur to ymagine other of theyr owne: yea & ỹ gods word myght be by i al ỹ they dyd, ỹ they myght haue theyr fayth & trust in God, whych he cānot haue, ỹ ether folo= weth his owne inuētiōs, or traditiōs of mes making wout gods worde. Finally god hath .ii. testametes: ỹ old & ỹ newe. The old testamēt is those tēporall ỹmyses whych god made the childrē of Israel of a good lād & ỹ he wold defēd thē, & of welth & pspe rite & of tēporal blessinges of whych ỹ redest ouer al ỹ lawe of Moses. But namely Leui.xxvi. & Deute.xxviii. & the auoyding of al threateninges and curses of whych

thou readest lykewyse euery where, but specially in the twoo places aboue rehersed, and the auoydinge of all punishmēt ordeyned for the transgressers of the lawe.

And the olde Testamēt was bylt al together vpon the keping of the lawe and ceremonies and was the reward of keptnge of them in thys lyfe onely, and reached no further then thys lyfe and thys worlde, as thou readest Leuit.xviii. a man that doth them shal lyue there, in whych texte Paule rehersēth Roma.x. and Galath.iii. That is, he that kepeth them shall haue thys lyfe glorious accordinge to all the promyses and blessinges of the lawe, and shall auoyde both all temporall punyshmente of the lawe, wyth all the threateninges and cursinges also. For neyther the lawe, euē of the x. cōmaundemētes nor yet the ceremonies iustified in the hart before god, or purified vnto the lyfe to come. In so moche that Moyses at his death euen.xl. yeare after the lawe and ceremonies were geuen complayneth sayinge: God hath not geuen you an hart to vnderstande, nor eyes to se, nor eares to heare vnto thys daye. As who shulde saye God hath geuen you ceremonies, but ye know not the vse of them, and hath geuē you a lawe, but hath not wrytten it in your hartes.

Wherfore serueth the lawe thē, yf it geue vs no power to do ȳ law? Paul answereth the, ȳ it was geuē to vtter synne only & to make it appere. As a corosye is layde vnto an old sore, not to heale it, but to stere it vp & to make ȳ disease aliue, ȳ a mā might fele in what ieopardy he is & how nye death & not aware, & to make away vnto ȳ healing playster. Euē so saith paul Gal.iii. The lawe was geuē because of trāsgressiō (ȳ is, to make ȳ time alyue ȳ it might be felt & sene) vntil ȳ sede came vnto whō it was pmysed: ȳ is to say, vntil ȳ childrē of faith came, or vntil christ ȳ sede in whō god pmysed Abrahā ȳ al natiōs of ȳ world shuld be blessed, came. That is, ȳ lawe was geuē to vtter syn, death, dānatiō & curse, & to dryue vnto christ in whō forgeuenesse, life, iustifiynge & blessinges were pmised, ȳ we might se so great loue of god to vsward in christ ȳ we hēceforth ouercome wt kindnesse might loue agayn, & of loue kepe ȳ cōmādemētes. So now he ȳ goeth about to quiet his cōsciēce & to iustify him self wt ȳ lawe, doth but heale his woūdes wt freatinge corosyes. And he ȳ goeth about to purchase grace wt ceremonies, doth but sucke ȳ alepope to quēch his thyrst, in asmoch as ȳ ceremonyes were not gyuē to iustifye ȳ hert, but to signifye ȳ iustifieng, & forgeuenesse ȳ is in christes bloud. Of ȳ ceremonies ȳ they iustify not, ȳ readest. Ebrues.x. It is impossible ȳ syn shuld be done away wt ȳ bloud of oxē & gootes. And of ȳ lawe ȳ readest. Gal.iii. Yf ther had bene a lawe geuē ȳ could haue quickened or geuē lyfe, thē hadde ben righteousnes or iustifiēg come by ȳ lawe in dede. Now ȳ law not only quickeneth not ȳ hart, but also woūdeth it wt cōsciēce of synne & ministreth death & dānatiō vnto her ii. Cor.iii. so ȳ she must nedes dye & be dāned except she find other remedy, so farre it is of ȳ she is iustified or holpe by the lawe. The new testamēt is those euerlasting pmyses which ar made vs in christ ȳ lord thorow out al ȳ scripture. And ȳ testamēt is bylt on fayth & not on workes. For it is not sayd of ȳ testamēt he ȳ worketh shal lyue: But he ȳ beleueth shal lyue, as ȳ redest. Joan.iii. God so loued ȳ world ȳ he gaue his only begottē son, ȳ none which beleue in hi shuld perish but haue euerlastig lyfe.

And whē this testamēt is preached & beleued, ȳ spyrete entreth, ȳ hart & quickeneth it & geueth her life & iustificth her. The spyrete also maketh ȳ law a liuely thing in ȳ hert so ȳ a mā bringeth forth good workes of his own accord wout cōpulsiō of ȳ law, wout feare of threteninges or cursinges: yea & wout al maner respect or loue vnto any tēporal pleasure. But of ȳ very power of ȳ spirit receaued thorow faith. As ȳ readest Joh.i. He gaue thē power to be ȳ sonnes of God in ȳ they beleued on hys name. And of ȳ power they worke: for he which hath ȳ spirit of christ is nomore a child: he nether learneth or worketh now any longer for payne of ȳ rod or for feare of begges or pleasure of apples. But doth al thinges of his own courage. As christ saith. Joh.vii. He ȳ beleueth on me shal haue riuers of lyuing water flowing out of his bely. That is. Al good workes & al gyftes of grace spring out of him naturally & by theyr own accorde. Thou neadest not to wrest good workes out of him as a mā wold wring verjuce out of crabbes. Nay they flow naturally out of hi as spriges out of hylles or rockes were alwaye promyses of Christ to come by fayth in whych promyses the elect were then iustified inwardly before God, as outwardly before the worldly keppynge of the lawe and Ceremonies.

And in conclusyon as thou seeste blessynges or cursynges folowe the keppynge or breakynge of the lawe of Moyses: euen so naturallye do blessynges or cursynges folow the breakynge or keppynge of the lawe of nature, out of whych sprynge al our temporal lawes. So that when the people kepe thee temporall lawes of theyr lande temporall prosperite and all maner of soche temporall blessynge as thou readeste of in Moyses do accompanye them and fall vpon them. And contrarywyse when they synne vnpunysshed, and when the ruelars haue no respecte vnto naturall equyte or honestye, then God sendeth hys curses amonge them, as hunger, derth, mortenbanninge, pestilence, warre, oppression wythe straunge and wonderfull dyseases and newekyndes of myshortune and euyll lucke.

Yf any man axe me, (seynge that fayth iustifieth me) why I worke? I answere loue compelleth me. For as longe as my soule fealeth what loue God hathe shewed me in Christe. I cannot but loue god agayne and hys wyll and commaundemētes and of loue worke them, nor can they seme harde vnto me. I thynke not my selfe better for my worckynge, nor seke heauen nor an hyer place in heauen because of it. For a Christen worketh to make hys weake brother perfecter, and not to seke an hyer place in heauen. I compare not my selfe vnto hym that worckethe not: No, he that worketh not to daye shall haue grace to turne and to worke to morowe, and in the meane season I pytye hym and praye for hym. Yf I hadde wroughte the wyll of god these thousande yeares, and another had wroughte the wyll of thee deuyll, as longe and thys daye turne and be as well wyllynge to suffer wyth Christe as I, he hathe thys daye ouertaken me and is as farre come as I, and shall haue as moche reward as I And I enuye hym not, but reioyce most of all as of lofte treasure founde. For yf I be of god, I haue thys thousand yeare suffred to wynne hym for to come and prayse the name of God wyth me: thys thousande yeares I haue prayed, sorowed, longed, syghed and sought for that whyche I haue thys daye founde, and therefore reioyse wyth all my myght and prayse God for hys grace and mercye.

And when she could no longer hyde hym, she toke a basket of bulrusches & dawbed it wyth slyme and pytche, and layd the chyld therin, and put it in the flagges by the ryuers brinke. And his syster stode afarre of, to wete what wold come of it. * And the doughter of Pharao came downe to the ryuer to washe her selfe and hyr maydens walked a longe by the ryuers syde. And when she sawe the basket among the flagges, she sent one of hyr maydes and caused it to be fet. And whē she had opened it, she sawe the chylde, and beholde, the babe wepte. And she hadde compassyon on it and sayde: it is one of the Hebrues chyldren. Then sayd hys syster vnto Pharaos doughter: shal I goo and call vnto the a nurse of thee Hebrues wemen, to nurse the that chylde? And thee mayde ranne and called the chyldes mother. And when the chylde was growen, she brought it vnto Pharaos doughter, and it was made hyr son, & she called it a Moses, because (sayd she) I toke hym oute of the water. And it happened in these dayes whē Moses was warte great, that he wēt out vnto hys brethren and loked on theyr burdens, & spyed an Egyptian smytynge one of his brethren an Ebrewe. And he loked rounde about, and when he saw that ther was no man by, he b slewe the Egyptian and hydde hym in the sande. And he went oute another daye: and beholde, two Ebrewes stroue together. And he said vnto him that dyd the wrong: wherfore smytest thou thyne neyghboure? And he answered: who hathe made the a ruler or a iudge ouer vs? intendest thou to kyll me as thou killedest the Egyptian? Then ¶ Moyses feared and sayd: of a suerty the thynge is knowen. And Pharao hearde of it and wente aboute to slee Moyses, but he fledde from Pharao and dwelte in the lande of Madian, and he sat downe by a welles syde.

The priest of Madian had .vii. doughters whych came and drewe water and fylled thee troughes, for too water theyr fathers shepe. And the shepehardes came & droue thē awaye: but Moyses stode vp & helped thē, and watered theyr shepe. And whē they came to c Raguel theyr father, he sayd: howe happeneth it that ye are come so soone to daye? And they answered: there was an Egiptian that delyuered vs from the shepehardes, & so drewe vs water, and watered the shepe. And he sayde vnto hys doughters: where is he? why haue ye left the mā? Go cal hym that he may eate bread. And Moyses was content to dwell wyth the man. And he gaue Moyses Zephora his doughter whych bare a D sonne, and he called hym Garson: for he sayde: I haue bene a straunger in a straūge land. And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Elieser, sayinge: the God of my father is myne helper, and had ryd me out of the handes of Pharao.

And it chaunced in processe of tyme, that the kyng of Egypte dyed, & the chyldren of Israel syghed by the reason of labourc, and cryed. And theyr complaynte came vppe vnto God from thee labour. And God remembred hys promyse wyth Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. And God d loked vpon the chyldren of Israel, and knewe them.

The sayde the kynge of Egypte vnto theym: wherfore do ye Moyses and Aaron lette the people from theyr worcke, get you vnto your laboure. And Pharao sayde furthermore: beholde there is moch people in the lande, and ye make them play, and let theyr worke stonde.

And Pharao cõmaunded the same daye vnto the taskemasters ouer the people, & vnto the offycers saynge: se that ye gyue the people no more strawe to make bryck with all, as ye did in tyme passed: let them goo and gather them strawe them selues, and the nombre of brycke whiche they were wonte to make in tyme passed, lay vnto theyr charges also, and mynysh nothyng therof. For they be ydle and therfore crye sayenge: let vs goo and do sacrifyce vnto our God. They muste haue more worcke layde vpon them, that they maye laboure therin, and then wyll they not turne them selues to false wordes.

AND thee Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying: a¶ Sanctifye vnto me al the fyrst borne that openeth all matryces among the chyldren of Israel as well of men as of beastes: for they are myne. And Moses sayd vnto the people: thynke on thys day in whych ye came out of Egypte and out of the house of bondage: for wyth a myghtye hande thee Lorde brought you out from thence. Se therfore that ye eate no leuended bread. Thys daye come ye out of Egypt in the moneth of * Abid.

*That is the moneth of Nysan.

When the Lorde hath brought the into the lande of the Cananytes, Hethytes, Amorites, Heuytes and Jebusytes, whyche he sware vnto thy fathers that he wolde geue the a land wherin mylcke and hony floweth, then se that thou kepe thys seruice in thys same moneth. But all the fyrste borne amonge thy chyldren shalt thou bye oute.

And when thy sonne axeth the in tyme to come, sayinge: what is thys? thou shalt saye vnto hym: wyth a myghty hande the Lorde brought vs oute of Egipte, out of the house of bondage. And when Pharao was looth to lett vs goo, the Lorde slewe all the fyrst borne in the lande of Egypte: as well the fyrste borne of men as of beastes. And therfore I sacrifyce vnto thee Lord al the males that open the matryce, but all the fyrste borne of my chyldren I must redeme. And thys shalbe for a token in thyne hand, and as a thyng hanged vp betwene thyne eyes, because thee Lorde brought vs out of Egypt wyth a myghtye hande.

When Pharao had let the people goo, D God caryed them not thorow the land of the Philistines, though it were a nye way For God sayde: the people myght happely repent when they se warre, and so turne agayne to Egypt: therfore God led them aboute thorowe thee wyldernes that bordreth on the red sea. The chyldren of Israell went harnessed oute of the lande of Egypt. And Moyses toke the bones of Joseph wyth hym: for he made the children of Israel swere sayinge: * God wyll surely vysyt you, take my bones therfore awaye hence wyth you. And they toke theyr iourneye from Sucoth: and pytched theyr tẽtes in Ethan in the edge of the wilderness

Pharaos harte is hardened/ foloweth the Israelites wyth al hys hooste and captaynes/ is drowned. The Israelites grudge. They go thorow ꝑ red sea.

The.xiiii.Chapter.

THan thee Lorde spake vnto Moses sayeng: byd the chyldren of Israell that they turne and pytch theyr tentes before the entryng of Hiroth betwene Migdole and the see toward Baalzephon: euen before that, shal ye pytche vpon the se. For Pharao wyll saye of the chyldren of Israell they are tangled in ꝑ land: the wyldernesse hath shute them in. And I wyl harden hys hart, that he shall folowe after them, that I may gett me honour vpon Pharao and vpō all hys host that thee Egyptyans may knowe that I am the lorde. And they dyd euen so.

And when it was tolde the kynge of Egypt that thee people fled, than Pharaos hart and all hys seruauntes turned vnto thee people and sayde: why haue we thys done that we haue let Israel go out of our scrupce: and he made teadye his charettes and toke hys people with hym and toke vi. hundred chosen charettes and all the charettes of Egypte and captaynes vpon all his people. For the lorde hardened the herte of Pharao kynge of Egypt, that he folowed after the chyldren of Israel whiche for all that went out thorowe * an hye hand, and the Egyptyans folowed after them and ouertoke them, where they pytched by the see, with all the horsses & charettes of Pharao and with his horssemen and his ostes: euen faste by the entrynge of Hiroth before Baal zephon. And Pharao drewe nye, and when the chyldren of Israell lyfte vp theyr eyes and sawe howe the Egyptyans folowed after thē, they were sore a frayde & cryed out vnto the Lorde.

Then sayde they vnto Moyses: were there noo graues for vs in Egypte, but ꝑ must bryngе vs awaye for to dye in ꝑ wyldernesse: wherfore hast ꝑ serued vs thus for to cary vs out of Egypt: Dyd not we tell the this in Egypte saying, let vs be in rest and serue the Egyptyans: For it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egiptyans, then for to dye in the wyldernesse. And Moises sayd vnto the people: feare ye not but stande styl and behold how the Lorde shall saue you this day: For as ye se the Egyptiās this day, so shal ye se thē nomore for euer tyll the worldes ende. The Lorde shall fyght for you and ye shall holde youre peace.

The Lorde sayde vnto Moses: wherfore b cryest thou vnto me: speake vnto ꝑ chyldren of Israell that they go forward But lyfte thou vp thy rod and stretch out thy hand ouer the see and deuyde it a sunder, that the chyldren of Israel may goo on drye groūde thorowe the myddest ther of. And beholde I wyll harden the hartes of the Egyptyans that they maye folowe you: And I wyl get me honour vpō Pharao and vpon all hys hoste, vpon hys charettes & vpō hys horsemē. * And ꝑ Egyptyans shall knowe that I am thee Lorde whan I haue gottē me honoure vpō Pharao vpon his charettes and vpō hys horsmen.

And the angell of God whych went before thee hoste of Israell, remoued and went behynd them. And the cloudenpyller that was before them remoued and stode behynde them and went betwene the hoste of thee Egiptians and thee hoste of Israel. It was a darke cloude, and gaue lyghte by nyght: so that all the nyght long the one coulde not come at the other.

* When nowe Moses streched forthe hys hande ouer the see, thee Lorde caryed awaye thee see wyth a stronge east wynde that blewe al nyght, and made the see drie lande and the water deuyded it selfe. And the chyldren of Israel went in thorow the myddest of the see vpon the drye grounde And the water was a wale vnto thē, both on theyr ryghthande and on theyr left hād And the Egyptyans folowed and wente in after thē to the myddest of the see, with al Pharaos horses, & hys charettes & hys horssemen. And in thee morynge watche the Lorde loked vnto the hoste of thee Egipcyans out of the fyery and cloudy piller, and troubled theyr hoste and smote of theyr charet wheles and cast them downe to the grounde. Than sayde the Egyptcyans: Let vs fle from Israell, for the Lord fyghteth for thē agaynste vs: Than sayd the lorde vnto Moses: stretch oute thyne hād ouer the see, that the water may come agayne vpon the Egyptcyans vpon theyr charettes and horsmen.

¶ The chyldrē of Israel come to the mount Sinai The people of god are holy, and royal priesthode. He that toucheth ỹ hyl dyeth. God appereth vnto moyses vpon the mounte in thonder and lightenīge

The.xix. Chapter.

A THe.iii. moneth after the chyldrē of Israel were gone oute of Egipt: ỹ same day thei came into ỹ wildernesse of Sinai. * For thei were departed frō Raphidim, & were come to ỹ desert of Sinai, & had pytched theyr tētes in ỹ wildernesse. And ther Israel pitched before ỹ mouīt. And Moses wēt vp vnto god. And the lord called to him out of the mouītayne saying: thus say vnto ỹ house of Jacob, & tel ỹ chyldrē of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto ỹ Egiptiās & how I toke you vp vpō egles wiges, & haue brought you vnto my self. Now therfore yf ye wyl hear my voyce & kepe myne appoyntmēt: ye shalbe myne owne aboue al nacīōs, for al ỹ erth is myne. Ye shalbe vnto me a kingdō of prestes & an holy people: these ar the wordes whyche thou shalte saye vnto the chyldren of Israel.

And Moses came & called for ỹ elders of Israel, & layd before thē al these words which ỹ lord had cōmāded hi And ỹ people āswered al together & sayd: Al that ỹ lord hath sayd: we wil do. And moses brought ỹ wordes of ỹ people vnto ỹ lord. And the lord said vnto Moses: Lo I wil come vnto the in a thicke cloude, ỹ the people may heare whē I talke wyth the, & also beleue the for euer. And Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the Lord.

B And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: Go vnto ỹ people, & a‡sāctifye thē to day & to morowe, & let thē washe theyr clothes that they may be ready against the thyrd daye For the thyrd day the lord wil come downe in the sight of al the people vpō mouīt Sinai. And set markes roūde about the people & saye: beware ỹ ye go not vp into the mouīt, & that ye touche not thee borders of it, for whosoeuer toucheth the mouīte, shal surely dye. Ther shal not an hād touche it but ỹ he shal eyther be stoned or els shotte thorow: whether it be beast or mā, it shall not lyue, whē the horne bloweth: than lett them come vp into the mountayne.

And Moyses wēt down frō the mouīt vnto ỹ people & sanctified thē & they washed theyr clothes: And he said vnto ỹ people: be ready agaynst the thyrd day, & se ỹ ye b‡come not at your wiues. And ỹ thyrd day in the morning ther was thūder, & lightening & a thicke cloude vpō the mouīte, & the voyce of ỹ horne waxed exceding lowde, and al the people that was in the hoost was afrayed. And Moyses brought the people out of the tentes to mete wyth god and they stode vnder the hyll.

And mouīte Sinai was al together on a smoke: because the lord descēded downe vpō it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascēded vp, as it had bene the smoke of a kyll, & al the mouīt was exceding feareful. And the voyce of the horne blew & waxed lowder & lowder. Moses spake, & god āswered him & ỹ wyth a voyce. And the Lorde came down vpō mouīt Sinai, euē in ỹ top of the hyl, & called Moses vp into the top of the hyll. And Moyses went vp.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: goo downe & charge ỹ people ỹ they presse not vp vnto the lord for to se him, & so many of thē perish. And let the prestes also whyche come to the lordes presence sanctifie thē selues: lest the lord smyte thē. Thē moses sayd vnto ỹ lord: ỹ people cānot come vp into the mouīt Sinai, for ỹ chargedest vs saying: set markes about the hyll, & sāctifye it. And the lord sayd vnto him: away, & gett the downe: & come vp bothe thou & Arō w̄ the. But let not the Prestes & the people presume for too come vp vnto the lord: lest he smyte thē. And Moyses went downe vnto the people, and told them.

The Notes.

a‡ To sanctifie is here too purge & clense thē frō the fylthynesse of both theyr body & garmētes, as is in the same Chapter beneth at d, and. xxxi'e

b‡ Come not at your wyues, that is: whē ye wyll serue the Lord, ye shal put frō you al lustes & fleshly cōcupiscēces, geuing your self holy to prayer & abstinence, as Paul teacheth. i. Cor. vii. e, that they ỹ haue wyues shuld be as though they had none.

Thou shalte not take the name of the Lord thy god in bayn, for the Lord wyll not holde him giltlesse ỹ taketh hys name in bayn. Remēbre the Saboth day ỹ thou sanctify it. Sixe dayes mayst thou labour ✠ do al that thou hast to doo: but the seuenth day is the Saboth of the Lord thy god, in it thou shalte do no maner worke: nether thou nor thy sonne nor thy doughter, nether thy mā seruaūt, nor thy mayde seruaūt, nether thy catel, nether yet ỹ straūger that is wythin thy gates. For in syxe dayes the lord made both heauen ✠ earth and the sea, ✠ al that in them is and rested the seuenth daye: wherfore the Lord blessed the Saboth daye ✠ halowed it. b ✠ Honour thy father ✠ thy mother, that thy dayes maye be longe in the lande whyche the Lorde thy God geueth the.

b To honor father & mother is not onli to shewe obedīce to thē but also to helpe them in their age yf they be poore & nedye, as Ephe. vi a Coll. iii. b. mar. vii. b. Mat. ix. c. Ro. xiiii. b

Thou shalt not kyll

A Lawes. Deut. xv. c Je. xxxiiii c Leui. xxv c

These are ỹ lawes which thou shalt sett before ỹ. *Yf thou bye a seruaūt ỹ is an hebru, syxe yeres he shal serue, ✠ the seuenth he shall goo out free payeng nothing. Yf he came a lone, he shal goo oute alone, Yf he came maryed, his wyfe shal goo out with hym And yf hys mayster haue geuē hym a wyfe ✠ she haue borne hym sonnes or doughters then that wyfe ✠ hyr chyldren shalbe hyr maysters, ✠ he shal go out alone. But ✠ yf ỹ seruaunte saye I loue my mayster ✠ my wyfe ✠ my chyldren, I wyll not goo out free. Then let hys mayster bryng him vnto ỹ ✠ Goddes ✠ sett hym too the dore or ỹ doore poste, ✠ bore his eare thorow with a naule, ✠ let him be his seruaūt for euer.

Yf a mā sell hys doughter to be a seruaunte: she shall not go out as the mē seruaūtes doo. Yf she plase not hyr maister so that he hath geuē her to no mā to wyfe then shal he let hyr go free: to sell her vnto a straunge nacyō shall he haue no power, because he despysed her. Yf he haue promised her vnto his sonne to wyfe, hee shal deale with her as mē do with their doughters. Yf he take him another wife, yet her fode, raymēt and duetye of mariage shal he not mynysshe. Yf he doo not these thre vnto her, then shall she goo oute free and paye no money. *He that smyteth a man that he dye, shall be slayne for it. Yf a mā laye not awayt but god delyuer him into hys hād, thē I wyl poynt the a place whe whether he shal sle. Yf a mā come presūptuously vpon hys neyghbour, & slee hym with gyle, thou shalt take him from myne aultar that he dye. And he ꝑ smytethe hys father or his mother, shall dye for it.

He that stealeth a man & selleth him (yf it be proued vpon hym) he shall be slayne for it. * And he that curseth hys father or mother, shal be put to death for it. Yf mē stryue together & one smyte another wyth a stone or with his fyste, so that he dye not but lyeth in bed: yf he ryse agayne & walke wythout vpon hys staffe then shall he that smote him go quite: saue only he shal beare hys charges whyle he laye in bedde and paye for hys healynge.

Leuit. xx. b. Prou. xx. c. math. xv. a mar. vii. b.

Yf a mā smyte his seruaūt or his mayde with a staffe ꝑ they dye vnder his hād, it shalbe auēged. But & yf they cōtynue a day or two, it shall not be auēged for they ar his money. Whē men stryue & smyte a woman wyth chyld so that hyr fruyte departe frō her & yet no myschortune foloweth: then shall he be mersed, accordinge as the womās husband wyl lay to hys charge, & he shal paye as the dayes mē apoynt hym. But * and yf any mischortune folow then shall he paye lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye toth for toth, hande for hand, fote for fote burninge for burninge, woūd for wound and strype for strype.

Leu. xxiiii. c Deut. xix. d math. v. f

Yf a man smyte hys seruaunte or hys mayde in ꝑ eye & put it out, he shall let thē go free for the eyes sake. Also yf he smyte out hys seruauntes or hys maydes tothe, he shal let thē go out fre for the tothes sake. Yf an ore gore a man or a womā that they dye, thē the * tore shalbe stoned, & his flesshe shall not be eaten: and hys mayster shall goo quyte.

Yf the ore were wont to runne at men in tyme past & it hath bene tolde his mayster, & he hathe not kepte hym, but that he hath kylled a mā or a womā: then the ore shalbe stoned & hys mayster shal dye also Yf he be set to a summe of money, then he shall geue for the delyuerance of hys lyfe according to al that is put vnto him. And whether he had gored a sonne or a doughter, he shalbe serued after the same maner But yf it be a seruaunte or a mayde that the ore hath gored, then he shall geue vnto theyr mayster the sūme of .xxx. b ‡ sicles and the ore shalbe stoned.

Yf a man opē a well or dygge a pyt, & couer it not, but that an ore or an asse fall therin, the owner of the pytt shall make it good and geue money vnto theyr mayster and the dead beast shalbe hys.

Yf one mans ore hurt anothers that he dye: then they shal sell the lyue ore and deuyde the moneye, and the dead ore also they shal deuyde. But and yf it be knowē that the ore hath vsed to pusshe in tymes paste, then because thee mayster hathe not kepte hym, he shall paye ore for ore, and the dead shalbe hys owne.

The Notes

a‡ Judges & princes ar called in the scripture ofte tymes goddes: because they receaue theyr office of god, as in Exo. xxii. b, which the apostle calleth thee mynisters of God. Roma. xiii. a.

b‡ Sicle, after the Ebrues is an ounce: but after the grekes & latynes it is but the fourth parte of an ounce. And it cōteyneth .xx. geras as in Exod. xxx. b. whych is ten pence sterlyng or ther about.

¶ Soch lyke lawes as ar in the chapter aboue.

The .xxii. Chapter.

If a mā steale an ore or shepe & kyll it or sell it, he shal restore .v. orē for an ore, & .iiii. shepe for a shepe. Yf a theefe be foūd breaking vp & be smyttē ꝑ he dye, ther shall no bloud be shed for him: except the sun be vp when he is foūd then ther shalbe bloud shed for hym.

A Thefte. nota yf a thefe be killed the shedding of bloud is not allowed

All theefe shal make restitution: Yf he haue not wherewyth, he shalbe solde for hys theefte. Yf the theefte be foūd in hys hād aliue (whether it be ore, asse or shepe, he shal restore double. Yf a mā dohurt feld or vyneyarde, so that he put in his beast to fede in anothers mans felde: of the best of hys owne feld, and of the best of his owne vyneyarde, shall he make restitution.

Yf fyre breake out & catche in ꝑ thornes so ꝑ the stackes of corne or thee standinge corne or feld be cōsumed therwith: he that kyndled the fyre shall make restitution.

Yf a mā delyuer his neyghbour money or stuf to kepe, & it be stolē out of his house: Yf ꝑ theefe be foūd, he shal pay double. Yf the theefe be not foūde, thē the goodman of the house shalbe brought vnto the goddes and swere, whether he haue putte hys hand vnto hys neyghboures good.

ye shall take of them: gold, syluer ✠ brasse and Jacincte colour, scarlet, purpul, bysse and gootes here, tāmes skynnes that are red, and the skynnes of tarus and sethim wood, oyle for lyghtes, and spices for anoyntynge oyle and for swete cense: Onix stones and set stones for the * Ephod and for the brestlappe.

Ephod is a garmēt lyke an amyce.

And they shall make me a sanctuarye that I maye dwell amonge them. And I shall shewe the, the facion of the habitacion and of all the ornamentes therof, euen so, se that ye make it in al thynges. And they shall make an arcke of sethim wood, ii. cubytes ✠ an halfe longe, a cubyte and an halfe breede and a cubyte and an halfe hye. And thou shalte ouerleye it wyth pure golde bothe wythin and wythoute, and shalte make an hye vppon it a crowne of golde round about. And thou shalt caste. iiii. rynges of gold for it, and put them in
B the. iiii. corners therof. ii. ringes on the one syde of it, ✠. ii. on the other. And thou shalt make staues of sethim wood ✠ couer thē wyth gold, and put the staues in the rynges along by the sydes of the arke, to bear it wyth all. And thee staues shall abyde in thee rynges of thee arcke, and shall not be taken awaye. And thou shalte putte in the arcke, thee wytnesse whyche I shall geue the.

C The table of shewbread with the loues of bread vpon it, and hys other vessels.

And thou shalte make a mercyseate of pure golde. ii. cubytes and an halfe longe and a cubyte and an halfe brode. And make. ii. Cherubyns of thycke golde on thee ii. endes of the mercyseate: and set the one Cherub on the one ende, and thee other on the other ende of the mercyseate, so se that thou make them on the twoo endes there-

therof. And the Cherubyns shall stretche theyr wynges abrode ouer an hye, and couer the mercyseate wythe theyr wynges, & theyr faces shall loke one to another: euen to the mercyseate warde, shall the faces of the Cherubins be. And thou shalt put the mercyseate aboue vpon the arcke, & in the arcke thou shalt put the wytnesse whyche I wyll geue the.

There I wyl mete the and wyl comon with the frō vpon the mercyseate from betwene the two Cherubyns which are vpō the arke of wytnesse, & of al thing whyche I wyll geue the in cōmaūdemēt vnto the chyldren of Israell.

¶ Thou shalt also make a table of sethim wood of two cubytes longe & one cubyte brode and a cubytt and an half hye. And couer it wyth pure golde, & make therto a crowne of gold round aboute. And make vnto that an whope of .iiii. fingers brode, round about, And make a golden crowne also to ỹ whope round aboute. And make for it .iiii. rynges of golde & put thē in the corners that ar on the .iiii. fete therof: euē harde vnder the whope shal the ringes be to put in staues to beare the table wythal. And thou shalt make staues of Sethym wood & ouerlaye them with gold, that the table may be borne wyth them. And thou shalt make hys dysshes, spones, pottes & flatpeces to poure out wythal, of fyne golde. And thou shalt sette vpon the table, ✠ shewebread before me al waye.

D And thou shalt make a candelstick of pure thicke golde with his shaft, brāches, bolles, knoppes and floures proceadynge ther out. Syxe braūches shal procede out of the sydes of the candelsticke .iii. oute of the one side & .iii. out of the other. And ther shalbe .iii. cuppes lyke vnto almondes wt knoppes & floures vpon euery one of the vi. braūches that procede out of the cādelsticke: & in the candelstick self .iiii. cuppes lyke vnto almōdes wyth theyr knoppes & floures: that ther be a knop vnder euery .ii. braunches of the syxe that procede out of the cādelsticke. And thee knoppes and the braunches shalbe all together, one pece of pure thycke golde.

And thou shalt make .vii. lampes and put thē an hye theron, to geue lighte vnto the other syde that is ouer against it: with snoffers & fyre pannes of pure gold. And an hundred pounde weyght of fyne gold shall make it wyth all the apparell. * And se that thou make thē after the facion that was shewed the in the mounte. He. xxv. e. Actu. vii. f.

CHAP. I.

1 The children of Israel after Iosephs death, doe multiply. 8 The more they are oppressed by a new King, the more they multiply. 15 The godlines of the Midwiues, in sauing the men children aliue. 22 Pharaoh commandeth the male children to be cast into the riuer.

NOwe these are the names of the *children of Israel, which came into Egypt, euery man †his household, came with Iacob.

2 Reuben, Simeon, Leui, and Iudah,

3 Issachar, Zebulun, and Beniamin,

4 Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.

5 And all the soules that came out of the †loynes of Iacob, were *seuentie soules: for Ioseph was in Egypt already.

†Heb. thigh. *Gene. 46. 27. deut. 10.22.

6 And Ioseph died, and all his brethren, and all that generation.

7 ¶ *And the children of Israel were fruitfull, and increased abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty, and the land was filled with them.

8 Now there arose vp a new King ouer Egypt, which knew not Ioseph.

9 And he said vnto his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are moe and mightier then we.

10 Come on, let vs deale wisely with them, lest they multiply, and it come to passe that when there falleth out any warre, they ioyne also vnto our enemies, and fight against vs, and so get them vp out of the land.

11 Therefore they did set ouer them task-masters, to afflict them with their burdens:

burdens: And they built for Pharaoh treaſure cities, Pithom and Raamſes.

†Hebr. and as they afflicted them, ſo they multiplied, &c.

12 †But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplyed and grew: and they were grieued becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

13 And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſerue with rigour.

14 And they made their liues bitter, with hard bondage, in morter and in bricke, and in all maner of ſeruice in the fielde: all their ſeruice wherein they made them ſerue, was with rigour.

15 ¶ And the King of Egypt ſpake to the Hebrew midwiues, (of which the name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah.)

16 And he ſaid, When ye doe the office of a midwife to the Hebrew-women, and ſee them vpon the ſtooles, if it bee a ſonne, then ye ſhall kill him: but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall liue.

17 But the midwiues feared God, and did not as the King of Egypt commanded them, but ſaued the men children aliue.

18 And the King of Egypt called for the midwiues, and ſaid vnto them, Why haue yee done this thing, and haue ſaued the men children aliue?

19 And the midwiues ſaid vnto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women: for they are liuely, and are deliuered ere the midwiues come in vnto them.

20 Therefore God dealt well with the midwiues: and the people multiplied and waxed very mighty.

21 And it came to paſſe, becauſe the midwiues feared God, that hee made them houſes.

CHAP. II.

1 Moſes is borne, 3 and in an arke caſt into the flags. 5 He is found, and brought vp by Pharaohs daughter. 11 Hee ſlayeth an Egyptian. 13 Hee reproueth an Hebrew. 15 He fleeth into Midian. 21 He marrieth Zipporah. 22 Gerſhom is borne. 23 God reſpecteth the Iſraelites cry.

AND there went *a man of the houſe of Leui, & tooke to wife a daughter of Leui.

2 And the woman conceiued, and bare a ſonne: and when ſhee ſaw him that hee was a goodly childe, ſhee *hid him three moneths.

*Acts 7. 20 heb. 11. 23.

3 And when ſhee could not longer hide him, ſhee tooke for him an arke of bul-ruſhes, and daubed it with ſlime, and with pitch, and put the childe therein, and ſhee layd it in the flags by the riuers brinke.

4 And his ſiſter ſtood afarre off, to wit what would be done to him.

5 ¶ And the daughter of Pharaoh came downe to waſh her ſelfe at the riuer, and her maydens walked along by the riuer ſide: and when ſhee ſawe the arke among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it.

6 And when ſhe had opened it, ſhee ſaw the childe: and beholde, the babe wept. And ſhee had compaſſion on him, and ſaide, This is one of the Hebrewes children.

7 Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaohs daughter, Shall I goe, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhee may nurſe the childe for thee?

8 And Pharaohs daughter ſaide to her, Goe: and the maid went and called the childs mother.

9 And Pharaohs daughter ſaid vnto her, Take this child away, and nurſe it for mee, and I will giue thee thy wages. And the woman tooke the childe, and nurſed it.

10 And the child grew, and ſhe brought him vnto Pharaohs daughter, and hee became her ſonne. And ſhee called his name ||Moſes: And ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

11 ¶ And it came to paſſe in thoſe dayes, when Moſes was growen, that he went out vnto his brethren, and looked on their burdens, and hee ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren.

12 And he looked this way and that way, and when he ſaw that there was no man, hee ſlew the Egyptian, and hid him in the ſand.

13 And when he went out the ſecond day, behold, two men of the Hebrewes ſtroue together; And he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow?

14 And hee ſaide, Who made thee †a Prince and a Iudge ouer vs? intendeſt thou to kill mee, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared, and ſaide, Surely this thing is knowen.

15 Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, hee ſought to ſlay Moſes. But Moſes fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſate downe by a well.

||Or, Prince. 16 Now the ||Priest of Midian had ſeuen daughters, and they came and drew water, and filled the troughes to water their fathers flocke.

17 And the ſhepheards came and droue them away: but Moſes ſtood vp and helped them, & watered their flocke.

18 And when they came to Reuel their father, he ſaid, How is it that you are come ſo ſoone to day?

19 And they ſaid, An Egyptian deliuered vs out of the hand of the ſhepheards, and alſo drew water ynough for vs, and watered the flocke.

20 And he ſaid vnto his daughters, And where is he? why is it that ye haue left the man? Call him, that he may eate bread.

21 And Moſes was content to dwell with the man, and he gaue Moſes Zipporah his daughter.

*Chap. 18. 3. 22 And ſhe bare him a ſonne, and he called his name *Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I haue beene a ſtranger in a ſtrange land.

23 ¶ And it came to paſſe in proceſſe of time, that the King of Egypt died, and the children of Iſrael ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cryed, and their crie came vp vnto God, by reaſon of the bondage.

*Gene. 15. 14. & 46. 4. 24 And God heard their groning, and God remembred his *Couenant with Abraham, with Iſaac, and with Iacob.

CHAP. III.

1 Moſes keepeth Iethros flocke. 2 God appeareth to him in a burning buſh. 9 Hee ſendeth him to deliuer Iſrael. 14 The Name of God. 15 His meſſage to Iſrael.

NOw Moſes kept the flocke of Iethro his father in law, the Priest of Midian: and he led the flocke to the backeſide of the deſert, and came to the Mountaine of God, euen to Horeb.

*Acts 7. 30. 2 And the Angel of the LORD appeared vnto him, in a *flame of fire out of the midſt of a buſh, and hee looked, and behold, the buſh burned with fire, and the buſh was not conſumed.

3 And Moſes ſaid, I wil now turne aſide, and ſee this great ſight, why the buſh is not burnt.

4 And when the LORD ſaw that hee turned aſide to ſee, God called vnto him out of the midſt of the buſh, and ſaid, Moſes, Moſes. And hee ſaid, Here am I.

*Ioſh. 5. 15 Acts 7. 33. 5 And hee ſaide, Draw not nigh hither: *put off thy ſhooes from off thy feete, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt, is holy ground.

*Matth. 22 32. Acts 7. 32. 6 Moreouer he ſaid, *I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Iacob. And Moſes hid his face: for hee was afraid to looke vpon God.

7 ¶ And the LORD ſaid, I haue ſurely ſeene the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and haue heard their cry, by reaſon of their taſke-maſters: for I know their ſorrowes,

8 And I am come downe to deliuer them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them vp out of that land, vnto a good land and a large, vnto a land flowing with milke and hony, vnto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hiuites, and the Iebuſites.

9 Now therefore behold, the crie of the children of Iſrael is come vnto me: and I haue alſo ſeene the oppreſſion wherewith the Egyptians oppreſſe them.

10 Come now therefore, and I will ſend thee vnto Pharaoh, that thou mayeſt bring forth my people the children of Iſrael out of Egypt.

11 ¶ And Moſes ſaid vnto God, Who am I that I ſhould goe vnto Pharaoh, and that I ſhould bring forth the children of Iſrael out of Egypt?

12 And he ſaid, Certainly I will bee with thee, and this ſhall be a token vnto thee, that I haue ſent thee: When thou haſt brought forth the people out of Egypt, yee ſhall ſerue God vpon this mountaine.

13 And Moſes ſayde vnto God, Behold, when I come vnto the children of Iſrael, and ſhall ſay vnto them, The God of your fathers hath ſent mee vnto you: and they ſhall ſay to mee, What is his name? what ſhall I ſay vnto them?

14 And

14 And God said vnto Moses, I AM THAT I AM: And he said, Thus shalt thou say vnto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent mee vnto you.

15 And God said moreouer vnto Moses, Thus shalt thou say vnto the children of Israel; The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob hath sent me vnto you: this is my name for euer, and this is my memoriall vnto all generations.

16 Goe and gather the Elders of Israel together, and say vnto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob appeared vnto mee, saying, I haue surely visited you, and seene that which is done to you in Egypt.

17 And I haue said, I will bring you vp out of the affliction of Egypt, vnto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites and the Hiuites, and the Iebusites, vnto a land flowing with milke and hony.

18 And they shall hearken to thy voyce: and thou shalt come, thou and the Elders of Israel vnto the king of Egypt, and you shall say vnto him, The LORD God of the Hebrewes hath met with vs: and now let vs goe, (wee beseech thee) three dayes iourney into the wildernes, that wee may sacrifice to the LORD our God.

19 And I am sure that the King of Egypt will not let you goe, ‖no not by a mighty hand.

‖ Or, but by strong hand.

20 And I will stretch out my hand, and smite Egypt with all my wonders which I will doe in the midst thereof: and after that he will let you goe.

21 And I will giue this people fauour in the sight of the Egyptians, and it shall come to passe that when yee goe, ye shall not goe empty.

22 *But euery woman shall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that sojourneth in her house, iewels of siluer, and iewels of gold, and raiment: and ye shall put them vpon your sonnes and vpon your daughters, and yee shall spoile ‖the Egyptians.

* Chap. 11. 2. & 12. 35.

CHAP. IIII.

1 Moses rod is turned into a Serpent. 6 His hand is leprous. 10 He is loath to be sent. 14 Aaron is appointed to assist him. 18 Moses departeth from Iethro. 21 Gods message to Pharaoh. 24 Zipporah circumciseth her sonne. 27 Aaron is sent to meet Moses. 31 the people beleeueth them.

AND Moses answered, and said, But behold, they will not beleeue mee, nor hearken vnto my voyce: for they will say, The LORD hath not appeared vnto thee.

2 And the LORD said vnto him, what is that in thine hand? and he said, A rod.

3 And he said, Cast it on the ground: And hee cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent: and Moses fled from before it.

4 And the LORD said vnto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the taile: And hee put foorth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand:

5 That they may beleeue that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob hath appeared vnto thee.

6 And the LORD said furthermore vnto him, Put now thine hand into thy bosome. And he put his hand into his bosome: and when hee tooke it out, behold, his hand was leprous as snowe.

7 And he said, Put thine hand into thy bosome againe. And hee put his hand into his bosome againe, and plucked it out of his bosome, and behold, it was turned againe as his other flesh.

8 And it shall come to passe, if they will not beleeue thee, neither hearken to the voice of the first signe, that they will beleeue the voice of the latter signe.

9 And it shall come to passe, if they will not beleeue also these two signes, neither hearken vnto thy voyce, that thou shalt take of the water of the riuer, and powre it vpon the dry land: and the water which thou takest out of the riuer †shall become blood vpon the dry land.

† Heb. shall be and shalbe.

10 And Moses saide vnto the LORD, O my Lord, I am not †eloquent, neither heretofore, nor †since thou hast spoken vnto thy seruant: but I am slow of speach, and of a slow tongue.

† Heb. a man of words. † Heb. since yesterday nor since the third day.

11 And the LORD saide vnto him, who hath made mans mouth? or who maketh the dumbe or deafe, or the seeing, or ᵖ blind? haue not I the LORD?

12 Now therefore goe, and I will bee * with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou ſhalt ſay.

*Mar.10. 19.mar.13. 11.luk. 12. 11.

13 And he ſaid, O my Lord, ſend, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou ‖wilt ſend.

‖Or, ſhouldeſt.

14 And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Moſes, and hee ſaid, Is not Aaron the Leuite thy brother? I know that he can ſpeake well. And alſo behold, he commeth forth to meet thee: and when he ſeeth thee, hee will be glad in his heart.

15 And thou ſhalt ſpeake vnto him, and put words in his mouth, and I wil be with thy mouth, & with his mouth, and will teach you what ye ſhall doe.

16 And he ſhal be thy ſpokeſman vnto the people: and hee ſhall bee, euen hee ſhall be to thee in ſtead of a mouth, and * thou ſhalt be to him in ſtead of God.

17 And thou ſhalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou ſhalt doe ſignes.

18 ¶ And Moſes went and returned to Jethro his father in law, and ſaid vnto him, Let me goe, I pray thee, and returne vnto my brethren, which are in Egypt, and ſee whether they bee yet aliue, and Jethro ſayd to Moſes, Goe in peace.

19 And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes in Midian, Goe, returne into Egypt: for all the men are dead which ſought thy life.

20 And Moſes tooke his wife, and his ſonnes, and ſet them vpon an aſſe, and hee returned to the land of Egypt. And Moſes tooke the rod of God in his hand.

21 And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, When thou goeſt to returne into Egypt, ſee that thou doe all thoſe wonders before Pharaoh, which I haue put in thine hand: but I will harden his heart, that hee ſhall not let the people goe.

22 And thou ſhalt ſay vnto Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD, Iſrael is my ſonne, euen my firſt borne.

23 And I ſay vnto thee, let my ſon goe, that he may ſerue mee: and if thou refuſe to let him goe, behold, I will ſlay thy ſonne, euen thy firſt borne.

24 ¶ And it came to paſſe by the way in the Inne, that the LORD met him, and ſought to kill him.

25 Then Zipporah tooke a ſharpe ‖ſtone, and cut off the foreſkinne of her ſonne, and † caſt it at his feet, and ſaid, Surely a bloody huſband art thou to mee.

†Ebr. made it touch.

26 So he let him goe: then ſhee ſaid, A bloody huſband thou art, becauſe of the Circumciſion.

27 ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Goe into the wilderneſſe to meete Moſes. And hee went and met him in the mount of God, and kiſſed him.

28 And Moſes told Aaron all the words of the LORD, who had ſent him, and all the ſignes which hee had commanded him.

29 ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went, and gathered together all the elders of the children of Iſrael.

30 And Aaron ſpake all the words which the LORD had ſpoken vnto Moſes, and did the ſignes in the ſight of the people.

31 And the people beleeued: And when they heard that the LORD had viſited the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked vpon their affliction, then they bowed their heades and worſhipped.

CHAP. V.

1 Pharaoh chideth Moſes and Aaron for their meſſage. 5 Hee encreaſeth the Iſraelites taske. 15 Hee checketh their complaints. 19 They cry out vpon Moſes and Aaron. 22 Moſes complaineth to God.

AND afterward Moſes and Aaron went in, and tolde Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Let my people goe, that they may hold a feaſt vnto mee in the wilderneſſe.

2 And Pharaoh ſaid, Who is the LORD, that I ſhould obey his voice to let Iſrael goe? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Iſrael goe.

3 And they ſaid, * The God of the Hebrewes hath mette with vs: let vs goe, wee pray thee, three dayes iourney into the deſert, and ſacrifice vnto the LORD our God, leſt he fall vpon vs with peſtilence, or with the ſword.

*Chap.3. 18.

4 And the King of Egypt ſaid vnto them, Wherefore doe ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their workes? get you vnto your burdens.

5 And Pharaoh ſaid, Behold, the people of the land now are many, & you make them reſt from their burdens.

6 And Pharaoh commaunded the ſame same day the taske-masters of the people, and their officers, saying;

7 Yee shall no more giue the people straw to make bricke, as heretofore: let them goe and gather straw for themselues.

8 And the tale of the brickes which they did make heretofore, you shall lay vpon them: you shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let vs goe and sacrifice to our God.

† Heb. let the worke be heauy vpon the men.

9 † Let there more worke bee layde vpon the men, that they may labour therein, and let them not regard vaine wordes.

10 ¶ And the taske-masters of the people went out, and their officers, and they spake to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not giue you straw.

11 Goe yee, get you straw where you can find it: yet not ought of your worke shall be diminished.

12 So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt, to gather stubble in stead of straw.

13 And the taske-masters hasted them, saying; Fulfill your workes, your † daily taskes, as when there was straw.

† Hebr. a matter of a day in his day.

14 And the officers of the children of Israel, which Pharaohs taske-masters had set ouer them, were beaten, and demanded, wherefore haue yee not fulfilled your taske, in making bricke, both yesterday and to day, as heretofore?

15 ¶ Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cryed vnto Pharaoh, saying, wherefore dealest thou thus with thy seruants?

16 There is no straw giuen vnto thy seruants, and they say to vs, Make bricke: and beholde, thy seruants are beaten; but the fault is in thine owne people.

17 But he said, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let vs goe and doe sacrifice to the LORD.

18 Goe therefore now and worke: for there shall no straw bee giuen you, yet shall ye deliuer the tale of brickes.

19 And the officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in euill case, after it was said, Yee shall not minish ought from your brickes of your daily taske.

20 ¶ And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh.

21 And they said vnto them; The LORD looke vpon you, and iudge, because you haue made our sauour † to bee abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his seruants, to put a sword in their hand to slay vs.

† Hebr. to stinke.

22 And Moses returned vnto the LORD, and sayd, Lord, wherefore hast thou so euill intreated this people? why is it that thou hast sent me.

23 For since I came to Pharaoh to speake in thy Name, he hath done euill to this people, neither hast thou † deliuered thy people at all.

CHAP. VI.

1 God renueth his promise by his Name IEHOVAH. 14 The genealogie of Reuben, 15 of Simeon, 16 of Leui, of whom came Moses and Aaron.

THen the LORD said vnto Moses, Now shalt thou see what I will doe to Pharaoh: for with a strong hand shall hee let them goe, and with a strong hand shall he driue them out of his land.

2 And God spake vnto Moses, and said vnto him, I am the LORD.

3 And I appeared vnto Abraham, vnto Isaac, and vnto Iacob, by the Name of God Almighty, but by my name IEHOVAH was I not knowen to them.

4 And I haue also established my Couenant with them, to giue them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers.

5 And I haue also heard the groning of the children of Israel, whom the Egyptians keepe in bondage: and I haue remembred my Couenant.

6 Wherefore say vnto the children of Israel, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from vnder the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage: and I will redeeme you with a stretched out arme, and with great iudgements.

7 And I will take you to mee for a people and I will be to you a God: and ye shall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out from vnder the burdens of the Egyptians.

8 And I will bring you in vnto the lande concerning the which I did † ſweare to giue it, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Iacob, and I will giue it you for an heritage, I am the LORD.

9 And Moſes ſpake ſo vnto the children of Iſrael: but they hearkened not vnto Moſes, for † anguiſh of ſpirit, and for cruell bondage.

10 And the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying,

11 Goe in, ſpeake vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, that hee let the children of Iſrael goe out of his land.

12 And Moſes ſpake before the LORD, ſaying, Behold, the children of Iſrael haue not hearkened vnto me, how then ſhal Pharaoh heare me, who am of vncircumciſed lips?

13 And the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes and vnto Aaron, & gaue them a charge vnto the children of Iſrael, and vnto Pharaoh King of Egypt, to bring the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt.

14 These be the heads of their fathers houſes: * The ſonnes of Reuben the firſt borne of Iſrael, Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi: theſe be the families of Reuben.

15 * And the ſonnes of Simeon: Iemuel, and Iamin, and Ohad, and Iachin, and Zohar, and Shaul the ſonne of a Canaanitiſh woman: theſe are the families of Simeon.

16 And theſe are the names of the * ſonnes of Leui, according to their generations: Gerſhon and Kohath and Merari: and the yeeres of the life of Leui, were an hundred, thirtie and ſeuen yeeres.

17 The ſonnes of Gerſhon: Libni and Shimi, according to their families.

18 And * the ſonnes of Kohath: Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Vzziel. And the yeeres of the life of Kohath, were an hundred thirtie and three yeeres.

19 And the ſonnes of Merari: Mahali and Mushi: theſe are the families of Leui, according to their generations.

20 And * Amram tooke him Iochebed his fathers ſiſter to wife, and ſhee bare him Aaron and Moſes: and the yeeres of the life of Amram were an hundred, and thirtie and ſeuen yeeres.

21 And the ſonnes of Izhar: Korah and Nepheg, and Zichri.

22 And the ſonnes of Vzziel: Miſhael, and Elzaphan, and Zithri.

23 And Aaron tooke him Eliſheba daughter of Amminadab ſiſter of Naaſhon to wife, and ſhe bare him Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

24 And the ſonnes of Korah, Aſſir, and Elkanah, and Abiaſaph: theſe are the families of the Korhites.

25 And Eleazar Aarons ſonne tooke him one of the daughters of Putiel to wife, and * ſhee bare him Phinehas: theſe are the heads of the fathers of the Leuites, according to their families. * Num. 25. 11.

26 These are that Aaron and Moſes, to whom the LORD ſaid, Bring out the children of Iſrael from the land of Egypt, according to their armies.

27 These are they which ſpake to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the children of Iſrael from Egypt: These are that Moſes and Aaron.

28 And it came to paſſe on the day when the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes in the land of Egypt, 29 That the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying, I am the LORD: ſpeake thou vnto Pharaoh king of Egypt, all that I ſay vnto thee.

30 And Moſes ſaid before the LORD, Behold, I am of vncircumciſed lips, and how ſhall Pharaoh hearken vnto mee?

CHAP. VII.

1 Moſes is encouraged to goe to Pharaoh. 7 His age. 8 His rod is turned into a Serpent. 11 The ſorcerers doe the like. 13 Pharaohs heart is hardened. 14 Gods meſſage to Pharaoh. 19 The riuer is turned into blood.

AND the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, See, I haue made thee a god to Pharaoh, and Aaron thy brother ſhalbe thy prophet.

2 Thou ſhalt ſpeake all that I command thee, and Aaron thy brother ſhall ſpeake vnto Pharaoh, that he ſend the children of Iſrael out of his land.

3 And I will harden Pharaohs heart, and multiply my ſignes and my wonders in the land of Egypt.

4 But Pharaoh ſhall not hearken vnto you, that I may lay my hand vpon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Iſrael, out of the land of Egypt, by great iudgements.

5 And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I ſtretch forth mine hand vpon Egypt, and bring out out the children of Israel from among them.

6 And Moses and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, so did they.

7 And Moses was fourescore yeres olde, and Aaron fourescore and three yeeres old, when they spake vnto Pharaoh.

8 ¶ And the LORD spake vnto Moses and vnto Aaron, saying:

9 When Pharaoh shall speake vnto you, saying, Shew a miracle for you: then thou shalt say vnto Aaron, Take thy rod and cast it before Pharaoh, and it shall become a serpent.

10 ¶ And Moses and Aaron went in vnto Pharaoh, and they did so as the Lord had commanded: and Aaron cast downe his rod before Pharaoh, and before his seruants, and it became a serpent.

11 Then Pharaoh also called the wise men and the sorcerers; now the Magicians of Egypt, they also did in like maner with their enchantments.

12 For they cast downe euery man his rod, and they became serpents: but Aarons rod swallowed vp their rods.

13 And hee hardened Pharaohs heart, that hee hearkened not vnto them, as the LORD had said.

14 ¶ And the LORD saide vnto Moses, Pharaohs heart is hardened: he refuseth to let the people goe.

15 Get thee vnto Pharaoh in the morning, loe, he goeth out vnto the water, And thou shalt stand by the riuers brinke, against hee come: and the rod which was turned to a serpent, shalt thou take in thine hand.

16 And thou shalt say vnto him, The LORD God of the Hebrewes hath sent me vnto thee, saying; Let my people goe, that they may serue mee in the wildernesse: and beholde, hitherto thou wouldest not heare.

17 Thus saith the LORD, In this thou shalt know that I am the LORD: behold, I will smite with the rod that is in my hand, vpon the waters which are in the riuer, and they shalbe turned to blood.

18 And the fish that is in the riuer shall die, and the riuer shall stincke, and the Egyptians shall loathe to drinke of the water of the riuer.

19 ¶ And the LORD spake vnto Moses, Say vnto Aaron, Take thy rod, & stretch out thine hand vpon the waters of Egypt, vpon their streames, vpon their riuers, and vpon their ponds, and vpon all their † pooles of water, that they may become blood, and that there may bee blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone. † Heb. Gathering of their waters.

20 And Moses and Aaron did so, as the LORD commaunded: and he *lift vp the rod and smote the waters that were in the riuer, in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his seruants: and all the *waters that were in the riuer, were turned to blood. * Chap. 17. 5. * Psal. 78. 44.

21 And the fish that was in the riuer died: and the riuer stunke, and the Egyptians could not drinke of the water of the riuer: and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

22 *And the Magicians of Egypt did so, with their enchantments: and Pharaohs heart was hardened, neither did he hearken vnto them, as the LORD had said. *Wil. 17.7.

23 And Pharaoh turned and went into his house, neither did hee set his heart to this also.

24 And all the Egyptians digged round about the riuer for water to drinke: for they could not drinke of the water of the riuer.

25 And seuen dayes were fulfilled after that the LORD had smitten the riuer.

CHAP. VIII.

1 Frogges are sent. 8 Pharaoh sueth to Moses, 12 and Moses by prayer remooueth them away. 16 The dust is turned into lyce, which the Magicians could not doe. 20 The swarmes of flies. 25 Pharaoh inclineth to let the people goe, 32 but yet is hardened.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, Goe vnto Pharaoh, and say vnto him; Thus sayeth the LORD, Let my people goe, that they may serue me.

2 And if thou refuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all thy borders with frogges.

3 And the riuer shall bring foorth frogges abundantly, which shall goe vp and come into thine house, and into thy bed-chamber, and vpon thy bed, and into the house of thy seruants, and vpon thy people, and into thine ouens, and into thy ‖ kneading troughes. ‖ Or, dough.

4 And the frogges shall come vp both on thee, and vpon thy people, and vpon all thy seruants.

5 ¶ And the LORD spake vnto Moses; Say vnto Aaron, Stretch foorth thine hand with thy rodde ouer the streames, ouer the riuers, and ouer the ponds, and cause frogges to come vp vpon the land of Egypt.

6 And Aaron stretched out his hand ouer the waters of Egypt, and the frogges came vp, and couered the land of Egypt.

*Wis.17.7. 7 *And the Magicians did so with their inchantments, and brought vp frogges vpon the land of Egypt.

8 ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moses, and Aaron, and said, Intreat the LORD, that hee may take away the frogges from me, and from my people: and I will let the people goe, that they may doe sacrifice vnto the LORD.

9 And Moses saide vnto Pharaoh, ‖ Glory ouer mee: ‖ When shall I entreat for thee, and for thy seruants, and for thy people † to destroy the frogges from thee, and thy houses, that they may remaine in the riuer onely?

‖ Or, haue this honour ouer me, &c ‖ Or against when. † Heb to cut off.

10 And hee said, ‖ To morrow. And hee saide, Bee it according to thy word: That thou mayest know that there is none like vnto the LORD our God.

11 And the frogges shall depart from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy seruants, and from thy people; they shall remaine in the riuer onely.

12 And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh, and Moses cryed vnto the LORD because of the frogs which he had brought against Pharaoh.

13 And the LORD did according to the word of Moses: and the frogges died out of the houses, out of the villages and out of the fields.

14 And they gathered them together vpon heapes, and the land stanke.

15 But when Pharaoh saw that there was respit, hee hardned his heart and hearkened not vnto them, as the LROD had said.

16 ¶ And the LORD saide vnto Moses, Say vnto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and smite the dust of the land, that it may become lice, throughout all the land of Egypt.

17 And they did so: for Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the earth, and it became lyce, in man and in beast: all the dust of the land became lyce throughout all the land of Egypt.

18 And the Magicians did so with their enchantments to bring foorth lice, but they could not: so there were lice vpon man and vpon beast.

19 Then the Magicians said vnto Pharaoh; This is the finger of God. And Pharaohs heart was hardned, and he hearkened not vnto them, as the LORD had said.

20 ¶ And the LORD saide vnto Moses, Rise vp early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh: loe, he commeth foorth to the water, and say vnto him; Thus saith the LORD, Let my people goe, that they may serue me.

21 Els, if thou wilt not let my people goe, behold, I will send ‖ swarmes of flies vpon thee, and vpon thy seruants, and vpon thy people, and into thy houses: and the houses of the Egyptians shall bee full of swarmes of flies, and also the ground whereon they are.

22 And I will seuer in that day the land of Gosben in which my people dwell, that no swarmes of flies shall bee there, to the end thou maiest know that I am the LORD in the middest of the earth.

23 And I will put † a diuision betweene my people and thy people: ‖ to morrow shall this signe be.

†Heb. a redemption. ‖ Or, by to morrow.

22 ¶ And the LORD sayd vnto Moses, Stretch foorth thine hand toward heauen, that there may bee haile in all the land of Egypt, vpon man and vpon beast, and vpon euery hearbe of the field, throughout the land of Egypt.

23 And Moses stretched foorth his rod toward heauen, and the LORD sent thunder and haile, and the fire ranne along vpon the ground, and the LORD rained haile vpon the land of Egypt.

24 So there was haile, and fire mingled with the haile, very grieuous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt, since it became a nation.

25 And the haile smote throughout all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast: and the haile smote euery hearbe of the fielde, and brake euery tree of the field.

26 Onely in the lande of Goshen where the children of Israel were, was there no haile.

27 ¶ And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and sayd vnto them, I haue sinned this time: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

28 Entreate the LORD, (for it is enough) that there be no more †mighty thunderings and haile, and I will let you goe, and ye shall stay no longer.

†Hebr. voyces of God.

29 And Moses said vnto him, Assoone as I am gone out of the citie, I will spread abroad my hands vnto the LORD, and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there bee any more haile: that thou mayest know how that the *earth is the LORDS.

30 But as for thee and thy seruants, I know that yee will not yet feare the LORD God.

31 And the flare, and the barley was smitten: for the barley was in the eare, and the flare was bolled:

32 But the wheate and the rye were not smitten: for they were †not growen vp.

†Heb. hidden: or, darke.

33 And Moses went out of the citie from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands vnto the LORD: and the thunders and haile ceased, and the raine was not powred vpon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh saw that the raine, and the haile and the thunders were ceased, hee sinned yet more, and hardned his heart, hee and his seruants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Israel goe, as the LORD had spoken †by Moses.

†Hebr. by the hand of Moses.

1 God threatneth to send locusts. 7 Pharaoh moued by his seruants, inclineth to let the Israelites goe. 12 The plague of the locusts. 16 Pharaoh sueth to Moses. 21 The plague of darkenesse. 24 Pharaoh sueth vnto Moses, 27 but yet is hardened.

AND the LORD said vnto Moses, Goe in vnto Pharaoh: for *I haue hardened his heart, and the heart of his seruants, that I might shew these my signes before him:

2 And that thou mayest tell in the eares of thy sonne, and of thy sonnes sonne, what things I haue wrought in Egypt, and my signes which I haue done amongst them, that ye may know how that I am the LORD.

3 And Moses and Aaron came in vnto Pharaoh, and said vnto him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrewes, How long wilt thou refuse to humble thy selfe before mee? Let my people goe, that they may serue me.

4 Els, if thou refuse to let my people goe, behold, to morrow will I bring the *locusts into thy coast;

*Wisd.16. 9.

5 And they shall couer the †face of the earth, that one cannot bee able to see the earth, and they shall eate the residue of that which is escaped, which remaineth vnto you from the haile, and shall eate euery tree, which groweth for you out of the field.

6 And they shall fill thy houses, and the houses of all thy seruants, and the houses of all the Egyptians, which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers haue seene, since the day that they were vpon the earth, vnto this day. And hee turned himselfe, and went out from Pharaoh.

7 And Pharaohs seruants said vnto him, How long shall this man bee a snare vnto vs? Let the men goe, that they may serue the LORD their God: Knowest thou not yet, that Egypt is destroyed?

8 And Moses and Aaron were brought againe vnto Pharaoh: and he said vnto them, Goe, serue the LORD your your God: but † who are they that ſhall goe?

9 And Moſes ſaid, We will goe with our yong, and with our olde, with our ſonnes and with our daughters, with our flockes and with our herdes will we goe: for we muſt hold a feaſt vnto the LORD.

10 And hee ſaid vnto them; Let the LORD bee ſo with you, as I will let you goe, and your little ones. Looke to it, for euill is before you.

11 Not ſo: goe now yee that are men, and ſerue the LORD, for that you did deſire: and they were driuen out from Pharaohs preſence.

12 ¶ And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand ouer the land of Egypt for the locuſts, that they may come vp vpon the land of Egypt, and eate euery herbe of the land, euen all that the haile hath left.

13 And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod ouer the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an Eaſt wind vpon the land all that day, and all that night: and when it was morning, the Eaſt wind brought the locuſts.

14 And the locuſts went vp ouer all the land of Egypt, and reſted in all the coaſts of Egypt: very grieuous were they: before them there were no ſuch locuſts as they, neither after them ſhall be ſuch.

15 For they couered the face of the whole earth, ſo that the land was darkned, and they did eate euery herbe of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the haile had left, and there remained not any greene thing in the trees, or in the herbes of the field, through all the land of Egypt.

† Heb. haſtened to call.

16 ¶ Then Pharaoh † called for Moſes and Aaron in haſte: and hee ſaid, I haue ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and againſt you.

17 Now therefore forgiue, I pray thee, my ſinne onely this once, and intreate the LORD your God, that hee may take away from mee this death onely.

18 And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD.

19 And the LORD turned a mightie ſtrong weſt winde, which tooke away the locuſts, and † caſt them into the red ſea: there remained not one locuſt in all the coaſts of Egypt.

20 But the LORD hardened Pharaohs heart, ſo that hee would not let the children of Iſrael goe.

21 ¶ And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand toward heauen, that there may bee darkeneſſe ouer the land of Egypt, † euen darkneſſe which may be felt.

† Hebr. that one may feele darkneſſe.

22 And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heauen: and there was a thicke darkeneſſe in all the land of Egypt three dayes.

* Wiſ. 18. 1.

24 ¶ And Pharaoh called vnto Moſes, and ſaid, Goe ye, ſerue the LORD: onely let your flockes and your herds bee ſtayed: let your little ones alſo goe with you.

25 And Moſes ſaid, Thou muſt giue † vs alſo ſacrifices, and burnt offerings, that we may ſacrifice vnto the LORD our God.

† Heb. into our hands.

26 Our cattell alſo ſhall goe with vs: there ſhall not an hoofe bee left behinde: for thereof muſt we take to ſerue the LORD our God: and wee know not with what wee muſt ſerue the LORD, vntill we come thither.

27 ¶ But the LORD hardened Pharaohs heart, and he would not let them goe.

28 And Pharaoh ſaid vnto him, Get thee from me, take heede to thy ſelfe: ſee my face no more: for in that day thou ſeeſt my face, thou ſhalt die.

29 And Moſes ſaid, Thou haſt ſpoken well, I will ſee thy face againe no more.

1 Gods meſſage to the Iſraelites to borrow iewels of their neighbours. 4 Moſes threatneth Pharaoh with the death of the firſt borne.

AND the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, Yet will I bring one plague more vpon Pharaoh, and vpon Egypt, afterwards hee will let you goe hence: when hee ſhall let you goe, he ſhall ſurely thruſt you out hence altogether.

5 And all the firſt borne in the land of Egypt ſhall die, from the firſt borne of Pharaoh, that ſitteth vpon his throne, euen vnto the firſt borne of the maide ſeruant that is behinde the mill, and all the firſt borne of beaſts.

6 And there ſhall bee a great crie throughout all the land of Egypt, ſuch as there was none like it, nor ſhall bee like it any more.

7 But againſt any of the children of Iſrael, ſhal not a dog moue his tongue, againſt man or beaſt: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference betweene the Egyptians and Iſrael.

8 And all theſe thy ſeruants ſhall come downe vnto mee, and bow downe themſelues vnto me, ſaying, Get thee out, and all the people that †follow thee; and after that I will goe out: and he went out from Pharaoh in †a great anger.

†Hebr. that is at thy feet. †Heb. heate of anger.

9 And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes, Pharaoh ſhall not hearken vnto you, that my wonders may bee multiplied in the land of Egypt.

10 And Moſes and Aaron did all theſe wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD hardened Pharaohs heart, ſo that hee would not let the children of Iſrael goe out of his land.

CHAP. XII.

1 The beginning of the yeere is changed. 3 The Paſſeouer is inſtituted. 11 The Rite of the Paſſeouer. 15 Vnleauened bread. 29 The firſt borne are ſlaine. 31 The Iſraelites are driuen out of the land. 37 They come to Succoth. 43 The ordinance of the Paſſeouer.

AND the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes and Aaron in the land of Egypt, ſaying,

2 This moneth ſhall be vnto you the beginning of moneths: it ſhall be the firſt moneth of the yeere to you.

3 Speake ye vnto all the Congregation of Iſrael, ſaying, In the tenth day of this moneth they ſhall take to them euery man a lambe, according to the houſe of their fathers, a ‖lambe for an houſe. ‖Or, kidde.

4 And if the houſhold be too little for the lambe, let him and his neighbour next vnto his houſe, take it according to the number of the ſoules: euery man according to his eating ſhall make your count for the lambe.

6 And ye ſhall keepe it vp vntill the fourteenth day of the ſame moneth: and the whole aſſembly of the Congregation of Iſrael ſhall kill it †in the euening. †Hebr. betweene the two euenings.

7 And they ſhall take of the blood, and ſtrike it on the two ſide poſtes, and on the vpper doore poſte, of the houſes wherein they ſhall eate it.

8 And they ſhal eate the fleſh in that night roſte with fire, and vnleauened bread, and with bitter herbes they ſhall eate it.

9 Eate not of it raw, nor ſodden at all with water, but roſte with fire: his head, with his legs, and with the purtenance thereof.

10 And yee ſhall let nothing of it remaine vntill the morning: and that which remaineth of it vntill the morning, ye ſhall burne with fire.

11 And thus ſhall yee eate it: with your loynes girded, your ſhooes on your feete, and your ſtaffe in your hand: and yee ſhall eate it in haſte: it is the LORDS Paſſeouer.

12 For I will paſſe through the land of Egypt this night, and will ſmite all the firſt borne in the land of Egypt, both man & beaſt, and againſt all the ‖gods of Egypt I will execute iudgement: I am the LORD. ‖Or, princes.

13 And the blood ſhall be to you for a token vpon the houſes where you are: and when I ſee the blood, I will paſſe ouer you, and the plague ſhall not bee vpon you †to deſtroy you, when I ſmite the land of Egypt. †Hebr. for a deſtruction.

14 And this day ſhall bee vnto you for a memoriall: and you ſhall keepe it a feaſt to the LORD, throughout your generations: you ſhall keepe it a feaſt by an ordinance for euer.

For

For whosoeuer eateth leauened bread, from the first day vntill the seuenth day, that soule shalbe cut off from Israel.

16 And in the first day there shalbe an holy conuocation, and in the seuenth day there shall bee an holy conuocation to you: no maner of worke shalbe done in them, saue that which euery †man must eate, that onely may bee done of you.

17 And yee shall obserue the feast of vnleauened bread: for in this selfe same day haue I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore shall yee obserue this day in your generations, by an ordinance for euer.

18 ¶ *In the first moneth, on the fourteenth day of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate vnleauened bread vntill the one and twentieth day of the moneth at euen.

19 Seuen dayes shall there bee no leauen found in your houses: for whosoeuer eateth that which is leauened, euen that soule shall be cut off from the congregation of Israel, whether he bee a stranger, or borne in the land.

20 Yee shall eate nothing leauened: in all your habitations shall yee eate vnleauened bread.

21 ¶ Then Moses called for all the Elders of Israel, and said vnto them, Draw out and take you a ‖lambe, according to your families, and kill the Passeouer.

22 *And ye shall take a bunch of hyssope, and dip it in the blood that is in the bason, and strike the lintel and the two side postes with the blood that is in the bason: and none of you shall goe out at the doore of his house, vntill the morning.

23 For the LORD will passe through to smite the Egyptians: and when hee seeth the blood vpon the lintel, and on the two side postes, the LORD will passe ouer the doore, and will not suffer the destroyer to come in vnto your houses to smite you.

24 And yee shall obserue this thing for an ordinance to thee, and to thy sonnes for euer.

25 And it shall come to passe when yee bee come to the land, which the LORD will giue you, according as he hath promised, that yee shall keepe this seruice.

26 *And it shall come to passe, when your children shall say vnto you, what meane you by this seruice?

27 That ye shall say, It is the sacrifice of the LORDS Passeouer, who passed ouer the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt, when hee smote the Egyptians, and deliuered our houses. And the people bowed the head, and worshipped.

28 And the children of Israel went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they.

29 ¶ *And it came to passe that at midnight the LORD smote all the first borne in the land of Egypt, *from the first borne of Pharaoh that sate on his throne, vnto the first borne of the captiue that was in the †dungeon, and all the first borne of cattell.

30 And Pharaoh rose vp in the night, hee and all his seruants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt: for there was not a house, where there was not one dead.

31 ¶ And hee called for Moses and Aaron by night, and saide, Rise vp, and get you forth from amongst my people, both you and the children of Israel: and goe, serue the LORD, as yee haue said.

32 Also take your flockes and your heards, as yee haue saide, and bee gone, and blesse me also.

33 And the Egyptians were vrgent vpon the people that they might send them out of the land in haste: for they said, We be all dead men.

34 And the people tooke their dough before it was leauened, their ‖kneading troughs being bound vp in their clothes vpon their shoulders.

35 And the children of Israel did according to the word of Moses: and they borrowed of the Egyptians, *iewels of siluer, and iewels of gold, and raiment.

36 And the LORD gaue the people fauour in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they lent vnto them such things as they required: and they spoyled the Egyptians.

37 ¶ And *the children of Israel iourneyed from Rameses to Succoth, about sixe hundred thousand on foot that were men, beside children.

38 And a †mixed multitude went vp also with them, and flockes and heards, euen very much cattell.

39 And they baked vnleauened cakes of the dough which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leauened: because 49 One law shall bee to him that is home-borne, and vnto the stranger that sojourneth among you.

50 Thus did all the children of Israel: as the LORD commanded Moses, and Aaron, so did they.

51 And it came to passe the selfe same day, that the LORD did bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt, by their armies.

CHAP. XIIII.

1 God inſtructeth the Iſraelites in their iourney. 5 Pharaoh purſueth after them. 10 The Iſraelites murmure. 13 Moſes comforteth them. 15 God inſtructeth Moſes 19 The cloud remoueth behind the campe. 21 The Iſraelites paſſe through the Red-ſea 23 which drowneth the Egyptians.

AND the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speake vnto the children of Iſrael, that they turne and encampe before* Pi-hahiroth, betweene Migdol and the ſea, ouer against Baal-zephon: before it ſhall ye encampe by the ſea.

3 For Pharaoh will ſay of the children of Iſrael, They are intangled in the land, the wilderneſſe hath ſhut them in.

4 And I will harden Pharaohs heart, that hee ſhall follow after them, and I will be honoured vpon Pharaoh, and vpon all his hoſte, That the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did ſo.

5 ¶ And it was told the king of Egypt, that the people fled: And the heart of Pharaoh and of his ſeruants was turned against the people, and they ſaid, why haue we done this, that we haue let Iſrael goe from ſeruing vs?

6 And hee made ready his charet, and tooke his people with him.

7 And he tooke ſixe hundred choſen charets, and all the charets of Egypt, and captaines ouer euery one of them.

8 And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh King of Egypt, and he purſued after the children of Iſrael: and the children of Iſrael went out with an high hand.

9 But the* Egyptians purſued after them (all the horſes and charets of Pharaoh, and his horſemen, and his army) and ouertooke them encamping by the ſea, beſide Pi-hahiroth before Baal-zephon.

10 ¶ And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Iſrael lift vp their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were ſore afraid: and the children of Iſrael cryed out vnto the LORD.

11 And they ſaide vnto Moſes, Becauſe there were no graues in Egypt, haſt thou taken vs away to die in the wilderneſſe? wherefore haſt thou dealt thus with vs, to cary vs forth out of Egypt?

12 *Is not this the word that wee did tell thee in Egypt ſaying, Let vs alone, that we may ſerue the Egyptians? For it had bene better for vs to ſerue the Egyptians, then that wee ſhould die in the wilderneſſe.

*Chap. 6. 9.

13 ¶ And Moses said vnto the people, Feare ye not, stand still, and see the saluation of the LORD, which he will shew to you to day: ‖ for the Egyptians whom ye haue seene to day, yee shall see them againe no more for euer:

‖ Or, For whereas you haue seene the Egyptians to day, &c.

14 The LORD shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace.

15 ¶ And the LORD said vnto Moses, wherefore cryest thou vnto me? Speake vnto the children of Israel, that they goe forward.

16 But lift thou vp thy rodde, and stretch out thine hand ouer the Sea, and diuide it: and the children of Israel shall goe on drie ground through the midst of the Sea.

17 And I, behold, I will harden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them: and I will get me honour vpon Pharaoh, and vpon all his hoste, vpon his charets, and vpon his horsemen.

18 And the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I haue gotten mee honour vpon Pharaoh, vpon his charets, and vpon his horsemen.

19 ¶ And the Angel of God which went before the campe of Israel, remoued and went behind them, and the pillar of the cloude went from before their face, and stood behind them.

20 And it came betweene the campe of the Egyptians, and the campe of Israel, and it was a cloud and darknesse to them, but it gaue light by night to these: so that the one came not neere the other all the night.

21 And Moses stretched out his hand ouer the Sea, and the LORD caused the Sea to goe backe by a strong East winde all that night, and made the Sea drie land, and the waters were * diuided.

* Iosh. 4. 23. psalme 114. 7. * Psa. 78. 13. 1. cor. 10. 1. heb. 11. 29.

22 And * the children of Israel went into the midst of the Sea vpon the drie ground, and the waters were a wall vnto them on their right hand, and on their left.

23 ¶ And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them, to the midst of the Sea, euen all Pharaohs horses, his charets and his horsemen.

24 And it came to passe, that in the morning watch the LORD looked vnto the hoste of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire, and of the cloude, and troubled the hoste of the Egyptians.

25 And tooke off their charet wheeles, ‖ that they draue them heauily: So that the Egyptians said, Let vs flee from the face of Israel: for the LORD fighteth for them, against the Egyptians.

‖ Or, made them to goe heauily.

26 ¶ And the LORD said vnto Moses, Stretch out thine hand ouer the Sea, that the waters may come againe vpon the Egyptians, vpon their charets, and vpon their horsemen.

27 And Moses stretched foorth his hand ouer the sea, and the sea returned to his strength when the morning appeared: and the Egyptians fled against it: and the Lord † ouerthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

28 And the waters returned, and couered the charets, and the horsemen, and all the hoste of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them: there remained not so much as * one of them.

* Psal. 106. 11.

29 But the children of Israel walked vpon drie land in the midst of the Sea, and the waters were a wall vnto them on their right hand, and on their left.

30 Thus the LORD saued Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Israel sawe the Egyptians dead vpon the sea shore.

31 And Israel saw that great † worke which the LORD did vpon the Egyptians: & the people feared the LORD, and beleeued the LORD, and his seruant Moses.

1 Moses song. 22 The people want water. 23 The waters at Marah are bitter. 25 A tree sweetneth them. 27 At Elim are twelue wels, and seuentie palme trees.

THen sang * Moses and the children of Israel this song vnto the LORD, and spake, saying, I will sing vnto the LORD: for he hath triumphed gloriously, the horse and his rider hath he throwen into the Sea.

* Wisd. 1. 20.

2 The LORD is my strength and song, and he is become my saluation: he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation, my fathers God, and I will exalt him.

3 The LORD is a man of warre: the LORD is his Name.

4 Pharaohs charets and his hoste hath he cast into the sea: his chosen captaines also are drowned in the red Sea.
5 The depths haue couered them: they sanke into the bottome as a stone.
6 Thy right hand, O LORD, is become glorious in power, thy right hand, O LORD, hath dashed in pieces the enemie.
7 And in the greatnesse of thine excellencie thou hast ouerthrowne them, that rose vp against thee, thou sentest forth thy wrath, which consumed them as stubble.
8 And with the blast of thy nostrils the waters were gathered together: the floods stood vpright as an heape, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the Sea.
9 The enemie sayd, I will pursue, I wil ouertake, I wil diuide thy spoile: my lust shall be satisfied vpon them: I will draw my sword, mine hand shall ‖ destroy them.
10 Thou didst blow with the wind, the sea couered them, they sanke as lead in the mightie waters.
11 Who is like vnto thee, O LORD, amongst the ‖ gods? who is like thee, glorious in holinesse, fearefull in prayses, doing wonders?
12 Thou stretchedst out thy right hand, the earth swallowed them.
13 Thou in thy mercie hast led forth the people which thou hast redeemed: thou hast guided them in thy strength vnto thy holy habitation.
14 *The people shall heare, and be afraid: sorrow shall take hold on the inhabitants of Palestina.
15 Then the dukes of Edom shal be amased: the mighty men of Moab trembling shall take hold vpon them: al the inhabitants of Canaan shall melt away.
16 *Feare and dread shall fall vpon them, by the greatnesse of thine arme they shall bee as still as a stone, till thy people passe ouer, O LORD, till the people passe ouer which thou hast purchased.
17 Thou shalt bring them in, and plant them in the mountaine of thine inheritance, in the place, O LORD, which thou hast made for thee to dwell in, in the Sanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands haue established.
18 The LORD shal reigne for euer and euer.
19 For the horse of Pharaoh went in with his charets and with his horsemen into the sea, and the LORD brought againe the waters of the Sea vpon them: But the children of Israel went on drie land in the mids of the sea.
20 ¶ And Miriam the prophetesse the sister of Aaron, tooke a timbrell in her hand, and all the women went out after her, with timbrels & with dances.
21 And Miriam answered them, Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriously: the horse and his rider hath he throwen into the Sea.
22 So Moses brought Israel from the red sea, and they went out into the wildernesse of Shur: and they went three dayes in the wildernesse, and found no water.
23 ¶ And when they came to Marah, they could not drinke of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called ‖ Marah.
24 And the people murmured against Moses, saying, what shall wee drinke?
25 And he cryed vnto the LORD: and the LORD shewed him a *tree, which when he had cast into the waters the waters were made sweete: there he made a statute & an ordinance, and there he proued them,
26 And said If thou wilt diligently hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt doe that which is right in his sight, and wilt giue eare to his Commandements, and keepe all his Statutes, I will put none of these diseases vpon thee, which I haue brought vpon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD that healeth thee.
27 ¶ *And they came to Elim: where were twelue wels of water, and threescore and ten palme trees, and they encamped there by the waters.

CHAP. XVI.

1 The Israelites come to Sin. 2 They murmure for want of bread. 4 God promiseth them bread from heauen. 11 Quailes are sent, 14 and Manna. 16 The ordering of Manna. 25 It was not to be found on the Sabbath. 32 An Omer of it is preserued.

AND they tooke their iourney from Elim, and all the Congregation of the children of Israel came vnto the wildernesse of Sin, which is betweene Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second moneth after their departing out of the land of Egypt.

2 And the whole Congregation of the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron in the wilderneſſe.

3 And the children of Israel ſayde vnto them, Would to God wee had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when wee ſate by the fleſh pots, and when wee did eate bread to the full: for ye haue brought vs forth into this wilderneſſe, to kill this whole aſſembly with hunger.

4 ¶ Then ſaid the LORD vnto Moſes, Behold, I will raine bread from heauen for you: and the people ſhall goe out, and gather † a certaine rate euery day, that I may proue them, whether they will walke in my Law, or no.

5 And it ſhall come to paſſe, that on the ſixt day, they ſhall prepare that which they bring in, and it ſhal be twice as much as they gather dayly.

6 And Moſes and Aaron ſayd vnto all the children of Israel, At euen, then yee ſhall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt.

7 And in the morning, then ye ſhall ſee the glory of the LORD, for that hee heareth your murmurings againſt the LORD: And what are wee, that yee murmure againſt vs?

8 And Moſes ſaid, This ſhalbe when the LORD ſhal giue you in the euening fleſh to eate, and in the morning bread to the full: for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmure againſt him; and what are wee? your murmurings are not againſt vs, but againſt the LORD.

9 ¶ And Moſes ſpake vnto Aaron, Say vnto all the Congregation of the children of Israel, Come neere before the LORD: for hee hath heard your murmurings.

10 And it came to paſſe as Aaron ſpake vnto the whole Congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderneſſe, and behold, the glory of the LORD * appeared in the cloude.

* Chap. 13. 21.

11 ¶ And the LORD ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying,

12 I haue heard the murmurings of the children of Israel: Speake vnto them, ſaying, At euen ye ſhall eate fleſh, and in the morning ye ſhalbe filled with bread: and ye ſhal know that I am the LORD your God.

13 And it came to paſſe, that at euen * the Quailes came vp, and couered the campe: and in the morning the dew lay round about the hoſte.

14 And when * the dewe that lay was gone vp, behold, vpon the face of the wilderneſſe there lay a ſmall round thing, as ſmall as the hoare froſt on the ground.

* Num. 11. 7. pſal. 78. 24. wiſ. 16. 20.

15 And when the children of Israel ſaw it, they ſayd one to another, ‖ It is Manna: for they wiſt not what it was. And Moſes ſaid vnto them, * This is the bread which the LORD hath giuen you to eate.

‖ Or, what is this? or it is a portion.
* Ioh. 6. 31. 1. Cor. 10. 3

16 ¶ This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded: gather of it euery man according to his eating: an Omer † for euery man, according to the number of your † perſons, take yee euery man for them which are in his tents.

† Heb. by the polle or head † Heb. ſoules

17 And the children of Israel did ſo, and gathered ſome more, ſome leſſe.

18 And when they did mete it with an Omer, * he that gathered much, had nothing ouer, and hee that gathered little, had no lacke: they gathered euery man according to his eating.

* 2. Cor. 8. 15.

19 And Moſes ſayde, Let no man leaue of it till the morning.

20 Notwithſtanding they hearkened not vnto Moſes, but ſome of them left of it vntill the morning, and it bred wormes, and ſtanke: and Moſes was wroth with them.

21 And they gathered it euery morning, euery man according to his eating: and when the Sunne waxed hot it melted.

22 ¶ And it came to paſſe that on the ſixt day they gathered twice as much bread, two Omers for one man: and all the rulers of the Congregation came and told Moſes.

23 And he ſaid vnto them, This is that which the LORD hath ſayd, To morrow is the reſt of the holy Sabbath vnto the LORD: bake that which you will bake, to day, and ſeethe that ye will ſeeth, and that which remaineth ouer, lay vp for you to be kept vntill the morning.

24 And they laide it vp till the morning, ning, as Moses bade: and it did not stinke, neither was there any worme therein.

25 And Moses saide, eate that to day, for to day is a Sabbath vnto the LORD: to day yee shall not finde it in the field.

26 Sixe dayes ye shall gather it, but on the seuenth day which is the Sabbath in it there shall be none.

27 ¶ And it came to passe, that there went out some of the people on the seuenth day for to gather and they found none.

28 And the LORD said vnto Moses, How long refuse yee to keepe my Commandements, and my Lawes?

29 See, for that the LORD hath giuen you the Sabbath, therefore hee giueth you on the sixt day the bread of two dayes: abide yee euery man in his place: let no man goe out of his place on the seuenth day.

30 So the people rested on the seuenth day.

31 And the house of Israel called the name thereof Manna: and it was like Coriander seed, white: and the taste of it was like wafers made with honie.

32 ¶ And Moses sayde, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth: Fill an Omer of it to bee kept for your generations, that they may see the bread wherewith I haue fed you in the wildernesse, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt.

33 And Moses sayd vnto Aaron, Take a pot, and put an Omer full of Manna therein and lay it vp before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.

34 As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron layde it vp before the Testimonie to be kept.

35 And the children of Israel did eat Manna forty yeeres, *vntill they came to a land inhabited: they did eate Manna, vntill they came vnto the borders of the land of Canaan.

1 The people murmure for water at Rephidim. 5 God sendeth him for water to the rocke in Horeb. 8 Amalek is ouercome by the holding vp of Moses hands. 15 Moses buildeth the Altar IEHOVAH Nissi.

AND all the Congregation of the children of Israel iourneyed from the wildernesse of Sin after their iourneys, according to the commandement of the LORD, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drinke.

2 Wherefore * the people did chide with Moses and said, Giue vs water that we may drinke. And Moses sayde vnto them, Why chide you with mee? wherefore doe ye tempt the LORD?

* Num. 20. 4.

3 And the people thirsted there for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore is this that thou hast brought vs vp out of Egypt, to kill vs and our children, and our cattell with thirst?

4 And Moses cried vnto the LORD, saying, What shall I doe vnto this people? they be almost ready to stone me.

5 And the LORD said vnto Moses, Goe on before the people, and take with thee of the Elders of Israel: and thy rod wherewith * thou smotest the riuer, take in thine hand, and goe.

* Chap 7. 20.

6 * Behold, I will stand before thee there, vpon the rocke in Horeb, and thou shalt smite the rocke, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drinke. And Moses did so, in the sight of the Elders of Israel.

¶ Trespaceoffringes. Synneoffringes, and peaceoffringes. The fat and the bloud may not be eaten.

The. vii. Chapter.

A THys is the lawe of the at trespaceoffrynge whych is most holy. In the place where thee burntoffrynge is kylled, thee trespaceoffrynge shalbe kylled also: and hys bloude shalbe sprynkled rounde aboute vpon the alter. And al the fatt therof shalbe offered: the rompe and the fatte that couered thee inwardes, and the two kydneys wyth the fatt that lyeth on them, and vpon the loynes, & the kalon the lyuer shalbe taken away wyth the kidneys: & the Priest shall burne them vpon thee altare, too be an offerynge vnto thee Lozde: this is a trespas offrynge.

All the males amonge thee pzeastes shall eate therof in the holy place, for it is most holy As the synneoffrynge is so is ỹ trespaceoffring, one law serueth for both: and it shall be thee Pzeastes that reconsyleth ther wyth. And the pzeast that offred a mans burnt offerynge, shall haue thee skinne of the burntoffring which he hath offered. And all thee meatoffrynges that are baken in the ouen, and all that is dzessed vpon the gredyren and in the frynge pan, shalbe the pzeastes that offreth them And al the meatofferynges that are mynsled wyth oyle or dzye, shall pertayne vnto all thee sonnes of Aaron, and one shall haue as moche as another. B Thys is the lawe of ỹ peaceoffringes which shalbe offred vnto ỹ lozd. Yf he offer to geue thankes, he shal bzing vnto his thãkeoffring swete cakes myngled w̃ oyle & swete wafers anoynted with oyle, & cakes mingled wyth oyle of fyne floure fryed, & he shall bzynge hys offerynge vpon cakes made of leuended bzed vnto the thanckoffryng of hys peaceoffringes, and of them al, he shall offer one to be an heueoffring vnto the Lozd, and it shal be the Pzeastes that sprynckleth the bloude of the peaceoffringes. And the flesh of thee thankoffrynge of hys peaceoffrynges shalbe eaten thee same daye that it is offred, and ther shal none of it be laide vp vntyl the mozning.

Yf it be a at vowe or a fre wyllofferyng that he bzyngeth, thee same daye ỹ he offreth it, shalbe eaten, and that which remayneth may be eaten on the mozowe: but as moch of the offered flesh as remayneth vnto thee thyrde daye shalbe burnte wyth fyre. For yf any of the flesh of thee peaceoffrynges be eaten in ỹ thyrde day, then shall he that offred it optayne no fauoute, nether shal it be rekened vnto him but shalbe an abomynacyõ, and the soule that eateth of it shal beare the syn therof. The flesh ỹ toucheth any vnclene thynge shal not be eatẽ, but burnt w̃ fyre: & all ỹ C be cleane in theyr flesche, mãye eate flesche. Yf any soule eate of the flesh of the peaceoffrynges that pertayne vnto the Lozde and hys vncleanesse yet vpõ him, the same soule shall perysshe from amõge his people: Moze ouer yf a soule touche any vn

cleane thinge, whether it be the vncleanesse of man or of any vncleane beast or any abhomynacion that is vncleane: & then eate of the flesshe of the peaceoffringes whych pertayne vnto the Lorde, that soule shall perysshe from hys people.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses: saying: speake vnto the childre of Israell & saye: Ye shal eate no maner fat ore, shepe or gootes: neuerthelater the fat of thee beast that dyeth alone & the fat of ỹ which is torne with wylde beastes, maye be occupyed in all maner vses: but ye shal in noo wyse eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth thee fatt of the beast of whych men bringe an offryng vnto the Lord, that soule that eateth it shall perysshe from hys people. Moreouer ye * shall eate no maner of bloude, whersoeuer ye dwell, whether it be of foule or of beast. Whatsoeuer soule it be that eateth any maner of bloud the same soule shall perysshe from hys people.

And the Lord talked wyth Moses saynge: speake vnto the childre of Israell & saye: he that offreth his peaceoffryng vnto the Lorde, shall bringe hys gyfte vnto the Lord of his peaceoffringes: his owne handes shall bring the offring of the lord euen the fat vpon the brest he shal bringe wyth the brest to waue it a waueoffrynge before the Lord. And the Priest shal burne the fat vpō the alter, and the brest shalbe Aarons and his sonnes. And the ryght shoulder they shal geue vnto the priest, to be an heueoffringe, of theyr peaceoffringes. And the same that offereth the bloud of the peaceoffringes & the fat, amōg the sonnes of Aarō shal haue the ryght shoulder vnto hys parte, for the wauebrest and the heueshoulder I haue takē of the childre of Israell, euen of theyr peaceoffringes, & haue geuē it vnto Aaron the Priest and vnto hys sonnes: to be a dutye for euer of the childre of Israel.

This is the anoyntyng of Aaron & of thee sacrifyces of thee Lorde, in the daye when they were offred to the Priestes vnto the Lorde, whych the Lord cōmaunded to be geuen them in the daye when he annoynted them, of the childre of Israell, and to be a duetye for euer amonge theyr generations. This is the lawe of burntoffringes: of meatoffringes, of synneoffringes, of trespaceoffringes, of fulloffringes, of peaceoffringes, whych thee Lord commaunded Moyses in the mount of Sinai, in the daye when he commaunded the childre of Israell to offer theyr offerynges vnto the Lorde in the wildernesse of Sinai.

¶ The anoyntyng and consecracion of Aaron and hys sonnes

The. viii. Chapter.

And the lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: take Aaron and hys sonnes wyth hym, & the vestiture & the anoynting oyle, and an ore for a synneoffering and two rammes & a basket of swete bread: & gether all thee comenitye together vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes And Moyses dyd as the Lorde commaūded hym, and the people gathered thē selues together vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes, And Moyses sayd vnto the people: this is the thynge which the Lord commaunded to doo.

And Moyses brought Aaron and hys sonnes & washed them with water, & putt vpon hym the albe & gyrded hym wyth a gyrdell, & put vpon him the tunicle, & put the Ephod theron, & gyrded hym with the broderd gyrdell of the Ephod, & bound it vnto hym therwyth. And he put the brestlappe theron, & put in the brestlappe, * Urim and Thumim. And he put the myter vpon hys head, & put vpon the myter euē vpon the forefront of it the goldē plate of the holye crowne, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And Moyses toke the anoynting oyle and anoynted the habitatiō & al that was therin, and sanctified them, and sprinkled therof vpō the alter seuē tymes, & annoynted the alter, & all hys vessels, & the lauer wyth hys fote, to sanctyfye them. And he poured of thee annoyntynge oyle vppon Aarons head, and anoynted hym to sanc-sanctifie hym. And he broughte. Aarons sonnes and put albes vpō them, and gyrded them wyth gyrdels, and put bonettes vpon their hedes: as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And the synne offringe was brought. C And Aaron and hys sonnes put theyr hāndes vpon the heed of the ore of the synne offringe. And when it was slayne, Moyses toke of the bloud, and put it vpō thee hornes of the altet roundc aboute wythe hys fynger, and puryfyed it, and poured the bloud vnto thee botome of thee alter and sanctyfyed it and reconsyled it. And he toke all the fatt that was vpon the inwardes, and the wall that was on the lyuer and the two kydneyes with their fat, and burned it vpon the altet. But the ore the hyde, hys flesh and his dong, he burnt with fyre wythout the hoste, as the Lorde commaunded Moses.

D And he brought the ram of the burnt offringe and Aaron and his sonnes putt theyr handes vpon thee head of thee ram and it was kylled. And Moses sprinkled the bloude vpon the alter rounde aboute, and cut thee ram in peces and burnt thee head peces & the fatt, & washed the inwardes and thee legges in watet, and burnt the ram euen white vpon the alter. That was a burntsacryfice of a swete sauoure, and an offrynge vnto thee Lorde, as thee lorde commaunded Moyses.

And he brought the other ram that was the fulloffrynge, and Aaron and his sonnes put theyr hāndes vpon thee head of the ram: and when it was slayne, Moses toke of the bloude of it and put it vpon thee typpe of Aarons ryghte eare, and vpon the thombe of hys ryght hand and vpō the great too of his ryght fote. E Thē were Aarons sonnes brought, and Moses put of ỹ bloud on ỹ tippe of the right eare of thē, and vpō thee thombe of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the greate tooes of theyr tyghte fete, and sprynckled thee bloud vpon the alter rounde aboute.

And he toke the fatt and thee rompe and al the fatt that was vpon the inwardes, and the wall of thee lyuer, and the .ii. kydneyes with theyr fatt and their ryght shoulder. And out of the basket of swete bread ỹ was before ỹ Lorde he toke one swete cake of oyled breede & one wafer, & put thē on the fat & vpon the ryght shoulder: & put altogether vpon Aarons hādes and vpon hys sonnes handes, & waued it a wauoffering before the Lord. And thē Moyses toke thē frō of theyr handes agayne, & burnte them vpon the alter, euen vpon the burntoffryng: These ar the fulloffringes of a swete sauoure & a sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses toke the brest and waued it a wauoffrynge before thee Lord, of the ram of the fulloffringes: and it was Moyses parte, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. F

And Moyses toke of the annoyntinge oyle and of the bloud which was vpō the alter, & sprinkled it vpō Aarō & vpon hys vestimētes & vpō hys sōnes & on theyr vestimentes wyth him, & sanctified Aaron & his vestures & his sonnes & hys sōnes vestures also. Thē Moses sayd vnto Aarō & his sonnes: boyle the flesche in the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, & there * eate it wyth the bread that is in the basket of fulloffringes, as the Lord cōmaunded, sayinge: Aaron and hys sonnes shall eate it and that whyche remaynyth of the flesche & of the bread, burne it wyth fyre G Exo xxix.

And se that ye departe not frō the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse seuen dayes longe vntyl the dayes of your fulloffringes be at an end. For, vii. dayes must youre handes be fylled, as they were tyts day euē so the Lord hath cōmaunded to do, to reconcyle you wyth all. See therfore that ye abyde in the doze of ỹ tabernacle of witnesse daye & nyght seuē dayes longe, & kepe the watche of the lorde that ye dye not: for so I am cōmaunded. ¶ The .ix. Chapter.

AND thee .viii. daye Moyses called Aarō & his sonnes & ỹ A eldets of Israel, & said vnto Aarō: take a calfe for a synne offring, & a ram for a burntoffringe: both without blemishe, & bringe thē before the lorde. And vnto the childre of Israell he spake sayinge: take ye an he goote for a synneoffering, and a calfe & a lambe

lambe both two of a yere olde, & wythout blemyshe for a burnt sacrifyce, & an ore & a ram for peaceoffrynges, to offer before the Lord, & a meatoffryng myngled with oyle, for to daye the Lord wyll appere vn
B to you. And they broughte that whyche Moyses cõmaunded vnto the tabernacle of wytnes, and all the people came & stode before the Lord. And Moyses sayde: this is the thynge whych the Lord cõmaũded that ye shuld do: and thẽ the glorye of the Lord shall appeare vnto you. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: goo vnto thy alter and offer thy synneoffryng, and make an attonemẽt for the and for the people, and then offer the offerynge of the people, and reconcyle them also, as the Lord commaũded Moyses.

And Aaron wẽt vnto the alter, & slewe the calfe that was his synneoffryng. And the sonnes of Aaron broughte the bloude vnto hym, and he dypte hys fynger in the bloud & put it vpõ the hornes of the alter, and poured the bloud vnto the botome of the alter. And the fatt & thee two kydneys wyth the kal of the lyuer of the synneoffering, he burnt vpõ the alter, as the lord cõmaũded Moses: but the flesche & the hyde, he burnt with fyre without the hoste. Afterward he slewe the burntoffringe, & Aarõs sonnes brought the bloud vnto hym,
C & he sprinkled it roũd about vpõ the alter And they brought the burntoffring vnto hym in peces & the head also, & he burnte it vppon the alter, and dyd wasshe the inwardes and the legges, and burnt thẽ also vpon the burntoffringe in the alter.

And then he brought the peoples offering & toke the gote that was the peoples synneoffringe, and slewe it & offered it for a synneoffrynge: as he dyd the fyrst. And then brought the burntoffrynge, & offred it as the maner was, & brought the meatoffrynge and fylled his hande therof, and burnt it vpon the alter, beside the burnte sacrifyce in the mornynge.

Thẽ he slewe the ore & the ram that were the peoples peaceofferinges, & Aarons sonnes brought the bloud vnto hym, & he sprinkled it vpon the alter rounde about, and toke the fat of the ore and of the ram the tõpe & the fat that coutereth the inwardes and the kydneys and the skall of thee lyuer: & put thẽ vpõ the brestes and burnt it vpon the alter: but the brestes and thee
D ryght shoulders Aaron waued before the Lord, as the Lord cõmaunded Moyses. And Aaron lyfte vp hys hande ouer thee people & blessed thẽ, & came downe frõ of frynge of synneoffrynges, burntoffrynges, and peaceoffringes. Thẽ Moyses & Aaron went into the tabernacle of witnes and came out agayne and blessed the people, and the glorye of the Lorde appeared vnto all the people. And there came a fyre out from before the Lord, and consumed vpõ the alter the burntoffring and the fat And al the people sawe it, and showted, & fell on theyr faces.

¶ Of beastes whych be cleane, and whych vncleane

The. xi. Chapter.

And ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses and Aarō saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye, these ar the beastes whyche ye shall eate among all the beastes that are on thee erth: what soeuer hath hoke and deuyded it in to two clawes & cheweth cud among the beastes that shal ye eat. Neuerthelesse, these shall ye not eate of them that chewe cud & haue hookes. Thee camel, for he cheweth cud but he dyuydeth not ỹ hooke into. ii. clawes therfore he shall be vncleane vnto you. And the conye for he cheweth the cud but deuydeth not the hooke in to two clawes, therfore he is vncleane to you. And thee hare, for he lykewise cheweth the cud, but deuydeth not the hooke in to two clawes, he is therfore vnclene to you. And ỹ swyne, for though he deuyde the hoffe in to. ii clawes, yet he cheweth not thee cud, and therfore is vnclene to you. Of theyr flesh se that ye eat not, & theyr carkasses se that ye touch not, for they ar vncleane to you.

These shall ye eate of all that are in the wāters: what soeuer hath fynnes and skales in thee waters, sees & ryuers, that shall ye eate. And all that haue not fynnes and skales in thee sees and ryuers of all that moue and lyue in the waters shal ye abhorre. Se that ye eate not of theyr flesshe, & also that ye abhorre theyr carkases: for al that haue no fynnes nor scales in the waters, shalbe abomynacyon vnto you. Thes are the foules whych ye shall abhorre and whych shall not be eaten, for they are an abhomynacyon. The egle, the goshauke, the cormoraunte, the kyete, the vultur and all hys kynd, & all kynd of rauens, ỹ estrich, ỹ nyghtcrowe ỹ cocow the sparowhauke, and all the kynde: the lytle oule, the storke, the great oule the backe, thee pellycane, the pye, the heron, thee iaye wythe thee kynde, thee lappewynge and the swalowe. And al foules that crepe and goo vpon all foure shalbe an abomynacyon vnto you.

Yet these maye eate of all the foules that moue & go vpon. iiii: fete euen those ỹ haue no knees aboue vpō theyr fete to lepe wyth all vpon the erth, euen these of them ye maye eate: the ‡arbe and all hys kynde: thee Selaam with al hys kynde the the Hargoll & all the kynde, the Hagab, & al his kynde. All other foules that moue & hauc.iiii.fete, shalbe abhompnacion vnto you. In soch ye shalbe vncleane, whosoeuer touche ỹ carkesse of thē shalbe vncleane vnto thee euen, and whosoeuer beareth the carkasse of thē, shal washe his clothes and so shalbe vncleane vntyll euen.

Amonge all maner beastes, that haue hookes & deuyde thē not in to two clawes or that chewe not the cud, shalbe vncleane vnto you: and all that touchethe thē shall
E be vncleane. And all that goeth vpon his handes among all maner beastes that go on all foure fete are vncleane vnto you: & as many as touche theyr carkasses shalbe vncleane vntyl the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of them, shall washe hys clothes and be vncleane vntyll thee euen, for soche are vncleane vnto you.

And these are also vncleane to you among the thynges that crepe vpō the erth the wesel, the mouse, the toode & al his kinde, the hedgehogge, stellio, the licerte, thee snayle and the moulerthese ar vncleane to you among al that moue, & al that touche them when they be dead, shal be vncleane vntyll the euen. And whatsoeuer any of ỹ dead carkasses of them fall vpon, shal be vncleane: whatsoeuer vessel of wood it be or raymēt, or skynne, or bagge, or what so euer thinge it be ỹ any worke is wrought wythall. And they shall be plunged in the water, and be vncleane vntyll the euen, & then they shalbe cleane agayne.

F Al maner of erthē vessel wher into any of them falleth is vncleane, wyth all that therin is: and *ye shal breake it. Al maner meate that is eaten, yf any soch water come vpon it, it shal be vncleane. And al maner drynke that is drōcke in al maner soch vessels shalbe vnclene. And whether it be ouen or kettell it shalbe broken. For they are vncleane & shalbe vncleane vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the fountaynes & welles and pondes of water, shall be cleane styll. But whosoeuer touchethe theyr carkasses, shall be vncleane.

Levi.vi.b,d, and,fv.

Yf the dead carkasse of any soch fal vpon anye sede vsed to sowe, it shall yet be cleane styll: but & yf any water be poured vpon thee sede and afterwarde the deade carkasse of them fall thereon, then it shalbe vncleane vnto you.

Yf any beast of whych ye may eate, dye, he that toucheth ỹ dead carkasse shall be vncleane vntyll the euē. And he that eateth of any soch dead carkasse, shal washe hys clothes and remayne vncleane vntyl the euen. And he also that beareth the carkesse of it, shall washe hys clothes, and be vncleane vntyll euen.

All that scrauleth vpon the earth, is G an abhompnacyon, and shall not be eaten And whatsoeuer goeth vpon the breaste, and whatsoeuer goeth vpon foure or mo fete amonge all that scrauleth vpon thee earth, of that se ye eate not: for they are abhompnable. Make not your soules abhompnable wyth nothinge that crepeth, neyther make your soules vncleane wyth thē that ye shbulde be defyled thereby. For I am the Lorde youre God, *be sanctyfyed therfore that ye may be holy, for I am holy: and defyle not youre soules wyth any maner thynge that crepeth vpon the earth For I am the Lord that brought you out of the lande of Egypte to be youre God: be holy therfore, for I am holy.

Leui. xix. & i. Petr. i. d.

This is the lawe of beast and foule & of all māner thynge that lyueth and moueth in the water and of all thynges that crepe vpon the earth, that ye may put difference betwene vncleane & cleane, and betwene thee beastes that are eaten and thee beastes that are not eaten.

The Notes.

Arbe, Sclaam, Hargol, Hagab are kyndes of beastes that crepe or scraule on the groūde which ỹ Hebrues thē selues do not nowe a dayes knowe.

The lawe how wemen shulde be purged after theyr delyueraunce.

AND the LORD spake vnto A
Moyses, and sayde: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye: when a woma hath conceaued, and hathe borne a man chylde, she shall be vncleane seuen dayes: euen in lyke maner as when she is putte a parte in tyme of her a natural disease. And in the eyghte daye the flesshe of the chyldes foreskynne shall be cutt awaye. And she shall continue in the bloud of her purifyenge. xxxiii. dayes, she shall touche noo halowed thynge nor come into the sanctuarye, vntyll thee tyme of her purifyenge be oute. Yf she beare a B

C The Prestes are appoynted to iudge who are lepers.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses & vnto Aarõ saying: whẽ ther appeareth a at rysing in any mãs flesh ether a scabbe or a glistring whyte: as thoughe the plage of leprosye were in the skyn of hys flesh, then let hym be broughte vnto Aaron thee Preste or vnto one of hys sonnes the Prestes, and let the prest loke on the sore that is in the skyn of his flesh Yf the hayre in thee sore be tourned vnto whyte, & the sore seme also to be lower thẽ the skynne of hys flesh, then it is surely a lepros̃ye, and let the Preist loke on hym, & iudge hym vncleane.

Yf ther be but a whyte plecke in ẏ skin of his flesh, and seme not to be lower thẽ the other skinne nor ẏ hayre therof is turned vnto whyte: then let the Preist shutte hym vp seuẽ dayes. And let the Preist loke vpon hym the. vii. day: yf the sore seme to hym to abyde styl & to go no further in the skynne, then let the prest shut hym vp yet. vii. dayes moo. And let the prest loke on hym agayne the. vii. day. Thẽ yf ẏ sore be wared blackesshe, & is not growen abroade in the skynne, lett the Preist make hym cleane, for it is but a skyrf. And lette hym washe his clothes, & then he is cleane But & yf the scabbe growe in the skyn after that he is sene of the Preist agayn. Yf the Preist se that the scabbe be growen abrode in the skynne, let him make hym vncleane: for it is surely a leprosye.

Yf the plage of leprosye be in a mã, let hym be brought vnto the Preist, & lett the Preist se him. Yf the rysing apeare whyte in the skynne, & haue also made the hayre whyte, & there be rawe flesshe in the sore also: then it is an olde leprosye in the skinne of hys flesshe. And ẏ preist shal iudge hym vncleane, and shal not shutte hym vp for he is vncleane.

B Yf a leprosye breake out in the skynne and couer all the skynne from the head to the fote ouer all whersoeuer the Preist loketh, thẽ let the Preist loke vpõ him. Yf ẏ leprosye haue bt couered all hys flesshe, let him iudge the disease clene: for in asmoch as he is all together whyte he is therefore cleane. But & yf ther be rawe flesh on him whẽ he is sene, thẽ he shalbe vnclene. Therfore whẽ the Preist seeth the rawe flesshe, let him iudge him vnclene. For in asmoch as his flesshe is rawe, he is vncleane & it is surelye a true leprosye. But & yf the rawe flesshe depart agayne & chaũge vnto white then let him come to the preist, & let ẏ preste se him: Yf the soore be chaũged vnto whyte, let the Preist iudge the disease cleane, & then he is cleane.

C When there is a byle in thee skynne of any mans flesshe, and is healed & after inẏ place of the byle ther appeare a whyte rysyng ether a shyning whyte somwhat readyshe, let him be sene of the preist. Yf whẽ the Preist seyth him it appeare lower thã the other skynne & ẏ hayre therof be chaũged vnto whyte, let the Preiste iudge him vncleane: for it is a verye leprosye, that is broken out in the place of the byle. But & yf (when the Preist loketh on it) ther be no whyte hayres therin nether the scabbe lower thẽ the other skynne, and be somwhat blackesh, then the Preist shall shutte hym aparte seuen dayes. Yf it spreade abrode in the meane ceason, then let the preist iudge hym vncleane: for it is a leprosye. But and yf the glystrynge whyte abyde styl in one place and go no further, then it is but the prynte of the byle, and the Preist shall iudge hym cleane.

D When the skynne of any mãs flesshe is burnt

burnte wythe fyre that it be rawe & there apere in thee burnyng a glystryng whyte ỹ is somwhat redyssh or altogether whyte let the Preaste loke vpon it. If the hayre in that bryghtnes be chaunged to whyte, and it also appeare lower then thee other skynne, then it is a lepprosye that is brokē out of the place of the burnyng. And thee Preast shal iudge hym vncleane, for it is a leprosye. But and yf (when the Preaste loketh on it) he se that there is no whyte hayre in the bryghtenes, and that it is no lower then the other skynne, and that it is also blackesh, then let the preast shut him vp seuen dayes. And yf (when the Preast loketh on him ỹ seuenth daye) it be growne abrode in the skyn, let hym iudge hym vncleane: for it is a leprosye. But and yf that bryghtnesse abyde still in one place & go no further in the skynne & be blackesh then it is but a rysing in the place of thee burnyng, and the Preast shall make hym cleane: for it is but the prynte of the burnyng only.

¶ When ether man or woman hath a breakyng out vpon the heed or the beerd, let the preast se it. And if it appeare lower than thee other skynne, and ther be therin golden hayres & thyn, let the Preaste iudge him vncleane, for it is a breakyng out of leprosye vpon thee heed or bearde. If (when the Preast loketh on the breakyng out) he se that it is no lower then the other skynne and that there are blacke hayres therin, let hym shut hym vp seuen dayes. And let the Preast loke on the dysease the vii. daye: & yf ỹ breakyng out be gone no further nether be any goldē hayres therin nether thee scabe be lower then thee other skynne, thē let him be shauē, but lett him not shaue ỹ scabe: & lett ỹ prest shut hym vp. vii, daies mo. And let ỹ prest loke on the breakyng out the. vii. day agayn: Yf thee breakyng out be gone no further in the skynne nor more lower then the other skinne, then let the prest iudge him cleane and let hym washe hys clothes, and then he is clene. Yf the brekyng out growe in skynne after that he is once iudged clene let thee Preast see hym. Yf it be growne abrode in dede in the skynne, let thē priest seke no further for any goldē hayres, for ¶ he is vncleane. But and yf he se that thee scabbe stande styll, & that there is blacke hayre growen vp therin, then thee scabbe is healed and he is cleane: and the Preste shall iudge hym cleane. Yf ther be found in the skynne of thee flesshe of man or woman a glysterynge whyte, let the Priest se it. Yf there appeare in theyr flesshe a glysterynge whyte somwhat blackeshe, then it is but frekels growen vp in the skynne and he is clean.

Yf a mans hayre fall of hys head, thē he is headbouldc and cleane. Yf hys hayre fal before in his forehead, thē he is fore headbalde and cleane. Yf there be in the baulde head or baulde forehead a redysh whyte scabbe, thē ther is leprosye forronge vp in his baulde head or baulde forehead And let the prest se it: and yf the tysynge of the sore be reddysh whyte in hys bauld head or forehead after thee maner of a leprosye in the skynne of the flesshe, thē he is a lepet & vncleane: and the Prest shal iudge hym vncleane, for ỹ plage of hys head And the leper in whom the plage is, shall ¶ haue hys clothes rente and hys head bare and his mouth inoffeld, and shalbe called vncleane. And as longe as the dysease lasteth vpon hym, he shalbe vncleane: for he is vncleane, and shall therfore dwell alone, and euen wythout the hooste shall hys habytacyon be.

¶ When the plage of leprosye is in a cloth: whether it be lynē or wollē, ye & whether it be in the warpe or wolfe of the lynē or of the wollen: ether in a skynne or anye thinge made of skynne, yf thee dysease be pale or somwhat redysh in ỹ cloth or skyn whether it be in the warpe or wolfe or any thynge that is made of skynne, then it is a very leprosye, & muste be shewed vnto the prieste. And whē the priest seeth the plage, let hym shut it vp. vii. dayes, & let hym loke on the plage the. vii. daye. Yf it be increased in the cloth: whether it be in ỹ warpe or wolfe or in a skynne or in any thing that is made of skynne, then the plage is a freatynge leprosye, and it is vncleane: & that clothe shalbe burnte, eyther warpe or wolfe, whether it be wollen or lynē or any thynge that is made of skynne where in ỹ plage is, for it is a freatyng leprosye, and shalbe burnt in the fyre.

or wolfe or whatſoeuer thynge of ſkynne it be, then let the prieſt commaunde the to waſche the thinge wherin the plage is, and let him ſhut it vp. vii. dayes moo. And let the prieſte loke on it agayne after that the plage is waſched. Yf the plage haue not chaunged hys facion thoughe it be ſpred no further abrode, it is yet vncleane. And ſe that ye burne it in the fyre, for it is freat inward, whether in parte or in al together But and yf the prieſt ſe, that it is somwhat blackyſhe after that it is waſſhed, let hym rent it out of the clothe, or out of the ſkinne or out of the warpe or wolfe. But and yf it appeare anymore in the cloth ether in the warpe or in the wolfe or in any thinge made of ſkinne, the it is a waringe plage. And ſe that ye burne that wyth fyre, wher in the plage is. Moreouer the clothe ether warpe or wolfe or whatſocuer thynge of ſkynne it be, which thou haſt waſhed and the plage be departed from it, ſhalbe waſ ſhed once agayn: & then it is cleane. Thys is the law of ꝑ plage of leproſie in a cloth whether it be wollē or linē: eyther whether it be in the warpe or wolfe, or in any thing made of ſkynnes, to iudge it cleane or vncleane.

Then let the Preast offer the ſynneoffryng and make an atonement for hym that is cleſed for his vnclenneſſe. And the let the burntoffryng be ſlayn, and let the preſt put both the burntoffryng & meate offringe vpon the alter: and make an attonement for him and then he ſhalbe cleane. If he be poore and can not gette ſo moch, then let hym bryng one lambe for a treſpaceoffryng to waue it and to make an attonement for hym, and a tenth deale of fyne floure myngled with oyle for a meat offryng, and a logge of oyle, and two turtyll doues or two younge pygeons whyche he is able to gett, and lette the one be a ſynne offryng & the other a burntoffring. And let hym bryng them the. viii. day for D hys clenſyng vnto the Preſt to thee doze of the tabernacle of wytneſſe before thee Lorde.

And let the Pryeſte take thee lambe that is the treſpaceoffryng and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the Lorde. And when thee lambe of the treſpaceoffryng is kylleth, the Pryeſt ſhall take of the bloud of the treſpace offring, and put it vpon the typpe of hys ryghte eare that is cleanſed, and vpon thee thombe of hys ryght hand, and vpon thee greate too of his right fote. And ỹ preſt ſhal poure of ỹ oyle in hys ryght hand, and ſhal ſprynkle wt hys fynger of the oyle ỹ is in hys left hand ſeuen tymes before the Lorde.

And the Prieſt ſhal put on the oyle ỹ is in hys hãd vpõ the typpe of the right eare of him ỹ is cleſed, and vpõ the thom be of hys ryght hand, and vpõ the great too of his right fote: euẽ in ỹ place where the bloud of the treſpaceoffryng was put And the reſt of the oile that is in his hand he ſhal poure vpon the head of him that is clenſed: to make an attonemẽt for him before the Lorde. And he ſhall offer one of the turtyll doues or of the younge pygeons, ſoche as he can gett: the one for a ſynneoffryng and the other for a burnteoffryng vpon the alter. And ſo ſhall thee Pryeſt make an atonemẽt for him ỹ is cleſed before the Lorde. Thys is thee lawe of hym that hathe the plage of leproſye whoſe hand is not able to gett that whych pertayneth to hys clenſynge.

And the Lord ſpake vnto Moſes and E Aaron ſaynge: when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaã whych I geue you to poſſeſſe: yf I put the plage of leproſie in any houſe of the lãd of your poſſeſſiõ, let hym that oweth the houſe go & tel the preſt ſaynge: me thinke that ther is as it were a leproſye in the houſe. And the Preſt ſhal cõmaunde them to ryd all thynge out of the houſe, before the Prieſt go in to ſe the plage: that he make not all that is in the houſe vncleane, and then the prieſt ſhall go in and ſe the houſe.

Yf the preſt ſe ỹ the plage is in ỹ walles of the houſe, & that ther be holowe ſtrakes pale or redde which ſeme to be lower then the other partes of ỹ wall, thẽ let the preſt gõ out at the houſe dores, and ſhut vp the houſe for. vii. dayes. And let the prieſt co- F me agayne the ſeuenth day & ſe it: yf ỹ plage be increaſed in the walles of the houſe; let the Preſt cõmaunde thẽ to take awaye the ſtones in whych the plage is, & lett thẽ caſt thẽ in a foule place wythout the cytye and ſcrape the houſe within round about and poure out the duſt wythout the cytye in a foule place. And let thẽ take other ſtones, & putt them in the places of thoſe ſtones, and other morter, & plaſter the houſe with all. Yf now the plage come agayn & breake out in the houſe, after that they haue taken away the ſtones and ſcraped the houſe, & after that the houſe is playſtered a new: let the Prieſt come and ſe it. And yf then he perceaue that the plage hath eatẽ further in the houſe, then it is a freatinge leproſye that is in the houſe, and it is vncleane. Then they ſhall breake downe the houſe: both ſtones: tymber and al the morter of the houſe, & carye it oute of the cytye vnto a foule place. Moreouer he ỹ goeth into the houſe al the whyle that it is ſhutt vp, ſhalbe vncleane vntyll nyght. And he that ſlepeth in thee houſe ſhall waſhe hys clothes, and he alſo that eateth in the houſe ſhall waſhe hys clothes.

But and yf the Prieſte come & ſee that G ỹ plage hath ſpred no further in ỹ houſe after that it is newe playſtered, thẽ let him make it cleane, for thee plage is healed. And let hym take to clenſe the houſe with all:ii. byrdes,cedar wood,& purple clothe and yſope. And let him kyl one of the byrdes in an erthē veſſel with running water & take ỹ cedar wodd,the yſope,the purple, & the lyuing byrde,& dyppe thē in ỹ bloud of the ſlayne byrde & in the running water & ſprynkle vpon the houſe ſeuen tymes, & clenſe the houſe wyth the bloud of the byrde,& wyth ỹ running water,& with the lyuing byrd,& with the cedar wood,and the yſope,& the purple cloth. And he ſhal let ỹ lyuinge byrd flee out of the towne into the wyloe feldes,& ſo make an attonemēt for the houſe,and it ſhalbe cleane. This is the lawe of al maner plage of lepro ſye & breakynge out, & of the lepro ſye of clothe and houſe:and of ryſynges,ſcabbes and glyſtrynge whyte,to teache when a thynge is vncleane or cleane. Thys is the lawe of lepro ſye.

C And the Lord spake vnto Moses say=inge: speake vnto Aarō and his sonnes & vnto al the chyldren of Israel & say vnto thē, whatsoeuer he be of the house of Israel or straūger in Israel that wyl offer hys offryng: whatsoeuer vowe or frewyllosse=ringe it be which they wyll offer vnto thee Lord for a burntoffering to reconcyle thē selues, it muste be a male without blemysh of the oxen, shepe or gootes, let them offer nothynge that is deformed for they shall gett no fauoure therwyth.

Yf a mā wyll offer a peaceoffring vn=to the Lord & separate a vowe or a frewil offryng of the oxen or the flocke, it muste be wythout deformyte, that it maye be ac=cepted. Ther may be no blemyshe therein: whether it be blinde, broken, wounded, or haue a wen, or be maunge or scabbed, se ye offer no soche vnto the Lorde, nor putt an offeryng of any soche vpon thee alter vnto the Lorde.

D An oxe or a shepe that hath any mēbre out of proporcion, mayst thou offer for a frewyllosfring: but in a vowe it shall not be accepted. Thou shalt not offer vnto the Lorde that which is broosed broken, pluc ked out or cutt awaye, neyther shalt make any soch in your lande, nether of a straun gers hand shal ye offer an offryng to you re God of any soch. For they marre all in that they haue deformites in thē, & therfo re cannot be accepted for you. And ỹ lord spake vnto Moyses saying: whē an oxe, a shepe or a gote is brought forth, it shalbe seuen dayes vnder the dāme. And frō the viii. daye forthe, it shalbe accepted vnto a gyfte in the sacrifice of the lord. And whe ther it be oxe or shepe, ye shall not kyll it, & her younge both in one daye.

When ye wyll offer a ‡thankcoffertin ge vnto the Lorde, ye shall so offer it that ye maye be accepted. And the same daye it muste be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntyl the morowe. For I am the lord kepe now my commaundemētes & do thē for I am the Lord. And polute not my ho ly name, that I maye be halowed amonge the chyldren of Israel. Sabbothe vnto the Lorde. Sixe yeres ỹ shalte sowe thy felde, and syxe yere thou shalte cut thy vynes & gether in thy frutes. But the seuenth yere shall be a Sabboth of rest vnto the lande. The Lordes Sabboth it shalbe and thou shalt nether sowe thy felde nor cut thy vynes.

The corne that groweth by it selfe thou shalt not repe, nether gether the grapes ỹ growe without thy dressynge: but it shalbe a Sabboth of rest vnto the land. Nevertheless the Sabboth of the lande shall be meate for you: euen for the and thi seruaunte and for thy mayde and for thy hyred seruaunte & for ỹ straunger that dwelleth wyth the: and for thy catell and for ỹ beastes that are in thy lande, shall all the B encrease therof be meate. Then nombre seuē wekes of yeres, that is seuen tymes seuē yere: and the space of the seuē wekes of yeres wyll be vnto the. xlix. yere. And then thou shalte make an horne blowe: euen in the tenth daye of the seuenth moneth whych is the daye of attonemēt. And then shall ye make the horne blowe, euen thorowe out all youre land. And ye shall halowe the fyftieth yere, & proclayme lyberte thorowe out the lande vnto all the inhabyters therof. It shalbe a yere of ỹ iubelye vnto you & ye shall retourne: euery man vnto hys possessiō, & euery man vnto hys kynred agayne. A yere of iubelye shal ỹ fyftieth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe nether repe the corne that groweth by it selfe, nor gether the grapes that growe wythout thy laboure. For it is a yere of iubelie and shalbe holy vnto you: how be it yet ye shall eate of the encrease of the felde. And in thys yere of iubely ye shal retourne, euery man vnto hys possessyon agayne.

If ye shall saye, what shall we eate the seuenth yere in as moche as we shall not sowe nor gethar in oure encrease. I wyll sende my blessynge vpon you in the syxte yere, and it shal bryng forth frute for thre yeres: and ye shall sowe the eyghte yere & D eate of olde fruyte vntyll thee. ix. yere. & euen vntyll her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde stoare. Wherfore the lande shall not be solde for euer, because that the lāde is myne, & ye but straungers and sotourners wyth me: and ye shall thorowe oute all the lande of youre possession, lette the lande go home fre agayne.

*When thy brother is waxed poore & Ruth. iiii. a hath solde away of hys possession: yf any of hys kyn come to redeme it, he shall bye oute ỹ whych hys brother solde. And though he haue no man to redeme it for hym, yet yf his hand can get sufficient to bye it out agayne, thē let him counte how longe it hath bē solde, and delyuer the rest vnto hym to whom he sold it, & so he shal returne vnto hys possessyon agayne. But and yf hys hande can not gett sufficient to restore it too hym agayne, then that whyche is solde shall remayne in the hand of hym that hathe boughte it, vntyll the iubelye: and in the yeare of Jubelye it shall come oute, and he shall retourne vnto hys possessyon agayne.

Yf a mā sell a dwelling house in a walled cytye, he may bye it out agayn any tyme wythin a hole yere after it is solde: & ỹ shalbe the space in which he maye redeme it agayne. But & yf it be not bought oute E agayne within the space of a ful yere, thē ỹ house in ỹ walled citie shalbe stablished for euer vnto him that bought it & to hys successours after hym, & shall not go oute in the yeare of iubelye. But the houses in vyllages which haue no walles round aboute them, shalbe counted lyke vnto the feldes of the countrey, & may be boughte out againe at any season, and shal go out free in the yere of iebulye.

M.iii.

The Prologe vpon the fourth Boke of Moyses/called Numeri.

IN the second & thyrde boke they receaued the lawe. And in thys.iiii.they beginne to worke and to practyse. Of whyche practysynge ye see manye good ensamples of vnbeleue & what free wyll dothe, when she taketh in hand to kepe the lawe of her owne power wythoute helpe of fayth in the promyses of God: howe she leaueth her maysters carkesses by thee waye in the wildernesse and bringeth them not in the lande of rest. Why could they not enter in? Because of theyr vnbeleue, Hebre.iii. For had they beleued, so had they bene vnder grace, and theyr olde synnes had bene forgeuē thē, and power shulde haue ben geuen them to haue fulfylleth the lawe thencefoorth and they shuld haue bene kept from all temptations that had bene to stronge for them. For it is wrytten Johan.i. He gaue them power to be the sonnes of God, thorowe beleuinge in hys name. Nowe to be the sonne of God is to loue God and hys commaundementes & to walke in his waye after the ensample of hys sonne Christ. But these people toke vppon them to worke wythout fayth as thou seest in the.xiiii.of thys boke, where they wolde fyght and also dyd, wythout the worde of promyse: euen when they were warned that they shulde not. And in the.xvi.agayne they wolde please god wyth theyr holy faythlesse workes (for where gods worde is not ther can be no fayth) but the fyre of god cōsumed theyr holy workes, as it dyd Nadab and Abihu, Leuit.x. And from these vnbelcuers turne thyne eyes vnto the phareseyes whych before the commynge of christ in hys flesh, had layde the foundacion of freewyll after the same ensample, Whereon they bylte holye workes after theyr owne ymagynation wythout fayth of the worde, so feruently that for the greate zeale of them they slewe the kynge of all holy workes and the Lorde of free wyll whych onely thorowe hys grace maketh the wyll free and lowseth her from bondage of synne, and geueth her loue and lust vnto the lawes of god, and power too fulfyll them. And so thorowe theyr holye workes done by the power of freewyll, they exclude them selues out of the holye reste of forgeuenesse of synnes by faythe in thee bloude of Christ.

And then loke on oure ypocrites whych in lyke maner folowing the doctryne of Aristotle and other Hethen paganes, haue agaynst all the scripture sette vpp frewyll agayne, vnto whose power they ascrybe the keppynge of the commaundemētes of god For they haue sett vp freewyll powertye of another man, then any is commaunded of god. And the chastite of matrimony vtterly defyed, they haue set vp another wylfull chastite not requyred of God, which they swere, bowe & profesle to geue god, whether he wyll geue it them or no, and compell all theyr disciples ther vnto, sayinge that it is in the power of euery mans frewyl to obserue it, contrarye to Christe, and hys Apostle Paule.

And the obedience of God and man excluded, they haue vowed another wilfull obedience condempned of all the scripture whych they wyll yet geue God whether he wyll or wyll not.

And what is become of theyr wylful powertie: hath it not robbed ỹ whole worlde and brought al vnder thē: Can ther be ether kynge or Emperoure or of whatsoeuer degree it be, except he wyll hold of them & be sworne vnto them to be theyr seruaunte, to go and come at theyr lust and to defend theyr quarels be they false or true? Theyr wylfull powertye hath all ready eaten vppe the whole worlde and is yet full gredyar then euer it was in so moche that ten worldes moo were not ynoughe too satisfye the honger thereof.

Moreouer besydes dayly corruptinge of other mens wyues and open whoredome, vnto what abominacions to fylthye to be spoken of hath theyr voluntarie chastite broughte them:

And as for theyr wylful obedience what is it but the disobedīce & the diffiaūce both of all the lawes of god & mā: in so moch that yf any prince begine to execute any lawe of mā vpō thē, they curse him vnto the botom of hell, & proclayme hym no rygh kinge & that his Lordes ought no lenger to obeye hym, and interdite hys comen people as they were Hethē Turkes of Saracenes. And yf any man preache them Gods lawe, hym they make an heretyke, and burne hym to ashes. And in steade of Goddes lawe and mans, they haue sett vp one of theyr owne ymagynacyon whych they observe wyth dispensations.

And yet in these workes they haue so greate confidence that they not onely trust to be saued ther by, and to be hyer in heauen then they that be saued thorowe Christ: but also promesse to all other forgeuenesse of theyr synnes thorowe the merites of the same. Wherein they rest and teache other to rest also, excluding the whole world frō ȳ reste of forgeuenesse of synnes thorow fayth in Christes bloud.

And now seyng that fayth only letteth a man in vnto rest & vnbeleue excludeth him, what is the cause of this vnbelefe: verely no synne ȳ the world seyth, but a pope holynesse & a righteousnes of theyr owne ymagination as Paul sayth. Rom. x. They be ignorannce of the rightuousnes wherwith god iustifieth & haue set vp a righteousnes of theyr owne making thorowe which they be disobedient vnto ȳ righteousnes of god. And Christ rebuketh not pharesyes for grosse synnes which the world sawe, but for those holy dedes whych so blered ȳ eyes of ȳ world ȳ they were take as Gods: euē for lōg prayers, for fasting, for tithing so diligētly ȳ they lift not so moch as theyr herbes vnlithed, for theyr clēnesse in washig before meat & for washig of cuppes, dishes, & al mānr vessels, for buylding the prophetes sepulchres, & for keping the holy daye and for turning the hethen vnto the fayth, and for geuing of almes. For vnto soche holy dedes they ascribed rightuousnes, and therfore when the rightcousnesse of God was preached vnto them they could not but persecute it, the deuyll was so stronge in them. Wherych thinge Christ well describeth Luke. xi. sayinge that after the deuyll is cast out he cometh agayne and fyndeth his house swepte and made gaye and then taketh seuen worse then hym selfe and dwelleth therein, and so is thee ende of that man worse then the beginninge. That is, when they be a litle clensed frō grosse sinnes whiche the world seyth and then made gaye in theyr owne syght with the righteousnes of tradicions, then cometh seuen, that is to say the hole power of the deuyl, for seuē with the Hebrues signifieth a multitude without nombre & the extremite of a thing & is a speache borowed (I suppose) out of leuiticus where is so oft mencion made of seuen. Where I wold say: I wyll punische the that all the worlde shall take an ensample of the, there the Jewe wold saye: I wyll circumcise the or baptyse the. vii. tymes. And so here by seuen is ment all the deuyls of hell & all the myght & power of the detyll. For vnto what further blindnesse coulde all the deuels in hel bringe thē, then to make thē beleue that they were iustified thorowe theyr owne good workes. For when they once beleued that they were purged from theyr synnes, & made tyghtuouse thorowe theyr owne holy wyrkes, what rowme was ther left for the rightuousnes that is in christes bloud shedding? And therfore whē they be fallē into thys blindnesse they cānot but hate & persecute the light. And the more cleare & euidently theyr dedes be rebuked the furiousser & maliciousser blind are they vntill they breake out into open blasphemye and synning agaynst the holy goost, whych is the malicious persecuting of the cleare trouth so manifestly proued that they cannot once hysshe agaynst it. As the pharesies persecuted Christ because he rebuked theyr holy dedes. And when he proued his doctryne with the scripture & myracles, yet though they coulde not improue hym nor reason agaynst hym they tought that the scripture must haue some other meaningbecause his interpretacion vndermyned theyr foundation & plucked vp by the rootes thee sectes whych they had planted, & they ascribed also his myracles to the deuell. And in lyke maner though oure Jpocrytes cannot denye but thys is thee Scripture, yet because there can be none other sens gathered thereof, but that ouerthrowteth theyr byldynges, therefore they euer thynke thāt it hathe some other meanynges that as thee worde sounde and that noo man vnderstandethe it or vnderstode it sens thee tyme of thee Apostles. Or yf they thynke that some wrote vppon it sence thee Apostles vnderstonde it: they yet thynke that we in lyke maner as we vnderstonde not the text not the text it selfe, so we vnderstand not the meaning of the wordes of that Doctour, For when thou layest the iustifieng of holy workes & denyest the iustifyenge of faith howe canst thou vnderstande saynt Paule, Peter, Johan and the Actes of the Apostles or anye scripture at all, seynge the iustyfyenge of faythe is all moost all, that they entende to proue.

Fynally, concernynge vowes whereof thou readest Chapter. xxx. there maye be many questyons, whereunto I answere shortely that we ought to put salt to all oure offerynges: that is, we ought to mynister knowledge in all oure workes and to do no thynge wherof we coulde not geue a reason out of Gods wordes. We be nowe in the daye lyghte, and all the secretes of God and all hys counsell and wyll is opened vnto vs, and he that was promysed shulde come and blesse vs, is come alreadye and hathe shed hys bloude for vs and hath blessed vs wyth all maner blessynges and hathe obtayned for vs, and in hym we haue all. Wherfore god hence forth wyll receaue nomore sacrifices of beastes of vs, as thou readest Hebre. x. Yf thou burne vnto God thee bloud or fatt of beastes, to obtayne forgeuenesse of synnes therby or that god should the better heare thy request, then thou doest wronge vnto the bloude of Christ, & Christe vnto the is dead in vayne. For in hym god hath promysed not forgeuenesse of synnes onely, but also whatsoeuer we are to kepe vs from synne and temptation wythal And what yf thou burne frãkencens vnto hym, what yf thou burne a candel, what yf thou burne thy chastite or virginite vnto him for the same purpose, doest thou not lyke rebuke vnto Christes bloude? Moreouer yf thou offer golde, syluer or any other good for the same entent, is there any difference? And euen so yf thou go in pylgrimage or fastiste or goest wolwarde, or sprinklest thy self wyth holy water or els whatsoeuer dede it is, or obseruest whatsoeuer Ceremonie it be for lyke meanynge, then it is lyke abhominacion. We must therfore bringe the salt of the knowledge of gods word wyth all oure sacrifices, or els we shall make no swete sauoure vnto God thereof.

Thou wilt are me, shall I vowe nothinge at all? yes, Gods commaundemente whych thou hast vowed in thy baptyme. For what entent? Verely for the loue of christe whych hath bought the with his bloud and made the sonne and heyre of god with hym, that thou shuldest wayte on hys wyll and cominaundementes and purifye thy membres according to the same doctryne that hathe purifyed thyne harte. For yf thee knowledge of goddes worde haue not purified thyne hart, so that thou consentest vnto the lawe of God, that it is righteous and good and sorowest that thy members moue the vnto the contrarye, so hast thou no parte wyth christ. For yf thou repent not of thy synne, so it is impossible that thou shuldest beleue that Christe had delyuered the from the daunger therof. Yf thou beleue not that Christ hath deliuered the, so is it impossible that thou shuldest loue gods commaundementes. Yf thou loue not the commaundementes, so is Christes spyrite not in the whyche is the earnest of forgeuenesse of synne and of saluation.

For scripture teacheth, fyrst repẽtaunce: then faythe in Christe, that for hys sake synne is forgeuen to them that repent: then good workes, which are nothing saue the commaundement of god only. And the cõmaundemẽtes are nothing els saue the helpynge of oure neyghbours at theyr nede and the tamynge of oure members that they myghte be pure also as the harte is pure thorowe hate of vyce and loue of vertue as Gods word teacheth vs whych workes must procede out of fayth, that is, I must do thẽ for the loue whych I haue to God for that great mercy whych he hath shewed me in Christ, or els I do them not in the syght of god. And that I faynte not in the payne of the steynge of synne that is in my flesh, myne helpe is the promyse of ỹ assistence of the power of god and the comforte of the reward to come whych reward I ascribe vnto the goodnesse, mercy & truth of the promiser that hath chosen me, called me, taught me and geuen me the eares thereof, and not vnto the mentes of my doynge or sufſuffertinges. For al that I do & ſuffre is but the way to the rewarde & not the deſeruin ge thereof. As yf the kynges grace ſhuld promyſe me to defend me at home in myne owne realme yet the way thyther is thorowe the ſee wherin I myght happely ſuffer no litle trouble. And yet for all y, yf I myght lyue in reſt whē I come thyther, I wold thinke & ſo wold other ſaye, that my paynes were well rewarded: which reward & be= nefyte I wold not proudly ascrybe vnto the mertes of my paynes taking by ỹ way but vnto the goodneſſe, mercyfulnes & cōſtaunt truth of the kinges grace whoſe gift it is & to whom the prayſe & thanke therof belongeth of duety and right. So now a rewarde is a gyft geuē frely of the goodnes of the geuer and not of the deſeruynges of the receauer. Thus it appereth, that yf I vowe whatſoeuer it be, for any other pur poſe then to tame my membres and to be an enſample of vertue & edifienge vnto my neyghbour, my ſacrifice is vnſauery and cleane without ſalt and my lampe without oyle and I one of the folyſh vyrgyns and ſhalbe ſhut oute from the feaſt of the bry= degrom when I thynke my ſelfe moſt ſure to enter in.

Yf I vowe voluntary pouerty, this muſt be my purpoſe, that I wyll be cōtent with a competent lyuing which cometh vnto me ether by ſucceſſion of myne elders or whych I gett truly with my laboure in miniſtringe & doynge ſeruice vnto the comen welth in one office or in another, or in one occupatiō or other, becauſe that ryches and honour ſhall not corrupte my mynde and drawe myne harte from God, and to geue an enſample of vertue and edifieng vnto other & that my neyghbour maye haue a ly uing by me as wel as I, yf I make a cloke of diſſimulatiō of my vowe, layng a net of fayned beggerye to catche ſuperfluous aboundaunce of ryches & hye degree and au= thorite and thorow the eſtimation of falſe holineſſe to fede and mayntayne my ſlouth full ydleneſſe with the ſweate, laboure, landes, and rentes of other men (after the en= ſample of oure ſpiritualtie) robbinge them of theyr faythes and God of his honoure turninge vnto myne ypocriſie that confidence, which ſhoulde be geuen vnto the pro= miſes of God onely, am I not a wylie fore and a raueninge wolfe in a lambes ſkyn= ne and a paynted ſepulchre fayre without and fylthy within? In like maner thoughe I ſeke no worldlye promotion thereby, yet yf I do it to be iuſtified therwith and too gett an hyer place in heauen, thinkinge that I do it of myne owne naturall ſtrengthe and of the natural power of my free wyll, & that euery man hath myght euen ſo to do and that they do it not is theyr faute & negligence & ſo with the proud phareſye in cō= pariſon of my ſelf deſpiſe the ſinfull publicanes: what other thing do I then eate the bloud & fat of my ſacrifice deuouring that my ſelf which ſhuld be offred vnto god a= lone and his chriſt. And ſhortly whatſoeuer a man doeth of hys naturall giftes, of his naturall witte, wiſdom, vnderſtanding, reaſon, will, & good entent before he be other wyſe & cleane cōtrary taught of goddes ſpyrete & haue receaued other wyt, vnderſtan= ding, reaſon, & wyl, is fleſhe, worldly & wrought in abhominable blindneſſe, with whi che a man can but ſeke hym ſelfe, his owne profyte, glory & honour, euē in very ſpirit= tual matters. As yf I were alone in a wildernefſe where no mā were to ſeke profyt or prayſe of, yet yf I wold ſeke heuē of god there, I could of myne owne naturall gyft tes ſeke it none other wayes then for thee merites and deſeruynges of my good wor= kes and to enter therin by another waye thē by the doore Chriſt, which were very thefte for Chriſt is lord ouer all and whatſoeuer any man will haue of God, he muſt haue it geuen hym frely for Chriſtes ſake. Nowe to haue heauen for myne owne deſeruin= ge, is myne owne prayſe and not Chriſtes. For I cannot haue it by fauoure and gra= ce in Chriſt and by myne owne merytes alſo: For fregeuinge and deſeruinge cannot ſtonde together.

Yf thou wilt vowe of thy goodes vnto god thou muſt put ſalt vnto thys ſacrifice that is thou muſt miniſter knowledge in this dede, as Peter teacheth. ii. petri. i. Thou muſt put oyle of gods worde in thy lāple and do it accordinge to knowledge, yf thou wayte for the comminge of the brydegome to entre in with hym into his reſte. Thou

wylt hange it aboue the ymage to moue men to deuocio. Deuotio is a feruet loue vn to Gods cõmãdemẽtes & a desyre to be wyth God & wyth hys euerlasting promyses. Now shal the sight of soch ryches as ar shewed at S. Thomas shryne or at walsingham moue a man to loue the cõmaundemẽtes of god better and to desyre to be loosed from hys flesshe and to be wyth god, or shall it not rather make hys poore herte syghe because he hath no soch at home and to wysshe parte of it in another place? The Preest shall haue it in gods stede. Shall the preest haue it? Yf the Priest be bought with christes bloude, thẽ he is christes seruaunt & not his owne & ought therfore to feade christes flocke with Christes doctrine & to minister christes sacramẽtes vnto thẽ purely for very loue & not for felthy lucres sake or to be lord ouer thẽ as Peter teacheth. i. petri. v. & Paule. Actes. xx. Besyde this christ is oures & is a gyfte geuen vs, and we be heyres of christ & of al that is christes. Wherfore the Priestes doctrine is oures & we heyres of it, it is the fode of our soules. Therfore yf he minister it not truly & frely vn to vs without selling, he is a theefe & a soule murtherar: & euen so is he yf he take vpõ him to fede vs & haue not wherwith. And for a lyke cõclusion because we also withal that we haue be christes, therfore is the Priest heyre with vs also of all that we haue receaued of god, wherfore in asmoch as the Priest wayteth on the worde of god & is our seruaunt therin, therfore of right we are his detters & owe him a sufficient liuing of our goodes, & euen therto a wife of our doughters owe we vnto him yf he requyre her. And now whẽ we haue appoynted him a sufficient liuing, whether in tithes rẽtes or in yerely wages, he ought to be contẽt & to requyre no more nor yet to receaue any more, but to be an ensample of soberneile & of dispising worldly thinges vnto the ensample of his parisheoners.

Wilt thou bowe to offer vnto the poore people that is pleasaunte in the sighte of god, for they be left her to do our almes vpon in Christes steade and they be the right heyres of all oure abundaunce & ouerplus. Moreouer we must haue a scole to teache goddes word in (though it neded not to be so costly) and therfore it is lawful to bowe vnto the buylding or mayntenaunce therof & vnto helping of all good workes. And we ought to bowe to paye costume, tolle, rente and all maner duties and whatsoeuer we owe: for that is gods commaundemente.

Yf thou wilt bowe pilgrimage, thou must put salt therto in like maner yf it shal be accepted, yf thou bowe to go & viset the poore or to heare gods worde or whatsoeuer edifieth thy soule vnto loue & good worke after knowledge or whatsoeuer god cõmãdeth, it is wel done & a sacrifice that fauoreth wel ye wil happely say, ẽ ye wil go to this or that place because god hath chosẽ one place more thẽ another & wil heare your petition more in one place thẽ another. As for your prayer it must be according too goddes worde. Ye may not desire god to take vengeaunce on him whom gods worde teacheth you to pitie and to praye for. And as for the other glose, that god will heare you more in one place thẽ in another, I suppose it sal infatuin, salt vnsauerie, for yf it were wisdom how could we excuse the death of steuẽ. Actes. vii. which dyed for ẽ articles ẽ god dwelleth not in tẽples made with hãdes, we ẽ beleue in god are ẽ tẽple of god sayth paul, yf a mã loue god & kepe his word, he is ẽ tẽple of god & hathe god presently dwelling in him, as witnesseth christ. Johã. xiiii. saying: Yf a mã loue me he wyll kepe my worde, & then my father wyll loue hym and we wyl come vnto him and dwell wyth hym. And in the. xv. he saythe: yf ye abyde in me & my wordes also abyde in you, then are what ye wyll and ye shall haue it. Yf thou beleue in Christ & hast the promyses whych God hathe made the in thyne harte, then goo on pilgrymage vnto thyne owne harte and there praye and God wyll heare the for hys mercy and truthes sake and for hys sonne Christes sake, and not for a fewe stones sake. What careth God for the temple: The very beastes in that they haue lyfe in them be moche better then an heape of stones couched together.

To speake of chastite, it is a gyfte not geuen vnto all persones, testifieth bothe Christ and also hys Apostle Paule, wherfore all persones maye not bowe it. More-ouer ther be causes wherfore many persons maye better lyue chast at one tyme the at another. Many maye lyue chast at twentye and thertye for certayn colde diseases folowing them, whych at .xl. when theyr health is come, cannot do so. Many be occupyed wyth wylde phantasyes in theyr youth that they care not for mariage whych same whē they be warē sad shalbe greatly desyrouse, it is a daūgerous thinge to make syn where none is, and to forswere the benefyte of God & to bynde thy selfe vnder payne of dāpnation of thy soule that thou woldeste not vse the remedye that God hath created yē nede requyred. ¶ Another thynge is this, beware that thou gett the not a false fayned chastite made wyth the vngodly persuasyons of Saynte Hierome or of Ouyde in hys fylthy boke of the remedye agaynst loue, lest when thorowe soch ymaginacions thou hast vtterly despysed, defyed and abhorred all womankynd, thou come in to soche cause thorowe the fyrce wrath of God, that thou canste neyther lyue chaste nor fynde in thy harte to marye and so be compelled to falle in to thee abhominacion of the Pope agaynst nature and kynde.

Moreouer God is a wyse father and knowethe all the infyrmyties of hys chyldren and also mercyfull, and therfore hath created a remedye wythout synne and geuen therto hys fauour and blessyng. Let vs not be wyser then God with our ymaginacions nor tēpte hym, for as godly chastite is not euery mās gyfte: euē so he yt hath it to day hath no power to cōtinue it at his owne pleasure, nether hath god promysed to geue it him still & to cure his infirmities without his naturall remedye nomore thē he hath promised to stāke his honger without meat, or thyrst wythout drynke. Wherfore other let al thinges byde free as wyse God hath created them & nether bowe that whych God requyreth, nor not forswere that whych God permytteth the wyth his fauoure and blessynge also: or els yf thou wylt nedes bowe, thē bowe godly and vnder a condition, that thou wylt continue chast, so long as God geueth the the gyft and as long as nether thyne owne necessyte nether cheryte toward thy neyghbour nor the authorite of thē vnder whose power thou arte, dryue the vnto the contrarye.

The purpose of thy bowe must be salted also with the wisdō of god. Thou mayst not bowe to be iustified therby or to make satisfactiō for thy synnes or to wynne heauē nor an hyer place: for then diddest thou wrōge vnto the bloud of Christ & thy bowe were playn Idolatrie & abhominable in ỹ sight of God. Thy bowe must be only vnto the furtherance of the cōmaundemētes of God, which are as I haue sayd nothing but the taminge of thy mēbres & the seruice of thy neyghbour: ỹ is yf thou thinke thy backe to wrake for the burthen of wedlock & ỹ thou canst not rule thy wyfe, chyldren seruauntes & make prouision for thē godly & without ouermoch busyeng & vnquietinge thy selfe & drowning thy selfe in worldly busynesse vnchristēly or that thou canst serue thy neyghbour in some office better beyng chast then maried. And thē thy bowe is good & lawful. And euē so must thou bowe abstinēce of meates & drinkes so farre forth as it is profytable vnto thy neyghbours & vnto the tāming of thy flesshe: But ỹ mayst bowe nether of thē vnto ỹ sleyng of thy body. And Paul cōmaundeth thy mother to drinke wyne & no more water because of his diseases. Thou wilt say ỹ Timothy had not happely forsworne wyne. I thinke the same, & that the apostles forsware not wedlocke though many of thē lyued chast nother yet any meate or drinke, though they absteyned frō thē, & that it were good for vs to folowe theyr ensāmple. Howbeit though I bowe & swere & thinke on none exception, yet is the breaking of gods commaundemētes except & all chaunces that hāge of god. As yf I swere to be in a certayne place at a certayn houre to make a loue daye without exception, yet yf the kynge in the meane tyme cōmaunde me another waye, I must goo by gods cōmaundemēt and yet breake not myne oth. And in lyke case yf my father & mother be sekc & requyre my presence, or yf my wyfe, chyldrē or household be visyted ỹ my assistence be requyred, or yf my neyghbours house be a fyre at the same houre & a thousande soche chaunces: in whych all I breake myne oth & am not forsworne & so forth. Read gods worde diligently and wyth a good hence & it shal teache the all thynges.

B keth attonement for him selfe. And all heue offerynges of all the halowed thinges which the chyldren of Israell bryngc vnto the preaste, shalbe the preastes, & euery mans holowed thynges shalbe hys owne but whatsoeuer any man geueth the preaste, it shalbe the preastes.

And ꝑ Lord spake vnto Moses saiēg Speake vnto the children of Israel, and say vnto thē. If any mās wyfe go a side and trespase against him, so that another man lye with her fleshly and the thyng be hyd from the eyes of her husband and is not come to light ꝑ she is defiled (for ther is no wytnesse agenst her) in as moche as she was not takē with the maner, and the spyrite of ᵇ& gelousy cometh vpon him & he is gelouse ouer his wyfe and she defiled, or happely ꝑ spyrit of gelousy cometh vpō him, & he is gelouse ouer his wife and she yet vndefiled. Then let her husbād bring her vnto the preaste and bryngc an offerynge for her: the tenthe parte of an Epha of barly meele, but shall poure none oyle therevnto, nor put frankencens therō: for it is an offeringe of gelousye, and an offeryngc that maketh remembraūce of sinne

And let the preast bryngc her & sett her before the Lord, and let him take holy water in an erthen vessel & of the dust that is in the flooze of the habytacyon, and put it
C in to the water. And the preast shal set the wife before the lord and vncouer her deade, and put the memoryall of the offerynge in her handes whyche is the gelousye offerynge, and the preaste shall haue bytter and cursynge water in his hande, and he shall conjure her and shal say vnto her If no man haue lyen with the nether hast gone aside, and defyled thy selfe behynde thy husbande, then haue thou no harme of thys bytter cursynge water.

But & yf thou hast gone aside behynd thyne husband and art defyled and some other man hath lyen wyth the beside thyne husband (and let the priest conjure hec wyth the conjuracion of the curse and say vnto her) the Lord make the a curse and a conjuration among thy people: so that the Lorde make thy thye rotte, and thy belye swell and thys bitter cursynge water goo into the bowels of thy, that thy bely swell and thy thye rotte, and the wyfe shall saye & Amen, Amen.

And the preaste shall wryte thys curse in a byll and washe it out in the bytter water. And when the cursinge water is in her
D that it is bitter, then let the prieste take the gelousye offeringe out of the wyfes hande, & waue it before the Lorde, and bringe it vnto the alter: and he shal take an handfull of the memorialL offringe and burne it vpon the alter, and thē make her drinke the water, and whē he hath made her drinke the water, Yf she be defyled and haue trespased agaynst her husband, then shall the cursynge water go in to her & be so bitter, that her belye shall swell and her thye shall rotte, and she shalbe a curse amonge her people. And yf she be not defyled but is cleane, thē she shall haue no harme, but that she maye conceaue.

Thys is the lawe of gelousye, when a wyfe goeth a syde behynde hyr husband & is defyled, or when the spirite of gelousye cometh vpon a mā, so ꝑ he is gelouse ouer his wyfe thē he shal bringe her before the Lord, and the prieste shal minister al thys lawe vnto her, and the man shalbe giltles, and the wyfe shall beare her synne.

The Notes.

a& This text is to be vnderstanded of soch trek paces, wherwith we hurt our neyghbours in worldly goodes, as they cal thē, and therfore must ꝑ hurt be restored and the fyft part more therto: If the parte remayned not to whō the restitucion was due, nor any of hys lawful heares, then must it be the preistes wages, whych at that tyme had none other lyuelode.

b& The hole lawe of gelousy semeth to be a lesre ꝑ a certayn nourtour of wyues, that they shoulde be obedient to their husbādes, chaste, manerly ꝑ faithfull, ꝑ soch as geue no occasiō to be suspect: ꝑ therto serued this lawe whyle it kept thē vnder ꝑ gaue thē no licens to renne at lerge wherby they might haue come in some suspecte ꝑ so haue come to this greate shame before the congregation.

c& Amen is an Hebrew word ꝑ signifieth, euen so be it, or be it fast and sewer, approuynge and alowing the sentence goinge before: and whē it is doubled it augmenteth the confyrmation, as in manye Psalm, and Joh an. v. and. vi.

¶ The lawe of thē that take vpon them abstinence
The maner of blessing the people.

The.vi.Chapter

AND ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel & saye vnto thē: whē ether man or woman apoynteth to a vowe a vowe of abstinēce for to abstayne vnto ỹ Lord, he shall absteyne frō wyne & strōge drincke, & shal drinke no vineger of wyne or of strōge drinke, nor shal drinke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shal eat no fresh grapes nether yet dryed as longe as his abstinence endureth. Moreouer he shal eate nothing that is made of the vine tree no not so moch as the cornels or ỹ huske of the grape.

And as long as the vowe of his abstinēce endureth, ther shal no rasure nor shere come vpon hys head, vntyl hys dayes be out which he fasteth vnto the Lorde, & he shalbe holy & shall let the lockes of hys hayre grow. As long as he absteyneth vnto the Lord he shal come at no dead body: he shal not make hym self vncleane at the deathe of hys father, mother, brother or syster: for ᵇ the abstynence of hys God is vpō hys head. And therefore as longe as hys abstynence lasteth he, he shall be holye vnto the Lorde.

And yf it fortune ỹ any man by chaūce dye sodenly before him, & defyle the heade of hys abstinence, then must he shaue hys head the daye of his clensing: euen the seuenth day he shall shaue it. And the eyght day he shal bringe .ii. turtels or .ii. younge pigeons to the priest, vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes. And the priest shall offer the one for a synneoffringe & ỹ other for a burntoffring & make an attonemēte for him, as cōcerning that he synned vpō the dead, & shal also halowe his head ỹ same daye, & he shal absteyne vnto the Lord the tyme of his abstinencie, & shal bryng a lambe of an yere olde for a trespace offerynge: but the dayes that were before are lost, because hys abstinencie was defyled.

And the preest shal bringe him before ỹ Lord & offer his synoffringe & hys burnt offering, & shall offer the ram for a peaceoffring vnto the Lord with the basked of swete bread, and the prieste shal offer also his meatoffring & his drinkoffring. And the absteyner shal shaue his head in ỹ dore of the tabernacle of witnes & shall take the hayre of his sober head & putt it in the fyre whych is vnder ỹ peaceoffring. Thē the preest shal take the sodden shoulder of the ram & one swete cake out of the basket & one swete wafer also, & put thē in the hāde of the absteiner after he hath shauē his abstinēce of, & the preest shal waue thē vnto the Lord, which offring shal be holy vnto the preest with the wauebrest & heue shoulder: & then the absteyner may drinke wyne

This is the lawe of the absteyner whyche hath vowed hys offrynge vnto the Lorde for hys abstynence, besydes that his hand can gett, And accordyng to vowe whyche he vowed, euen so he must do in thec lawe of hys abstinence.

D And the Lord talked wyth Moses sayinge speake vnto Aaron & his sonnes saynge: of this wise ye shal blesse the childrē of Israel saying vnto them.

The Lord blesse the and kepe the.

The Lord ᶜ make hys face shyne vpō the & be mercyful vnto the.

The Lord lyft vp hys countenaūce vpon the, and geue the peace. For ye shall put my name vpon the chyldrē of Israel, that I maye blesse them.

The Notes

a Here it appereth what a vowe is after ỹ old testament, whych was a fygure of the vowe that a Christen man ought to do, geuinge and dedicating hym selfe to God as it is spoken Roma. xii. a.

b To haue the abstinence of God vppon hys head is, to shew a token of refusing the care of bodely thinges by that he settethe not by the hayre of hys head, or by the trimmynge of hys bushe or beard. which thing the world so greatly esteemeth.

c To make hys face to shyne is to geue a token of hys louing kyndnes.

¶ The disposition and order of the lampes, The forme of the candelstick. The cleansinge & offeringe of the Leuites. The age of the same.

The.viii.Chapter.

Exo.xxv.d. AND the lord spake vnto Moses saynge:speake vnto Aarõ & say vnto him:* when thou puttest on ỹ lampes sey they light all seuẽ vpon the forefront of the candelstick. And Aarõ dyd euẽso, & put the lãpes vpõ the forefront of the candelsticke, as the Lorde cõmaunded Moses, and the worke of the candelsticke was of stiffe gold:both ỹ shaft & the floures therof. And according vnto the vision which the Lord had shewed Moyses cuẽ so he made the candelsticke.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses sayinge:take the Leuites frõ among the chyldren of Israel, & clense them. And thys do vnto them whẽ thou cleansest them, sprynkle water of purifienge vpon them & make a rasure to runne alonge vpon all the fleshe of them, and lette them washe theyr clothes, and then they shall be cleane. And let them take a bullocke and hys meatofferinge, fyne floure myngled wythe oyle: and another bullocke shalt thou take too be a synneoffringe.

Then bringe the Leuites before the tabernacle of witnesse & gether the hole multitude of the chyldren of Israell together. And bringe the Leuites before the Lord, and let the chyldren of Israell putte theyr handes vpon the Leuites. And let Aaron heue the Leuites before the Lorde, for an heueoffryng geuen of the chyldren of Israell, & then let thẽ be appoynted to wayte vpon the seruice of the Lorde.

And let the Leuites put theyr handes vpõ the heades of the bullockes, & thẽ offer thẽ: the one for a synneoffring and the other for a burntoffring vnto the Lord to make an attonemẽte for the Leuites. And make the Leuites stand before Aarõ and hys sonnes, & heue them to be an heueofferinge vnto the Lord. And thou shalt separate the Leuites from among the chyldrẽ of Israell, that they bee myne: & after that let them go and do the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

Clense thẽ & waue thẽ, for they ar geuẽ vnto me frõ among the chyldrẽ of Israel for* I haue taken thẽ vnto me for all the fyrstborne that open any matrice amonge the chyldren of Israel.

¶ The ester or passeouer offring of the cleane & vncleane. A cloude couering the tabernacle leadeth the hoost.

The.ix. Chapter.

In the first yere after they were come out of the land of Egipte saying: let the childrē of Israel offre Passcouer in his season: euen the .xiiii. daye of thys moneth at euen they shall kepe it in hys season, accordinge to al the ordinaunces and maners therof. And Moyses bad the chyldren of Israel that they shuld offer Passeouer, and they offred Passeouer the .xiiii. daye of the fyrst monethe at euen in the wyldernesse of Sinai: and dyd accordynge to al that the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

And it chaunced that certayn̄e which were defyled wythe a dead corse that they myght not offer Passeouer the same daye came before Moyses and Aaron the same tyme, and sayde: We are defyled vpon a dead corse, wherfore are we kepte backe ỹ we may not offer an offring vnto the lord in the due season, amonge the chyldren of Israell? And Moyses sayde vnto them: tary, that I maye heare what thee Lorde wyll commaunde you. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye. Yf any man amonge you or youre chyldren after you be vncleane by thee reason of a corse or is in the way ferre of, thē lett hym offer Passeouer vnto thee Lorde: thee .xiiii. daye of the second moneth at euen, and eat it with swete bread and soure herbes, and lett thē leaue none of it vnto thee morynge nor breake anye boone of it. And accordīng to all the ordinaunce of thee Passeouer lette them offer it.

But yf a man be cleane and not let in a iourney, & yet was negligēt to offer a Passeouer the same soule shal perish frō his people, because he brought not an offerinnge vnto the Lorde in his due season: & he shall beare his synne. And whē a straūger dwelleth amōge you and wyl offer Passeouer vnto the Lord, according to the ordinaunce of Passeouer & maner therof shal he offer it. And ye shal haue one law both for the straunger & for him that was borne at home in the lande.

And the same daye that the habitacion was reared vp, a cloude couered it an hye vpon the tabernacle of witnesse: and at euen ther was vppon thee habitacion, as it were the similitude of fyre vntyl the morninge. And so it was alwaye, that the cloude coueted it by day, and the similitude of fyre by nyght. And when thee cloude was taken vp from of the tabernacle, then thee chyldren of Israell iourneyed: & wher the cloude abode ther the chyldren of Israell pitched theyr tentes. At the mouthe of the Lord the chyldren of Israell iourneyed, & at the mouth of the lord they pitched. And as long as the cloude abode vpon the habitacion, they laye styl, & when the cloude taryed styl vpon the habitaciō long tyme the chyldren of Israell wayted vpon thee Lorde and iourneyed not.

Yf it chaunced that thee cloude abode any space of tyme vpon the habitaciō, thē they kepte theyr tentes at thee mouth of ỹ Lorde: and they iourneyed also at the cōmaundement of the Lorde. And yf it happened that the cloude was vpon the habitacion from euen vnto morning and was taken vp in the morninge then they iourneyed. Whether it was by daye or by nyght that the cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. But when the cloud taryed *& two dayes or a moneth or a longe season vpon the habitacion, as longe as it taryed theron, the chyldren of Israel kepte theyr tentes and iourneyed not. And as soone as the cloude was take vp, they iourneyed. At the mouth of the Lorde they rested, and at the cōmaundemēt of the lord they iourneyed. And thus they kept the watche of the Lorde, at the commaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses.

¶ The trompettes of syluer & the vse therof. Thee Israelites depart frō Sinai. The captaynes of the hoste ar nōbred. Hobab refuseth to go with Moses

The.x. Chapter.

A And the lord spake vnto Moses saying: Make the.ii. trōpettes of beaten syluer, that thou mayst vse thē to cal the cōgregation together, & whē the hoste shal iourney. When they blowe wyth them, all the multytude shall resorte to the, vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. Yf but a ¶ one trumpet blow onlye, then the princes whyche are heades ouer the thousandes of Israell shall come vnto the. And when ye trompe thee fyrste tyme, the hoostes that lye on the easte partes shall goo forwarde.

And when ye trompe the seconde tyme then the hostes that lye on the southe syde shall take theyr iourney: for they shall trō pe whē they take theyr iournyes. And in getheringe the congregation together, ye shall b ¶ blowe and not trōpe. And the sonnes of Aaron the priestes shall blowe the trompettes & shall haue them and it shalbe a lawe vnto you for euer and amonge youre chyldren after you.

B And when ye shal go to warre in youre land agaynst your enemies that vexe you ye shal c ¶ trompe with the trompettes & ye shalbe remēbred before the lord your god & saued from youre enemyes. Also when ye be mery in your feast dayes & in your fyrst dayes of your monethes, ye shall blowe y trōpettes ouer your burnte sacrifices and peaceoffringes, that it maye be a remembrauce of you before your God. I am the Lorde youre God.

And it came to passe the.xx. day of the second moneth in the secōd yere, y the cloude was takē vp from of the habitation of wytnesse. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourney out of the deserte of Sinai and the cloude rested in the wyldernes of Pharan. And they fyrste toke theyr iourney at y mouth of the lord, by the hand of Moyses: euen thee standerte of the hoofte of Juda remoued fyrst wyth theyr armyes, whose captayne was Nahason the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of y trybe of the children of Issachar, was Nathanael the sonne of zuar. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of thee chyldren of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helō. And the habitacion was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and Merari wēt forth bearynge the habitacion.

Then the standert of the hoste of Rubē went forth with theyr armyes, whose captayne was Elizur thee sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeō, was Salamiel the sonne of Surt saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of y children of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. Then the Cahathites went forwarde and bare the holy thinges, and the other dyd set vp the habytacion agaynst they came. C

Then the standert of the hoste of thee children of Ephraim wēt forth with theyr armeyes whose captayne was Elisama y sonne of Aminud. And ouer the hoste of y trybe of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamalyel thee sonne of Pedazur. And ouer thee hoofte of thee trybe of thee sonnes of Ben Jamin, was Abydan thee sonne of Gedeoni.

And hyndemost of all the hoste came y stādert of the hoste of the chyldrē of Dan wyth theyr armyes: whose captayne was Ahiezer the sōne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser, was *Pagiel the sonne of Ochrā And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the children of Nephthali, was Ahira thee sonne of Enan, of this maner were y iourneyes of the chyldren of Israell, wyth theyr armyes when they remoued. *Or phegiel.

And Moyses sayd vnto a ¶ Hobab the sonne of Raguel the Madianite, Moses father in lawe: we goo vnto thee place of whych the Lord sayde I wyl geue it you Go with vs and we wyll do the good, for the Lord hath promysed good vnto Israell. And he sayd vnto him: I wyll not, but wyll go to myne owne lande & to my kynred. And Moyses sayd: oh naye, leaue vs not, for thou knowest wher is best for vs to pytche in the wildernes, and thou shalt D

AND ỹ people * cōplayned & it displesed ỹ eares of the lord, & whē the lord herd it he was wroth & ỹ fyre of ỹ lord burnte amōg thē & cōsumeth ỹ vttermost of the hoste. And the people cryed vnto Moses, & he made intercessiō vnto ỹ lord & the fyre quēched. And they called ỹ name of the place * Thaberah because the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge them.

Thaberah signifyeth, kindlinge in flaming (or fyenge

And the rascal people ỹ was amōg thē fel a lusting. And the chyldrē of Israel also wēt to & wept & sayd, who shal geue vs flesche to eate? we remēbre ỹ fysh which we shuld eat i Egipt for nought & of ỹ Cucūber & melōns, lekes, onions & garleke. But now our soules ar dryed away, for our eyes loke on nothinge els saue vpō Māna.

The Māna was as it had bene coriander sede, & to se to lyke Bedellion. And the people wēt about & gathered it, & ground it in milles or bet in mortars & baked it in pānes and make kakes of it. And the tast of it was lyke vnto the tast of an oyle kake. And whē the dewe fel about the host in the nyght, the Manna fel therwith.

C

And whē Moses herde the people weye in theyr housholdes euery mā in ỹ dore of his tent, thē the wrath of the Lord wared hote exceedinglye: & it greued Moses also. And Moses said vnto the lord: wherfore dealest ỹ so cruelli w̄ thy seruaūt? wherfore do I not find fauour in thy fyght seing ỹ ỹ puttest the weyght of this people vpō me? haue I cōceaued al this people, or haue I begott thē, ỹ ỹ shuldest say vnto me, carie thē in thi bosome (as a nurse beareth the sucking child) vnto the lād which thou sware st vnto theyr fathers? wher shuld I haue flesche to geue vnto all thys people? For they wepe vnto me sayinge: geue vs flesche ỹ we may eat. I am not able to bere all this people alone, for it is too heuy for me. Wherfore yf ỹ deale thus w̄ me, kyll me, I pray the, yf I haue foūd fauour in thy syght & let me not se my wretchednes.

And the lord sayd vnto Moses: gether vnto me. lxx. of ỹ elders of Israel, which ỹ knowest ỹ they ar ỹ elders of the people & officers ouer thē, & bringe thē vnto the tabernacle of witnesse, & let thē stand ther w̄ the. ¶ Certen are send to searche the lande of Canaan: whych bringe wyth them a clouster of grapes for a sygne of fertylytye and frutefulnes.

The.xiii. Chapter

A AND ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses saying:* Send men out to serche the land of Canaan whych I geue vnto the chyldrē of Israell: of euery trybe of theyr fathers a mā & let thē all be soche as ar ruelars among thē. And Moses at the cōmaundemēt of the Lorde sent forth out of the wilderneſſe of Pharan: soch mē as were all heades among the chyldren of Israell, whose names are these.

Jn the trybe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur: Jn the trybe of Simeō, Saphat the sonne of Hori. Jn the tribe of Juda, Caleph the sonne of Jephune. Jn the trybe of Jsachar, Jgeal thee sonne of Joseph. Jn the trybe of Ephraim, Hosea the sonne of Nun. Jn the trybe of Bē Ja-
B min, Palthi the sonne of Raphu. Jn the trybe of Zabulon, Gadiel the son of Sodi. Jn the trybe of Joseph, ỹ was of Manasse, Gaddi the son of Susi. Jn ỹ trybe of Dan. Amiell the sonne of Gemali. Jn the trybe of Aser, Sethur ỹ sonne of Micheel. Jn the trybe of Nephthali: Nahebi the sonne of Vaphsi. Jn the tribe of Gad Guel ỹ sonne of Machi. These ar the names of the mē which Moses sente to spye out the land. And Moses called the name of ‡Hosea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

And Moses sent thē forth to spie oute the land of Canaan, & sayd vnto thē: gett you southward & go vp into ỹ hie coūtrey & se that lāde what maner thing it is & the people that dwelleth therin: whether they be stronge or weake, ether fewe or many, & what thee lande is that they dwell in whether it be good or bad, & what maner of cyties they dwell in, whether they dwel in tētes or walled townes, and what maner of lande it is: whether it be fatt or leane, and whether there be trees therein or not.

And be of a good courage, and bringe of the frutes of the lande. And it was about the tyme that grapes are fyrst rype. C

And they wēt vp and searched out the lande from the wyldernesse of Zin vnto Rehob, as mē go to Hemath, and they ascended vnto the south and came vnto Hebron, where Ahiman was & Sesai and Thalmai the sonnes of ‡Enacke. Hebrō was bilt. vii. yere before* Zoā in Egipte And they came vnto ỹ riuer of Escol and they cutt doune ther a braunch wt one clouster of grapes & bare it vpō a staffe betwene twayne, and also of the pomgrānates and of the fygges of the place. The ryuer was called ‡Nehel Escol, because of the clouster of grapes which ỹ children of Jsrael cutt doune there. Luke Judic. i.d. *Otherwyse Tanis, after ỹ chalde

And they turned back agayne frō searching the land, at. xl. daies ende. And they went and came to Moses and Aarō & vnto all the multytude of the children of Jsraell, vnto the wylderneſſe of Pharan: euen vnto Cades, and broughte them worde and also vnto all the congregacyon, & shewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym sayinge: we came vnto ỹ lande whether thou sendest vs, and surely it is a land that ‡flowith with mylke & hony & here is of the frute of it. Neuerthelesse the people be strong that dwel in the land, and the cytyes are walled and exceadynge greate, and moreouer, we sawe the chyldren of Enack there. The Amalekes dwell in the south contre, and the Hethites, Jebusites and the Amorites dwel in the moūtaines, & the Cananites dwell by the see & a longe by the cost of Jordā, D

And Caleb stylled the murmur of the people agēst Moses saying, let vs go vp and conquer it, for we be able to ouercom it. But the men that went vp wyth hym sayde: We be not able to go vp agaynste the people, for they are stronger then we: And they brought vp an euell reporte of the lād which they had serched, vnto ỹ children of Jsrael sayinge: The land which we haue gone to serch it out, is a lande ỹ ‡deateth vp the inhabiters therof, and the people that we saw in it are men of statu re. And there we sawe also geauntes, the chyldren of Enack which are of the geantes. And they semed in oure syght as it were grecshoppers, and so we dyd in theyr syght.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

A AND all thee multitude cryed out, & thee people wepte thorowe out that nyght, & al the chyldrē of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron, And the whole congregation sayde vnto thē: wold God that we had dyed in the lād of Egypt: ether we wold that we had died in this wildernesse. Wherefore hath the Lorde brought vs vnto thys lande to fal vppon the swerde, that both oure wyues, and also oure chyldren shulde be a praye? is it not better that we retourne vnto Egypte agayne? And they sayde one to another: let vs make a captaine and retourne vnto Egipte agayne.

B And Moyses & Aaron fel on theyr faces before al the congregatiō of the multitude of the chyldrē of Israel. And Josua the son of Nun, & Caleb the sonne of Jephune which were of thē that serched thee land rent their clothes & spake vnto all the cōpanie of the chyldrē of Israel sayinge: The land which we walked thorow to searche it, is a very good land. Yf the lord haue lust to vs he will bring vs into thys land and geue it vs, which is a lande that floweth with milke and hony. But in any wyse rebel not agaynst the Lord, Moreouer feare ye not the people of the land, for they are but bread for vs. Their shylde is departed frō them, and the Lorde is wyth vs: feare them not therfore.

And all the whole multitude bade stone them with stones. But the glorie of the Lord appeared in the tabernacle of wittenes, vnto al the chyldren of Israell. And thee Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Howe

C longe shall thys people trayle vpon me, & how long will it be yer they beleue me, for al my signes which I haue shewed among them? I wyl smite thē wyth the pestilēce and destroy thē, and will make of the a greater nacyon & a mightyer then they.

And Moses saide vnto the Lord: then Egiptiās shal heare it, for thou brought este thys people wyth thy myghte from amonge them. And it wylbe tolde to the inhabiters of this lāde also, for they haue herde likewise, that thou the Lorde arte amōg this people, & that thou arte seene face to face, & that thy cloude standeth ouer them & that thou goest before thē by day time in a piler of a cloude and in a pyler of fyre by nyght. If thou shalt kil al this people as they were but one mā thē the nacios which haue herde the fame of the, wil speake sayeng: because the Lord was not able to bryng in thys people into the land which he sware vnto thē, therfore he slew them in the wyldernesse.

D So nowe let the power of my Lorde be greate, accordynge as thou hast spokē saying: the Lorde is long yer he be angry and ful of mercy, and suffereth sinne and trespace, and leaueth no man innocente, & vysytethe the vnryghtuousnesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, euē vpō the third and fourth generacion, be mercyful I beseche the therfore vnto the synne of thys people accordynge vnto thy greate mercye, and accordynge as thou haste forgeuen thys people from Egypte euen vnto thys place.

And the Lorde sayde: I haue forgeuē it, accordinge to the requeste. But as truly as I lyue, al the erth shalbe fylled with my glorye. For al those men whych haue seene my glorye & my myracles whych I dyd in Egipt and in the wildernesse, & yet haue tēpted me now this .x. tymes & haue not herkened vnto my voyce, there shall not one se the land whiche I sware vnto theyr fathers, nether shall any of them y rayled vpō me, se it. But my seruaunt Caleb: because there is another maner spirit with him, & because he hathe folowed me vnto the vtmost: him I wyll bryngе into the land which he hath walked in, and his sede shall conquere it, and also the Amalekites and Cananites which dwel in the a‡ This cõmaundemẽt was a fõze token of gethe ring the gentiles and the hebzues into one church of Chziste, Johan.x.c. Wherin ther is no difference betwene the Hebzue oz Iewe, and the grecian, eyther proze, eytezen and steaunger oz forener

b‡ Necessytie drone him not to gather stickes & therfoze was he worthye thys cruell deathe, foz as moche as he despysed to heare the wozd of the lozde where vnto he was so straytely cõmaunded to gette eare on the Sabothe daye.

c‡ Soche yardes shulde the christen haue deply fixed in theyr hartes, consyderinge what they are bound to the Lozd, of what God what a seruice they haue taken vpon them: that they myght wythal diligence and circumspection fulfyl that, whyche they haue promysed.&c.

¶ The rebellyon and resystaunce of Lozah Dathan and Abiram, The erth opened and swalowed them vp.

The.xvi.Chapter,

A Some wryte Kozeh ỹ son of Izachar Some wryte Abirom.

AND* Lozah the sonne of Jezechar the sonne of Cahath ỹ sonne of Leui and Dathan & * Abiram the sonne of Eliab, and On the sonne of Peleth, the sonne of Ruben: stode vp before Moyses, wyth other of the childzen of Israel.ii.hundzed & fyftie, heades of the cõgregacion, and councelers, and men of fame, and they gathered thẽ selues together agaynst Moyses and Aaron & sayd vnto them: ye haue done ynough. Foz al ỹ multitude are holy euerye one of them, and the Lozd is among them. Wohy therfoze heue ye oure selues vp aboue the congregatyõ of the lozde.

Wohẽ Moses heard it, he fel vpon hys face & spake vnto Lozah, and vnto al his cõpanye saying: to mozowe the lozde wyll shewe who is his & who is holye, and wyll take them vnto hym, and whom soeuer he hathe chosen, he wyl cause to come to him. This do: take fyzepannes, thou Lozah & al thy companye, and do fyze therin & put cens thereto befoze thee lozde to mozowe. And then whõ soeuer the lozd doth chose, the same is holy. Ye make ynough to doo ye chyldzen of Leui.

B And Moses sayde vnto Lozah: heare ye chyldzẽ of Leui, Semeth it but a smal thynge vnto you, that thee God of Israel hathe separated you froune the multitude of Israell to bzynge you to hym, to do the seruyce of the dwellynge place of the lozd and too stande befoze thee people too mynister vnto them: he hathe taken thee too hi & al thy bzethzẽ ỹ sonnes of Leui wyth the, and ye seke the office of the pzeast also Foz which cause both thou and al thy cõpanye are gathered togethet against the Lozde: foz what is Aaron, that ye shulde murmure agaynst hym.

And Moses sent to cal Dathan & Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, & they answered we wyl not come. Semeth it a smal thing vnto the that ỹ hast brought vs out of a lande ỹ floweth with mylke and honye, to kyl vs in the wildernesse. But that thou shuldest raygne ouer vs also? Moreouer ỹ hast brought vs vnto no land that flow eth with mylke & hony, nether hast geuen vs possessyons of feldes oz of vynes. Ether wilt ỹ pul out the eyes of these men? we wyll not come.

And Moses waxed very angry & said vnto ỹ Lozd: Turne not vnto their offeri ges. I haue not taken so moch as an asse from thẽ neyther haue vexed any of them Then Moses sayd vnto Lozah: Be ỹ & al thy companye befoze the Lozd both ỹ they & Aaron to mozow. And take euerye man his censer & put cens in them, and co me befoze the lozde euery man with his cẽ ser: two hundzed & fifty censers, and Aaron with his censer. And they toke euery man his censer and put fyze in thẽ & laied cens theron, and stode in the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, & Moyses and Aaron also. And Lozah gethered al the cõgre gation agaynst thẽ vnto the doze of the ta bernacle of witnesse.

C And the glozye of thee lozde appea ted vnto al the congregatiõ. And the lozd spake vnto Moyses and Aaron sayinge: seperate youre selues from this congrega cyon, that I maye consume them atonce. And they fell vpõ theyr faces & sayd* O most myghty god of the spirits of al flesh one man hath synned, & wylt thou be wzo th withal the multitude. And the lozd spa ke vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto the congregacyon and saye: Gett you awaye from aboute the dwellyng of Lozah, Da than and Abiram. And Moses rose vp & D wente vnto Dathã and Abiram, and the elders of Israel folowed him. And he spa ke vnto the congregacyon sayenge depar te from the tentes of these weked men and touche nothyng of theires: lest ye petyshe in all in all their synnes. And they gate them from the dwellynge of Corah, Dathan and Abiram on euery side. And Dathã & Abirame came out & stode in doze of their tentes with theyr wyues, ther sonnes and theyr chyldzen.

And Moses sayd: Here by ye shal know we ỹ the Lozd hath sent me to do all these wozkes, & that I haue not done thẽ of mine owne mynde: If these men dy ỹ comen deth of all men oz yf they be*visyted after ỹ visitacyon of al men, thẽ the lozd hath not sent me. But and yf the Lozd make a new thing, and the erth open hir mouth & swalow them and al that pertaine vnto them, so that they go downe at quick into hel: then ye shall vnderstand, that these men haue rayled vpon the Lozde.

*that is punished by the punishment. E

And as sone as he had made an ende of speakyng al these wozdes, ỹ grounde cloue a sonder that was vnder them, & the erth opened her mouth & swalowed them & their houses and al the mẽ that were with Corah & al their goodes. And they and al that pertayned vnto them, wẽte downe a liue vnto hel, & the erth closed vpon them, & they perysshed from amonge the congregacyõ. And al Israel that were about thẽ fledd at the cry of thẽ. For they sayd: The erthe myghte happelye swalowe vs also.

And ther came oute a fyre from the Lozde and consumed the two hundzed & fifty men that offered cens.

And the Lozd spake vnto Moses sayenge: Speake vnto Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the preaste and let him take vpthe censers oute of the burning, & scatter the fyre here and there, for thee bt censers of these synners at holowed in their deathes & let them be beaten into thyn plates and fastened vpon the altare. For they offred them before the Lozde, and therfore they are holy and they shalbe a signe vnto the chyldzen of Israell. F

And Eleazar the preast toke the brasẽ cẽsers which they that were burnt had offered, & beate them & fastened them vpon the altare, to be a remembraunce vnto the chyldzen of Israell, that no straũger which is not of the sede of Aaron, come nere to offer cens before the Lozde, that ye be not made lyke vnto Corah and hys companye as the Lozd saide vnto hym by the hande of Moses.

And on the morow al the multitude of the chyldzen of Israel murmured agaynst Moyses and Aaron, sayinge: ye haue kylled the people of the Lozde. And when the multytude was gathered agaynst Moyses and Aaron they loked towarde the tabernacle of witnesse. And behold, the cloude had couered it and the glozy of the Lozde appeared. And Moyses & Aaron went before the tabernacle of witnesse. And the Lozd spake vnto Moyses sayinge: Gett you from thys congregation, that I may consume them quyckly. And they fel vpõ theyr faces. G

And Moses sayd vnto Aarõ: take a cẽser and put fyre therin oute of the alter, & poure on cẽs, & go quickly vnto the cõgregatiõ and make an attonement for them. For ther is wrath gone out from the lozd, and ther is a plage begõne. And Aarõ toke as Moyses cõmaũded him, & ran vnto the cõgregation: & behold, the plage was begon among the people, and he putte on cens, & made an attonemẽt for the people. And he & stode betwene ỹ dead, and thẽ ỹ were a lyue, and the plage ceased. And the nõbze of them that dyed in the plage, were xiiii. thousand & seuẽ hundzed: besyde thẽ that dyed about ỹ busines of Corah And Aarõ wẽte agayne vnto Moses vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, and the plage ceased.

¶ Of the redde kowe. The lawe of hym ỹ dieth in the tabernacle: and of hym also that touchethe anye vncleane thinge

The.xix. Chapter.

And ỹ Lord spake vnto Moses & Aaron saying: this is ỹ A ordinaũce of the lawe whych the Lord cõmaũdeth saying: speake vnto thee chyldren of Israell and let them take the redde kowe without spot wherein is no blemyshe and which neuer bare pocke vpon her. And ye shal geue her vnto Eleazar the preyest & he shal bringe her wythout the hoste & cause her to be slayne before hym.

And Eleazar the preist shal take of her bloude vpõ hys fynger, & sprinkle it streyght toward the tabernacle of witnesse. vii tymes. And he shal cause thee kowe to be burnt in hys syghte: both skyn, flesche and bloud, with the dounge also. And let thee preist take Cedar wood, and Isope & purple cloth, and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. And let ỹ preist washe his clothes and bathe his flesche in water, & then come into the hoste, and the preist shalbe vnclean vnto the euen.

And he that burneth her, shal wash his B clothes in water & bathe hys flesche also in water, & be vncleane vntyl euen. And one that is cleane, shall go and take vp the asshes of the kowe, and put thẽ without the hooste in a cleane place, wher they shall be kepte to make sprinklinge water for thee multitude of the chyldren of Israel: for it is a synneoffring. And let hym that gathered the asshes of the kowe, washe hys clothes, & remayne vncleane vntil euen. And thys shalbe vnto the chyldren of Israel & vnto the straunger that dwelleth among them, a maner a✝ for euer.

He that teacheth any dead person, shal be vncleane seuen dayes. And he shall puryfye hym selfe wyth the asshes the thyrde daye and then he shal be cleane the seuẽth daye. The .xx. Chapter.

AND the whole multitude of the chyldrē of Israel, came into the desert of Sin, in thre fyrste moneth, and the people dwelt at Cades. And ther dyed Mir Jam and was buried ther. Moreouer ther was no water for the multitude, wherfore they gathered thē selues tōgether agaynst Moses & against Aarō And the people chode wyth Moyses and spake sayinge: wolde god that we had perysshed when our brethren perished before the Lorde. Wohy haue ye brought the congregatiō of the lord vnto this wildernes, that both we and our catel shuldde here? Wherfore brought ye vs out of Egipt to bring vs into this vngracious place, wher is no place of sede nor of fygges nor vynes nor of pōgranates, neyther is ther any water to drinke.

And Moyses & Aaron went frō the cōgregatiō vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnesse, & fel vpō theyr faces. And the glorye of the Lorde appeared vntō them. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses saying take the staffe, & gether thou & thy brother Aarō the congregatiō together, & saye vnto the rocke before theyr eies, that he geue forth his water. And thou shalt bring the water out of the rocke, and shalt geue the company drinke, and theyr beastes also.

And Moyses toke the staffe frō before the Lorde, as he commaunded hym. And Moyses and Aarō gethered the cōgregation together before the rocke, and he layde vnto thē heare ye rebellious, muste we fet you water out of this rocke? ¶ Of vowes when they shalbe kept oz when not.

The.xxx.Chapter.

AND Moses spake vnto the heades of the trybe of ỹ children of Israell sayeng:thys is the thing which the Lozde cõmaunded. If any mã vowe a vow vnto the lozd oz swere an othe & bynd his soule,he shal not go backe wt his wozde:but shal fulfill al that prozceadeth out of hys mouth. A

If a damsell vowe a vowe vnto the Lozde and bynde her selfe byinge in her fathers house and vnmaryed. If her father heare her vowe and bonde which she hath made vpon her soule,& hold his peace therto:thẽ al her vowes & bõdes which she hath made vpon her soule shal stande in effecte.But & yf her father forbyd her B the same daye ỹ he heareth it, none of her vowes noz bondes whych she hath made vpon her soule shalbe of value,& the Lozde shall forgeue her, because her father forbade her.

If she had an husband whẽ she vowed oz pronounced oughte out of her lyppes wherwith she bond her soule,and her husbande hearde it & helde his peace there at the same daye he hearde it.Then her vowes and her bondes wherwith she bounde her soule, shall stande in effecte.But & yf her husbande forbade her the same daye that they heard it,then hathe he made her vowe which she had vpon her of none effecte,& that also which she pronounced wt her lyppes wherwyth she bound her soule,& the Lozd shall forgeue her.

The vowe of a wedowe and of her that is deuorced, and all that they haue bound C de their soules with all, shall stande in effecte with them.

If she vowed in her husbandes house oz bound her soule with an oth,& her husbande hearde it and helde his peace and forbad her not: thẽ all her vowes & boũdes wherwt she bound her soule, shal stãd But yf her husbãde disanulled them the same daye that he hearde them, then nothinge that proceded out of her lippes in vowes & boundes wherwithe she bounde her soule shal stande in effecte:for her husbãd hath loused them.And the Lozde shal forgeue her.

All vowes & othes that bynd to humble the soule, maye her husband stablysh D

Dor breake. But yf her husbād hold his peace frō one day vnto another, thē he stablisheth al her vowes & bōdes which she had vpō her, because he held hys peace ȳ same day ȳ he hearde thē. And yf he afterwarde breake thē, he shal beare her syn him selfe.

These are the ordinaunces whiche the Lorde cōmaunded Moses, betwene a mā and hys wyfe, & betwene the father & hys daughter, beinge a damsell in her fathers house.

And the oxen were. xxxvi. thousande, of which the Lordes parte was. lxxii. And ỹ asses were. xxx. thousande fyue hundred, of whych the Lordes part was lxi. And ỹ wemen were. xvi. thousande, of which the F Lordes parte was. xxxii. soules, And Moses gaue that summe whych was the Lordes heue offeryng vnto Eleazar the preaste: as the Lord cõmaunded Moses. And the other halfe of the chyldren of Israell which Moses separated from the men of warre (that is to wete, the halfe that pertained vnto the *cõgregacion) was. iii. hũdred thousande and. xxxvii. thousande & fyue hũdred shepe: & .xxxvi. thousand orẽ and. xxx. thousande asses and fiue hũdred & .xvi. thousand wemẽ. And Moses toke of thys halfe that pertayned vnto the children of Israel: one of euery fyftye, bothe of the wemen and of the catell, and gaue thẽ vnto the Leuites whych wayted vpõ the habitacyon of the Lorde, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And the officers of thousandes of the hoste, the captaynes ouer the thousandes & the captaynes ouer the hundredes came forth and sayd vnto
G Moses: Thy seruauntes haue taken the summe of the mẽ of warre, which were vnder oure hand, & there lacked, not one mã of thẽ. We haue therfore brought a presẽt vnto the Lord what euery mã foũd of Jewels of golde, cheyns, bracelettes, rynges, earynges & spangels, to make an attonement for our soules before the Lorde.

*Whyche was not at the warre.

And Moses and Eleazar toke the golde of them: Jewels of all maner facyons. And all the golde of thee heueofferyng of the lord, of the captaynes ouer thousãdes & hũdredes was. xvi. thousãd. vii. hũdred and. l. sycles, for the mẽ of warre had spoiled, euery man for him selfe. And Moses & Eleazar ỹ preast toke the golde of ỹ captaynes ouer the thousandes ouer the hundredes, and broughte it in to the tabernacle of wytnesse: to be a memoryall vnto ỹ chyldren of Israell, before the Lord.

¶ To Rubẽ and Gad and to halfe the trybe of Manasses, is promysed the possession beyounde Jordane eastward: yf they bring theyr brethrẽ into the lãd of promyse.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

THe childrẽ of Ruben and the A children of Gad, had an exceadyng great multitude of catel. And whẽ they sawe the land of Jazer & the lande of Galaad ỹ it was an apte place for catell, they came & spake vnto Moses & Eleazar the preast & vnto the Lordes of the cõgregacyon saying. The land of Ataroth & Dibõ & Jazer, and Nemrah & Hesbon & Elealeh and Sabam and Nebo & Beõ which contre the Lorde smote before ỹ cõgregaciõ of Israel: is a lande for catell & we thy seruauntes haue catell wherfore (sayde they) yf we haue founde grace in thy syght, lett this lande be geuen vnto thy seruauntes to possesse, & bring vs not ouer Jordan.

And Moyses sayd vnto ỹ children of Gad & of Ruben: shal your brethrẽ go to B
warre & ye tarye here? Wherfore discorage ye the hertes of the children of Israel for to go ouer into the land whych the lorde hath geuen them? *Thys dyd youre fathers, when I sent them from Cades barne to se the lande. And they wente vp euẽ vnto the ryuer of Escol and sawe the lãd and discoraged ỹ hertes of the children of Israel, ỹ they sholde not go in to ỹ lande whych the lorde had geuen them. *Num. xiii. d

And the lorde was wroth the same tyme and sware sayenge, *None of the mẽ C that came out of Egipte from twentye yere olde aboue, shall se the lande whych I sware vnto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob because they haue not cõtinually folowed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the *Num. xiii. e.

Kenesite, & Josua the sonne of Nun, for they haue folowed me cõtinually. And ỹ lord was angry with Israell, & made thẽ wãdre in the wylderneſſe .xl. yere, vntyl al that generacion that had done euell in the syght of the Lorde were consumed.

And beholde, ye are rysen vp in youre fathers steade, to the encreaſe of synfull men, & to augment ỹ feareſe wrathe of the Lord to Israell warde. For yf ye tourne awaye from after him, he wyll yet againe leaue ỹ people in the wildernes, so shal ye destroy all this folke. And they went nere him and sayde: we wyl bylde shepefoldes here for oure shepe & for oure catell, and
D cyties for oure chyldren: But we oure selues wil go ready armed before the childrẽ of Israel, vntyll we haue brought thẽ vnto their place. And our chyldren shal dwel in the fenced cyties because of the inhabiters of the lande. And we will not retourne vnto oure houses, vntyll the chyldren of Israel haue inhereted: euery man his enheritaunce. For we wil not enheret with them on yonder syde Jordan forwarde, because our enherytaunce is falled to vs on this syde Jordan eastwarde.

Josue. 1c And Moses sayde vnto them: * If ye wyl do this thyng, that ye wyl go all harneſſed: before the Lord to warre, and wil go al of you in harneſſe ouer Jordan before ỹ lord, vntyl he haue cast out his enemyes before him, & vntil the lande be subdued before ỹ Lord, thẽ ye shal retourne &
E be without sinne against the lord & against Israel, & this lande shalbe youre possessiõ before the Lord But & yf ye wil not do so, beholde, ye sinne agẽst the lord: & be sure your synne wyl fynde you out. Bild youre cyties for your chyldren & foldes for your shepe, & se ye do that ye haue spoken. And the Childrẽ of Gad and of Ruben spake vnto Moses sayenge: thy seruauntes wyl do as my lord cõmaundeth. Oure chyldrẽ our wyues substance & all oure catel shall remayne here in the cityes of Galaad. But * we thy seruauntes will Josu. xliii. c go al harneſſed for ỹ warre vnto battel before the Lorde, as my lorde hath saide.

And Moses cõmaũded Eleazar ỹ preaF ste: & Josue the sonne of Nun and ỹ auncient heades of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel, & sayde vnto them: If the chyldren of Gad & Ruben wil go with you ouer Jordan, al prepared to fyghte before ỹ Lord: then when the lande is subdued vnto you, geue thẽ the land of Galaad to possesse, but & yf they wyl not go ouer wt you in harneſſe, then they shall haue their possessions among you in the lãd of Canaan. And the childrẽ of Gad & Rubẽ answered saying: ỹ which ỹ Lord hath sayd vnto thy seruaũtes we wil do. * We wyl Josu. xxii. a go harnessed before the Lord into the lãd of Canaan, & the possession of our enheritaunce shalbe on thys syde Jordan.

And Moses gaue vnto the chyldren of Gad and of Ruben & vnto halfe ỹ tribe of Manasse the sonne of Josephe the kyngdome of Sehon kynge of the Amorites, and the kyngdome of Og kyng of Basan, the land that lõged vnto the cities therof in ỹ costes of the countre rounde a-G boute. And the chyldren of Gad bylt Dibon, Ataroth, Aroer, Atroth, Sophan, Jaeser, Jegabea, Bethnimra and Betharan fenced cytyes, and they bylte foldes for the shepe. And the chyldren of Rubẽ bilte Hesbon, Eleale, Kiriathaim, Nebo, Baal Meon & turned their rammes, and Sibma also: and gaue names vnto the cyties whych they bylte.

Gen. xlv. b And the * chyldren of Machir the sõne of Manasse went to Galaad and toke it and put out ỹ Amorites that were therin. An Moses gaue Galaad vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, & he dwelte therin. Deut. iii. b. And * Jahir the sonne of Manasse went and toke the small townes therof, and called them the townes of Jair. And Nobah went and toke Kenath with the townes lõgynge therto, and called it Nobah after hys owne name.

¶ The ende of the.iiii. Boke of Moyses.

¶ A Prologe vpon the fyfte Boke of Moyses called Deuteronomium.

THis is a Boke worthy to be rede in, daye & nyght, & neuer to be out of handes. For it is the moſt excellent of al the bokes of Moſes. It is eaſie alſo, & light, & a very pure goſpell that is to wete, a preachinge of fayth & loue: deducing the loue to God out of faith & the loue of a mans neyghbour, out of the loue of God. Herein alſo ỹ mayſt learne righte meditaciõ or contẽplation, whych is nothing els ſaue the calling to mynde & a repetinge in the hert of the glorioufe & wonderfull dedes of God, & of his terrible handeling of his enemies and mercyful entreating of thẽ that come when he calleth them which thing this boke doth and almoſt nothinge els.

In the. iiii. fyrſt chap. he reherſeth the benefites of god done vnto thẽ: to prouoke thẽ to loue, & his mighty dedes done aboue al natural power & beyonde al natural capacite of faith, that they might beleue God & truſte in him, & in his ſtrẽgth. And thyrdly he reherſeth the fyrce plages of God vpõ his enemies & on thẽ which thorow vnpaciẽtle & vnbelefe fel frõ him: partly to tame & abate the appetites of the fleſhe which alway fight agaynſt the ſpirite: & partly to bridle the wilde raging luſtes of thẽ in whõ was no ſpyryte: that though they had no power to do good of loue, yet at the leſt way they ſhuld abſteyne frõ outward euel for feare of wrath & cruel vẽgeaunce which ſhuld fal vpõ thẽ & ſhortly finde thẽ out, yf they caſt vp goddes nurter & runne at riotte beyonde his lawes & ordinaunces. Moreouer he chargeth thẽ to put nought to, nor take ought away frõ gods wordes, but to be diligent only to kepe thẽ in remẽbraũce & in the hart & to teache theyr chyldrẽ, for feare of forgetting. And to beware ether of making ymagerie, or of bowinge thẽ ſelues vnto ymages ſaying: Ye ſawe no ymage whẽ god ſpake vnto you, but herde a voyce only & that voyce kepe & ther vnto cleaue, for it is your lyfe & it ſhal ſaue you. And finally yf (as the frayltie of al fleſhe is) they ſhal haue fallẽ from god & he haue brought thẽ in to trouble, aduerſyte, & cõbraunce and all neceſſyte: yet yf they repent and turne, he promyſeth thẽ that God ſhal remembre his mercy & receaue thẽ to grace agayne.

In the fifte he repeteth the. x. commaundmẽtes & that they myght ſe a cauſe to do them of loue, he biddeth thẽ remẽbre that they were bound in Egipt & how God delyuered them with a mightie hand & a ſtretched out arme, to ſerue him and to kepe his commaundmẽtes: as Paule ſayeth ỹ we ar bought vỽ chriſtes bloude & therfore are hys ſeruauntes & not our owne, & oughte to ſeke his wyl & honoure only and to loue and ſerue one another for hys ſake.

In the ſixt he ſetteth out the fountayne of al cõmaundemẽtes: that is that they beleue how that ther is but one God ỹ doeth al, & therfore ought only to be loued with al the hert, al the ſoule & al ỹ myght. For loue only is the fulfilling of the commaũdemẽtes, as paule alſo ſaieth vnto the Romaines, & Galathians likewiſe. He warneth thẽ alſo that they forgett not the commaundmẽtes, but teach thẽ their chyldern & to ſhew their children alſo how God delyuered thẽ out of thee bondage of thee Egyptians to ſerue him and hys commaundmentes, that the children myght ſe a cauſe to worke of loue, lykewyſe.

The ſeuenth is all together of faith: he remoueth all occaſions that mighte withdrawe them from the fayth, and pulleth them alſo from all confidence in thẽ ſelues, and ſturreth thẽ vp to truſt in god boldly and onlye.

Of the eyght chaptre thou ſeyſt how that the cauſe of al temptation is, that a mã might ſe his owne herte. For whẽ I am brought into that extremite that I muſte ether suffre or forsake god, thē I shal feale how moche I beleue & trust in him, & howe moch I loue him. In lyke maner, yf my brother do me euel for my good, thē yf I loue him when ther is no cause in him, I se that my loue was of god, & euē so yf I then hate hym, I fele and perceaue that my loue was but worldly, And finally he stureth thē to the fayth & loue of God, & dryueth them frō all confidence of theyr owne selues.

In the.ix. also he moueth thē vnto faith & to put their trust in god, & draweth them frō cōfidēce of thē selues by rehersing al the wickednes which they had wrought frō the.i.day he knew thē vnto ỹ same day. And in ỹ end he repeteth how he cōfuted God in horeb & ouercame him w̄ prayer, wher thou mayst learne the right maner to praye

In the.x. he rekeneth vp the pith of al lawes & the keping of the lawe in the harte: which is to feare god, loue him, & serue him withal their hart soule & might & kepe his cōmaūdemētes of loue. And he sheweth a reason, why they shuld that do: euē because god is lord of heuē & erth, & hath also done al for thē of his owne goodnes wout their deseruing. And thē out of the loue vnto god he bringeth the loue vnto a mās neyghbour saying: god is lord aboue al lordes & loueth al his seruaūtes indifferētly, as wel the poore & feble & the straūger, as the riche & mightye, & therfore wil that we loue the poore & the strāger. And he addeth a cause, for ye were strāgers & god deliuered you & hath brought you vnto a lād wher ye be at home. Loue ỹ strāger therfore for his sake

In the.xi. he exhorteth thē to loue & feare god, & reherseth ỹ terrible dedes of god vpō his enemies, & on thē ỹ rebelled agēst him. And he testifieth vnto thē both what wil folow yf they loue & feare god, & what also yf they despise hī & breke his cōmādemēt.

In the.xii. he cōmaundeth to put out of the way al ỹ might be an occasiō to hurt ỹ fayth & forbiddeth to do ought after theyr owne myndes, or to altre the word of god.

In ỹ.xiii. he forbiddeth to herkē vnto ought saue vnto gods word: no though he he which coūfeleth cōtrarie shuld come with miracles, as Paul doth vnto ỹ Galathiās.

In the.xiiii. the beestes ar forbiddē, partly for ỹ vnclēnes of thē, & partely to cause hate betwene the hethē & them. ỹ they haue no cōuersatiō together, in ỹ one abhorreth what ỹ other eateth. Vnto this.xv. chap. al pertayne vnto fayth & loue chefly. And in this.xv, he beginneth to entreate more specially of thinges pertayning vnto the comē welth & equite & exhorteth vnto the loue of a mās neyghbour. And in the.xvi. among other he forgetteth not the same. And in the.xvii. he entreateth of right & equite chefly in so moch ỹ when he loketh vnto fayth, & vnto the puntshmente of ydolatres, he yet endeth in a lawe of loue & equite: forbidding to cōdemne any man vndet lesse then.ii. witnesses at the lest & cōmaundeth to bringe the trespacers vnto the open gate of the cytie where al the men go in & out, that al men might heare the cause & se that he had but right. But the pope hath founde a better waye, euen to appolle him without any accuser & that secretely, that no mā knowe whether he haue right or no, ether hate his articles or answere: for feare lest the people shuld serche whether it were so or no.

In the.xviii. he forbiddeth al false & deuelish crafftes ỹ hurt true faith. Moreouer because ỹ people coude not heare ỹ voyce of the lawe spokē to thē in fyre, he promiseth thē another pphet to bring thē better tidinges which was spokē of christ our sauiour

The.xix. & so forth vnto ỹ ende of the.xxvii. is almost al togethet of loue vnto our neyghbours & of lawes of equite & honestie with now & then a respect of fayth.

The.xxviii. is a terrible chap. & to be trēbled at: A christē mās hart might wel blede for sorow at ỹ reding of it, for feare of the wrath ỹ is lyke to come vpō vs according vnto al ỹ curses which ỹ ther readest. For according vnto these curses hath god delte with all nacions, after they were fallen into the abhominacions of blindnesse.

The.xxix. is lyke terrible w̄ a godly lessō in ỹ ende ỹ we shuld leue serching of gods secretes & geue diligence to walke according to that he hath opened vnto vs. For the kepinge of the commaundementes of god teacheth wisdō as thou mayst se in the same chapter, where Moses sayth, kepe the cōmaundementes, that ye may vnderstande what ye ought to do. But to serch gods secretes blindeth a mā as it is wel proued by the swarmes of our sophisters, whose wyse bokes are now when we loke in the scripture, founde but full of folishnes.

Deuteronomium

The fyfte Boke of Moyses called Deuteronomium.

¶ A breke rehersal of thinges done before, from the pitching at mount Horeb vntyl they came to Cades barne.

The.I.Chapter.

A THese be thee wordes whyche Moyses spake vnto al Israell, on the other syde Jordan in the wildernesse & in the feldes by the redde see, betwene Pharan and Tophell, Laban, Hazaroth and Disahab. xi. dayes iourneye from Horeb vnto Cades barne, by thee waye that leadeth vnto mounte Seir, And it fortuned the fyrste daye of the. xi. moneth in the fortyethe yeare that Moyses spake vnto thee chyldren of Israell accordynge vnto a'l hat the Lorde hadde geuen hym in cõmaundement vnto them after that he had smytten Sehon the kynge of thee Amorites whyche dwelte in Hesbon, and Og kynge of Basan whyche dwelte at Astaroth in Edrai.

On the other syde Jordan in the lande of Moab, Moyses began to declare thys lawe saying: the Lord our God spake vnto vs in a Horeb saying: Ye haue dwelte longe ynough in this mount: depart therfore & take your iourney & go vnto ỹ hylles of the Amorites & vnto all places nye there vnto: both feldes, hylles, and dales, and vnto the south & vnto the sees syde in the land of Canaan, & vnto Libanon: euẽ
B vnto the great ryuer Euphrates. Behold I hauc set the land before you: go in therfore and possesse the lande whych the Lorde sware vnto youre fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto them and theyr seade after them.

And I sayd vnto you the same season I am not able to beare you my self alone. For the Lorde your God hath multiplied you: so that ye are thys day as the starres of heauen in nombre (thee Lorde God of youre fathers make you a thousande tymes so many moo as ye ar, and blesse you as he hath promysed you) howe (sayde I) can * I my selfe alone, beare the combraũce, charge and stryfe that is amonge you: bryng therfore men of wysdomme and of vnderstandinge and expert, knowẽ amonge youre trybes, that I maye make them ruelars ouer you. And ye answered me & sayd: that whych thou hast spokẽ is good to be done. And then I toke the heades of youre trybes, men of wysdomme and that were experte, and made them ruelars ouer you: captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes ouer fyftie and ouer ten, and offycers among your trybes.

And I charged youre Judges the same tyme saynge: heare youre brethren & iudge ryghteously betwene euerye man and hys brother and the straunger that is wyth hym. Se that ye knowe noo man in Judgemente: * but heare the smal as wel as the greate and be afrayed of noo man, for the Judgemente is Gods. And the cause that is to harde for you, bryng vnto me and I wyll heare it. And I cõmaunded you thee same season, all the thynges whych ye shulde doo. And then we departed frome Horeb and walked thorowe all that great and terryble wylderneſſe as ye haue sene alonge by the waye that leadeth vnto thee hylles of thee Amorites, as thee Lorde oure God commaunded vs, and came to Cades barne. And there I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hylles of the Amorites, whyche the Lord oure God dothe geue vnto vs. Behold, thee Lorde
D thy God hath sette the lande * before the, goo vp and conquere it, as the Lorde god of thy fathers saythe vnto thee: feare not, neyther be discoraged. And then ye came vnto me euerye one and sayde: Let vs sende men before vs, to searche vs oute thee lande and too bryng vs worde agayne, bothe what waye we shall goo vp by, and vnto what cyties we shall come. And thee saynge pleased me well and I toke twelue men of you, of euerye tribe one. And they departed and wente vp into thee hye countrey and came vnto the ryuer Escoll, and searched it oute, and toke of the frute of the lande in theyr handes and brought it downe vnto vs and broughte vs word agayne and sayde: it is a good land whyche the Lord oure God dothe geue vs.

Notwythstandynge ye wouldc not consente to goo vppe, but were dysobediente vnto the mouthe of the Lorde youre God, and murmured in youre tentes and sayde:

The. iiii. Chapter.

A ND now herken Israel vnto the ordinaunces & lawes whi che I teache you, for to do the that ye maye lyue & go & con quere the land which the lord God of your fathers geueth you. Ye shal ¶put nothing vnto the worde which I co maunde you nether do ought there from, that ye maye kepe the cõmaundemẽtes of the Lord your God which I commaunde you. Youre eyes haue sene what the Lord dyd vnto Baal Peor: for all the men that folowed Baal Peor, the Lord youre God hath destroyed from amonge you. But ye that cleaue vnto the Lorde your God are alyue euery one of you this daye. Behold I haue taught you ordinaunces & lawes soche as the Lord my god cõmaunded me that ye shuld do euen so in the lande whether ye go to possesse it.

Kepe them therfore and do them * for that is your wysdom and vnderstanding in the syghte of the nacions: whiche when they haue herde all these ordinaũces, shal saye: O what a wyse and vnderstandyng people is this greate nacion. For what na cion is so greate that hath Goddes so nye vnto hym: as the Lorde oure God is nye vnto vs, in all thinges, when we cal vnto hym: Ye, & what nacyon is so greate that hath ordinaunces and lawes so ryghteous se, as all this lawe which I set before you thys daye.

Take hede to thy selfe therfore onely & kepe thy soule diligently, that thou forget not the thinges which thyne eyes haue sene, and that they departe not out of thyne harte, all the dayes of thy lyfe: but teache them thy sonnes and thy sonnes sonnes.

Teache your chyldren.

The daye that I stode before the Lorde your God in Horeb, when he sayde vnto me, gether me the people together, that I maye make them heare my wordes & they maye learne to feare me as longe as they lyue vppon the earth and that they maye teache theyr chyldren: ye came & stode also vnder the hyll, and thee hyll burnte wythe fyre: euen vnto the myddes of heaue, and there was darkenesse, cloudes and myste. And the Lord spake vnto you out of the fyre and ye hearde ‡ the voyce of the wor des: but sawe no ymage, saue herde a voy ce onely. ‡ The voyce is altogether: vnto that ymage ought men to bowe theyr hertes

And he declared vntoyou his couenaũt which he commaunded you to do, euen. x. verses and wrote them in twoo tables of stone. And the Lord commaunded me the same season to teache you ordinaunces & lawes, for to do them in the lande whether ye go to possesse it. C

☞ Take hede vnto your selues diligẽtly as pertayning vnto your soules, for ye sawe noo maner of ymage the daye when the Lorde spake vnto you in Horeb oute of the fyre lest ye marre your selues & make you grauen ymages after what soeuer lykenesse it be: whether after the lykenesse of man or womã or any maner beast that is on the earth or of anye maner fethered foule that flyeth in the ayre, or of any maner worme that crepeth on the earth or of any maner fyshe that is in thee water beneth the earth: Yea and leste thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heauen, and when thou seest the sunne and the moone and the star res and whatsoeuer is conteyned in hea uen, shuldest be disceaued & shuldest bow thy selfe vnto them and serue the thinges whych the Lord thy God hath distributed vnto all nacyons that are vnder all quar ters of heauen.

For the Lorde toke you and broughte you out of the ‡ yron fornace of Egypte, to be vnto hym a people of enheritaunce, as it is come to passe thys daye. Furthermore, the Lorde was angrye wyth me for your sakes & sware, that I shuld not goo ouer Jordan and that I shoulde not goo vnto that good land, whych the Lord thy God geueth the to enheritaunce. For I must dye in this lande, & shall not go ouer Jordan. But ye shal go ouer and conque re that good lande.

☞ Take hede vnto your selues therfore, that ye forgette not the appoyntmente of the Lorde your God whych he made with you, and that ye make you no grauẽ yma ge of whatsoeuer it be that the Lorde thy God hath forbidden the. For the Lorde thy God is a ‡ consuminge fyre, and a ge louse God. D Ye

☞ If after thou hast gotten chyldren and chyldrens children and hast dwelt lõge in ỹ lande, ye shall marre your selues and make grauē ymages after the liknes of what soeuer it be, & shal worke wekednesse in the sight of the Lorde thy God, to prouoke him I call heauen and erth to recorde vnto you this day, that ye shal shortely perysh frõ of the land whether ye go ouer Jordan to possesse it: ye shal not prolõge your dayes therin but shall shortely be destroyed. And the Lorde shall skater you amonge naciõs, & ye shalbe lefte few in nõbre amonge the people whether the Lorde shal bringe you: and there ye shal serue goddes which are ỹ workes of mãs hande, wod & stone whyche nether se nor heare nor eate nor smell. Neuerthelater ye shal seke the Lord your God euē ther, and shall fynde him yf thou seke him wt al thyne herte and with all thy soule. In thy trybulacyon and when al these thynges are come vpon the, euen in the later dayes, thou shalt turne vnto the Lord thy God, & shalt herken vnto his voyce. For the Lorde thy God is a pitefull God: he wil not forsake ỹ nether destroie ỹ, nor forget the apoyntment made wt thy fathers which he sware vnto them.

For aske I pray the of the dayes that are past which were before the, sence the daye that God created man vpõ the erth and from the one syde of heauē vnto the other whether any thing hath bene like vnto thys greate thinge or whether any soch thing hath bene herde as it is, ỹ a nacion hath heard ỹ voyce of God speaking out of fire as thou hast herde and yet liued: ether whether God assayed to go and take him a people from amonge nacions, thorow temptaciõs and sygnes and wõdres and thorow warre and with a mighty hãde and a* stretched out arme and wythe myghtye terreble syghtes, accordyng vnto all that the Lorde youre God did vnto you in Egipte before your eyes.

Unto ỹ it was shewed that thou mighte knowe, how that the Lorde he is God & that there is none but he. * Out of heauen he made the heare his voyce to nourter the, and vpon the erth he shewed ỹ his greate fyre, and thou heardest his wordes out of the fyre. And because he loued thy fathers, therfore he chose their seed after them & brought the out with his presence and with his mightye power of* Egipt: to thrust out naciõs greater & myghtyer then thou before the, to bryng the in & to geue the their land to enheritaũce: as it is come to passe this daye.

The. viii. Chapter.

ALl the cõmaundemẽtes whych I commaund the this day ye shall kepe for to do them, that ye may lyue & multiplye and go and possesse the land which the lord sware vnto youre fathers. And thynke on all the waye which ỹ Lorde thy God lead the this. xl. yere in ỹ wildernesse, for to humble the and to proue the, to wete what was in thyne herte, whether thou woldest kepe his commaũdmẽtes or no. He a‡ humbled the and made the hõgre & fead the with mã which nether ỹ nor thy father knew of, to make the know that a man must not lyue by bread only: but by al that procedeth out of the mouth of the Lord must a man lyue. b‡ Thy ray B mẽt wared not olde vpon the, nether dyd thy fete swel thys. xl. yere.

Understande therefore in thyne herte that as a man nourtereth his sonne, euen so the Lorde thy God nourtereth ỹ. Kepe therfore ỹ commaundementes of the lord thy God that thou walke in hys wayes & ỹ thou feare him. For the Lord thy God bringeth the in to a good lande, a land of riuers of water, of foũtaines and of sprin ges that spring out bothe in valeyes and hylles: a lande of whete and of barlye, of vynes, figtrees and pomgranates, a land of olyue trees with oyle and of hony: a lãde wherin thou shal not eate bread in skarcenesse, and where thou shalt lacke nothinge, a land whose stones are yron, and out of whose hylles thou shalt dygge brasse. Whẽ ỹ hast eaten therfore and fylled thy selfe, then blesse the Lord for the good lãde which he hath geuen the.

But beware that thou forgett not the Lord thy god, that thou woldest not kepe his commaundmẽtes, lawes and ordinaũces which I cõmaunde the this day: yee & whẽ thou hast eaten and filled thy selfe & hast bylt godly houses and dwel therin, & when thy beasse and thy shepe are waxed many & thy siluer and gold is multiplied & al that thou hast encreased, thẽ beware lest thyne hert rise & thou forgett the Lorde thy God which brought the out of the land of Egipte ỹ house of bondage, and which lead ỹ in the wildernesse both greate and terrible with fyry serpẽtes and scorptiõs and drouth wher was no water which brought the water out of the rocke of flint: which fead the in ỹ wyldernesse with Man wherof thy fathers knewe not for to ‡humble the and to proue the, that he myght do the good at thy later ende.

D ‡ And beware that thou say not in thine herte, my power & the might of myne owne hand hath done me al these actes: But remembre the Lord thy God, how that it is he whiche gaue the power to do mãful lye, for to make good the promesse which he sware vnto thy fathers, as it is come to passe thys daye.

For yf thou shalt forgett the Lorde thy God and shalt walke after straunge goddes & serue them & worshippe them. I tell tyrye vnto you this day, that ye shal surely perysh. As the nacions which the lorde destroyeth before the, euen so ye shal perish because ye wolde not herken vnto ỹ voice of the Lord youre God.

The.ix. Chapter.

A HEeare Israell, ỹ goeste ouer Jordã this daie, to go & conquere naciõs greater & mightier then thy selfe and cytyes great and *‡walled vp to heuen, and people greate and tal, euen ỹ childrẽ of the Enakims, which thou knowest and of whom thou hast herde say who is able to stand before the childrẽ of Enack? But vnderstande this daye that ỹ Lorde thy god which goeth ouer before ỹ a cõsumyng fire, he shal destroy thẽ and he shall subdue them before the. And thou shalte cast them out, & bryng them out, and bryng them to nought quickely as the Lorde hath sayde vnto the.

Wherin is mans righteousnes

☞ Speake not in thyne hert, after that ỹ Lord thy God hath cast them oute before the sayenge: for my righteousnes the lord hath brought me in to possesse thys land. Nay, but for the wickednes of these nacyons the Lord doth cast thẽ out before the. It is not for thy righteousnes sake and right hert ỹ thou goest to possesse theyr lãde: But partly for the wickednes of these naciõs, the lord thy God doth cast thẽ out before the, & partly to perfourme that whych ỹ lord thy god sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

B Understande therfore that it is not for thy righteousnes sake, that the lorde thy God doth geue the thys good lãd to possesse it, for thou arte a stiffnecked people. Remeinembre and forget not howe thou prouokedest the lorde thy God in the wildernesse: for sẽce the day that thou camest out of the land of Egipte vntyll ye came vnto this place, ye haue rebelled agaynst the lorde. * Also in Horeb ye angred the lorde so that the lorde was wrothe wythe you, euẽ to haue destroyed you, after that I was gone vp in to the mount, to fet the tables of stone the tables of the appointmente whyche the lorde made wythe you. And I abode in the hyll.xl.dayes and.xl. nyghtes and nether ate bread nor danke water. * And the lorde delyuered me two tables of stone wrytten with the finger of God, and in them was accordynge to all the wordes which the lord said vnto you in the mounte out of the fyre in the daye when the people were gathered together.

And when the.xl.dayes & .xl. nyghtes were ended, the Lorde gaue me the two tables of stone, the tables of the testamẽt, and sayde vnto me. *Upp, and get the downe quickely from hẽce, for thy people which thou hast brought out of Egipt, haue marred them selues. They are turned attonce out of the waye, whych I cõmaũded them, and haue made them a God of metall. Furthermore the Lorde spake vnto me sayinge: I se thys people howe that it is a stiffenecked people, let me alone that I maye destroy them and put out the name of them from vnder heauẽ, and I will make of the a nacion both greater and mo than they.

C And I turned away and came downe frõ the hil (and the hyl burnt with fyre) & had ỹ two tables of the appointmẽt in my handes. And whẽ I loked & sawe that ye had synned against ỹ lord your God and had made you a calfe of metal & had turned attonce out of the way which ỹ Lord had cõmaunded you * Thẽ I toke ỹ two tables & cast them out of my two hãdes, & brake them before your eies. * And I fel before the Lord: euẽ as at the first time. xl daies & .xl. nyghtes & nether ate bread nor dranke water ouer al your synnes which ye had synned in doing wickedly in ỹ sight of ỹ lord & in prouoking him. For I was afrayed of the wrath & fearsnesse wherwith the Lord was angrie withe you, euen for to haue destroyed you. But the Lord herde my petycyon at that tyme also.

The Lord was very angry with Aarõ also, euen for to haue destroyed him: But I made intercessiõ for Aaron also ỹ same time. And I toke your sinne, ỹ calfe which ye had made & burnt him wt fire & stãped him grounde him a good, euẽ vnto small dust. And I cast the dust therof in to the broke that descended out of the mõut. Also at * Thaberah and at Masah & at the sepulchres out of ỹ lust ye angred ỹ lord, ye & when the lorde sent you from Cades Barne sayinge: go vp & conquere the lãd whiche I haue geuen you, ye disobeyed ỹ mouthe of the lord your God and nether beleued beleued him nor herkened vnto his voyce Thus ye haue bene disobedient vnto the Lord, sence the daye that I knew you.

And I fel before the Lorde .xl. dayes & xl. nightes which I laye ther, for the lorde was mynded to haue destroyed you. But I made intercessiõ vnto the Lord & sayd.

*O Lord God, destroye not thy people & thyne enheritaũce which thou hast deliuered thorow thy greatnesse & which ỹ haste brought out of Egipt with a mighty hãd. Remẽbre thy seruaũtes Abrahã, Isaac & Jacob & loke not vntoỹ stubernes of this people nor vnto theyr wickednes & sinne: lest the lande whence thou broughtest thẽ say: Because the lorde was not able too bringe thẽ into the land whych he promysed them & because he hated them, therfore he caried thẽ out to destroye thẽ in the wildernesse. A ex.xxxiii.a.

IN ỹ same season ỹ lord sayd vnto me *hew the two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyrst & come vp vnto me into ỹ moũt & make the an Arke of wood & I wyl write in the tables, ỹ wordes that were in ỹ first tables whych thou brakest, and thou shalt put them in the arcke. And I made an arcke of sethim wood and hewed two tables of stone like vnto the first and went vp into the mountayne & the .ii. tables in myne hand.

And he wrote in the tables, accordynge to the fyrst wrytyng, the .x. verses which ỹ Lord spake vnto you in the mount of the fyre in the daye when the people gethered together and gaue them vnto me. And I departed & came downe frõ the hyl & putt the tables in the arcke which I had made: and ther they remayned, as the Lord commaunded me.

B And the chyldren of Israell toke theyr iourneye frõ Beroth of the chyldrẽ of Jakan to Mosera, where Aarõ dyed & wher he was buried, and Eleazar hys sonne became prieste in hys stede. And from thence they departed vnto * Gadgad: & frõ Gadgad to * Jathbath a land of ryuers of water. And the same season the Lord separated the trybe of Leui to beare the arcke of the appoyntmẽt of the Lord, and to stand before the Lord, and to minister vnto him and to blesse in hys name vnto this daye. Wherfore the Leuites haue no parte nor enheritaũce with theyr brethrẽ. The Lord he is theyr enheritaunce, as the Lorde thy God hath promysed them.

Or Gagadah. Or Jatebath

C And I taryed in the mounte, euẽ as at the fyrst tyme .xl. dayes and .xl. nyghtes & the Lorde herkened vnto me at that tyme also, so that the Lorde wolde not destroye the. And the Lord sayd vnto me: vp & go forth in the iourney before the people and let them go in and conquere the land why che I swarc vnto theyr fathers too geue vnto them.

☞ And now Israel what is it that the Lord thy God requyreth of the, but to fear the Lord thy God & to walke in all hys wayes & to *loue hym & to serue the Lord thy God wyth all thyne herte and wythal thy soule, that thou kepe thecõmaundemẽtes of the Lord & his ordinaunces whych I cõmaunde the thys daye, for thy welth. Behold, heauẽ, and the heauen of heauẽs is the Lordes thy God, & the erth with all that therin is: only the Lord had a lust vnto thy fathers to loue thẽ, & therfore chose you theyr sede after them of all nacõs, as it is come to passe thys daye.

☞ Circũcyse therfore the foreskinne of your hartes, and be no longer stykkecked. For the Lord your God, he is god of goddes and Lorde of Lordes, a great God a myghtie & a terrible whych regardeth no mans person nor taketh gyftes: but doeth right vnto ỹ fatherles & wedowe & loueth the straũger, to geue him fode & rayment. Loue therfore ỹ straũger, for ye were straũgers youre selues in the lande of Egipte. Thou shalt feare the Lord thy god & serue him & cleue vnto him & a swere by hys name, for he is thy prayse & he is thy God ỹ hath done these great & terrible thynges for ỹ, which thine eyes haue sene. The. xiiii. Chapter.

A YE are thee a‡ chyldren of thee Lord your god, cut not your selues nor make you any baldenes betwene the eyes for any mans death. For thou art an holy people vnto the Lord thy God, & the Lorde hath chosen thee to be a seuerall people vnto hym selfe, of all thee nacions that are vpon the earth.

Ye shal eate no maner of abhominacio These are the beastes whych ye shall eate of: oxen, shepe, and gootes, herte, roo and bugle, wyldegoote, vnicorne, origē & Camelion. And al beastes that cleaue y hoffe & clyfte hit into two clawes & chewe y cud, thē ye shal eat. Neuertheles, these ye shal not eate of thē that chewe cud, & of them y deuyde & cleaue the hoffe: the camel, y hare, & the conye. For they chewe cud, but deuyde not the hoffe: & therfore are vncleane vnto you: & also the swyne, for though he deuyde the hoffe, yet he cheweth not cud, & therfore is vncleane vnto you: ye shal not eate of the flesshe of thē nor touch the dead carkesses of them.

* These ye shal eate of al that ar in the waters: Al y haue finnes and scales. And whatsoeuer hath not finnes & scales, of y ye may not eat, for y is vnclene vnto you. Leuit. xi. B.

Of all cleane byrdes ye shall eate, but these ar they of which ye may not eate: the egle, the gosshauke, the cormerāt, the ixion, the vulture, the kyte & her kynd, & al kynd of rauens, the Estrich, the nightcrowe, the kuckou, the sparouhauke & all her kynde, the lytle oule, the great oule, the backe, the bitture, the pye, the storke, the heron, y Jay in hys kynde, the lapwinge, the swalowe. And al crepinge foules are vncleane vnto you & may not be eatē of: but of all cleane foules ye may wel eate. Ye shal eate of no thing that dyeth alone: But thou mayeste geue it vnto the straūger that is in thy cytie y he eat hit, or mayst sel it vnto an Aliant. For thou art an holy people vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalte not * sethe a kyd in hys mothers mylcke. Leuit. xxiii. c.

Thou shalt tythe al the encrease of thy sede that cometh out of the felde yeare by yeare. And thou shalt eat before the Lord thy god in the place, whych he hath chosen to make his name dwell there the tythe of thy corne, of thy wyne and thyne oyle, and the fyrstborne of thyne oxen & of thy flocke that thou mayst learne to feare the lord thy God alwaye.

Yf the waye be to longe for the, so that thou art not able to carie hit, because y place is to farre frō the whych the Lorde thy God hath chosen to set hys name ther (for the Lord thy God hath blessed the) thē make it in moneye & take the moneye in thyne hande, & go vnto the place which the lorde thy God hath chosen, & bestowe y moneye on on what soeuer thy soule lusteth after: of oxen shepe, wine and good drinke, and of whatsoeuer thy soule desyrethe, and eate there before the Lord thy God and be merye: bothe thou and thyne housholde and the Leuite that is in the cytye. Se thou forsake not the Leuite, *for he hathe neither parte nor enheritaunce with the.

The.xxviii.Chapter.

A Leu.xxvi.a *IF thou shalt herkē diligētly vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God, to obserue & do all his cōmaundementes which I commaunde the this day, The Lord wyl set the on hye aboue al nacions of the erthe. And al these blessinges shal come on ỹ and ouer take the, yf thou shalt herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the towne and blessed in the feldes, blessed shalbe ỹ frute of thy body, the frute of thy grouṅde and the frute of thy catell, the frute of thyne oxen, & thy flocke of sheye, blessed shal thine aulmery be & thy store. Blessed shalt thou be, both when thou goeste out, and blessed when ỹ comest in. *The lord shal smite thine enemies ỹ rise against the before thy face. They shal come out agēst the one way, & flee before the seuen waies. The Lord shall commaunde the blessing to be with ỹ in thy store houses and in all that thou settest thyne hande to, and wyl blesse the in the lande whych the Lord thy God geueth the. deute.xi.a

The Lorde shal make the an holy people vnto him selfe, as he hath swore vnto the: yf thou shalte kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde thy God and walke in hys wayes.

And al nacyons of the erth shal se that thou arte called after the name of the lorde, and they shalbe aferde of the. And the Lord shal make the plētuous in goodes, in the frute of thi body, in the frute of thy catell and in the frute of thy ground, in ỹ lande whyche the Lorde sware vnto thy fathers to geue the.

*The Lord shal opē vnto the his good treasure, euen the heauē, to geue raine vnto thy lande in due season and to blesse al the labours of thyne hād. And thou shalt lende vnto many naciōs, but shalt not nede to borowe thy selfe. And the lorde shal set the before and not behind, & thou shalt be aboue only & not benethe: yf that thou herkē vnto the cōmaundementes of ỹ lorde thy God which I cōmaunde the thys day to kepe and to do them. And se that thou a†bow not from any of these wordes which I commaunde the thys daye ether to the righthande or to the lefte, that thou woldeste goo after straunge Goddes to serue them. deute.xi.b

B But and yf thou wilt not herken vnto ỹ voyce of the lord thy God to kepe & to do all hys commaundementes and ordynaūces which I commaude the this day: thē *all these curses shall come vpon the and ouertake the: Cursed shalt thou be in the towne, and cursed in the felde, cursed shal Baruch.i, Daniel,ix.c

thyne aulmery be & thy store. Cursed shall the frute of thy body & the frute of thy lād be & the frute of thyne orē & the flockes of thy shepe. And cursed shalt thou be when thou goest in, & whē thou goest oute. And the Lord shal send vpō the cursinge, goynge to nought & cōplayning in all that ỹ settest thyne hand to whatsoeuer ỹ doest: vntyl thou be destroyed & brought to nought quickly, because of the wyckednes of thyne inuēcions in that thou hast forsakē the Lord. And the Lord shal make the pestilence cleaue vnto the, vntyll he haue cōsumed the frō the land whether thou goest to enioye it. * And the Lord shal smite the with swelling, with feuers, heet, burning, wetherynge, wythe smyttynge and blastynge. And they shall folowe the vntyll thou perysshe.

Leui. xxvi. c.

* And the heauē that is ouer thy head shalbe brasse, & the earth that is vnder the, yron. And the Lorde shall turne the rayne of the land vnto powder & duste: euen frō heauen they shal come downe vpō the, vntyll thou be brought to noughte. And the Lord shal plage the before thine enemies: Thou shalt come out one waye agaynste them, and flee seuen wayes before them, & shalt be scattered amōg al the kingdoines of the earth. And thy carkesse shalbe meat vnto all maner foules of thee ayre & vnto the beastes of the earthe, and no man shal fraye them a waye.

Leui. xxvi. b.

* And the Lord wyl smyte the with the botches of Egipte & the emerodes, scalle, & maūgynesse, that thou shalt not be healed thereof. And the Lorde shall smyte the wyth madnesse, blindnes & dasing of hert. And thou shalte grope at noone dayes, as the blind gropeth in darkenesse, and shalt not come to the ryght waye. And ỹ shalte suffer wrōnge only & be polled euermore, and no mā shal soker the, thou shalt be be trawthed vnto a wyfe, & another shall lye wyth her. * Thou shalte bylde an house & another shal dwel therin. Thou shalt plāt a vyneyarde, and shalt not make it comē. Thyne ore shalbe slayne before thyne eyes, & thou shalt not eat the of. Thyne asse shalbe violētly takē a waye euē before thy face, & shal not be restored the again. Thy shepe shalbe geuen vnto thyne enemies, & no man shall helpe the. Thy sonnes & thy daughters shalbe geuen vnto another nacyon, and thyne eyes shal se and dase vpō them all daye longe, but shalte haue noo myghte in thyne hande. The fruite of thy land and all thy labours shall a nacyon, which thou knowest not, eate, & thou shalt but suffer violence only & be oppressed al waye: that thou shalt be cleane besyde thy selfe for thee syghte of thyne eyes whyche thou shalt se.

The Lord shall smyte the with a myscheuous botche in the knees & legges, so ỹ thou canst not be healed: euen frō the sole of the fote vnto the toppe of the head.

* The Lord shal bring both the & thy kyng which thou hast set ouer the, vnto a nacyon which nether thou nor thy fathers haue knowen, and there thou shalte serue straūge goddes: euē wood and stone. And thou shalt go to waste & be made an ensāple & a iestinge stocke vnto al naciōs whether the Lord shall carie the. Thou shalte carye moch sede out into the felde & shalte gether but lytle in: for ỹ greshoppers shal destroye it. Thou shalt plant a vyneyard & dresse it, but shalt nether drinke of ỹ wyne, nether gether of the grapes, for the wormes shal eate it. Thou shalte haue olyuetrees in al thy costes, but shalte not be annoynted with the oyle, for thine oliuetrees shalbe roted out. Thou shalt get sonnes & doughters, but shalt not hauc thē: for thei shalbe caried awaye captyue. Al thy trees and fruyte of thy lande shall be marred wyth * blastynge.

Or greshoppers, some reade vermyn

The straūgers that ar amōg you shal clyme aboue the vp on hye, and thou shalt come downe beneth alowe. He shall lende the & thou shalt not lende hym, he shall be before and thou behynde.

Moreouer al these curses shal come vpon the & shal folowe the & ouertake the, tyll thou be destroyed: because thou herkenedest not vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, to kepe his cōmaundementes & ordinaunces whych he commaunded the, and they shalbe vpō the as * tyracles & wonders & vpon thy sede for euer. And because thou seruedeste not the Lorde thy God wyth ioyfulfulnes and wyth a good herte for the abundaunce of al thinges, therfore thou shalt serue thyne enemye whych the Lord shal sende vpon the: in hunger and thurst, thurst, in nakednes and in nede of al thinge: and he shall put a yocke of yron vpon thyne necke, vntyll he haue brought the to nought.

And the Lord shal bring a nacion vpō the from a farre, eue from thee ende of the world, as swyft as an egle flieth: a nacion whose tongue thou shalt not vnderstand: a harde fauoured nacion whyche shal not regarde the personne of the olde nor haue compassyon on the younge. And he shall eate the fruyte of thy lande and the fruite of thy catell vntyll he haue destroyed the: so that he shall leaue the nether corne, wyne, nor oyle, neyther thee encrease of thyne oxen nor the flockes of thy shepe: vntyl he haue brought the to nouhte. And he shall kepe the in, in all thy cytyes, vntyl thy hye and stronge walles be come downe where in thou trustedest, thorow al the lāde. And he shal besege the in all thy cyties thorow out all thy land whych the Lord thy God hath geuen the.

* And thou shalt eat the frute of thyne owne body: the flesche of thy sonnes and of thy doughters whych the Lorde thy God hath geuen the, in that straytnes and sege wherwyth thyne enemye shall besege the: so that it shall greue thee man that is tender and exceding delycate amonge you, to loke on hys brother & vpon hys wyfe that lyeth in hys bosome, and on the remnaunt of hys chyldren, which he hath yet left, for feare of geuynge vnto any of them of the flesche of hys chyldren, whych he eateth, because he hath nought left hym in ỹ straytnesse & sege wherwith thyne enemyes shal besege the in al thy cyties.

Yea & the woman that is so tender & delycate among you that she dare not aduēture to sett ỹ sole of her fote vpō the ground for softnes and tendernesse, shalbe greued to loke on thee husbande that lyeth in her bosome, and on her sonne and on her daughter: eue because of the afterbyrthe, that is come out from betwene her legges and because of her chyldre which she hath borne, because she wolde eate thē for nede of all thynges secretely, in the straytenesse and sege wherwith thyne enemye shal besege the in thy cyties.

Yf thou wylt not be dyligent to do all the wordes of thys lawe that are wrytten in thys booke, for to feare this glorious & fearful name of the Lord thy god: the lorde wyll smyte both the and thy sede wythe wonderfull plages & wyth greate plages and of longe continuaūce, and wyth cuell sickenesses and of longe duraunce. Moreouer he wyl bringe vpō the al the diseases of Egypt whych thou waste afrayed of, & they shal cleaue vnto ỹ. Therto all maner sickenesses & all maner plages whych are not wryten in the boke of this lawe, wyl ỹ Lord bringe vpō the vntyl thou be come to nought. And ye shalbe lefte fewe in nōbre, where before ye were as thee* starres of heauen in multitude: because thou wouldest not herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God. deuē.x.ē

* And as the Lorde reioysed ouer you to do you good & to multyplye you: euē so he wyll reioyse ouer you, to destroy you & to bring you to nought. And ye shalbe wasted frō of the land whether thou goest to enioye hit. And the Lorde shall scatter the amonge all nacions from the one ende of the worlde vnto the other, and there thou shalte serue straunge goddes, whych neyther thou nor thy fathers haue knowen: euen wood and stone. Iere.xxxi.ē G

And among these nacions thou shalte be no smal ceasion, & yet shalt haue no rest to the sole of thy foote. For the Lord shall geue the there a trembling herte & dasing eyes & sorowe of mynde. And thy life shal hāge before the, and thou shalt feare both daye and nyghte & shalt haue no truste in thy lyfe. In the mourning thou shalt say wolde God it were nyghte. And at nyghte thou shalt saye, wold God it were morning: for feare of thyne hert which thou shalte feare, and for thee syghte of thyne eyes whych thou shalte se.

And the Lord shall bringe the into Egypte agayne wyth shyppes, by the waye which I bade the that thou shuldest * see it nomore. And there ye shalbe solde vnto your enemies, for boudmen & bondwemē: and yet no man shal bye you. Exo.xxiii.ē

The.xxix.Chapter.

THese ar the wordes of the appointment which the lord cõmaũded Moses to make w the chyldren of Israel in the lande of Moab, besyde ỹ appoyntment whyche ye made with them in Horeb. And Moses called vnto al Israel and sayd vnto them: Ye haue sene al that the Lorde dyd before your eyes in the lande of Egypt, vnto Pharao and vnto all his seruauntes, and vnto al his land, and the greate temptacyons whiche thine eies haue sene and those greate myracles and wonders: and yet the lord hath not geuen you an hert to perceaue, nor eyes to se, nor eares to heare vnto thys daye.

*And I haue led you.xl.yere in the wildernes: & your clothes ar not waxed old vpõ you, nor at thi showes waxed old vpõ thy fete. Ye haue eatẽ no bread nor drõck wine or strounge dryncke: that ye might know howe ỹ he is the Lord youre God.

Deut.viii.a

*And at the last ye came vnto this place, & Sehon the king of Hesbon and Og king of Basan came out against you vnto battel, and we smote thẽ and toke theyr lande and gaue it an heritaunce vnto the Rubenites and Gadites & to the halfe tribe of Manasse. Kepe therfor ỹ wordes of this appointmẽt and do thẽ, ỹ ye may vnderstand all that ye ought to do. *Ye stãde here this day euery one of you before ỹ Lord your God: both the heades of your tribes, youre elders, your officers & al the men of Israel: youre children, youre wyues & the straunger that are in thine host, from ỹ hewer of ỹ wod vnto ỹ drawer of thy water: ỹ thou shuldest come vnder the appointmẽt of the lord thy God, & vnder his othe which the Lord thy God maketh with the this day. For to make the a people vnto him self, & ỹ he may be vnto the a God, as he hath sayde vnto the & as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

Num.xxi.f.g Deut.xxx.a

C Also I make not this bõde and this oth with you only: but both w̃ him ỹ stãdeth her with vs this day before the lorde our God, & also with him that is not here w̃ vs this daye. For ye knowe how we haue dwelt in the land of Egypte, and howe we came thorow ỹ middes of ỹ nacions whych we passed by. And ye haue sene their abhominaciõs and their ydolles: wod: stone, sylu r and gold whyche they had.

Lest there be amõg you mã or woma kinred or tribe ỹ turneth away in his hert this day from the lord oure God, to go & serue ỹ goddes of these naciõs: & lest ther be amõg you some roote that beareth gal and wormwod, so that when he heareth ỹ wordes of this curse, he blesse hi self in his hert saying. I shal haue peace. I wil therfore worcke after the lust of myne awne hert, that the *dronke may petily with ỹ thirste. And so the lorde wyll not be mercyfull vnto hym, but then the wrath of ỹ lord & his gelousy, smoke agenst that mã, & al the curses that ar writtẽ in thys boke light vpon hym, and the Lord do out hys name from vnder heauen, & seperate him vnto euell out of al ỹ trybes of Israel accordyng vnto al the curses of ỹ appoyntment that is writtẽ in ỹ boke of this law.

D So that the generaciõ to come of your chyldren that shal ryse vp after you and ỹ straũget that shal come from a ferre lãd, say when they se the plages of that lãd, & the diseases wherwith ỹ lord hath smyttẽ it how al the land is brent vp with bremstone & salt, & ỹ it is nether sowne nor beareth, nor any grasse groweth therin, after ỹ ouerthrowing of Sodome, Gomor, Adama & Zeboim: which the Lord ouerthrew in hys wrathe and angre.

Iere.xxii.d 3.Esdr.viii.Reg ix.b

And thẽ shal al naciõs also say: *wherfore hath the lorde done of this facyõ vnto this lãde? O how fearse is this greate wrath? And men shal say: because they left the testament of the lorde God of their fathers which he made with them, whẽ he brought thẽ out of the lãd of Egipt. And they went & serued straunge goddes and worshipped thẽ: goddes which they knew not & which had geuẽ them nought. And therfore the wrath of the lord waxed wrote vpon that lande to bring vpon it al the curses that are writtẽ in this boke. And ỹ lord cast them out of their lande in angre, wrath and greate furyousnesse, & cast thẽ in to a straunge lãd, as it is come to passe this day. The secrettes of the Lord our God *are opened vnto vs and oure chyldrẽ that is, the lord hath opened vnto vs his wyl before al other people chyldren for euer, that we do all the wor-des of thys lawe.

circumcise thine hert & the hert of thy seed for to loue the lord thy God wyth al thine Psal.xxxvi.b hert & al thy soule, that thou maist loue. *
And the Lorde thy God wyll putt all the se curses vppon thyne enemyes and on them that hate the and persecute the.

But thou shalt turne & herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde and do all his cōmaū-from ỹ, nether farre of. It is not in heaue that thou neadest to saye: who shal go vp for vs to heauen, and fet it vs, that we may heare it and do it: Nether is it beyōd the see: that thou shuldest saye: who shall go ouer see for vs & fet it vs that we may heare it and do it. But the worde is verye nye vnto the: euen in thy mouthe and in thyne herte, that thou do it.

Beholde I haue set before you thys daye lyfe and good, deathe and euell: in ỹ I commaunde the this daye to loue the lorde thy God and to walke in his wayes and to kepe hys commaundementes, hys ordinaunces & his lawes: that thou maist lyue and multiply, and that the lorde thy God maye blesse the in the lande whether thou goeste to possesse it.

But and yf thyne hette turne awaye, D so that thou wylt not heare: but shalt goo astraye and worshyp straūge goddes and serue them, I pronounce vnto you thys day, that ye shal surely perish and that ye shal not prolong youre dayes vpon the la de whether thou passest ouer Jordan to go and possesse it.

* I cal to record this day vnto you, hea Deut.xxxii.d and.xxii.d ue and erth, that I haue set before you ly fe and death, blessyng & cursing: but chose lyfe, that thou & thy seed maye lyue, in that thou louest ỹ lord thy God herkenest vnto his voyce and cleuest vnto him. For he is thy lyfe & thee lengthe of thy dayes, ỹ thou mayst dwel vpon the erth which ỹ
Lord sware vnto thy fathers: Abraham, Isaac and Jacob to geue them.

And Moses spake in the eares of all the cōgre gacion of Israel the wordes of this song, vnto the ende of them.

The Notes.

a¶ To go in and oute is to exercyse ỹ office of a mynystre & leader of them: as christe sayth of the ministers and pastoures. Johan. x. a b¶ To hyde hys face is as moch as not to heare & to take a waye the tokens of his kyndnesse, as whē he geueth no eare to vs or our prayers nor she weth vs any tokēs of loue but setteth before our eies greuous affyccions and euen verye deathe. As in Job, xiii. d. and Micha, iii. b.

C The song of Moses. He goth vp vnto the toppe of Abarim to see the lande of promesse.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

A HEare O a heauē, what I shal speake & heare O erth ỹ wor des of my mouth. My doctri ne droppe as doeth the raine, & my speach flowe as doth ỹ dewe, as the myselynge vpon the herbes, and as the droppes vpō the grasse. For I wyll cal on the name of the Lorde: Mag nyfye the mighte of oure God.

He is a b trocke and perfect are hys dea des, for al his wayes are with discrecion. God is faythfull & without wickednesse, both rightuous and iuste is he.

The frowarde and ouerthwart gener a cīō hath marred them selues to himward, & are not his sonnes for their defor mities sake, Doest thou reward the Lord? O fo lish nacion and vnwyse: Is not he thy fa ther and thyne owner? hath he not made ỹ & ordeyned the? Remembre the dayes that are past: consydre the yeres from tyme to tyme. Aske thy father and he wyl shew ỹ, thy elders and they wil tel ỹ. Whē ỹ moste hyghest gaue the nacions an enheritaun ce, & diuided the sonnes of Adam he put ỹ borders of ỹ naciōs, fast by the multitude of the chyldren of Israel.

B For the lordes part is hys folke, & Ja cob is the porcion of hys enherytaunce.

He founde him in a deserte lande, in a voyde ground & a roryng wildernes. He led him about & gaue him vnderstāding, and kepte him as the aple of his eye.

As an egle that stereth vp her nest & flo tereth ouer her younge, he stretched oute hys wynges and toke him vp and bare hym on hys shoulders. The Lorde alone was hys guyde, and there was no straun ge God with hym,

He sett him vp vpon an hye lande, and he ate the encrease of the feldes. And he gaue hym honye to sucke oute of the roc= ke, and oyle out of the harde stone. With butter of kyne and mylcke of ỹ shepe, wyth fatt of the lambes and fat rammes and he gootes wythe fatt kydneyes and with whete. And of the bloude of grapes thou dronckest wyne.

C And Israel waxed fat & kicked. Thou waste fatt, thycke and smothe. And he let God goo that made him and despised the rocke that saued him. They angred him with straunge goddes and with abhomy nacīōs prouoked him. They offered vnto felde deuels and not to God, & to goddes which they knew not and to new Goddes that came newly vp whiche their fath.rs feared not. Of the rocke that begat the ỹ art vnmyndfull & hast forgott God that made the. And when the lorde sawe it, he was angre because of the prouokynge of hys sonnes and daughters.

And he sayde: I will *hide my face frō them and wyll se what their ende shal be. For they are a froward generacion & chil dren in whom is no fayth. They haue an gred me with that which is no God, & pro uoked me with their vanyties. *And I a gaine wyl angre them wyth them whyche are no people, and wil prouoke them with a folysshe nacion. *For fyre is kynled in my wrath, and shall burne vnto the bo tome of hell. And shall consume the erthe with her encrease, & sett a fire the botoms of the mountaynes. I wyll heape myschie ues vpon them and wyll spende all myne arowes at them.

Burnt with hungre & cōsumed withe heate & with bitter pestilence. * I wil also sende the teeth of beastes vpon them and poysen serpentes. Without forth, ỹ swer de shall robbe them of their chyldrē: and wythin in the chamber, feare: both youge men and younge wemen and the suckelin ges with ỹ mē of gray heades. I haue de termened to skater them thorowoute the world, & to make awaye the remēbraunce of them from amonge men. Were it not that I feared the rayling of theyr enemies leste theyr aduersaries wolde be proude & saye: our hye hand hath done al these workes and not the Lorde.

For it is a nacio that hath an vnhappie forcast, & hath no vnderstading in the? I wolde they were wyse & vnderstode this & wolde consyder theyr later ende.

How it commeth that one shall chace a thousande, and two put ten thousande of them to flyghte: excepte theyr rocke hadde solde them, and because the Lord had delyuered them.

For our rocke is not as theyr rocke, no though oure enemies be iudge. But theyr vynes ar of the vines of Sodo, & of ỹ feldes of gomorra. Theyr grapes ar grapes of gal, and theyr clusters be bitter.

Theyr wyne is the poyson of dragos, & the cruel gal of aspes. Ar not soch thinges layde in store with me, & scaled vp amoge my treasures? *Uengeaunce is myne & I wyl rewarde: theyr fote shal slyde, whe the tyme cometh. For ỹ tyme of theyr destruction is at hande, & the tyme that shal come vpon them maketh haste.

For the Lord wyll do iustyce vnto hys people, and haue compassyon on hys seruauntes. For it shalbe sene that theyr power shall fayle, and at the last they shalbe presoned and forsaken.

And it shalbe sayd: wher ar theyr Godes and theyr rocke wherin they trusted?

The fatt of whose sacrifices they ate & drake the wyne of theyr drynckoffringes, let them ryse vp & helpe you and be youre protection.

Se nowe howe that I, I am he, & that ther is no God but I. I can kyl and make alyue, and what I haue smyte that I can heale: nether is ther ỹ can delyuer any ma out of my hande.

For I wyl lyft vp myne hād to heaue, and wyl saye: I lyue euer.

Yf I whet ỹ edge of my swerd, & myne hād take in hād to do iustice, I wyl shewe vengeaūce on myne enemies and wyll rewarde them that hate me.

I wyl make myne arowes dronke wyth bloude, & my swerde shal eate flesshe of the bloud of the eraine & of the captiue and of the bare head of the enemye.

Prayse ye hethe his people, for he wyll auenge the bloud of his seruauntes, & wyll auenge hym of his aduersaries, & wyll be mercyful vnto the land of his people.

And Moses wēt & spake al the wordes of this song in ỹ eares of the people, both he & Iosua the sonne of Nun. And when Moses had spoke al these wordes vnto ỹ end to al Israel, the he sayd vnto the. Set youre hertes vnto al the wordes whych I testifie vnto you this day: that ye commaūde the vnto your chyldren, to obserue & do all the wordes of this lawe. For it is not a vayne word vnto you: but it is youre lyfe, & thorow thys word ye shall prolong your dayes in the lād whether ye go ouer Iordan to conquere it.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses the self same day saying: get thy vp into this mountayne Abarim vnto mount Nebo, whiche is in the land of Moab ouer agaynste Iericho. And behold the land of Canaan whych I geue vnto the chyldre of Israel to possesse. And dye in the mount which ỹ goest vpō, & be gethered vnto thy people As Aaron thy brother dyed in mount Hor and was gethered vnto his people. For ye trespased agaynst me amōg the childre of Israel at the waters of strife, at Cades in the wildernesse of Zin: because ye sanctified me not among the chyldre of Israel. Thou shalt se the land before the, but shalt not go thether vnto the land whych I geue the chyldren of Israell.

a AND as sone as the people were all gone ouer Jordan, the Lord spake vnto Josua saynge: Take you twelue men out of thee people, of euerye tryb̄e a man. And commaunde you them sayinge: take you henēe out of the middes of Jordan euen out of the place where the Prestes stode in a redynes, twelue stones. And take ye them awaye wyth you & put them in the place wher you lodge at night And Josua called vnto thee twelue men whych he had prepared of the chyldren of Israell, of euerye tryb̄e a man, and sayde vnto them: *gette you before the arcke of deu.xxvii.a the Lorde youre God euen into the mydes of Jordan, and take vp euerye man a stone vpon hys shoulder, accordynge vnto the nomber of the trybes of the chyldrē of Israell, that thys maye be a sygne amonge you. And when youre chyldren aske theyr fathers in tyme to come sayinge: what meane ye with these stones: then say vnto them, howe that the water of Jordā deuyded at the presence of the arcke of the B appoyntment of the Lorde: euen whyle it went ouer Jordan, the water of Jordā deuyded. And these stones shalbe a memorial vnto the chyldren of Israell for euer.

And the chyldren of Israel dyd euē so as Josua commaunded, and toke vp twelue stones out of the myddes of Jordā, as the Lorde sayde vnto Josua accordynge to the nombre of the trybes of the chyldrē Ri.Regum. xviii.k of Israell, and caryed them awaye wythe them vnto the place where they lodged, & layed them downe there. And thereto Josua sett vppe twelue stones in the middes of Jordan in the place where the fete of ỹ Prestes whyche bare the arcke of the Testament stode.

And there they be euen at vnto thys daye. For the Prestes which bare the arke stode in the myddes of Jordan, vntyll all was fynished that the Lord commaunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accordynge to al that Moyses charged Josua And the people hasted and wente ouer. And the chyldren of Ruben, and thee chyldren of Gad, & halfe the tryb̄e of Manasses went before thee chyldren of Israell armed, as Moyses charged them. Upon a fourtye thousande trymmed for warre, went before the Lord vnto battel, euen vnto the wilde feldes of Jericho. That daye the Lord magnified Josua in the syght of al Israel & they dreaded hym, as they feared Moyses all dayes of hys lyfe.

And the Lorde spake vnto Josua saynge: cōmaunde the prestes that beare the arcke of wytnesse to come vp out of Jordan. And Josua cōmaunded the Prestes D sayinge: Ascende vp out of Jordan. And when the prestes that bare the arcke of ỹ appoyntment of the Lorde were ascended out of Jordan: as sone as the soles of the prestes fete were brought to drye lande, the water of Jordan returned agayne vnto hys place & went ouer al his bankes as he dyd before. And thee people came vppe out of Jordan the tenth daye of the fyrste moneth and pitched in Galgall euē in the easte borders of Jericho.

And the twelue stones whych they toke out of Jordā, Josua pitched in Galgal. And he spake vnto the chyldrē of Israell saynge: whē your chyldrē aske you in tyme to come, saying: what meane these stones, shewe your chyldrē & saye: Israel came ouer thys Jordan on drye land. For ỹ Lorde youre God dryed vp thee water of Jordan before you, vntil ye were ouer, as the Lorde your God dyd vnto the red see whych he dryed vp, before vs tyl we were ouer, that al the people of the worlde may knowe the hande of the Lorde how myghtye it is, and that ye myght feare the Lord youre God for euer.

And so ther wēt vp thether about a thre thousande men, which fledde before ỹ mē of Ai. And the mē of Ai smote of thē vpō a thyrtye and syxe men, and chased them before the gates euē vnto Sabarim, and smote them in the goynge downe. And ỹ hertes of ỹ people were discouraged and
B mealted like water. And Josua rēt his clothes & fel to ỹ erth vpō his face before the arcke of the lord vntyl the euē tyde, bothe he and the elders of Israel, and put erthe vpon theyr heddes.

And Josua sayde, Ah, lord Jehouah, wherfore hast ỹ brought this people ouer Jordā to deliuer vs into the hādes of the Amorites to destroye vs: wold to god we had aduentured & dwelte on ỹ other syde Jordā. Oh Lord what shal I saye, when Israel turnethe their backes before theyr enemyes: Moreouer the Cananites, and al the enhabiters of the lād shall heare of it, and shal come about vs & destroye the name of vs out of ỹ world. And thē what wilt thou do vnto thy myghtie name.

And the Lord sayd vnto Josua, gett ỹ vp, wherfor lyest thou thus vpō thy face? Israel hath sīned & also trāsgressed mine appoyntmēt, which I cōmaunded them, & haue takē of the excōmunicate thinges, & haue stolen and hydde thē, and also put thē vnto their owne stuffe: And therfore ỹ childrē of Israel cannot stād before their enemyes. And he brought hys household mā by mā, and Acan the sonne of Carmi, the sōne of D Zabdi, the sonne of Zarch in the trybe of Juda was caughte.

And Josua said vnto Acan: my sonne, geue glory to the Lord God of Israell, & geue him prayse, & shewe me what thou hast done, & hide it not from me. And Acā answered Josua and sayde: of a truthe I haue synned against the lord God of Israel, & so and so haue I done. I sawe amōge the spoyle a goodlye Babilonysh garment, and two hundred sicles of siluer, & a * tong of golde of fyfty sicles weight: & I coueted thē, and I toke them. And behold they lye hydde in the erth in my tente and the syluer ther vnder.

And then Josua sēt messengers which rāne vnto the tēt. And behold, it was hidd in his tente, & the syluer there vnder. And they toke thē out of the middest of his tēt & brought them vnto Josua and vnto al the chyldrē of Israel, and powred thē out before the Lord.

AND these ar ỹ contreyes why ch ỹ children enhereted in the land of Canaan, vnto which Eleazar the preast, & Josua the sonne of Nun and the aũ cient heades of the tribes of the childrẽ of Israell, gaue them their enheritaunce by lotte, as the Lord cõmaunded by the hãd of Moses, to geue vnto the nyne tribes, & vnto ỹ halfe tribe of Manasses. For Mo ses had geuẽ enheritaunce vnto two trybes and an halfe on the other side Jordã. But vnto ỹ Leuites he gaue none enherit taunce among thẽ. For the childrẽ of Joseph were two tribes, Manasses and Ephraim. And therfore they gaue no parte vnto ỹ Leuites in the lande, saue cities to dwell in & ỹ suburbes of ỹ same, for theyr beastes & cattel. As the lord commaũded Moses: euen so the chyldrẽ of Israel did when they deuyded the lande.

B And ỹ childrẽ of Juda came vnto Josua in Galgal. And Caleb the sõne of Jephune the Kenesite sayd vnto him: thou wottest what the Lord said vnto Moses the mã of God, about me and ỹ in Cades Barne. * Fourtie yere olde was I when Nu.xliii.d Moses the seruaunt of the Lord sent me frõ Cades Barnẽ to spie out the lãd. And I brought hym worde agayne euẽ as I thought in myne herte. Neuertheless my brethren that went vp with me discouraged ỹ hertes of ỹ people. But I folowed the Lord my God euen vnto the ende.

And Moses sware the same ceasõ saying * ỹ lande whercõ thy fete haue troodẽ, Nu.xliii.d. Deut.xi.c Josue.i.a shalbe thyne enheritaũce & thy childrẽ for euer because ỹ haste folowed the lord my God continually. And nowe beholde, the Lorde hath kepte me lustie (as he sayd) * Gen.xlvi.b this fourtie and fiue yeres, euen sence the lord spake vnto Moses, while the childrẽ of Israel wandervd in ỹ wildernes. And now se I am thys day foure skore & fyue yeres: and yet am as strong at thys tyme, as I was when Moses sẽt me: loke how strõg I was then, so strõg I am now, to warre and to do al maner of thinges.

Now therfore geue me thys mountayne which the Lord at that time promesed, D for thou herdest at ỹ tyme, how ỹ * Enakims were there and how the cyties were greate & walled. I trust the Lord wyll be Of them to De Iudi. d wythme, and I shall dryue them oute as the Lorde sayde. And Josua blessed Caleb the sonne of Jephune & gaue him Hebron to enheret. And Hebron be came the enheritaunce of Caleb the sõne of Jephune the kenesite, vnto this daye: because he folowed the Lord God of Israel perpetually. And the name of * Hebron was called in olde tyme, Kariath arbe, whiche was a huge man amõg ỹ Enakims. And the lande ceased from warre.

The.xv.Chapter

AND the Lotte of the trybe of the childrẽ of Juda in their kinredes was the wildernes of Zyn ỹ stretched to the costes of Edom southwarde, & is the vtmoost parte of the southe costes. And their southcostes were from the brinck of the salt see & from a certẽ point of ỹ see that leaneth southwarde. And it went out on the south syde of the going vp to Acrabim, and went a long to Zinma, & ascended vp on the southe syde of Cades Barne, & went a long to Hezron & wẽt vp to Adar, & fett a compase to Karca & wẽt a long to Azmon, & it went oute to the ryuer of Egypt: so ỹ the ende of that cost is the see. And these are their south costes.

And their easte costes are the salt see euẽ vnto the edge of Jordã. And their borders in the north quarter were from another point of the see wher Jordan endeth. And went vp to Bethhagla and wente a long by the north syde of Betharabah & went vp to the stone of Bohen the sõne of Rubẽ. And then went vp to Dabir from the valey of Acor, and so northward, turning toward Galgal that lieth before the goyng vp to Adomim, which is of the south syde of the Riuer. And they wẽt a longe to the water of Ensemes, & ended at ỹ wel of Rogel. And thẽ went vp to the valeye of the sonne of Hennõ, euen vnto the southe syde of the Jebusites the enhabytours of Jerusalem. And thẽ went vp to the toppe of the hille ỹ lyeth before the valeye of Hennom, westward, & by the edge of the valey of Raphaim northwārd. And thē it draweth frō the fande hylle vnto the foūtayne of water called Nephthoah, and goeth out at the cities of moūt Ephron: & draweth to Balah, otherwise called kariathiarim: & then it compaseth from Balah westward, vnto Eyr, & then goeth alonge vnto the syde of mount Jarim, otherwyse called Chesalon, on the northsyde therof. C And cometh downe to Bethsames & goeth to Thamnah, & goeth oute on the syde of Akaron northward: And then draweth to Secron & goeth a longe to mount Balah, and goeth out at Jabnel: & the ende of the costes is ỹ see. And the west borders are ỹ great see & the costes that lye theron. And these ar the costes of the chyldren of Juda rounde aboute in theyr kynredes.

Jud.1.b * And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune was ther a part geuē amōge the chyldren of Juda, by the mouth of the Lord to Josua, euē the cytie of Kariatharbe father of Enack whych cytie is called Hebron. And Caleb droue thence the thre sonnes of Enack, Sesai, Ahiman, & Thalmai, the sonnes begottē of Enack. And he wēt vp thēce, to the enhabitours of Dabir, whose name in thee olde tyme was Kariath sepher. Jud.1.c And Caleb sayd: * he that smiteth kariath sepher & taketh it, to him wyll I geue Achsah my doughter to wyfe. And Othniel, ỹ sonne of Kenes, the brother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue hym Achsah hys doughter to wife. And as she wēt she moued him, to aske of her father a felde. And she * alyghted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her: what ayleth the. And she sayde: geue me a blessing: for ỹ hast geuē me a southwarde ād̄rye land: geue me also sprynges of water. Then he gaue her sprynges of water, both aboue & beneth. Thys is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the chyldrē of Juda in theyr kynredes.

And the cities of the tribe of the chyldrē of Juda, in al quarters, toward the costes of Edō southward, ware: Kabzel, Eder, & Jagur: Kinah, Dimonah, & Adadā: kedes Hazor, & Jethnā: Ziph, Telem, & Baloth Hazor, Hadathah, & Kariothhesrō, otherwyse called Hazor: Eiman, Saiui, & Moladah: Hazargadah, Hasimō, & Bethpheleth: Hazarsuall, Bersabe, & Baziothiah: Baalah, Jim, & Azem: Eltholad, Cesill, & Horma: Ziklag, Medemenah, & Sensenah: Labaoth, Selhim, Ain, & Remon: all these cyties are twentie & nyne wyth theyr villages. And in the lowe cōtreye thei had Esthaol, Zareah, & Asenah: Zoreah, Enganim, Thaphuah & Enam: Jerimoth, Adulam, Socoh, & Azkah: Saarē, Adithaim, Gederah, & Gederothaim: Fourtene cyties wyth theyr villages.

Zenā, Hadasah, & Magdalgad, Delean, Mazphah, & Jekthеel: Lachis, Bazcath, and Eglon: Caboni, Lahamam, & Cethlis Gaderoth, Bethdagon, Naamah & Makedah: Sixtene cities with theyr villages

Lebnah, Ether, & Asan: Jephthah, Asnah, & Nezib: Keilah, Kahezip, & Mareshah nyne cyties wyth theyr villages.

Akron with theyr townes & villages. F And frō Akron out to the see, al that lyeth aboute Asdod wythe theyr byllages. Asdod wyth her townes and byllages. Azah with her townes and villages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egypte: & the great see wyth the costes that lye theron.

And in the mountaynes, they had Samir, Jathir, & Socoh: Danah: & Kariathsenath, which is Dabir: Anab, Esthemoh & Anim: Gozen, Holon, & Giloh: a leuē cyties wyth theyr villages. Arab, Dumah, & Esan: Janim, Beththapuah & Aphekah Humatah, and Kariatharbe: which is Hebron & Zior: nyne cyties wyth theyr byllages. Maon, Carmel, Siph, and Jutah: Jesrael, Jokdean, & Sanoch: Cain, Gabaah, & Thamnah, x. cyties with theyr villages. Halhull, Bethzur, & Gedor: Maarath, Bethanoth, and Eltheeon: Sixe cyties wythe theyr villages. Kariath Baal which is kariath Jarim, & Harabba two cyties wyth theyr villages.

And in the wyldernes they had Betharabah, Meddin & Sacacah: Nebson, the cytie of salte, & Engabi: Sixe cities wyth theyr villages. But the Jebusites ỹ were the enhabiters of Jerusalē: the chyldrē of Juda could not caste oute. Wherfore the Jebusites dwel among the chyldrē of Juda vnto thys daye.

The.xvi. Chapter.

AND the lot of the chyldren of Joseph fel frō Jordā by Jericho, vnto the water of Jericho eastward, & the wildernesse that goeth vp frō Jericho thorow out moūt Bethel: and then goeth out frō Bethell to Lus, & runneth a long vnto the borders of Arcia taroth: & goeth downe westwarde, euen to B the costes of Japhlethi, & vnto the costes of Bethhoron the nether, & so to Gasor, & the endes of theyr coostes came to the see. And so the children of Joseph Manasses and Ephraim toke theyr enheritaunce.

And the childrē of Ephraim toke theyr costes by kynredes. And ỹ costes of theyr enheritaunce Eastward were, Ataroth Addor, euen vnto Bethhoron the vpper, and
C went oute westwarde to Machmathah on the Northsyde, & cōpassed Eastward vnto Thaanath Silo, & past it on the Eastsyde vnto Janoah, & wēte downe frō Janoah to Ataroth & Naarath, & met at Jericho, & wēt oute at Jordan. And theyr borders went frō Thaphuah west ward vnto the ryuer Kanah, & the endes were the see.
D This is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the chyldren of Ephraim in theyr kinredes, & the borderinge cyties of the chyldrē of Ephraim, lye among the enheritaūce of the chyldren of Manasses: euen all the cyties wyth theyr villages. Notwythstandinge they dryue not oute thee Canaanites that dwelt in Gasor: but the Canaanites dwelte amonge the Ephraites vnto thys daye, & paye tribute.

C The lot or porcion of the halfe trybe of Manasses. The Canaanites become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasses & Ephraim require a greater porcion of heritage.

The.xvii.Chapter.

A Nd thee trybe of Manasses whych was the Eldest sonne of Joseph receiued a lot. And Machir the Eldest sonne of Manasses which was the father of Galaad (& a mā of warre) had Galaad & Basan. And the rest of the children of Manasses receaued by theyr kinredes: which were the chyldrē of Abiezer: the children of Heleck: the chyldrē Asriel: the children of Sichē, thee chyldrē of Hepher: the chyldren of Semida. These are the male chyldren of Manasses thee sonne of Joseph in theyr kynredes. *But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher the sonne of Galaad the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasses, had neo sonnes saue daughters. And he gaue thē at the mouth of the Lord, an enheritaunce amonge thee brethren of theyr fathers. And there fell ten portiōs to Manasses besyde the land of Galaad & Basan whyche are on the other syde Jordan: because the daughters of Manasses dyd enherytte amonge hys sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes had the land of Galaad. Nu.xxvii.b, & Num.xxvi.a

And the coostes of Manasses reached frō Aser to Machmathah that lyeth before Sichē & went a long on the right hand euen vnto the enhabiters of Enthaphuah & the land of Thaphuah belōged to Manasses, whych Thaphuah laye in the borders betwene Manasses and the children of Ephraim. And the costes descended vnto thec ryuer Canah on whose southesyde Ephraim hath cyties among the cyties of C Manasses. For the coostes of Manasses were on ỹ northsyde of the ryuer & ỹ endes of them was the see: so that the south pertayned to Ephraim, & the northe to Manasses, and the see is his border. And they met together in Aser northwarde, & in Issacar eastward. And Manasses had in Issacar & in Aser, Bethsean, and her townes: & the enhabiters of Dor, wythe the townes pertaining to the same: & the enhabitours of Endor wyth the townes of the same: & the enhabitoures of Thaanath wyth her townes and the enhabitours of Magedo wyth the townes of the same, euē thre contreys yet the chyldrē of Manasses coulde not ouercome those cyties: But the Canaanites began to dwel in the same land. Neuertheless assone as the chyldrē of Israel were waxed strong, they put the Canaanites to tribute, but expelled them not.

And the chyldrē of Joseph spake vnto
D Josua, saying: why haste thou geuen vs but one lotte & one porciō to enheret, seing we be moche people, & for as moche as the Lord hath blessed vs so: & Josua answered thē: yf ye be moch people, then get you vp to thee wood contreye, and prepare for youre selues there in the lande of the Phe

The.xviii.Chapter.

AND the whole congregacyon of the childrē of Israel came to gether at Siloh, & set vpp tabernacle of witnesse ther, & the lande was in subiectiō before them. But there remayned among ỹ chyldren of Israel seuen tribes which had not their enherytaunce deuyded out. And Josua sayd vnto ỹ childrē of Israel, how lōg are ye so slacke to go & possesse ỹ land which ỹ Lord God of your fathers hathe geuē you? Bring of euery tribe thre mē ỹ I may sende thē. And ỹ they may rise and walke thorowe the land & distribute it by their enheritaunces & come againe to me.

B Deuide it into seuē partes. For Juda shal abyde by their coostes in ỹ south, & ỹ house of Joseph shal stand to their coostes in the north. Describe ye ỹ land therfore into seuē partes, & bryng ỹ descriptiō to me hether, ỹ I maye caste lottes for you here before the Lord oure God. The Leuites haue no parte amonge you for the preastshipe of the lord is their enheritaūce. And Gad, Ruben, & halfe the tribe of Manasses haue receaued their enheritaunce beyō de Jordan Estwarde, whiche Moses the seruaunte of the Lorde gaue them.

And ỹ men arose and went their waye. And Josua charged thē ỹ wēt to discribe the land sayng: hence and go thorow the lande & describe it, & come againe to me hether: and I will cast lottes for you before the Lorde in Siloh. And the men departed, & walked thorow the lande and described it by cities into seuē partes in a boke, and returned to Josua into the host at Siloh. And Josua caste lottes for thē in Siloh before the Lord, & ther he deuided the lande vnto the childrē of Israell, to eche their porcion. And the lotte of the tribe of the chyldren of Beniamin came vp accordynge to their kinredes. And the coostes of their lotte came out betwene the childrē of Juda & ỹ childrē of Joseph. And their north coostes were frō Jordan and went vp to the side of Jericho on the northside, & wēt vp thorow the moūtaines westwarde, & they ended at the wylderneſſe of Bethauē: & went frō thence to ỹ southside of Lus, other wyse called Bethel: & descēded to Ataroth Adar vpon the hylle ỹ lieth on the southe side of ỹ nether Bethhorō. And the west coost draweth & cōpasseth southe warde, euen from the hille ỹ lyethe before Bethhoron, & gothe out e at Kariathbaall which is kariath Jarim, a citie of ỹ childrē of Juda: & thys is the west quarter: & the southe cooste goth frō the edge of Kariathiarim westward, & goth out to the water welle, of Nephthoah & cometh downe to ỹ edge of the hil that lyeth before the valeye of the sōne of Hennō which is in the valey of Raphaim northwarde, and descendeth D thorowe the valeye of Hennon vnto the syde of Jebusy southward & goth downe to the well of Rogell. And compasseth frō the north and gothe forthe to Ensames & to the coostes that lye before the goynge vp vnto Adonim: and gothe doune to the stoone of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then gothe alonge towarde the syde of * the playne, northewarde: and goth doune in to the plaine: and gothe a longe to the syde of Bethhaglah northewarde, and endeth at ỹ point of the salt see north ther from, and at the ende of Jordā south ther from. This is the south cooste.

Gree. Beth hathah.

And Jordā is their east cooste, thys is the enheritaunce of the chyldrē of Beniamin wyth theyr coostes round about and by their kynredes. And these at the cytyes of the trybes of the chyldrē of Beniamin in theyr kynredes: Jericho, Bethhaglah, and the valey of Kasiz: Betharabah, Zamarim, and Bethell: Auim, Pharah, and Ophrah: Chepar Ammonai, Ophni, and Gabat, twelue cyttes with their villages. Gabaō, Ramah, and Beroth: Mazphah, Caphatrah, and Mozah: Rekē, Jarephel and Tharelah, Zela, Eleph, and the cytte of the Jebusytes which is Jerusalē, Gabaath, & Kariath, fourtene cyttes wᵗ theyr villages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Beniamin in their kinredes.

¶ The lottes or parties of Zabulon, Issachar, Aser, Nephthali, Dan, and Josua.

The.xix. Chapter.

And the second lott came out vnto the tribe of the children of Simeō by their kinredes. And their enheritaunce fel in the myddes of ꝑ enheritaūce of the children of Juda. And their enheritaunce was, Bersabe, Sabe, and Moladah, Hazorsual, Balah, & Azem, Eltholad Bethul and Hormah Zikelag, Bethmarcaboth & Hazersusah, Bethlebaoth, & Sarahē thertene cities wythe their villages. Ain, Remō Ether, & Asan, foure cities wᵗ their villages: & therto al ꝑ villages ꝑ lye rounde about these citics, euē vnto Balasath, Beor, & Ramath, southwarde. Thys is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the chyldrē of Simeon in their kinredes out of ꝑ porcion of the children of Juda, came the enheritaunce of the chyldrē of Simeon. For the part of the chyldrē of Juda was to moch for them: and therfore the childrē of Simeon had their enheritaunce in the enheritaunce of them.

And the thyrd lotte came vnto the children of Zabulō according vnto their kinredes. And the coostes of theyr enherytaunce came to Sarid, & went vp to the Sea, and to Marialah, and touched at Dabaseh, & mette at the riuer that lyethe before Jokneuē: and turned from Sarid estward toward the sunne rising vnto the border of Chisloth in mount Thabor: and then gothe out to Daberth and goth vp to Japhia: and from thence gothe a long estwarde towarde the sunne rysynge, to Sethah, Hepher Ithah, and Razim, and goth to Remon, Methoar, & Neah. And cōpaseth it on the north syde and goeth to Nathan, and endeth in the valey of Jephthahell. And Jatath, Nahaloll, Semron, Jedalah, & Bethlehem: twelue cities with their vyllages. Thys is the enheritaunce of the Childrē of Zabulon, in their kynredes. The said cities with their villages

And the fourth lott came out to the childrē of Issacar by their kinredes. And their costes were Jesraelah, Casuloth, Sunē, Haphraim, Sio, Anaharath: Harabith, Kision, and Abez: Rameth, Enganim, Enhadah, & Bethphazes. And his costes meti at Thabor, Sahazimah & at Bethsames & endeth at Jordā, Syxtene cytyes wyth their villages. This is the enheritaūce of the trybe of the childrē of Issacar by theis kinredes the cytyes and their vyllages.

And the fyft lott came out vnto ꝑ tribe of the chyldren of Aser by theit kynredes. And their coostes were Helkah, Hali, Beten and Achsaph: Alamelech, Amaad and Miseal: & mette at Carmel on the see, & at Sihor and at Labanath and turneth towarde the suntie rysyng to Bethdagon, & mette at Zabulon & in the valey of Jchthah, and toward the northsyde of Bethemek & Negel, & goth out on ꝑ left side of Cabul: and Hebron, Rohob, Hamon, and Kanah euen vnto great Sidon. And then the coost turneth to Ramah & to the strōg citte of Azor and turneth to Hosah and endeth at ꝑ see: by the possessiō of Achzibah: Amak, Aphek, and Rohob: Twentye and two cities with their vilages. This is the enherytaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Aser by their kynredes: These cytyes wyth theyr vyllages.

And the Syxt lotte came out vnto the chyldren of Nephtali by theyr kynredes. And their costes were frō Heleph & from Elon in Zaanantin, & Adami, Nekeb & Jabneel euen to Lakum, and go oute at Jordan. And then the coostе turnethe westward to Asanoth in mount Thabor, & then gothe out from thence to Hukokah and meteth wyth Zabulon on the southe syde, and wyth Aser on the west, & at Juda vpon Jordā toward the sunne rysyng. And their strong cytyes are Ziddim, Ber, Hamath, Racath & Cenerethe Adamah, Hermah and Hazor: Kedes, Edrai, & Enhazor: Jeron, Magdelel: Horem, Bethanah & Bethsames: nineteне cityes wᵗ their vyllages. Thys is the enherytaūce of the trybe of the childrē of Nephtaly by theyr kynredes: these cytyes and their villages:

the childrẽ of Dã by their kynredes. And the cooste of their enheritaunce was Zaraah Esthaol, Isames, Saelabin, Ialõ & Iethlah: Eglõ, Themnathah & Akarõ: Elthekeh Gibethõ and Baalath: Iehud, Banebarak & Gathermon, Meiericon & Harcon with the contrey that lyeth before Japho. And ẏ cooste of ẏ childrẽ of Dã went out frõ beyond thẽ. For the chyldren of Dan went vp and fought agaynst Lesẽ and toke it, and smote it with ẏ edge of the swerde, and conquered it, and dwelte therin and called it Dã, after the name of Dan their father.

Thys is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan in their kinredes: these cyties with their byllages. When they had made an ende of deuiding the lãde by her coastes then the chyldrẽ of Israel gaue an enheritaũce vnto Iosua ẏsõne of Nun amonge them: at the mouthe of the Lorde they gaue him the cytye whych he asked, euen Thamnah serah in mount Ephraim. And he bylte the cytye & dwelt therein. These are the enheritaunces whych Eleazar ẏ preaste and Iosua the sõne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the trybes of the chyldren of Israell deuided by lotte in Siloh before the Lorde, in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and so made an ende of deuydyng the cõtrey.

THen the Lorde spake vnto Iosua saying: comen with ẏ chyldren of Israel and saye: * Appoynt out free cities, of whych I spake vnto you by Moses, that the slear that kylleth any person vnwares & vnwyttynglye, maye flee thether. And those cyties shalbe youre refuge from the auenger of bloude. And the slear shall flee vnto one of those Cytyes and shall stande in the entrynge of ẏ gate of the cytie and shal shew hys cause in the eares of the elders of the sayd cytie. And they shal take hym in to the cytye vnto them, and shal geue him a place that he maye dwell amonge them.

And when the auenger of bloude folowyth after hym they shall not delyuer the
B slear into his hande because he smote hys frend ignorantlye and hated hym not before tyme. And he shall dwell in the sayde cytye vntyl he stand before the congregacyon in Judgement, and vntyl the death of ẏ hye preast that shalbe in those dayes. And then shall the slear returne and come vnto hys awne cytte and vnto hys owne house, & vnto the cytye frõ whẽce he fledd. And they apoynted Kedes in Galyle, in mount Nephthali, and Sichem in moũte Ephraim, & kariatharbe which is Hebrõ, in the moũtaines of Juda. And on the otherside Jordã ouer against Jericho eastward, they gaue Bozor in the wildernesse vpõ the plaine, out of the tribe of Rubẽ & Ramoth in Galaad out of ẏ tribe of Gad & Golan in Basã oute of the tribe of Manasses. These were the cities apointed for al the childrẽ of Israel, & to the straũgers that sojourned amõge thẽ ẏ whosoeuer killed any persõ ignorãtly, ẏ same myght flee thether & shulde not dye by the hãd of the auenger of bloude, vntyll he stode before the congregacyon.

B the childzen of Israel gaue by lott vnto ỹ Leuites these cities with their Suburbes as the Lozde commaunded Moses.

And they gaue out of ỹ tribe of ỹ childzē of Juda, & out of ỹ trybe of the childzē of Simeō, these cyttes by name: whiche the childzē of Aarō being of the kinredes of ỹ Cahathites, & of the childzen of Leui, obtained: foz theirs was ỹ first lot. And they gaue them Kariath Arbe of the father of Arba was ỹ father of Enack. Of Enak ye haue in Judic. i. d *Enack, which is Hebzō, in the hyl cōtrey of Juda, with the Suburbes of the same round about it. But the contrey that pertained to the citie and the villages therof, they gaue to Caleb the sōne of Jephune, to be hys possessyon.

C And out of ỹ tribe of Beniamin they gaue Gabaō with her Suburbes: Gaba with her Suburbes: Anatoth wt her Suburbes: Alnon with her Suburbes: foure cities. All these cittis of ỹ chyldzē of Aaron pzeastes were, xiii. cyties withe their Suburbes. And ỹ kynredes of the childzē of Cahath that were Leuites: ỹ is to say the other chyldzē of Cahath had the cyties of their lott, out of ỹ trybe of Ephzaim. And they gaue them the fre cytie of the slear: Sichē wyth her Suburbes, in mount Ephzaim: & Gazer withe her Suburbes: & Kabzaim wyth her Suburbes: Bethhocō with her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Dan: Eltheke with her Suburbes: Gibthon wyth her Suburbes: Aialon wythe her Suburbes, and Gathzemō with her Suburbes: foure cytes. And oute of the halfe trybe of Manasses, Thanach wt her Suburbes: Gathzemō wyth her Suburbes: two cytyes. So that all the cyties whych were geuen vnto the kynredes of the other chyldzē of Cahath, were ten wyth their Suburbes.

And vnto the chyldzen of Gerson why che were of the kynredes of the Leuytes, they gaue oute of the other halfe trybe of Manasses, the cytie of refuge foz ỹ slear, Golan in Basan wythe her Suburbes: Beestherah wyth her Suburbes: two cyties. And out of the trybe of Isacar, Kisyon wyth her Suburbes: Daberath wyth her Suburbes: Jarimoth with her Suburbes: Enganim wyth her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Aser, Miseal wher Suburbes, Abdō with her Suburbes, Halakath wyth her Suburbes: Rohob with her Suburbes: foure cyties. And out of the tribe of Nephthali, ỹ cytie of refuge foz the slear, Kedes in Galile, wyth her Suburbes: Hamothdoz, wt her Suburbes: Carthan wyth her Suburbes: thze cytyes. So that all the cytyes of the Gersonytes in theyz kynredes were. xiii. wyth their Suburbes. D

And vnto the kynredes of the childzen of Merari, the reste of the Leuytes, they gaue out of the trybe of Zabulon: Jecnā wyth her Suburbes: Carthah wyth her Suburbes Damna wythe her Suburbes, & Nahalal wyth her suburbes: foure cytyes. And out of the tribe of Rubē, they gaue Bozoz with her suburbes: Jahesoh with her suburbes Kedmoth wyth her suburbes, & Maphaath wyth her suburbes foure cities. And out of the tribe of Gad, they gaue ỹ fraūchtised citie of ỹ slear, Ramoth in Galaad wt her suburbes, Mahanaim wt her suburbes, Hesbon wt her suburbes: & Jaser wt her suburbes: foure cyties in al, so ỹ al the cityes of the childzē of Merari in their kynredes, whych were the rest of the kinredes of the leuites, were by their lot, twelue cities. And all the cities of ỹ Leuites had in the possessiō of ỹ childzē of Israel were. xlviii. wt theyz suburbes. And these cyties had eche theyz suburbes round about her thozow out all the layde cities. And the lozde gaue vnto Israel al ỹ lād whych he swarc to geue vnto theyz fathers. And thei cōquered it, & dwelt ther in. And ỹ lozd gaue thē rest round aboute accozdyng to all ỹ he swarc vnto theyz fathers. So ỹ ther stode not a mā of al their enemies befoze thē. But ỹ lozd delyuered all their enemyes into theyz hādes. The .xxii. Chapter.

Num. xxxii f

THen Josua called vnto the Rubenites, ỹ Gaddites and to the halfe tribe of Manasses and sayd vnto them: *ye haue kept al that Moses the seruaunt of the Lord cōmaunded you, & haue obeyed my voyce in all that I commaunded you: ye haue not lefte your brethren of a log season vnto thys daye but haue kept the cōmaundement of ỹ Lorde your God. And now ỹ lord hath geuē rest vnto your brethren as he promesed them. Wherfore returne and go vnto your tentes & vnto ỹ lande of your possession, whi che Moses the seruaunt of the lord gaue you on the other syde Jordan.

¶ But in any wise take exceding good heade that ye do the cōmaundemēt & law which Moses ỹ seruaūt of ỹ lord charged you: which is, that ye loue the Lord youre God, and walcke in hys wayes and kepe hys commaundementes, and cleaue vnto him, and serue hym wythe al youre hertes and al youre soules. And so Josua a & blessed them and sent them awaye. And they B wente vnto theyr tentes.

Unto the one halfe of the tribe of Manasses Moses gaue possessyō in Basan: and vnto the other halfe therof gaue Josua wythe their brethren on thys syde Jordan westward. And also whē Josua sent them away vnto their tentes and blessed them, he sayde vnto thē, returne wyth moch richesse vnto your tentes, and wyth very moch catel, with siluer gould, brasse, yron, and wythe raymente aboue measure, and deuide the spoyle of youre enemyes wyth your * brethren.

Vnderstād that are at home & cam not a warre fare,

And the chyldrē of Rubē, the chyldren of Gad and halfe the tribe of Manasses, C returned and departed from the chyldren of Israel out of Siloh which is in the lāde of Canaan, to go vnto the contreye of Galaad, & to the land of their possessyon, wherin they were possessed at ỹ mouth of the Lorde by the hande of Moses. And when they came vnto the costes of Jordā that lye in ỹ land of Canaan: ther the chil dren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad and ỹ halfe trybe of Manasses, bylt an altare fast by Jordan & that a great altare to se to. And when the chyldrē of Israell hearde say: behold the chyldren of Ruben, the chil drē of Gad & the halfe tribe of Manasses haue bylt an altare in the forefrount of ỹ land of Canaā in the borders of Jordan on the syde of the childrē of Israel: ỹ hole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israell gathered them to gether to Siloh, to go vpon them wyth batel. And the childrē of Israel sēt vnto the chyldren of Ruben, to the children of Gad and to the halfe tribe of Manasses into ỹ lād of Galaad, Phi neches the sonne of Eleazar the preast, and with him tē lordes of euery cheke howse a lord thorow out all the trybes of Israell, which heades of their fathers housholdes were ouer ỹthousādes of Israel. And thei wēt vnto the childrē of Rubē, of Gad & to the halfe tribe of Manasses, vnto the land of Galaad and spake with them sayinge.

D Thus say the hole congregacion of the Lorde: what transgression is this that ye haue trangressed against the God of Israel, to turne away this day from after ỹ Lorde and to bylde you an altare for to rebelle this day against the lord, Is thē ỹ wicked deade of Peor to litle for vs, wher of we ar not cleansed vnto this day, & ther was a plage in the congregacyon of thee Lorde: But that ye also shoulde turne awaye thys daye from folowyng the lord: ye shall rebelle to daye agaynst the Lord, and to morow he shall be wroth wyth all the congregacyon. Not withstandynge yf the land of youre possessyon be vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lāde of the possessiō of the Lord, wher the lordes tabernacle dwelleth, & be possessed amōg vs. But rebel not against the Lorde nor agaynste vs, to buyld you any other aulter saue ỹ aulter of the lord our God. Dyd not Acā the sonne of Zareth trespasse in the excommunicate thinges, and wrath fel on al the congregacion of Israel, so ỹ he alone perysshed not for his wyckednesse?

E Then the children of Ruben & of Gad, and halfe the trybe of Manasses answered and sayde vnto the heades ouer the thousandes of Israel: The myghty God Jehouah he knowethe, and Israell shall knowe yf it be to rebelle or transgresse a-gaynst the Lorde, then the Lord saue vs not thys daye. Or elles yf we haue bylte vs an aulter to turne from folowing the Lorde, or to offer theron burnte offrynge or meatoffringes, or to offer peace offrin ges thereon: let the Lorde requyre it: And haue not rather done it for feare of thys:

leaste in tyme to come your chyldren shul de saye vnto oures: what haue ye to do with the Lord god of Israel, sepinge: ꝙ ꝙ lord hath made Jordā a border betwene vs & you ye childrē of Rubē & of Gad: ye haue no parte therfore in the lord: and so ¶ shal your childrē make oure childrē cease from fearinge the lorde.

And therfore we said: Let vs cause an aulter to be made, not for burntoffriges, nor sacrifices, but it shalbe a wytnesse be-twene vs & you and our generacyons after vs, that we should serue the Lord, with our offeringes, sacrifyces and peaceoffe-rynges: and that your chyldren should not saye to oures in tyme to come, ye haue no parte in the Lorde.

And we thought yf they shuld so say to vs or to our generacyōs in tyme to come, ꝙ we wold say agayne: Behold the facyō of the aulter which our fathers made, nether for burntoffriges nor sacrifices, but that it shulde be a wytnesse betwene vs &
you. God forbydde that we should rebel a gainst the lord & that we should turne this day frō after him, and byld an aulter for burntofferinges or sacrifyces, saue ꝙ altare of the Lord, oure God that is before hys tabernacle.

G And when Phinehes the Preast & the Lordes of the congregatiō & heades ouer ꝙ thousandes of Israel which were wyth him, hearde the wordes that the childrē of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad & the chyldrē of Manasses spake, they were wel cōtēte.
And Phinehes ꝙ sōne of Eleazar ꝙ preast sayd vnto the chyldrē of Ruben, of Gad & of Manasses, this daye we perceaue ꝙ the Lorde is amonge vs, because ye haue not done thys trespase agaynst the Lord.
And now ye haue ridde ꝙ childrē of Isra el out of the handes of the Lorde.

And Phinehes the sōne of Eleazar ꝙ Preast and the lordes returned frō ꝙ chil dren of Ruben & of Gad oute of the land of Galaad vnto the land of Canaan, to ꝙ chyldren of Israel, & brought them word agayne. And the answere pleased the chyl drē of Israel wel, and they praysed God, and dyd not entend to go against them in batell, to destroy the land whiche the chyldren of Rubē & Gad dwelt in. And ꝙ chyl drē of Ruben & the childrē of Gad called the aulter* Ed, because it is a witnesse be twene vs, that the Lorde is God.

The boke of the Judges.

After Josua was dead. Juda was cõstitute Lord ouer the armye whi Jerusalẽ was beseged. The pe ple that were not destroyed became tributaries.

The. j. Chapter

After the death of Josua thee chyldren of Israel asked thee Lord sayinge: Who shall go vp fyrst vnto the Cananites to fight agaynst thẽ? And the Lord sayde: * Juda shall go vp: behold I haue delyuered the land into hys handes. Then Juda sayd vnto * Simeõ hys bro ther: come wyth me into my lotte, & let vs fyght agaynst the Cananites: And I lyke wyse wyll go wyth the into thy lotte. And so Simeon went wyth hym.

Understãd here no one particular mã, but the whole trybe of Juda. * Simeon for the, trybe of Symeon.

And Juda went vp, and the Lord dely uered the Cananites and Pherezites into theyr handes. And they slewe of thẽ in Bezek ten thousand mẽ. And they foũd a‡ Adonibezek in Bezek. And they foughte a gaynst hym, & slewe the Cananites & Pherezites. But Adonibezek fled, & they folowed after hym, & caught hym, & cutt of hys thombes & hys great toes. Then Adonibezek sayde: thre skore & ten kinges hauing theyr thombes & great toes cut of, gathered theyr meat vnder my table: b‡ wherfore as I haue done so god hath done to me agayne. And they brought hym to Jerusalem, and there he dyed.

The chyldrẽ of Juda fought agaynst Jerusalẽ & toke it, & smote it with the edge of the swerde, & set the citie on fyre. And after that the chyldren of Juda went euẽ to fyght agaynst the Cananites that dwelte in the mountayne, in the south, & in ỹ lowe contreye. And Juda went vnto the Cananites that dwelt in Hebron, whyche before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slewe Sesai, Ahiman and Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in olde tyme was called Kariathsepher.

And Caleb sayd: he that smyteth Kariathsepher, & taketh it, to hym wyll I geue Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othoniel the sonne of Kenez Calebs younger bro ther toke it: to whome he gaue Achsah hys daughter to wyfe, & as they went she counceled him to aske of her father a feld. And thẽ she *lighted of her asse: & Caleb sayde vnto her: What ayleth the? She sayd vnto him: geue me a blessing: for ỹ hast geuẽ me a southwarde & dyre land, geue me also springes of water. And Caleb gaue her springes both aboue & beneth. And ỹ chyldren of the Kenite Moyses father in lawe wẽt vp out of ỹ citie of paulmetrees, with the chyldrẽ of Juda into thee wyldernesse of Juda that lyeth in the South of Arad and dwelt amonge the people.

And Juda wẽt & Simeõ wt hym, & they slew the Cananites ỹ enhabited Zephath, & vtterly destroyed it, & called the name of the citie Hormah. And Juda toke Azah wt the costes therof, & Askalõ wyth the costes therof, & Akaron wyth the coostes therof. And the Lord was with Juda that he conquered ỹ mountaynes, but they could not dryue oute the enhabiters of the valeyes, because they had charettes of yron. And they gaue Hebron vnto Caleb as Moyses sayde. And he expelled thence the thre sonnes of ‡ Enack.

E

And in like maner the house of Joseph went vp to Bethel & the Lord with them, & the house of Joseph serched out Bethel which before tyme was called Lus. And the spies sawe a man come out of the cytte and they sayd vnto him shewe vs the way into the cytie. And we wyll shewe the mercy. And he shewed thẽ the waye into the cytie, and they smote it wyth the edge of the swerde, but let the man & al hys housholde goo free. And the man went into the landes of the Hethites, & bylte a cytie & called the name therof Lus whych is the name therof vnto thys daye.

in the sayd land. But as soone as Israell was waxed myghty, they put the Canani tes to trybute: But expelled them not.

In lyke maner Ephraim expelled not ỹ Cananites ỹ dwelte in Gazer, but the Ca= nanites dwelt styl in Gazer among them.

Nether dyd Zabulō expelle the enhabi= tours of Ketrō, nether the enhabitours of Nahalol: But the Cananites dwelt amōg them and became trybutaries.

G Nether dyd Aser cast out ỹ enhabitou= tes of Acho, nether the enhabitours of Z t don, of Ahalab, Aczib, Halbah, Aphek, noz of Rohob, but the Aserites dwelt amonge the Cananites the enhabitours of the lād and dzaue them not out.

Nether dyd Nephthalūn dzyue out the enhabitours of Bethsames, noz the enha= bitours of Bethanath, but dwell amōgest the Cananites the enhabitours of ỹ lande Neuertheleſſe the enhabitours of Bethsa mes, & of Bethanath be came trybutaries vnto them.

And the Amozites kepte the chyldzē of Dan in the mountaynes, & suffered them not to come downe to the valeyes. And so the Amozites went to & dwelled in mount Heres in Hailon & in Galabim. Neuerthe later the hand of Joseph waxed heuy vpō thē, so that they be came trybutaries. And the coostes of the Amozites was from the goynge vp to Acrabim, and frō the tocke vp warde.

¶ The angel rebuketh the people because thei had made peace with the Cananites. Idolaters are pu= nished, but yet leaue not theyz inuencions. God sen= deth them iudges to delyuer them.

The. ii. Chapter

AND the angel of the Lozd ca me vp frō Galgal to Bocim & said: I brought you out of Egypt & haue bzought you vnto the lande whych I swa re vnto your fathers. And I sayde that I wolde neuer breake myne appoyntmente wyth you, but ye shulde haue made no co= uenaūt with the enhabitours of this land ye shuld haue broken downe theyz alters: But ye haue not obeyed my voyce, why haue ye thys done? wherfoze I haue lyke= wyse determyned that I wyl not caste thē out befoze you: a‡ but they shalbe in the sy des of you, and theyz Goddes shalbe sna= res vnto you. And when the angell of the B Lozde had spoken these wozdes vnto all the chyldzen of Israell, thee people cryed oute & wepte. And called the name of thes sayde place, Bocim and offered ther vnto the Lozde.

And whē Josua had sent the people a= waye, the childzē of Israel went euery mā into hys enheritaunce to possesse the land. And the people serued ỹ lozd al the dayes of Josua, and al the dayes of the elders ỹ out lyued Josua, and had sene al the great wozkes of the Lozd that he dyd to Israel And Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaūt of thee Lozde dyed when he was an hun= dzed and ten yeares olde: whom they bu= ryed in the costes of hys enheritaunce: euē in Thamnath hares in mounte Ephraim on the nozth syde of the hyll Gaas. And euen so all that generation were put vnto theyz fathers, and there arose another ge= neration after them whych neyther knewe the Lozd, noz yet the wozkes which he dyd vnto Israell.

And then the chyldzē of Israel dyd wic kedly in the syght of the Lozd, and serued Baalim, & b‡ forsoke the lozd god of theyz fathers, which bzought thē out of the lād of Egypte, & folowed straunge Goddes, euē of the Goddes of the nacions that we re rounde aboute them, and bowed them selues vnto them, and angred the Lozde. And so they forsoke the Lozde and serued c‡ Baal & Astharoth. Wherfoze the Lozd C wared angrye wyth Israell, & delyuered thē into the handes of raueners to spoyle thē & solde thē into the hādes of theyz ene mies round about thē, so that they had no powet any longer tō stande bekōre their e=nemies. But vnto whatsoeuer thing they went, the hand of the Lord was vpon thē with euel luckē, euē as the Lord promised them, and as he sware vnto thē. And they were sore vexed.

Neuertheles ỹ lord rayſed vp Judges, which delyuered thē out of the handes of theyr oppressers, & yet for al ỹ they wolde not herkē vnto their Judges: But wēte a whoringe after straūge Goddes & bowed thē selues vnto thē, and tourned quickly out of ỹ way which theyr fathers walked in obeying the cōmaūdemētes of the lord, and dyd not so.

And whē the Lord rayſed thē vp Judges, he was wyth the Judge, & deliuered thē oute of the hādes of theyr enemies all the dayes of the Judge: for ỹ Lord had cō passyō ouer theyr sorowinges whych they had by the reason of thē that oppressed thē & vexed them: yet for all that as sone as ỹ Judge was dead they turned & dyd worsse then theyr fathers in folowinge straunge goddes, & in seruing them, and ceased not frō theyr inuentions nor from theyr malt=eyouse wayes.

Wherfore the lord was angrye w Is=rael & sayd: because this people hath trās=gressed mine appoyntmēt which I cōmaū ded theyr fathers & haue not obeyed my voyce, therfore henceforth I will not cast out one mā before thē of the naciōs which Josua lefte when he dyed, & that to proue Israel through thē whether they wil kepe the waye of the Lorde to walke therein as theyr fathers dyd or not. And so the Lord lefte those nacions alone, & droue thē not out immediatlye, neyther delyuered thē in to the handes of Josua.

then they eryed vnto the lord. And the lorde sterred them vp a sauer, Ahud the sone of Gera, the sonne of Jemini, a man that coulde do nothinge handsomlye wyth his eyght hande.

By whom the childzen of Israel sent a C presente vnto Eglon the king of the Moabites whych Ahud made him a dagger w two edges, of a cubite lengthe, and he dyd gyrde it vnder hys cote vppon hys ryghte thyghe and caryed the presente vnto Eglō the kyng of the Moabytes, whych Eglō was a very fat man. And when he had presented the presente, he sente the people that bare it awaye, but he hym selfe turned agayne frō the Idols by [b] Galgal, & sayd I haue a secret vnto the O king: and the king commaūded hym to holde his peace vntyl al that stode about hym, were gone out from hym.

And Ahud came in vnto him into a somer parler, which he had seueral vnto him selfe alone, and sayd: I haue a [c] message vnto the frō God. And he arose out of his seate. And Ahud put forth hys lyfte hand and toke the dagger frō hys right thyghe and thrust it into hys belye, so that ỹ hafte went in after the blade. And the hafte stopped in the fatte, for he drue not the dagger out of hys belye. And the dyrt came oute. But Ahud gat him out at a posterne doze D and shutte the dozes of thee parler vppon hym and locked them.

When he was gone out, his seruaūtes came and loked. And behold, the dozes of the parler were locked. And they sayde, A, he is a doynge of hys easement in his somer chamber. The. iiii. Chapter

AND the chyldrē of Israel began agayne to do wyckedlye A in the syght of the Lord, whē Ahud was dead. And ỹ lord *solde thē into the handes of Jabin king of Canaan, ỹ raygned in Hazar, whose captayne of warre was Sisara which dwelt in Haroseth of the gentyles. And the chyldrē of Israell cryed vnto the Lord: for he had nyne hundred charettes of yron, he oppressed the chyldren of Israell wyth powre xx. yeares. That is delyuered, as aboue. iii. b

And Debora a Prophetisse, ỹ wyfe of Lapidoth iudged Israel the same tyme, & dwelt vnder the paulmetre of Debora, betwene Ramath and Bethel, in mounte Ephraim.

And the chyldren of Israel came to her for iudgemēt. And she sente & called Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedes Nephthalim, and sayd vnto hym.

The Lord god of Israel cōmaundeth the, that thou go & drawe to mount Thabor, and take wyth the. x. thousande men, of the chyldren of Nephthalim and of the chyldren of Zabulon. And I wyll bryngе vnto the ryuer Kison Sisara, the Captayne of warre vnto Jabin, wyth hys charettes, and his people, and wyll delyuer them into

B them into thyne handes. And Barak sayd vnto her, yf thou wylt go with me, I will go: But and yf thou wilt not go with me, then I will not goo. And she answered, I wyll suerlye go wyth the, but thē the pray se shall not be thyne, in the waye whyche thou goest, for ỹ Lord shall deliuer Sisara into the handes of a womā. And she arose and went with Barak to Kedes. And Barak called Zabulō and Nephthalim to Kedes. And he wente vp a foote withe ten thousande men: and Debora wente wythe hym.

But Haber ỹ kenite was remoued out of kin, whych was of the childrē of * Hobab the father in lawe of Moses, and pyt ched his tēt vntill he was come to ỹ Oke of Zaanaim, by Kedes.

Of hobab nume.xxi.a

And then it was shewed vnto Sisara how ỹ Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mount Thabor. And Sisara called for all hys charettes, euen.ix. hundred charettes of yron, and for all the peo ple that he had from Haroseth of the gen tyles vnto the ryuer of Kison. Thē sayde Debora vnto Barak: vp, for thys is the daye in whych the Lorde hathe delyuered Sisara in to thyne handes: for the Lord C is gone oute before the. And so Barak wente downe from mounte Thabor, and ten thousande men after hym.

But the Lorde trounsed Sisara and al hys charettes and al hys host wyth the edge of ỹ swerde, before Barak. And Si sara lighted doune of hys charett & fled a fote. But Barak folowed after ỹ charet tes & after the host, euen vnto Haroshethe of the gentiles. And al the host of Sisara fel vpon the edge of the swerde, that there was not a man leafte. Howbeit Sisara fled a fote to the tent of Jael the wyfe of Haber the kenite: for their was peace bet wene Jabin the kyng of Hazor, & the hou sholde of Haber the kenite.

And Jael went out agaynst Sisara & sayde vnto hym: turne in my Lord, turne into me: & feare not. And he turned into her into her tēt: & she couered him wyth a mātel. And he said vnto her, geue me a lit tel water to drincke, for I am thirsty. And D she opened a bottel of mylke & gaue hym drynck and couered hym. And he sayde vnto her, stand in the doze of thy tent, & yf any mā come & aske the, or enquere of the whether there be any man here, saye nate.

Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tent, & an hamer in her hand & went softly vnto him, & smote ỹ nayle thorowe ỹ tēples of his head in to the groūd, as he slombered beyng wery: And so he dyed.

And beholde as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came oute against him, and sayde vnto him: come and I wil shew the the mā whom thou sekeste. And when he came into her tent: Beholde, Sisara laye dead & the nayle thorowe his tēples. And so God brought Jabin the kyng of Ca naā into subiectyon that daye, before the chyldren of Israel. The wyseste of her ladies ãswered her: yea & she answered her owne wordes her self, haply they haue found, and deuyde the spoyle: A mayde, ye two maydes for a pece: a spoyle of diuerse colours for Sisara, a spoyle of dyuerse colours wyth brodered worckes, diuerse coloured brodered worckes for the necke for a praye. So perishe al thine ene mies Lord: but they that loue the, let them be as the sunne ryssynge in hys myghte.

And the land had rest fourtie peres.

The Notes.

*℣ Some reade because he hath auẽged the ven geaunce done to Israel, the people offring thẽ selues willingly, prayse ye the Lorde.

a℣ The meaning is, ỹ Sisara had done so great iniuries vnto the Israelites. ỹ the wayes were not occupied: that nether husbãdmã nor Citezẽ might safely passe to erercyse marchaundyse or other thin ge, nor wayfaring man iourneye, nor ploweman tyll the feldes. Whosoeuer dyd once peepe out of hys Cytie towne or village, was strayghtway snatched vp of the theues that belonged to Sisara.

b℣ The pryde of these Rubenites is here noted. because they refused to go wyth Debora to ouer-co-me the oppressour of Israel.

c℣ By these wordes signifieth Debora that the kynges hostes of the Cananites came to Thanach and Magedo thinking verely, because of the multi-tude of the hoste, that they came not to fyght: but to take a praye, but they were sore deceaued, for it so chaunced that they were rather a praye to Israell, than Israel to them.

℣ Israel is oppressed of the Madianites, because he returned agayn into Idolatrye. Gedeon is sente of God to be theyr delyuerer. The aultes of Baal is ouerthrowen.

The. vii. Chapter.

A THen Jerobaal otherwyse called Gedeon rose erlye & al the people that were with hym, & pitched besyde the wel of Harad, so that the hoste of ỹ Madianites were in a valey on the northsyde of the hyl Hamoreh. And the lord sayd vnto Gedeon, the people ỹ are wyth the ar to many for me to geue ỹ Madianites into theyr hãdes, lest Jsrael make their vaunte to my dishonour & say, our owne hãd hath saued vs. Now therfore make a proclamatiõ in the Eares of the people and say: *yf any mã dreade or be aferde, let hym returne & get hym soone from mount Galaad. And there departed & returned of the people. xxii. thousande, and there abode ten thousande.

B And the Lord sayde vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bring them downe vnto the water, & I wyll trye thẽ vnto the there. And of whom I saye vnto the, thys shall go wyth thẽ, the same shal goo wyth the. And whosoeuer I saye vnto the, thys shall not go with the, the same shal not go And whẽ he had broughte downe the people vnto the water. The Lord sayde vnto Gedeõ: as many as lappe the water wyth theyr tonges, as dogges do, thẽ put by thẽ selues, & so do thẽ that knele downe vpon theyr knees to drynke. And the nomber of thẽ that put theyr hãdes to theyr mouthes and lapped, were. iii. hundred men. And al the remnaunt of the people kneled downe vpõ theyr knees to drinke water. And the Lord sayd vnto Gedeon, wyth the. iii. hundred men that lapped wyl I saue you, and delyuer the Madianites into thyne hand. And al the other people shal go eueryman vnto hys owne whome.

And they toke vitayles with thẽ for the folke, & their trõpettes. And he sente al the rest of Jsrael, euery mã vnto his tent, and kepte the thre hundred with hym. And the hoste of Madiã was beneth hym in a valeye. And the same nyght the Lorde sayde vnto hym, vp & go downe vnto the hoste, for I haue delyuered it into thyne hande. But & yf thou feare to go downe, then go thou downe vnto the hoste, & Pharah thy ladde, & herkẽ what they saye, & so shal thyne handes be strong, & then thou shalte go downe vnto the hoste.

Thẽ he wẽt downe w Pharah his lad, euẽ hard vnto the men of armes that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites, & al they of the East, lay a long in ỹ valeye, lyke vnto greshoppers in multitude, & theyr camelles were without nõbre, euẽ as the sand by the see syde in multitude. And when Gedeon was come: Beholde, there was a man that told a dreame vnto hys felowe & sayd: Behold I dreamde a dreame & me thoughte that a broyled D loofe of barleybread tõbled into the hoste of Madian, & came vnto a tent & smote it that it fel, & ouerturned it, that the tent lay a longe. And his felowe answered & sayd: this is nothing els saue the swerd of Gedeon the sonne of Joas a man of Jsraell, into whose hand the Lord hath delyuered Madian & all the hoste.

Whẽ Gedeon hearde the telling of the dreame & the interpretation of the same, he bowed him selfe to the earth and returned vnto vnto the hoste of Israel, and sayd: vp for the Lord hath delyuered into your hãdes the host of the Madianites. And he deuyded the thre hundred mẽ into thre companies and gaue euery mã a trõpet into hys hand, & an emptie pitcher & lampes therin, and sayde vnto them loke on me & do likewyse: and behold, when I come to the syde of the host, euen as I do, so do you. And when I blow with a trompet and al that are with me, blowe ye & trompettes also on euery syde the hoste and saye, here be the Lorde and Gedeon.

And so Gedeon & the thre hundred mẽ & were with him, came vnto the side of the host in the begynning of & middel watch, and reysed vp the watche men. And they blew with their trõpettes & brake the pytchers & were in their hãdes. And al thre cõpanyes blewe with trompettes & brake & pitchers, & helde & lãpes in their lefte hãdes, & & trompettes in their right, to blow with all. And they cryed the swerde of the Lord & of Gedeõ. And they stode stille, euery mã in his place round about & host. And al the hoste ranne & cryed and fleed. And as the thre hundreth blew with ttõpettes, & lord sett euery mãnes swerd vpon his neyghboure, thorow out all & host. And & host fleed vntil they came to Bethsittah, to Zererath, & to the edge of Abelmeholah beside Thabah. And the men of Israel geathered together of the tribe of Nephthalim, of Aser, & of al Manasses, & folowed after the Madianites. For Gedeon had sẽt messẽgers thorow out al moũt Ephraim sayinge: come downe agaynst the Madianites and take from thẽ & waters both of Bethbarath and also of Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianaites, Oreb & Zeb, & slew Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and Zeb at the presse Zeb and folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb and Zeb to Gedeon on the otherside Jordan.

And the mẽ of Ephraim sayd vnto him. Why hast thou serued vs thus, & thou calledst vs not, when thou wẽtest to fight & Madianites. And they chode with him a good. And he sayd vnto them: What deade haue I done like vnto yours: ar not & clusters of Ephraim better then the wyne heruest of Abiezer? God hath deliuered into your handes the Lordes of Madian, Oreb and Zeb. And what was I able to do lyke as you haue done. And then their spirites abated frõ of him, whẽ he had sayd that. And thẽ Gedeõ came to Jordã & passed ouer, both he and the thre hundred men that were & him very faynte & yet folowed the chase. And he said vnto the mẽ of Socoth: geue I pray you kakes of breed vnto & people & folow me: for they be fainty, that I may folowe after Zebath and Zalmona kinges of Madian. And the Lordes of Socoth saide: are the handes of Zebath and Zalmona nowe in thyne handes that we shuld gyue breed vnto thy company. And Gedeon sayde, therefore when the Lorde hath delyuered Zebath & Zalmona into myne hande, I wyll teare the flesh of you with the thornes of the wildernes & wyth breers. And he went thence to Phanuel, & spake vnto them lykewyse. And the men of Phanuel answered him, as dyd the mẽ of Socoth. And he sayd also vnto the mẽ of Phanuel, when I come againe in peace, I wil breake doune this towre. Zebah & Zalmona were in Arker & their hostes with thẽ, vpõ a.xv.thousand, which were al that were lefte of all the hostes of them of the Easte. And they that were slayne were a hundred and twentie thousand mẽ that drewe swerdes.

And Gedeon went thorow them & dwelt in tabernacles on the east side of Nobah & Jebahah, & smote the host: for the host did cast no perfelles. Zebah & Zolmona fled But he folowed after them, & toke & two kynges of thee Madianites, Zebah and Zalna and discomforted all the hooste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas returned from battell, the sõne beyng yet vp, & caught a ladd of the mẽ of Socoth, & enquered of him. And he wrote him of the Lordes & Elders of Socoth. lxxvii. men.

¶ Ephraim maketh insurrectiõ against Gedeõ, but is sone pacifyed The inhabiters of Socoth refuse to geue Gedeon & his armie breed The towre Phanuel is destroied. Gedeon is cõstitute rular ouer the Israelites. He hathe. lxx. sonnes. He dyeth.

The. viii. Chapter.

Then he came vnto the men of Socoth & sayd: Behold Zebah & Zalmona, vp whyche ye cast me in the teth saying: are the hãdes of Zebah & Zalmona al ready in thyne hande, that we shulde gyue bread vnto thy faynte men. And he toke the elders of the cytie, & thornes of the wyldernesse and breers, & al to teare them therwith. And he brake downe thee towre of Phanuell and slewe the men of the cytye.

And then sayd vnto Zebah and Zal-
E mona, what maner men were they whyche ye slew at Thabor? & they answered, the lyknesse of the & thẽ is all one, euẽ after the facyon of the chyldren of a kynge. And he sayd, they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyldren, & as truely as the Lord lyueth, yf ye had saued theyr lyues, I wolde not slaye you. And he said vnto Jether his eldest sonne, vp & slee thẽ: But the lad drue not hys swerde, for he feared, because he was yet young. Then Zebah & zalmona sayd. Ryse thou & fall vpõ vs, for as the mã is so is his strength. And Gedeõ arose & slewe them: & he toke away the Chaynes that were on theyr camels neckes.

Thẽ ỹ men of Israel sayd vnto Gedeõ Raygne ouer vs, bothe ỹ, thy sonne & thy sonnes sonne, for ỹ hast delyuered vs out of ỹ hãdes of ỹ Madianites. And Gedeõ sayd vnto thẽ, I wil not raygne ouer you nether shal my chyldren raygne ouer you, but the Lord shal raygne ouer you.

Neuerthelater Gedeõ said vnto them I
F wold desyre a certayne request of you, euẽ that you wold geue me euery mã the earinges of his pray. For thet had goldẽ earinges, because they were Ismaelites. And they sayd we wil doo it. And they spreed a mãtel & dyd cast ther into euery mã the earinges of his pray. And the weyght of the golden earinges was a thousand & .vii. C sycles of golde, besyde brouches, ouches & garmentes of skarlette that were of thee kynges of Madian, and besyde the chaynes, that were aboute theyr cameles neckes. And Gedeon made an Ephod thereof, and putt it in his cytie Ephrah. And al Israel wente a whoringe after him there, whych thynge was the ruine of Gedeons house. Thus were the Madianites brought lowe before the chyldren of Israel, so that they lyfte vp theyr heades no moare.

And the countreye was in quietnes fourtye yeres in the dayes of Gedeon.

And Jerobaal the sonne of Joas wẽt & G dwelt in his owne house. And Gedeõ had lxx. sonnes of his body begottẽ, for he had many wyues. And his concubine ỹ dwelte in Sichẽ bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeon thee sõne of Joas dyed, whẽ he was of a good age, & was buried in ỹ burial of Joas his father, euẽ in Ephrath that pertayned vnto the father of the Ezrites.

But as sone as Gedeon was dead, the chyldren of Israel turned away and wẽte a whoring after Baall, & made Baall beryth their god, & thought not on the Lord theyr God whych had delyuered them out of the handes of al theyr enemies on euery syde. Neyther shewed they mercye on the house of Jerobaall, otherwyse called Gedeon, accordinge to all the goodnesse whyche he shewed them.

Then sayde zebul vnto him: where is now thy mouth that sayde, what felowe is Abimelech, that we shulde serue him. These are the people ẏ thou so despysedest. Go out now a felowshipe & fyght with thẽ. And Gaal went out before ẏ cytizens of Sichem, & foughte wt Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him ẏ he fledd before him & many were ouerthrowen and slayne, euen vntyl they came vnto the entryng of the gate. And then Abimelech wẽt & dwelt at Arumah. And then zebull thruste out Gaal & his brethrẽ, and wold not suffre them to dwel in Sichem.

F And on the morow the people wẽt oute in to the felde. And it was tolde Abimelech. And he toke his people & deuided thẽ into thre cõpanies, & lay awayte in the feldes. And whẽ he saw ẏ ẏ people were come out of ẏ citie, he rãne vpõ thẽ & laide vpõ thẽ.

And Abimelech & the cõpanyes ẏ were wt him, ranne & stode in the entrynge of ẏ gate of the cytie. And ẏ two other companies rãne vpõ al the people ẏ were in ẏ feldes and slue thẽ. And then Abimelech foughte against ẏ citie al ẏ day, & toke it, & slewe the people that was therin, & destroied the cytie & a+sowed salt in ẏ place. And when al ẏ mẽ of the towre of Sichẽ hearde that, they entered into a strong hold of the house of their God Baal Berith. And whẽ it was tolde Abimelech, that all ẏ mẽ of the towre of Sichẽ were geathered together, he gat him to mount zelmon, both he & al that were wt him, & toke axes with him & cut downe an arme of a tree, & toke it vp, & put it on his shoulder, & said vnto ẏ folcke ẏ were with him, whatsoeuer ye se me do: spede your selues & do likewyse. And all the people cut downe also euerye G man a bowghe, and folowed Abemilech, and put them into the holde, and sett the holde a fyre vpon them: so that all the mẽ of the towre of Sichem were slayne, vpon a thousande personnes what of men & wemen to gether.

Then went Abimelech to Thebez and beseged it, & toke it. But there was a strõge towre in the myddes of the cityе, and thither ranne al the men & wemen & al the cytezens of the citie & shut it to thẽ, & gott thẽ vp vpõ thee top of ẏ towre. Thẽ came Abimelech vnto ẏ towre & fought against it, & went harde vnto the enterynge of the gate, to set it on fier. But a woman cast a pece of a mylstone vpon hys hedde and al to brake hys brayne panne.

Then Abimelech called hastelye vnto the young man that bare his harnes, and sayde vnto him: drawe thy swerd and slee me, that men saye not of me, a woman slewe hym. And his ladde thruste hym thorowe and he dyed. Drawe thy sword/ and slo me

And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was deed, they departed, euery man vnto hys awne house. And thus all the wyckednesse of Abimelech whyche he dyd vnto his father, in sleyng his .lxx. brethrẽ, and therto all the wyckednesse of the men of Sichem, God dyd brynge vpon their hedes: And vpõ them came the curlse of Joathan the sonne of Jerobaal.

Goddes

Goddes of Sidon, & the Goddes of Sidō the Goddes of Moab, the Goddes of the children of Ammon, & the Goddes of the Philistines, & forsoke the lord & serued him not. And the lord was wroth vp Israel, and solde them in to thee handes of thee Philistines, & into the hādes of the childrē of Ammō: which vexed & oppressed ye children of Israel in those dates. xviii. yere, al ye were on the other syde Jordā in ye lād of ye Amorites in Galaad. Moreouer the children of Ammon went ouer Jordā to fight against Juda, Be Jamin, & the house of Ephraim: so ye Israel was sore combred. C The children of Israel cryed vnto the Lord saying: we haue sinned against the: for we haue forsaken oure owne God, & haue serued Baalim. And ye lord sayd vnto ye children of Israel: did not ye Egyptias, ye Amorites, ye children of Ammō, ye Philistines, ye Sidonites, ye Amaleckites, & the Maonites, oppresse you? And ye cryed to me, & I delyuered you out of their hādes. And for al that ye haue forsakē me, & serue straung goddes, wherfore I will helpe you no moare. D But go & crye vnto the Goddes whiche ye haue chosē, & lett them saue you in the time of your tribulacion.

But the children of Israel sayd vnto ye Lord we haue sinned: do ye vnto vs what soeuer please ye, & delyuer vs only at thys tyme. And they put awaye the straunge Goddes frō thē, & serued the Lorde. And the mysery of Israel greued hys soule.

Then the children of Ammō geathered togeather & pitched in Galaad. And the children of Israel geathered thē to geather & pitched in Mazphah. And ye cōpanye of the lordes of Galaad sayde eche to other, whosoeuer wil beginne the battel against the children of Ammō, the same shalbe hed ouer all the enhabiters of Galaad.

¶ Jephthah the sōne of a Harlot deliuereth Israel frō the Ammonites after they asked forgeuenes.

The. xi. Chapter.

A AND ther was one Jephthah a Galaadite, a stronge man, which was ye sōne of an harlot: How be it Galaad begat Jephthah. But Galaades wife bare hym sonnes, whych when they were come to age, thruste oute of Jephthah, & said vnto him: thou shalt not enheret in oure fathers houle, for thou art the sonne of a straung woman. Then Jephthah fledde frō his brethrē and dwelt in ye lande of Tob. And there geathered vile people to Jephthah, & wente out wt hym. But it chaunced in processe of tyme, ye the children of Ammon made warre against Israel, then the elders of Galaad went & fett Jephthah out of ye lād of Tob, & said vnto him: come & be our captaine, & let vs fyght wt the childrē of Ammō. And Jephthah sayd vnto ye elders of Galaad. Dyd not ye hate me & expelle me out of my fathers house: how happeneth it then ye you come vnto me nowe in tyme of youre tribulacō? And the elders of Galaad answered Jephthah. Therfore we turne againe to the nowe, that thou go wt vs, & fight agaynst the children of Ammon, & be oure heed ouer all the enhabiters of Galaad. And Jephthah sayde vnto the elders of Galaad: If ye bryng me home againe, to fight wt the childrē of Ammō, then yf the lord deliuer thē before me, I shalbe youre hed. And ye elders of galaad said to Jephthah, the lord be witnes betwene vs yf we do not accordig to thy wordes. Thē Jephthah wēt wt ye elders of galaad. And ye people made hī hed & ruler ouer thē. And Jephthah rehersed al his wordes in Mazphah.

Then Jephthah sent messengers vnto the king of the childrē of Ammō, saying: what ayleth the wt me & ye comest vpō me to fight against my lād? And the king of the children of Ammō answered vnto the messengers of Jephthah, because Israel toke away my lād, when they came out of Egipt: euen frō Arnō vnto Jabock, & frō thence vnto Jordan. Now therfore restore those lādes againe wt faire meanes. And Jephthah sēt messēgers againe vnto the childrē of Ammō, & sayde vnto him: thus saith Jephthah. Israel toke not awaye ye lād of Moab, nor ye lād of ye childrē of Ammō. But whē Israel came out of Egipt, they walked thorow the wildernesse, euen vnto the redde see, and came to Cades, & sent messengers vnto the kyng of Edom sayīg: let vs we pray ye go thorow thy lād. But the king of Edō wold not agree ther to. And in like maner they sēt vnto ye kig of Moab, but he wold not consēt. And so Israel abode stil in Cades. And then they went a long thorow the wildernes, & compased pased the lād of Edom, & the lād of Moab, and came a long by the east side of the lād of Moab, & pitched on ỹ otherside of the ryuer of Arnon, & came not within the D coostes of the Moabites: for Arnon was their vtmost border. And then Israel sent messengers vnto Sehon, kyng of the Amorites, and kyng of Hesbon, & sayd vn to hym: Lett vs passe thorowe thy lande vnto owre awne contreye. But Sehon trusted not Israel, to go thorowe hys coostes: but gathered all hys people to geather & pitched in Jazah, & fought vō Israel. But the Lord God of Israel deliuered Sehon & all his folcke into the hādes of Israel. And so Israel smote thē & conquered al the land of the Amorytes, the enhabiters of the said cōtrey. And they cōquered al the coostes of the Amorites, frō Arnon vnto Jabok, & from the wyldernesse vnto Jordan. So now seing ỹ lord God of Israel hath cast out ỹ Amorites before his people shuldest thou possesse the lād? Naye, but what people Camos thy God dryueth out, that lande possesse thou. But whatsoeuer nacyons the Lord our god expellethe, that lande oughte we to enioye.

E And therto art thou better then Balack ỹ sonne of Zephor kyng of Moab? dyd he stryue wyth Israell or fyght against thē? all the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon and her townes, & in Aroer & her townes, & in al the cities ỹ be a lōg by ỹ coostes of Arnō. iii. hundred yeres? why didst thou not recouer thē in al ỹ space, wherfore I haue not synned agaynst the. But thou doeste me wronge, to warre agaynst me. The lord therfore be iudge this daye, betwene ỹ children of Israel, and the chyldrē of Ammon. How be it the kyng of the childrē of Ammō harkened not vnto the wordes of Jephthah whych he sente hym.

Then the spryte of the Lord came vpō Jephthah. And he passed ouer Galaad & Manasses, & came to Mazphah ỹ lieth in Galaad, & frō thence vnto the children of F Ammō. And Jephthah vowed a vow vn the lord & sayd: If thou shalt delyuer the childrē of Ammō into my hādes, thē ỹ thinge that cometh out of the dores of my house against me, whē I come home in peace, from the chyldren of Ammon, shall be the Lordes, & I wil offer it vp a burntoffering. And so Jephthah went vnto the chyldren of Ammon to fyght vō thē. And the lord deliuered thē into hys hādes. And he smote thē frō Aroer vnto Wenith, xx. cyties. And so forth to ỹ plaine of the vynyardes, made an exceadyng great slaughter. And thus the children of Ammō were brought vnder, before ỹ childrē of Israel

Then Jephthah came to Mazphah vn to his house. And se, his daughter came out against him, wō temberelles & daūces, which was his only childe: so ỹ beside her he had nether sonne nor daughter. And G when he sawe her, he rent his clothes and said: Alas my daughter, ỹ hast* made me stoupe & art one of them that trouble me. For* I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lord, & cānot go backe. And she sayd vn to him: my father, yf ỹ haue opened thy mouth vnto the lord, then do wō me according to that proceaded out of thy mouth, for as moch as the Lord hath auenged ỹ of thyne enemies the chyldren of Ammō. And she sayde vnto her father, do this moch for me: lett me alone two monethes that I may go downe to the mountaines & bewatle my virginite with my felowes. And he sayde: go and so he sent her away two monethes. And she went with her cōpanīōs & lamented her maydenheed vpō ỹ mountaines. And after ỹ two monethes she turned agayne vnto her father which dyd wō her accordyng to hys vowe which he had vowed, & so she knewe no mā. And it became an ordinaūce in Israell yere by yere, that the daughters of Israel shulde go & lamēt the daughter of Jephthah the Galaadite, foure dayes in a yere.

The. xiii. Chapter.

AAnd the children of Israel began againe to cōmitte wickednesse in ỹ syght of ỹ lord. And ỹ Lord delyuered thē into ỹ hādes of the Philistines fourtye yere. And ther was a mā in Zarah of ỹ kynred of ỹ Dānites, named Manoah, whose wife was barren & bare not.

And ỹ Angel of ỹ lord apeared vnto hys wyfe and sayd vnto her: Behold, thou art barrē and bearist not: But thou shalt conceaue and beare a sōne. Then Manoah made intercession to ỹ Lorde, and sayde: I praye the my Lorde lett the man of God whiche thou sendeste come once moare vnto vs and teache vs what we shal do vnto the ladd, when he is borne. And God heard the voyce of Manoah, & ỹ angel of god came againe vnto ỹ wyfe as she satt in the feldes: But Manoah her husband was not wt her. Then ỹ wife made hast & rāne & shewed her husbād & sayd to him: Behold ỹ mā apeared vnto me ỹ came the other daye vnto me.

And Manoah arose and wēt after his wife and came to the man and saide vnto him: art thou the man that spakeste vnto my wife? And he said, yea. Thē Manoah said, now whē thy saying is come to passe what shalbe the maner of the chylde, and what shal he do? And the Angel of the lorde sayd vnto Manoah: the wife must abstaine frō al that I said vnto her: she may eate of nothyng that cometh of the vyne tree, nor dryncke wyne or strong dryncke, nor eate any vncleane thynge: But muste obserue al that I bad her. ¶ The mariage of Samson. He kylleth a Lyon. He propoundeth a ryde. He kylleth .xxx. men. Hys wyfe forsaketh him & taketh another.

The .xiiii. Chapter.

A Samson wēt downe to Thamnath & sawe a womā in Thānath of the daughters of the Philistines, & came vp & tolde his father & hys mother, & sayd: I haue sene a womā in Thānath of the daughters of ỹ Philistines. And now geue her me to wyfe. Thē his father & mother sayd vnto him, is ther neuer a womā of the daughters of thy brethrē, amōg all my people: but that thou must go & fett a wyfe of thee vncircumcysed Philistines? And Samson sayd vnto hys father, geue me thys woman for she pleaseth me well. But his father & mother wyste not that it was the Lordes doying, & that he sought an occasyō of ỹ Philistines, whych at that tyme raygned ouer Israell.

Thē went Samson & hys father and his mother downe to Thānath. And whē B they came to the vyneyardes of Thānath behold a young Lion rored vpō him. And the spyrete of the Lord came vpō him. And he tare him, as a man wold rent a kydde, & yet had nothing in his hande. Neuerthelater he told not his father & mother what he had done. And he went downe & talked with the womā, which semed wel fauored in the syght of Samson.

And wythin a shorte space after, as he went thyther agayne to take her to wyfe, he turned out of the waye, to se the carkesse of the Lyon. And beholde ther was a swarme of bees in the carkasse of the lyon and honye. And he toke of the hony in hys handes and went eating, and came to hys father and mother & gaue them also. And they dyd eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the honye out of the carkesse of the Lyon.

And whē his father was come vnto the C womā. Samson made ther a feast, for so vsed the younge men to do. And whē her frendes sawe him, they brought .xxx. cōpanyons to beare felowshyp. And Samson sayd vnto them: I wyl put forth a ryddle vnto you. And yf you cā declare it within vii. dayes of the feast & fynd it out, I wyl geue you thyrtye shertes & thyrtye chaūge of garmentes: But & yf you cannot declare it me, then shal ye geue me thyrtye shertes & thyrtye chaunge of garmentes. And they answered hym, putt forth thy ryddle & let vs heare it. And he sayd vnto thē. Out of the eater came meat: and out of the strōge came sweteneſſe. And they could not in thre dayes expounde the ryddle. And when the seuēth daye was come, they sayd vnto Samsons wyfe. Flatter with thyne hus- D band, that he maye declare vs thy ryddle, or elles we wyl burne the & thy fathers house with fyre, haue ye called vs to make vs beggers or not? Thē samsons wyfe wept vnto hym and sayde: it cannot be but that thou hatest me and louest me not: for thou haste putte forth a ryddle vnto the chyldrē of my folke and wylte not tell me what it meaneth. And he sayde: Beholde, I haue not tolde it my father, nor my mother, and shulde

And she wepte vnto hym. vii. dayes, while the feast lasted. And the seuēth day he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpon him. And she told it ỹ childrē of her folke. And ỹ men of the citie said vnto him ỹ seuenth daye before the sōne wente downe. What is sweter then honye, and what is strōger then a Lió. Thē sayd he vnto thē: If ye had not *plowed with my caulfe, ye had not found out my ridle. Thē ỹ spyrite of the Lorde came vpō him. And he went downe to Askalon, & slewe thyrtie men of them, and spoiled thē, and gaue their garmentes vnto them whyche expounde the ridle. And he was wrothe and wente vp to his fathers house. But Samsōs wyfe was geuen to one of hys companyōs that bare hym companye.

A But it chaūced within a while after, euen in ỹ time of whete haruest, ỹ Samson vysyted his wyfe wyth a kydde. And whē he supposed to haue gone in vnto hys wife into the chāber, her father wolde not suffre hym to go in: But sayd: I thought that thou haddest hated her, & therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companiōs. Howbeit, her younger sister is fayrer then she. Take her in steade of the other. Then sayd Samson vnto thē: Now I am blameless cōcerning the Philistines, though I do them euell.

THen went Samsõ to Gaza, and saw there an whore, and wẽt in vnto her. And it was tolde ỹ Gazites, that Samson was come thither. And they wẽt about and layde awaite for him all nyght in the gate of the cytie, but were styl al the night saying: Tarye tyl ỹ morning that it be daye, & then let vs kyl him And Samson toke hys reste tylle mydnyghte, and rose at mydnyghte and toke the dores of the gate of the cytie, and the two syde postes, and rente them of, barres and al, and put them vpon his shoulders, and caried them vp to the toppe of an hyl that lyeth before Hebron.

And after that he loued a woman, vpõ the ryuer of Sorek, called Dalilah vnto whom came the Lordes of ỹ Philistines, and sayde vnto her: Flatter with him & se wherin hys great strength lyethe, and by what meane we maye haue power ouer him, that we may bynde him, to bring him vnder, and we wyll geue euerye man a leuen hundred syluerlynges.

And Dalilah sayde to Samson. Oh, tel me where thy great strength lyeth, and yf thou were boũde wherwith men might constrayne the. And Samson sayde vnto her. If men boũd me with .vii. grene withes ỹ were neuer dryed, I shuld be weake and as another man. And then the lordes of the Philistines brought her .vii. withes ỹ were yet grene & neuer dryed & she bound him therwith. Notwithstandynge she had men lying in waite withe her in ỹ chaumbre. And she sayde vnto hym, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he brake the cordes as a strynge of towe breaketh, when it fealeth fire. And so his strength was not knowen.

Then sayde Dalilah to Samson: Se thou haste mocked me and tolde me lyes. Now yet tel me I pray ỹ, wherwith thou mightest be bounde. And he sayde: If I were bound with new ropes ỹ neuer were occuppyed, then shulde I be weake, & as another mã. And Dalilah toke new ropes & bounde him therwith, & sayd vnto him, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And there were lyers of wayte in the chamber, and he brake them from of his armes, as they had bene but a threde. And Dalilah sayd vnto Samson, hitherto thou hast begyled me & tolde me lyes: I praye the yet tell me wherwith mẽ may bynde ỹ. And he sayd vnto her. If thou plattedest the seuẽ lockes of my heed wythe an hearte lace & fastnedeste them wythe a nayle. And she sayde vnto hym, the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And he awaked out of hys slepe, & plucked & went away wt the nayle that was in the plattinge & wyth ỹ hearte lace. Then she sayde vnto him: How canst thou say ỹ thou louest me, when thine hert is not wt me: for ỹ haste mocked me this. iii. times, & hast not told wherin thy great strength lyeth. And as she lay vpõ him wt her wordes cõtinually vexing of him, his soule was encombred euẽ vnto the death. And he tolde her al his hert, and sayd vnto her: there neuer came raser nor sheres vpõ mine heed, for I haue bene an abstayner to God euen frõ my mothers wombe: If myne hearte were cut of, my strengthe wold go frõ me, & I shuld ware & be lyke al other men. And when Dalilah saw ỹ she had tolde her all hys hert, she sente for the Philistines saying, come vp yet this once. for he hath shewed me all his herte.

Then the Lordes of the Philistines came and brought the money in their hãdes. And she made him slepe vpõ her lapp and sent for a man, and cut of the seuẽ lockes of hys heed & beganne to vexe hym. But his strength was gone frõ him. And she saide the Philistines be vpõ ỹ Samson. And he awooke oute of his slepe and thought to go oute as at other tymes before & shake him selfe, & wist not that the lord was departed from him. But ỹ Philistines toke him and put out his eyes, & brought hym doune to Gaza, and bounde hym wyth fetters. And he was made to grinde in the prison house, howbe it the hearte of his heed begãne to growe againe after that he was shorne.

Thẽ the lordes of ỹ Philistines geathered thẽ to geather, for to offer a solempne offrig vnto Dagõ their god, & to reioyce: for they sayde, oure God hathe delyuered Samson oure enemye into oure handes.

And

And when the people saw him, they prayed their God: for they sayd our god hath delyuered into our handes our enemye, & destroyed oure contreye and slue many of vs. And whē their hertes were mery, they sayd: sende for Samson & lett him playe before vs. And they fett Samson out of ỹ prisonhouse, & he played before them, & they set him betwene ỹ pillers. And Sāsō ¶ C sayd vnto the ladd that leed him by ỹ hād: sett me that I may touche the pillers that the house stande vpō, & that I may leane to them. And the house was full of men and wemen. And there was al ỹ lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the roufe a thre thousād mē & wemen, that beheld how Samson played.

And Samson called vnto the Lord, & sayde: my Lorde Iehouah thynke vpon me, & strengthen me, at this tyme only O God, that I may be auēged of the Philistines for my two eyes. And Samson caught the two myddel pyllers on whych ỹ house stode and on whiche it was borne vp, the one in his ryght hande, & the other in his lefte, & sayde: my soule dye with the Philistines, and bowed thē with mighte. And the house fel vpō the lordes and vpon al the people ỹ were therin. And so the deed which he slew at his deeth, were moo then they which he slewe in hys lyfe. And then his brethren and all the house of his father came downe and toke hym vp, & broughte hym and buryed hym betwene Zarah and Esthaol, in the buryinge place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel twentye yere.

¶ Of Micah whose mother made him an Idoll of silver. Of the young preast of the lynage of Leui of Bethlehem.

The .xvii. Chapter.

A THer was a mā in mounte Ephraim, named Micah whyche sayd vnto his mother: ỹ leuē hundred siluerlynges ỹ were takē frō ỹ, about which ỹ cursedst & saidest in mine eares: Behold the syluer is with me for I toke it away. Thē sayd his mother, blessed be thou my sōne, in ỹ lord. And so he restored the leuē hūdred siluerlinges to his mother agayne. And hys mother sayde: I vowed the syluer vnto the Lorde of myne hand for my sōne: to make a grauē ymage & an ymage of metall. Nowe therfore I geue it the again. And he restored the money agayne vnto his mother. ¶ Then his mother toke two hūdred siluerliges & put thē to a goldsmyth, to make therof a grauē ymage & a ymage of metal, which remained in ỹ house of Micah. And ỹ mā Micah had a chapel of gods, & made an Ephod & ymages, & filled the hād of one of his sōnes whych became his preast. For in those daies ther was no king in Israel, but euery mā dyd what thought hym best. B C

And there was a younge man oute of Bethlehē Juda, & oute of the kinredes of Juda: whiche young mā was a Leuite & soiourned ther. And the mā departed out of ỹ citie of Bethlehem Juda to go dwel wher he could find a *place. And he came to moūt Ephraim, & to ỹ house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah sayde vnto hym, whence comest thou? and the Leuite answered him: I am of Bethlehē Juda, & go to dwell where I maye fynde a place. And Micah sayde vnto him dwel wt me, and be vnto me a father and a preast. And I wyll geue the ten syluerlynges by yere and raymente of all sortes, and thy meate and dryncke.

And ỹ Leuite went & begante to dwel with the man, & was vnto him as dere as one of his owne sōnes. And Micah filled ỹ hand of the Leuite, & the young mā became his preast, and cōtinued in the house of Micah. Then sayd Micah now I am suer ỹ ỹ lorde wilbe good vnto me, seyng, I haue a Leuite to my preast.

¶ The childrē of Dan take the goddes & the preast of Micah away. They destroye Lais, & after bylde it agyne.

The .xviii. Chapter.

A IN those dayes there was nō king in Israel. And in those daies ỹ trybe of Dā soughte thē an enheritaūce to dwel in, for vnto that tyme there fell none enheritaūce vnto thē amōg ỹ tribe of Israel. And the childrē of Dā sēt of their kyntredes fyue mē of actiuite, out of their coostes, euē out of Zaraah and Esthaol, to vewe the lād & search it out, & said vnto thē: go & searche out ỹ lande. And they came to moūt Ephraim, euē to ỹ house of Micah & lodged ther. And whē they were come vnto ỹ house of Micah, thei knew ỹ nota. Samson was buryed in the buryinge place

B voice of ỹ yoūg mā ỹ Leuite, & turned in thither, & sayde vnto him: who brought ỹ hither? & what makest thou in this place? & what hast ỹ here. And he sayd vnto thē, thus and thus dealeth Micah wyth me & hathe hired me to be his preaste. And they said vnto him: Aske of God I pray the, ỹ we may knowe whether ỹ way whiche we go, shalbe prosperous or no. And ỹ preast sayd vnto thē: go in peace, for ỹ way whyche ye go is before the Lorde.

Then the fiue men departed and came to Lais, & sawe ỹ people that were therin, how they dwelte careless, & after the maner of ỹ Sidōs, still, & without casting of parelles, & that no man made any trouble in the lande or vsurped any dominion, & howe they were farre from the Sidons & had no busynes with any nactō. And they came vnto their brethren, to Zaraah, and C Esthaol. And their brethren sayde vnto them: what tydinges bryngе you?

And they sayd vp and lett vs go vnto Num.xiii.d them, * for we haue sene the lād, ỹ it is verye good. Hast therfore & be not slouthful to departe and to go and cōquere the lād. When ye be come, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no parelles, and vnto a large contreye: for God hathe geuen into your handes a place whertn is no lacke of any thyng that is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Dannites, oute of Zaraah and Esthaol sixe hundred men apointed with instrumētes of warre. And they wēt & pitched in Kartath Iarim in Iuda. Wherfore the place is called Mahanah Dā vnto this day, which is on ỹ backside of Kariath Iarim. And they wente thence vnto D mounte Ephraim, & came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue mē that wēt to spye out the cōtrey of Lais, & saide vnto their brethrē wot ye not that there is in these houses an Ephod & Images, & a graué Image and an Image of meatal? Now therfore cōsidre what ye haue to do.

And they turned thither warde & came to the house of the younge man the Leuite in the house of Micah, & saluted him peasably. And ỹ syxe hūdred men gyrded wt wepons of warre which were of ỹ chil- E drē of Dā stode in the entering of ỹ gate. And the fyue mē that went to spye oute ỹ land, went in thyther and toke the kerued Image, & ỹ Ephod the kerued Image, & the Image of metal. And ỹ preast stode in the entryng of the gate with the syxe hūdred men ỹ were armed vnto battel while ỹ other went to Micahs house, and fette the kerued Image, the Ephod, the kerued Image and the Image of metall. Then sayde the preast vnto thē: what do ye? and they answered him, holde thy peace & * put thyne hande vpon thy mouthe, and come with vs, & be vnto vs a father & a preast, whether is it better for the to be a preaste vnto the house of one man, or to be preast vnto a tribe or a kynred in Israel? And ỹ preast was glad & toke the Ephod and ỹ Images, and the grauen Image, & went wt ỹ people. And they turned & departed, & put the childrē, the catell & their costlye thynges bekore them. F

Whē they were a good way frō the house of Micah, the mē ỹ were in the houses ỹ were by Micahs house, made an oute crye, & folowed after the childrē of Dan & called vnto thē. And they turned their faces, and sayd vnto Micah, what ayleth ỹ, that thou makest an out cry: And he said, ye haue takē away my Goddes whiche I made also the preast, and go your wayes wyth them: And what haue I moare, how then say ye vnto me, what ayleth the? And the childrē of Dan sayd vnto him, let not thy voyce be heard amōg vs, leste angrye felowes runne vpon the, & thou loose thy lyfe, with the lyues of all thyne housholde to. And so the childrē of Dan went theyr wayes. And when Micah sawe that they were to strōg for him, he turned & wēt backe vnto hys house agayne.

And they toke the thynges which Micah had made, and ỹ preast whiche he had, G and went vnto Lais, euē vnto a people ỹ were at reast and without mystruste, and smote thē wyth the edge of the swerd and burnt the cytye wyth fyre. And there was no mā to helpe, because it was farre from Sydon, & they had no medelynge wythe anye other nacyon. And the cytye stode in the valey that lyeth by Bethrehob. And they bylt the citye and dwelt therin. * And Iosu.xix.d called it Dā, after ỹ name of Dā their father which was borne vnto Israell. Howbeit in verye deade the name of the cytye was was Lais at the begynnynge.

And the chyldren of Dan set them vp the grauen Jmage. And Jonathan the sonne of Gerson, the sõne of Manasses & hys sonnes were the preastes vnto ỹ tribe of the Danites, vntyll they were caryed awaye out of the lande captiue. And they sett them vp the kerued Jmage whyche Micah made, all the whyle that the house of God was in Silo.

¶ Of the Leuite whose wife was vyllanously killed in Gabaah. Ihe is deuyded in to xii. partes & ether sent to euery tribe of Jsrael a peace.

The.xix.Chapter.

IT chaunced in those dayes, whẽ ther was no king in Jsrael, that a certẽ Leuite dwelling on ỹ syde of mounte Ephraim, toke to wyfe a cõcubine out of Bethlehem Juda: which concubine played the whore in his house, and went away frõ him, vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, & there contynued foure monethes. And her husbande arose and went after her, to speake frendly, vnto her, & to bring her home agayne, & hys lad with him and a couple of Asses. And she brought him vnto her fathers house, & when the father of ỹ damosel saw him he reioyced of his coming. And his father in law the damoselles father kepte him ỹ he aboade withe him thre dayes and so they ate and dranke and lodged there.

The fourth daye they arose erly in the morning, & the man stode vp to departe. But the damoselles father sayd vnto his sõne in law, cõfort thine hart w a morsell of breed & then go youre waye. And they sate downe & did eate & drinke both of thẽ to geather. Then sayd the damoselles father vnto the man, go to I praye the and tarye al nyght and let thyne hert be mery. How be it the mã stode vp to departe: but his father in law cõpelled him to turne againe & to tarie al night ther. And he rose vp erly ỹ fyfth day to departe. Thẽ saide ỹ damoselles father cõfort thine hert: & so made him tarye vntil after middaye. And they did eate bothe of them to geather.

And then the man arose to depart with hys concubine and hys ladde. But his father in law the damoselles father sayd vnto hym behold the day gothe fast awaye & drayweth towarde euẽ, tary al night: at the least way tarie this day here and let thine hert be merie. And to morow get you erlie vpon youre waye and get the to thy tent. Neuerthelater ỹ mã wold not tarie, but arose & departed and came as ferre as Jebus, whych is Jerusalem, & his two asses ladẽ, and his concubine & his ladd with him. And whẽ they were fast by Jebus, ỹ daye was sore spent and the younge man sayd vnto hys master, come I praye the & let vs turne in, into thys citie of ỹ Jebusites & lodge all night there. But his master sayd vnto him, we wyll not turne into a straung cytie that are not of the chyldren of Jsrael: we wil go forth to Gabaah. And he sayd vnto his ladd, go forwarde, & we shall come to one place or other & shal lodge all nyght in Gabaah or in Ramah. And they went forward vpon theyr waye, and the sõne went downe vpon thẽ when they were fast by Gabaah which is in Beniamin. And they turned thytherward to go and lodge al nyght in Gabaah. And when they came in, they sat them doune in a streat of the citie, for there was no man toke them into lodge. But behold there came an olde man from his worke, out of the feldes at euẽ which was also of moũt Ephraim, and but a straũger in Gabaah for the mẽ of ỹ place were of the chyldrẽ of Jemini. And when he had lyfte vp his eyes, & saw a wayfaring mã in ỹ streates of ỹ citie he said: whether goest ỹ? And whence comest ỹ? And the other answered him, we come frõ Bethlehẽ Juda toward the syde of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, and went to Bethlehẽ Juda, and go now to the house of the lord. But ther is no man that receaueth me to house: and yet I haue straw and prauender for oure Asses, and breade and wyne for me and thy hãdmaide, & thy ladd that ar with thy seruaunt, and lacke nothynge.

The olde man sayd, peace be with the, al that thou lackest shalt thou fynde with me: only abide not in ỹ streates al nighte, and he brought him into hys house, & gaue fodder vnto his Asses. And they washed their fete, and dyd eate and dryncke. And as they were making theyr hertes merye, the men of the cytte whyche were wycked, sett the house rounde about, and thrust at the doze, & spake to the mã of the house.the olde man sayinge: bringe forth the man that came into thyne house, that we maye knowe hym.

But the man of the house wente out to thē & sayd vnto thē, Oh, nay my brethren, do not so wickedly seing that thys man is come into myne house: doo not this folye. Behold my daughter a maydē & this mānes concubyne, thē I wyl bring out vnto you, and *humble thē, and doo with them what semeth you good: but vnto this mā, do not thys folye. But the men wolde not herkē to hym. Neuertheless the man toke his cōcubyne & brought her out vnto thē, and they hadde to do with her, & entreated her shamefully, all the nyght euē vnto the morninge. And when the daye beganne to spринge, they let her go.

And then came the woman in the dawning of the daye & fell downe at the dooze of the mannes house, wher her Lord was, & ther she laye tyll daye. And her Lorde arose vp in the morning & opened the dores of the house, & went out to goo hys waye. And behold, his concubine laye along before the doze of the house, and her hand vpon the thresholde. And he sayd vnto her: vp & lett vs be goying. But she answered not. Thē he toke her vp vpō an Asse & rode vp, and gat hym vnto hys owne home. And whē he was come vnto his house, he toke a dressing knife, & caught his cōcubine and deuyded her thorow the bones into xii. peces, & sent her into al quarters of Israel. And al that saw it sayd: there was no soch dede done or sene sence the chyldrē of Israel came out of Egipt vnto thys day, consyder the matter, geue councel and say youre myndes.

¶ The battel of al the Israelites agaynst the tribe of Ben Jamin for the Leuites wyfe kylled.

The.xx.Chapter

What is all of one consent, or generally as beneth in this cha.b.

Then al the chyldren of Israel went out: and there gathered a cōgregation to gether* as it had ben but one man, euē frō Dā to Berseba & out of the lande of Galaad, vnto the lande tō Marphah and there stode folke oute of al quarters of all the trybes of Israell, in the cōgregatyon of thee people of God, foure hundred. M. footemē that dwe swerdes. And thee chyldren of Ben Jamin hearde that the chyldren of Israel were gone vp to Marphah.

Then sayd the chyldren of Israell, tell vs how thys wyckednesse happened. And the Leuite the womās husband that was slayne, answered & sayd: I came into Gabaah that is in Ben Jamin with my cōcubyne to lodge al nyght. And the cytezēs of Gabaah rose agaynst me, & sett the house round about vpō me by nyght, & thought to haue slayne me: and caughte my concubyne and forced her, that she dyed. And I toke my concubyne and cutte hee in peces and sente her thorowe oute all the landes of the enheritaunce of Israell. For they haue cōmitted abhomination and folly in Israell. Beholde ye are al chyldren of Israell. Se therfore and geue youre aduyse in the case.

Then al the people arose, as it had ben one man saying: ther shall not a mā of vs go to hys tent, nether turne into his house And now this is it that we wyl do to Gabaah & cast lottes agaynst it. And we wyl take ten men of the hundred thorowe oute all the trybes of Israell, & an hundred of the thousande, and a thousande out of the ten thousande, to fette vitayle for the people to make that they may go agaynst Gabaah Ben Jamin, according to al the folye that they haue wrought in Israel. And so all the men of Israell gathered together, vnto Gabaah, knit together as it had ben but one man. And the trybes of Israell sent men thorow all the trybe of Ben Jamin saynge: what wickednes is thys ỹ is happened amōg you. Now therfore delyuer vs the men, those wycked wretches of Gabaah that we maye sley them, and put awaye euell from Israell.

Neuertheless the chyldren of Ben Jamin wold not herkē vnto ỹ voyce of theyr brethren the chyldren of Israell: but geathered them selues together out of the cyties vnto Gabaah, to come out in batayle agaynst ỹ chyldrē of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin were nombred at that tyme tyme, out of the cities .xxvi. thousande mē that drewe swerdes beside the enhabiters of Gabaah which were nōbred seuen hūdred chosē mē. And among all these folke were seuē hundred lefte hāded mē, whych euery one could slig stones at an heare breadth, & not misse. And the childrē of Israell beside the children of Beniamin, were nombred foure hundred thousand men ꝑ drewe swerdes, and al men of warre.

And the children of Israel arose & wēt vp to * Bethel, & asked of God, who shulde begynne the battell agaynste the chyldren of Beniamin, and the Lord sayd Juda shal begynne. And the chyldren of Israell stode vp erlie and beseged Gabaah. And the mē of Israell went out to battel against Beniamin, and put thē selues in aray agaynst them, to fyght against Gabaah. And the chyldrē of Beniamin came oute of Gabaah and destroyed in Israell that daye .xxii. thousande men, and brought them to the erth.

And the folke of the chyldrē of Israel plucked vp their hartes, and wente to agayne and made battell in the same place where they dyd the first day: but they wēt fyrst vp and wept before the Lorde vnto euen, and asked of the Lord saying: shall we go agayne to battel against ꝑ children of Beniamin oure brethren. And the lord sayde: go vp vnto them and when ꝑ chyldren of Israel were come to the chyldren of Beniamin the second day, the chyldren of Beniamin went against thē out of Gabaah, the seconde daye, and destroyed to the erth of the chyldren of Israell once agayne .xviii. thousande men ꝑ drew swerdes euery man of them.

Then the childrē of Israel and al the people wente vp and came vnto Bethell, and wepte and sat ther before the Lord, & fasted the same daye vnto euen, and offered burnt offerynges & peace offerynges before the Lorde. And they asked the Lorde: for there was the arcke of the apoyntement of God, in those daies. And * phineas ꝑ sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waytinge vpon it at that tyme & they sayd shall we go out any moare to battell against the children of Beniamin our brethrē, or shall we cease? And the lorde saide go: for to morowe I wyll delyuer them into your handes. And Israel sett layers a wayte agaynst Gabaah rounde about. And the children of Israel wēt against ꝑ childrē of Beniamin ꝑ thirde tyme, & put thē selues in araye against Gabaah, as twyse before. Then came ꝑ childrē of Beniamin against ꝑ people, tyl they were drawē a great way frō the citie. And they began to smite of ꝑ people deed (as twise before, by two hie waies of which one goeth vp to Bethell & the other to Gabaah thorowe the felde) vpon a thyrtye men of Israel. For the chyldrē of Beniamin though ꝑ the other had ben beatē before them, as at the fyrst tyme. But the chyldren of Israell sayde, let vs flee and plucke them away from the cytye, vnto the hye wayes.

And then al the men of Israel rose vp out of their standing, & put them selues in aray at Baal Thamar. And likewyse the laiers in wayte of Israel came forth oute of their places, euē oute of ꝑ medowes of Gabaah, & came before Gabaah: ten thousande chosen men out of al Israel, & there was sore battel. But ꝑ other wyst not ꝑ euyl was so nye then. And the lord plaged Beniamin before Israel, so that the children of Israell destroyed in Beniamin ꝑ same daye .xxv. thousande and a hundred men, that drue swerdes euery one of thē. It semed the children of Beniamin, that the other had ben put to the woorsse. For the men of Israel gaue rome to Beniamin, because they trusted vnto the layers in wayte whyche they had layde agaynste Gabaah. And the layers in wayte hasted and ranne vpon Gabaah, and wente and smote al the citie wt the edge of the swerd. And the apoyntment of the mē of Israel wt the laiers in waite to runne vpō Beniamī wt ꝑ swerd, was whē they shuld make ꝑ smoke rise vp out of the citie. And ꝑ mē of Israel fleed in the battell. And Beniamin begā to smite deed of ꝑ childrē of Israel, about a thirty personēs, for they supposed ꝑ the other had ben put to ꝑ woorsse before them, as in the fyrste battell. Then began to aryse oute of the cytie, a piller of smoke. And the Beniamites loked backe: and beholde the wastynge of the hole citie began to ascende vp to heuen.

When ꝑ men of Israel turned againe, the men of Beniamin were abashed: for they they sawe that euell apprōched them. And they turned before the men of Israell vnto the waye that leadeth to the wildernes, the other folowing thē at the harde heles. G And besyde that they of the cittie destroyed thē in the myddle of them. And they cōpassed Ben Jamin about, & chased thē to Menuah, & ouer ranne them before Gabaah on the east syde: & ther were slayne of Ben Jamin. xviii. thousand, & al men of might And they turned & fled to thee wyldernes warde & vnto the rocke *of pōegranettes Hebre. Remon, And ỹ other slue by ỹ way of ỹ rest of thē, fyue thousand mē, & sticked vnto thē vntyl they came to Gadaam, & slue two thousand moo of thē. So ỹ al that were slayne that same daye of Ben Jamin were. xxv. thousand men that drue swerdes, & all mē of myght: onelye. vi. hundred men turned and fled to the wyldernes, vnto the rocke of pomgranettes and abode there. iiii. monethes. And then the men of Israell tourned backe agayne vnto the chyldrē of Bē Jamin, and smote them wyth the edge of thee swerde in thee cytyes bothe man and beaste and all that came to hande, and moreouer sette all the cytyes they could come by, on fyre. Of all the trybe of Bē Jamin ther escaped but. vi. hundred

¶ Booz taketh Ruth to wyfe, of whõ he begetteth Obed. The.iiii. Chapter.

THen went Booz vp to the gate & satt hym downe there: & behold, the kynsmã of which Booz spake came by. Vnto whõ he sayd come & syt downe here, and called him by hys name. And he turned in & sate down. Thẽ hys he toke ten mẽ of the elders of the cytye, & sayd, syt ye downe here. And they sat downe. Thẽ he sayd vnto the kynsmã: Noemi that is come agayne oute of the cõtreye of Moab, wyl sell a parcel of lãd which was our brother Elimelecs. And I thought to do the to wete & bidde the bye it before the enhabitourcs and elders of my people, yf thou be dysposed to calenge it: but and yf thou wilt not purchase it, then tell me that I may wete it. For there is none to calẽge it saue thou, & I next the. And the other answered I wyll purchase it.

B Then sayd Booz, what day thou byest the feld of the hand of Noemi, thou must take also Ruth thee Moabite the wyfe of the dead, to steare vp the name of the dead vpon his enheritaũce, Thẽ sayd the kinsmã, I cannot purchase it for marringe of my owne enheritaũce: take thou my righte to the, for I cannot purchase it. Now this was the maner of olde tyme in Israel concerning purches & chaungynge, for to stablishe al thing: that a man must plucke of hys showe & geue it hys neyghboure, and thys was a wytnesse in Israell.

And the kynsman sayd to Booz, bye it C thou: & so drue of hys showe. Then sayde Booz vnto the elders & vnto al the people ye are witnesses thys daye, that I haue boughte all that was Elimelecs, & all that was Chilions & Mahelons, of the hande of Noemi. And Moreouer Ruth the Moabite the wyfe of Mahelon, do I take vnto me to wyfe to stere vp the name of thee dead vpon hys enheritaunce, that hys name be not put oute from amonge hys brethren, and from the gate of hys cytie: ye ar witnesses thys daye.

And al the people that were in the gate, & the elders sayd we ar witnesses: the lord make thee woman that is come into thyne house like Rahel & Lea, which twayne dyd bylde the house of Israell: that she may * do vertuously in Ephrathah, & be famous in Bethlehem, & that thyne house be like the house of Pharez, whom Thamar bare vnto Juda, euẽ of the sede which the Lord shal geue the of this young woman.

* That is, that the may thus wel & honestly.

D And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wyfe. And he wẽt in vnto her, & the Lorde gaue that she cõceaued and bare a sonne. And the wemen sayd vnto Noemi: blessed be the Lorde, the whyche hath not lefte the wythoute an heyre thys daye * that shall haue a name in Israell, and that shal bringe thy lyfe agayne and cherisshe thyne old age. For thy daughter in lawe whych loueth the hath borne hym that is better to the then seuen sonnes. And Noemi toke the chylde and layed it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neyghboures gaue it a name sayinge: there is a chylde borne to Noemi, and called it Obed: he is thee father of Isai, thee father of Dauid.

And

And it fel on a day as Elkanah had offered ỹ he gaue to Phenēnah his wife & to al her sōnes & daughters porciōs. But vn to Hānah he gaue a *porcion wythe a he-uye chere, for he loued her, neuertheles the Lorde had made her barren. And thereto her enemye Phenennah vexed her a good in castynge her in ỹ tethe how ỹ Lord had made her barren. And so did the yere by yere as oft as she wēt vp to the house of ỹ lord. And so chafed her, wherfore Hānah wepte & ate not. Then saide Elkanah her husband to her: Hannah why weapest ỹ? and why catest thou not? & why is thyne herte so troubled? am not I better to the, then ten sonnes? Thē Hannah rose vp af ter ỹ they had eaten & droncke in Siloh.
And Eli the preast sate vpō a stole by one of ỹ syde postes of the tēple of the Lorde.
And she was troubled in her spretes, and prayed vnto the Lord & wepte sore, & vo-

And he arose & wēt to Eli and sayd: I am here, for thou hast called me. Thē Eli perceaued ỹ the Lord had calld the lad. And sayd vnto hym, go & lye downe: & yf he cal the agayne, thē saye, speake on Lorde, for thy seruaūt heareth. And Samuel wēt & layed him down in his place. And the lord came & stode & called as before, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuell sayd: speake on, for thy seruaūt heareth the. And the Lord sayd to Samuel: behold I wil do a thing in Israel, that ỹ eares of as many as heareth it, shal tingle. In that day I wyl performe to Eli, al that I haue spokē concerninge hys house: I wyl begin it & ende it. For I haue tolde hym ỹ I wyl iudge hys house for euer. The.v.Chapter.

And the Philistines toke the arcke of god & caried it from A *the help stone, vnto Asdod, Hebr. Ebe zer. & brought it into the house of Dagon, & sett it by Dagon. And when they of Asdod were vp in the morning behold, Dagō [a]lay grouelyng vpō the erth before the arck of the Lord. And they toke Dagon & sette hym in hys place agayne. And when they were vp er= ly in the next morning behold, Dagō lay grouelyng vpō ỹ the groūd before ỹ arck of the Lord, & hys heed and his two han= des cut of vpō ỹ threshold, ỹ the body on ly was lefte on hym. Wherfore nether the prestes of Dagō, nether any mā ỹ cometh B into Dagōs house might treade on ỹ thre shold of Dagō in Asdod, vnto this daye.

But

But the hand of the lord was heuy vp on thē of Asdod, & he destroyed them, and smote thē wt Emerodes, both Asdod & all the coostes thereof. And when ỹ mē of Asdod saw ỹ it was so, they said: ỹ arcke of ỹ
C God of Israel shal not abyde here wt vs, for his hand is sore vpō vs & vpō Dagō our god. And so they sēt & geathered al ỹ lordes of ỹ Philistynes vnto thē & sayde:
what shal we do wt ỹ arcke of the God of Israel. Then sayd they of Geth let ỹ arck of the god of Israel be caried about. And they caried ỹ arke of the god of Israell about. And whē they had caried it about, ỹ hand of the Lord was in ỹ cittie wt a migh tye greate plage, and he smote the men of the cytye bothe smalle and greate: and they were smytten in theyr secrete places, D wythe the Emerodes. Then they sente the arcke of God to Akaron. And as sone as the arcke of God came to Akaron, the Akaronites cryed out saynge: they haue brought the Arcke of the God of Israell to vs: to slee vs and oure people.

Then they sent and kette al the Lordes of the Philistines vnto them & sayde: sēd away the arcke of the God of Israel, & let it go home againe vnto his awne place, ỹ it slee vs not wt our people. For ther was a plage of deeth thorow out al the cytye, & the hād of God was exceding sore ther, in so moch ỹ they which died not, were smytē with ỹ Emerodes: so that the crie of the ci tie went vp to heauen.

The.vi. Chapter.

A And so whē arcke of ỹ Lorde had bene in ỹ contreye of the Philistines seuen monethes, ỹ Philistines called for ỹ prie stes & the sothsayers saying:
what shal we do with ỹ arcke of the lord?
tell vs wherwith we shal sende it home againe. They answered yf thou sende the arck of the god of Israel home againe sē de it not emptye: But rewarde it wythe a trespasse offering: & then ye shalbe whole, & it shalbe knowen to you, why hys hand departeth not from you.

Then sayde they, what shalbe the trespaceofferyng whych we shall reward hym wt? And they answered: fyue goldē arses wythe Emerodes and fyue golden myce accordyng to the nōbre of the lordes of ỹ philistines, for it was one maner of plage ỹ was on you all, and on your Lordes to.
Wherfore ye shall make images lyke to your arses wt Emerodes & images lyke to your mice ỹ destroyed your land, & shal B geue glory vnto the God of Israell: that he may take his hād frō of you, & from of youre Goddes, and from of youre lande.
Wherfore should ye hardē your hertes as the Egyptians & Pharao hardened their hertes, whyche for all that (when he had played his pagcauntes withe them) were fayne to lette the people go and depart.

Now therfore make a new carte & take two mealche kyne, on whose necke neuer came yock. And tye the kyne in the carte, & bring the calues whom frō thē. Thē take the arck of the lord & put it in the cart, and put the Iuelles of gold (whych ye rewar-de him wt for a trespace offering) in a forcer by the side therof & send it awaye & let it go. And marke yf he go vp by the way ỹ leadeth vnto his owne cost, to Bethsames, thē it is he ỹ did vs this great euyll. But and yf he do not, then it is not hys hande that smote vs, but it was a chaūce that ha pened vs. And the mē did euē so: they toke two kine that gaue milck & tyed thē in the cart, & kept the calues at home, & they laid the arck of the lord vpō the cart & the forcer withe the myce of golde & the images of their arses wt Emerodes. And the kine toke the straight way to Bethsames, both one way, & as they wēt, lowed, turning ne ther to the tyght hād ner to the leaft. And ỹ lordes of ỹ Philistines wēt after thē vn tyl they came to ỹ borders of Bethsames.

And they of Bethsames were reppynge their whetehertuest in the valeye. And they lift vp their eyes & spied ỹ arcke. And re-toysed whē they saw it. And the cart came into the groue of one Iehosua a Bethsamite, & stode styl ther. Ther was ther also a great stone. And they claue the wodd of the cart & offered the kine a burntoffering vnto the Lorde. And the Leuytes toke downe the arcke of the Lorde & the forcer ỹ was thereby, wherein the Iuelles of gol de were & put thẽ on the greate stone. And ỹ mẽ of Bethsames sacrificed burnt sacri fice & offered offerynges ỹ same daye vn= D to the Lord. And whẽ the fyue Lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akaron the same date. These are ỹ gol den arses wythe Emerodes whyche thee Philistines gaue to amẽdes for a trespace offering, to the Lorde: for A good one: for Gaza one: for Askalon one: for Geth one:

& for Akarõ one. And ỹ goldẽ myce were according to the nõbre of al the cities of ỹ Philistines thorow ỹ. v. lordshipes: both of walled townes & of townes vnwalled, euẽ vnto the greate stone, whercõ they sett downe ỹ arck of ỹ lord: which stone remat neth vnto this day in ỹ feld of Ichosua ỹ Bethsamite. And he plaged ỹ mẽ of Beth sames, because they had sene the arcke of the lorde. And he slue of the people fyftye thousãd & thre score & tẽ persones. And ỹ people lamẽted, because the lord had slain so great a slaughter of thẽ. And the mẽ of bethsames said who is able to stãd before the lord so holy a god & to whõ shal he go from vs: And they sent messengers to the enhabyters of Kariath Iarim sayinge:
The Philistines haue brought home a=

Israel requyreth i. Kinges a king Cxlj

A When Samuel was olde, he made hys sonnes iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joell, & the name of the seconde Abiath, which were iudges in Bersabe. Neuerthelesse his sonnes folowed not his steppes: Deu.xvi.d. but turned a side after lucres & * toke rewardes, & peruerted the right. Thē al the elders of Israel geathered thē together & came to Samuel vnto Ramath and sayd vnto him: behold, thou art olde & thy sonnes folow not thy waies. Now therfore * make vs a king to iudge vs, as all other nacios haue. But the thig displeased Samuel, whē they sayde, geue vs a kynge to iudge vs. And Samuel prayed vnto the B lord. And ỹ lord sayd vnto samuell, heare the voice of the people in al ỹ they say vnto the. For they haue not caste the awaye, but me: that I shuld not raigne ouer thē. And as they haue euer done (sēce I brought them out of Egipte vnto this daye, & haue forsaken me & serued other goddes) euē so do they vnto the. Now therfore herken vnto their voice howbeit yet, testifye vnto them & shew them ỹ duty of the kig ỹ shal raingne ouer them. And Samuell told al the wordz of the lord vnto the people ỹ asked a king of him, & he saide: thys C shalbe the * duty of the king ỹ shal raigne Deu.xvii.d ouer you: he wil take your sōnes & put thē to his charetes & make his horsemē of thē & they must rūne before his charet, & wyll make hī captaines of thē ouer thousāde & ouer fifties, & wil set thē to eare his grōd, & together in his heruest, & to make instrumētes of warre & apparel for hys charets And he wyll take youre daughters & make thē the dressers of his oyntmētes, & hys cookes & bakers. And he shal take ỹ beste of your feldes, & of your vineyardes & of your oliue trees, & geue thē to his seruaūtes. And he shal take ỹ tēth of your seed & of your vines, & geue it to his lordes, & to his seruaūtz. And he shal take the beste of your menseruaūtes & maideseruaūtes & yoūg men, & of your asses, & do his worke vnto thē. And he shal take the tenth of youre shepe, & ye shalbe his seruaūtes. And whē D ye crye out at that tyme vpon your king, whych ye shall haue chosen you, the Lord wyll not heare you at that daye.

Neuertheles the people wold not heare the voyce of Samuell, but dyd saye: naye not so: But ther shalbe a kyng ouer vs, & we wilbe like al other nacios. And our kinge shal iudge vs, & go oute before vs and fight our battels. And Samuel hearde al the wordes of the people & rehersed thē in the eares of the lord. And the lord sayd to Samuel: herkē vnto theyr voyce & make thē a king. Then sayd Samuell vnto the men of Israel go euery man to his cytie.

The. ix. Chapter.

NOw ther was a mā of Bē Jamin named Cis the sonne of A Abiell, the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of Bechorath, the sōne of Aphiah, the sonne of a mā that was â Jemmite, a mā of might the same had a sōne called Saul, a goodly yoūg mā, so ỹ amōg the chyldrē of Israel, there was none goodlyer thē he, and was therto frō the shoulders vpward hier then al the other people. And it chaūced that the asses of this Cis Sauls father were lost. Then sayd Cis to Saul hys sonne: take one of the laddes with the & vp & go seke the Asses. And they wēt thorow moūt Ephraim & thorow the lād of Salisa, & foūd thē not Thē they wēt thorow the land of Salim, & ther they were not. Then they wente also thorow the lād of Jemini, & they foūd thē not. Then whē they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul sayd to the yoūge mā that was with him: come let vs returne, lest my father leue caringe for the Asses, and take thought for vs. And he answered him: behold, ther is in this citie a worshipfull mā of god, & al ỹ he saith, cometh to passe, now then let vs go thether: peraduēture he shal shew vs what way we may go. Thē sayd B Saul to his ladde yf we go what shal we bring the mā? For our bred is al spent out of our hāpers, & ther is none other present to bring the man of God, what haue we? And the yoūg mā answered Saul agayn & sayd: I haue foūd about me the fourthe part of a Sicle, that wyl we geue the man of God to tell vs our waye.

Before tyme in Israel whē a mā wēt to seke an āswere of god, thus wise he spake come & let vs go to yᵉ Seat. For he that is nowe now called a prophet, was in the old tyme called a Sear. Then sayde Saull to hys yoūg man: wel sayd of the: come let vs go And so they went vnto the cytie where the man of God was, And as they were goynge vp into the cytie, they met with damo selles that came out to draw water, & sayd vnto thē: is ther here a sear. And the maydens answered thē, yea: beholde, he goeth before you. Make haste nowe, for he came thys day to the cytie, for ỹ people must offer this day in ỹ hyl. Wohē ye be come into the cytie, so shal you finde him, yet he goo vp to the [b]‡hil to eate: for the people wyll not eat vntil he come, because he must bless the offring. And thē eat they that be bidde to ỹ feast. Now therfore get you vp for euē now shal ye fynd hym. And they wēte vp into the cytie. And whē they were come into the middes of ỹ cittie: behold, Samuel came out against thē, for to go vp to the hyl. But the lord had told Samuel a day before Saul came, saying: to morow this tyme I wyl send the a mā out of the lande of Bē Jamin, him shalt thou annoynte to be captaine ouer my people Israel: that he may saue my people oute of the hād of the Philistines, for I haue loked vpō my people, and theyr crye is come vnto me. Wohē Samuel saw Saul, the Lorde answered him: se, this is the mā whō I spake to ỹ of This same shal raygne ouer my people.

Thē went Saul to Samuel in ỹ middle of the gate, & sayd: tell me I praye the, where about the sears house is, & Samuell answered Saul & sayd: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto the hyll, for ye shall eate with me to daye. And to morow I will let the go earlye, & wyll tel the al that is in thyne herte, & as for thyne asses that were lost thys daye thre dayes, care not for thē, for they are found. And Moreouer whose shal the bewtiful thinges of Israel be? be longe they not to the, & vnto al thy fathers house? But Saul ānswered & sayd: am not I the sonne of a Jemmite of the smalleste tribe of Israel, & my kinred the least of al the kynredes of thee trybe of Ben Jamin, wherfore then spakest thou so to me.

And Samuell toke Saul & his ladd & brought thē into the parler and made thē syt in the chefest place amonge thē ỹ were biddē: which were vpō a thirtye personēs.

Thē sayd Samuel vnto the cooke: bring forth the portion whyche I gaue the, & of which I said kepe it wt the. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder & brought it, & sett it before Saul. And Samuel sayd: behold ỹ which is left: put it before the & eate, for I kept it for the of purpose, whē I called the people. And so Saul dyd eate wt Samuell that day. And when they were come downe frō the hyll into the cytie, Samuel comuned with Saul vpō the toppe of the house: & thei arose erly. And about ỹ spring of the day Samuel called Saul vpō the top of the house saying: vp ỹ I may send the away. And Saul arose. And they wēt out at ỹ dores both of thē, bothe he & Samuel. And whē they were come almost out of the towne, Samuel sayd to Saul: byd the lad go before vs, & he went, but stand thou stylle a whyle euen now, that I may shewe the what God sayth.

They vsed then flatt houses.

But I am old & gray headed: & behold my sōnes are wt you & I haue walked before you frō my childhode vnto this day. Behold here I ā: answere me before ỹ lord & before his anointed, whose oxe haue I takē? or whose Asse haue I takē whō haue I done wrōg to? or whōhaue I pilled? And of whose hād haue I receaued any bribe, to blynd mine eyes ther wt? and I wil restore it you againe. And they say thou hast done vs no wrong, nor pylled vs, nether hast thou taken ought of anymānes hande. Then sayde he to them: the Lord is witnesse vnto you, and hys anoynted is wytnesse this day, that ye haue founde nought in my handes. And they answered: we are witnesses. Then sayde B Samuel vnto the people it is the Lord * ỹ made Moses & Aarō, & which brought youre fathers oute of Egipte. Now therfore stande styll, and let me reason wythe you before the Lord, of al the ryghtewesnesses of the Lorde which he shewed both you and youre fathers. * Chald whiche hath magnified.

After that Jacob was come into Egipt, youre fathers cryed vnto the Lorde, & the lord sent Moses & Aaron, which brought your fathers out of Egipte, & made them dwel in this place. Neuerthelater they forgat the Lorde their God. And he sold thē into the hande of Sisara cheke captayne of Jabin kynge of Hazor, and into the hādes of the philistimes and into the handes of the kynge of Moab, which fought against them. Then they cryed vnto the lorde and sayde: we haue synned, because we haue forsakē the Lord & haue serued Baalim and Astharoth. But now deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemyes and we wyl serue the. And ỹ Lorde sent Jerobaal * Badan, Jephthah and Samuel, and C that is, Da delyuered you out of the handes of youre enemyes on euery syde, so that ye dwelled wt out feare. And for al that whē you saw that Nahas the kyng of ỹ children of Ammō came against you, ye sayde vnto me: not so, a kyng shall raigne ouer vs, when yet ỹ Lord your God was youre kynge. Now therfore behold ỹ king, whome ye haue chosen & whom ye haue desired: se, ỹ Lord hath geuen you a kyng. Oh that ye wolde feare the Lord & serue hym & heare his voyce & not disobeye the mouth of the Lord: & that both ye & the kyng that raigneth ouer you wolde folow the Lord your God. For yf ye shall not herken vnto the voice of the Lord, but shal disobeye ỹ lordes mouth: then shal the hand of the lord be vpon you & on youre fathers. Now also stād & se this great thyng which the lorde will do before youre eyes: is it not now whetehereuēte. And yet for all that, I wyl call vnto the Lorde, and he shall send thū-

Thē sayd al ỹ people vnto Samuel: pray for thy seruauntes vnto thee Lorde thy

The.xiii. Chapter.

A SAul was as a chyld of a yere olde, whē he begā to raygne.
And whē he hath raygned. ii yeares ouer Israell, he chose hym thre. M. men out of Israel. Two thousande were wyth Saul in Machmas & mount Bethel, & a thousand wyth Jonathas in Gabaah Beu Jamin.
And the rest of the people he sent, euerymā to hys owne house. And Jonathas slue ỹ Philistines in an holde they had in Gaba ah, & it came to the Philistines eares. And Saull caused the trompette to be blowen thorowout al the lande sayinge: let the Ebrewes heare. And all Israel hearde saye, how ỹ Saul had destroyed an hold of the Philistines, & how that Israel stancke vn to the Philistines. And all the people cried after Saul to Galgall.

Thē the Philistines gethered thē selues to geather to fight wt Israel, thirtie thousand charettes & Sixe thousande horsemen with other people like ỹ * sand by the seis side in multitude & came vp and pyt-ched in Machmas eastward from Betha uē. And whē ỹ men of Israel saw thē sel-ues in a straite, & ỹ the people were accom bred, they hidd thē selues in caues, in pri-uy holes, in rockes, dennes & pittes. And ỹ Ebrues went ouer Jordan vnto the land of Gad & Galaad. But Saul was yet in Galgal, & al ỹ people ỹ folowed him were astonied. And he taried seuē daies, as Sa muel * had appoited. But Samuell came not to Galgal, & ỹ people skatered frō hi.
Wherfore Saul said: bring burntsacrifi ce to me & peaceoffringes. And he offered burntsacrifice. And as sone as he had made an ende of offringe burntoffringes behold Samuel cam. And saul wēt against him, to Salute him. Thē said Samuel to Saul: what hast thou done? And Saull said, because I saw ỹ the people skatered frō me, & ỹ thou camest not * wt in ỹ daies appointed & ỹ ỹ philistines gethered them selues together to Machmas: then said I, ỹ Philistines shal come downe vpō me to Galgal, yer I haue made supplicatiō vnto ỹ lord. And therfore I toke a courage wt me & offred burntoffriges. Thē said Samuel to Saul, ỹ hast done folishly & hast not kept ỹ cōmaūdemēt of ỹ lord thy god which he cōmāded ỹ, for at this time wold ỹ lord haue stablished thy kyngdom vp-on Israell for euer. But nowe thy kyngdome shall not contynew. The Lord hath sought him a mā after hys owne hert, & hath cōmaūded him to be a captayne ouer his people: because ỹ hast not kept ỹ why-che ỹ lord cōmaūded ỹ. And Samuel aro se & gat him frō Galgal to Gabaah Bēia min. And Saul nōbred the people ỹ were foūd wt him, about a sixe hūdred mē. And Saul & Jonathas his sonne & the people ỹ were foūd with thē, had their abiding in Gabaah Beniamin. But the Philistines had pitched in Machmas. And ther came out of the hoste of the Philistines thre cō-panyes, too destroye one companye turned vnto the way ỹ leadeth to Ephrah vn to the lande of Sual. And another cōpanye turned the waye to Bethorō. And the turneth to the baley of Zeboim towarde ỹ wildernesse. But ther was no smith tho row out al the lād of Israel. For the Philistines thought ỹ thē the Ebrues mighte make thē swerdes or speres. And therfore must al Israel go doune to ỹ Philistines, to mēde euery mā his share, his mattock, his axe, or his sickle: as ofte as ỹ edges of ỹ sickles mattockes doūgforckes, & axes were blūt, and also to mēde theyr goodes. And so in battell there was nether swerde nor spere founde in the handes of anye of the people that were wythe Saull and Jonathas: saue for Saul and Jonathas his sonne was there sōwhat founde. And the Garisō of the Philistines came out & stode on the other side before Machmas.

The Notes.

a ¶ The Lorde is counted to seke for hym selfe, not because he knoweth not any thing or any man: but he speaketh after the maner of men, as thoughe a man spake to hys neyghboure: & this is to shewe hys wyll vpon thē whych he hathe euerlastyngelye chosen, as it is sayde in Actu. xiii. b.

¶ Jonathas cōpanied whis harnes beaker putteth ỹ Philistines to flight. He tasteth the hony whych his father, vnknowing to him, had forbiddē ỹ whole host. He shulde therfore haue bene slayne but the people deliuer hym.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

A ¶ AND it fel on a daye, that Jonathas the sonne of Saull sayd vnto his yōg mā that bare his harnes: come and let vs go ouer to ỹ watchmē of ỹ Philistines that are younder on the other side, & tolde not his father. But Saul taryed in the vtmost part of Gabaah vnder a pomegarnet tree, that was in Magron, & the people that were wt him were vpon a sixe hūdred men. And Ahiah ỹ sonne of Ahitob Jehabodes brother, the sōne of Phinehes, the sōne of Eli, was ỹ lordes priest in Siloh and bare an Ephod. But ỹ people wist not that Jonathas was gone.

And in ỹ way ouer by whiche Jonathas sought to go ouer vnto ỹ garisō of ỹ philistines, were there two sharpe rockes, euen one on the one syde, & ỹ other on the other
B side: the one called Bozez, & the other Seneh. And the one leaneth northwarde toward Machmas, & ỹ other southward toward Gabaah. Then sayd Jonathas to the young mā ỹ bare his harnesse: come & let vs go ouer vnto ỹ stāding of these vncircūcised, paraduēture ỹ Lord wil worke wt vs: for ỹ lord is free to saue wt many or wyth fewe. And his harnesbearck sayd vnto hym do al that is in thyne hart: sette the forwarde: and se I am wyth the, as thyne hert lusteth. Then sayd Jonathas: behold whē we go ouer vnto the men, & shew our selues vnto thē: yf they sayd on thys wyse to vs: tarye vntyl we come to you, then we wyll stand stylwhere we be & goo not vp vnto thē. But & yf thei so say vnto vs: come vnto vs, thē we wyl go vp, for the lord hath delyuered them into our hādes. And thys shalbe a sygne vnto vs. And when they had both shewed thē selues vnto the garison of the Philistines, the Philistines sayde: se, the Ebrues come oute of the holes wher they had hydd thē selues in. And the men of ỹ garison answered Jonathas and his harnesbearer & sayd: come vpp to vs, & we wyll shew you a thing. Thē sayd Jonathas vnto hys harnesbearer: come vp after me, for the Lorde hath delyuered them into the handes of Israell. And Jonathas claime vpon handes and fete, and hys harnesbearer after hym. Thē they fel before Jonathas: and hys harnesbearer slue them after hym. And the fyrst slaughter whych Jonathas and hys harnesbearer made, was vpon a twentie men, wythin the compasse as it were aboute an halfe aker of land. And there was a feare in the C hoste that was in the felde, and among all the people: in so moche that they that kept the holde, & they that were gone to robbe, were afrayde also: and the earth trymbled and ther was a feare sent of God. And the watche men of Saul in Gabaah Ben Jamin, saw. And behold, the people skatered and ranne hyther and thyther. Then sayd Saul vnto the people that was with him nombre and se who is gone away frō vs. And when they had tolde: beholde, Jonathas and hys harnesbearer were not there And thē saul said vnto Ahia: bring hither ỹ arke of God. For the arke of God was at the tyme wyth the children of Israel. And whyle Saul talked vnto the prest, the people ỹ were in ỹ hoste of the Philistines, rāne more and more. And Saull sayd vnto the prieste: wyth drawe thyne hande. And Saull cryed and all the people that were wyth him, and went to battel. And behold euery mās swerd was agaynst his felow, wyth a myghtie great slaughter. Moreono man answered him of al the people.

Then he sayd vnto all Israel: be ye on Saul: what thou thynkest beste that do.

And Saul said vnto the Lord god of Is

The. xv. Chapter.

THen sayde Samuell vnto Saul: ỹ lord sẽt me to anoint the kyng ouer his people Israell. Nowe therfore obeye ỹ the voice of the wordes of ỹ Lorde. Thus sayth the Lord of hostes: I haue called to remembraũce ỹ whiche Amalech did to Israel * how they lay in wait for thẽ in the way, as they came out of Egipt. Now therfore go & smite ỹ Amalekites, & only destroy ye al that pertaineth vnto them & se thou haue no cõpassiõ on thẽ. But slay bothe man & womã, infante and sucklynge, & ore, shepe, camel & Asse.

Exo. xvii. e

And Saull tolde it the people, & nombred them in Telaim two hundred thousand footemen, & ten thousãd men of Iuda. And Saul came vnto a citie of the Amaleckites, and foughte in a valeye. But Saul said vnto the Kenites go & depart & get you downe frõ amõg ỹ Amaleckites leste I destroye you with them for ye shewed mercy wythe Israel when they came out of Egipte. And the Kenites departed from among the Amaleckites.

And Saull slue the Amaleckites frõ Heuila to Sur that lyeth before Egipte, and toke Agag the kinge of the Amalekites a liue, & vtterly destroied al ỹ people with the edge of the swerde. But Saul & the people spared Agag, and they left of ỹ shepe and of the oxen and * fatt thinges &

Then came the word of the Lorde vnto Samuel saying: it repenteth me that I haue made Saul kig. For he is turned frõ me & hath not parformed my cõmaũdemẽtes, wherfore Samuell was euell a paide & cried vnto ỹ Lord al nyghte. And Samuel rose erly, to mete Saul in ỹ morning. And it was tolde Samuel ỹ Saul was come to Carmell, and had sette hym vp a pillar of triumphe. And was turned and departed and gone to Galgal.

And whẽ Samuel was come to Saul, Saul sayde vnto him: Blessed be ỹ in the Lord. I haue done the cõmaundement of the Lord. And Samuel answered: what meaneth thẽ the bleatynge of the shepe in mine eares, & the noyse of the oxẽ which I heare? And Saul said, thei haue brought thẽ from the Amaleckites. For the people spared the best of the shepe & of the oxẽ, to sacrifice vnto the lord thy god. And the remnaunt we haue destroyed.

D

But Samuel sayde to Saul: cease & let me tel the what the Lorde hathe sayde to me thys nyght. And he sayd vnto him: saye on. And Samuell sayde when thou waste lytlein thyne owne syght, wast ỹ not made the hed of the trybes of Israel? And the Lorde anoynted the kynge ouer Israel. And then ỹ Lord sẽt the on a iourney, & sayd vnto the, se that thou vtterlie destroye those synners, the Amaleckites & fyght against them vntyll ye haue vtterly destroyed thẽ. And wherfore hast thou now not obeyed the voice of ỹ Lord: But dydest turne to the pray & hast wroughte wickednesse in the syght of the Lord?

And Saull sayde vnto Samuell: I haue obeyed the voyce of the Lorde, and went the waie which ỹ Lord sent me, & haue brought Agag the kinge of the Amaleckites. And haue vtterly destroyed ỹ Amaleckites. And ỹ people toke of ỹ spoile, shepe, oxen, & the chefest of ỹ thinges why che should haue bene destroied, to offer vnto ỹ lord thy god in galgal. F Then sayd Saul to Samuel: I haue sinned for I haue trespaced the mouth of the Lord, and thy wordes, because I feared the people & obeyed their voyce. But now take away my synne, & turne againe wyth me, that I may worshipe the Lord. Then sayde Samuel vnto Saul: I wyl not returne wt ỹ: for thou hast cast awaye the byddyng of God, & therfore the lorde hath ✝cast away the also, ỹ thou shalt not be Kynge ouer Israell. And as Samuell turned to go away, he caught the lappe of his coote, and it rent. Thẽ Samuel sayd, the Lord hath rent the Kyngdome of Israell from the thys daye, & hathe geuen it to a neyboure of thyne that is better then thou. And therto he that geuethe victorye to Israell, wyll not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man, that can repent.

Then he sayd: I haue synned. But yet honour me before ỹ elders of my people, and before Israel, and turne againe with me, that I maye pray vnto the Lorde thy God. And Samuell turned agayne and folowed Saull. And Saul prayed vnto the Lorde. Then sayd Samuel: Bryng ye hither to me, Agag the Kyng of the A-

And Samuel said: As thy swerd hath made wemẽ childlesse, so shal thy mother be childelesse amõg other weimẽ. And so Samuel hewed Agag in peces before ỹ lord in Galgal. And thẽ Samuell departed to Ramath. And saul wẽt home to his house to gabaah Saull. But Samuel came no moare to se Saul vntyl the daye of his deeth. Neuertheles Samuell mourned for Saull, because the Lord repented that he had made him Kynge ouer Israel.

And Samuel rose vp and went to Ramath.

But the spyrete of the Lord departed frō Saul, & b an euel spyrete sent of the Lord, vexed him. The sayd hys seruaūtes vnto hym: Beholde, an euell spyrete sent of God vexeth the, let our Lord therfore cōmaunde his seruaūtes to seke a man that is a cōning player vp an harpe. And the whē the euel spyrete sent of God, cometh vpō the, y he may play with hys hande, & thou shalte be eased. And Saul said vnto hys seruaūtes: seke me a mā that can wel play, & bringe hym to me. Then answered one of hys seruaūtes & sayd: Beholde, I haue sene a sonne of Isai thee Bethlehemite, that can play vpō instrumētes, & is an actiue felowe & a mā of warre & prudēt & wel made, & the Lord is wyth hym, wher vpō Saul sent messengers vnto Isai & said: send me Dauid thy sonne which is with the shepe. And Isai toke an asse ladē with hyed, and a flacket of wyne, & a kydde, & sent the by Dauid hys sonne vnto Saull. And Dauid went to Saul and came before hym, and he loued him very wel, so that he was made hys harnesbearer. And Saull sente to Isai saying: lett Dauid remayne wyth me, for he hath found fauour in my sighe And when the spyrete of God come vppon Saull, Dauid toke an harpe and played wyth his hande, and so Saul was refresshed, and dyd amende and the euell spyrete departed from hym.

The. xvii. Chapter.

THe philistines gethered theyr hoofte to battel, & came together to Socoh in Juda, and pitched betwene Socoh & Azekah, in the ende of Dommim And Saul and the men of Israel came & pitched in Ockedale & put thē selues in araye, to fyghte agaynste thee Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on y one syde, & Israel stode on an hyll on thee other syde, & a valey betwene thē. And thē came a mā & stode in the myddes, oute of the tentes of the Philistines named Goliath, of Geth syxe cubites & an hādbredeth longe, & had an helmet of brasse vpon hys head, and a cote of mayle about hym. And the weyght of hys coote of mayle was fyue thousand Cikles of brasse. And he had harnesse of brasse vpō his legges, & a shilde of brasse vpon hys shoulders. And the shakt of his speare was like a weuers beame. And his spearehead weyed. vi. hūdred sikles of yron. And one bearinge a shylde went before hym.

And he stode & called vnto the hoste of Israel, & sayd vnto thē: what nedeth that ye shulde come oute in araye to battel: am not I a Philistine, and you seruauntes to saul, chose you a mā, & let him come downe to me, yf he be able to fyght with me & too beate me, then we wyl be your seruauntes But yf I can ouercome hym & beate hym then ye shalbe our seruauntes & serue vs. And the Philistine sayd: I haue defyed y hoste of Israell thys daye geue me a man & let vs fight together. When Saul & al Israel hearde those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged & greatlye afrayed. And this Dauid was the sonne of an Ephrathite of Bethlehē Juda, named Isai, which Isai had eyghte sonnes. And was an olde mā in the dayes of Saull amōg the people. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai wēt and followed Saul to battell, And the names of hys thre sonnes y went to battel, were: Eliab the eldest, & the next to him Abinadab, & the thyrde Samah, & Dauid was y youngest. And whē the thre eldest were gone after Saull, Dauid wēt and departed from Saul, to fede hys fathers thers shepe at Bethlehem. And the Philistine came forth euery morning & euening, and continued fourtye dayes.

And Jsai sayd vnto Dauid hys sone: take for thy brethren thys Epha of parched corne, and these ten loues, & runne to the hoste, to thy brethren. And carye these ten freshe cheses vnto the captaine, & loke how thy brethre fare, & fet out their pledges. And Saul & they and all the men of Jsrael were in ocke baley fyghting w ỹ Philistines. And Dauid rose vp erlye in the morning and left the shepe with a keper, & toke and wēt, as Jsai had cōmaunded him, and came where ỹ host laye. And ỹ host was goying out in aray, and showted in the battel: for Jsrael & the Philistines had put thē selues in araye, the one against ỹ other. Thē Dauid put ỹ panyer from him, vnto the hādes of the keper of the vessels, & ranne into the host & came & saluted hys brethrē. And as he talked w them: Beholde, there stode a mā in ỹ middes, Goliath the Philistine by name, of Geth, which came out of the Araye of the Philistines, & spake of the maner aboue rehersed, ỹ Dauid hearde it. And all ỹ mē of Jsrael, whē they saw the man, ranne away frō hym, & were sore afrayed. And euery man of Jsrael sayde: Se ye this mā that is come forthe, euen to reuyle Jsrael is he come. And to hym ỹ beateth hym wil the kynge geue great ryches, & wyll geue him his daughter therto: ye and make his fathers house free in Jsrael.

It is ỹ maner of soudiars when they lacke moneye, to borow vpō a pledge: therfore is Dauid cōmaūded to redeme his brethrens pledge.

Then spake Dauid to the men ỹ stode by and said: What shalbe done to the mā that beateth this philistine & taketh away the shame from Jsrael? for what is thys vncircumcysed Philistine, that he shulde reuyle the hoste of the lyuinge God? And the people answered as it is rehersed saynge: so shall it be done to the man ỹ beateth hi. And Eliab his eldest brother heard e when he spake vnto the man & was angrie withe Dauid & sayde: Why cameste thou away, & with whom haste thou lefte those few shepe in ỹ wildernesse? Jknow thy pryde and the malice of thyne herte, ỹ thou art come to se ỹ battell. And Dauid answered, what haue Jnow done? is ther any moare saue a worde? And departed frō by him vnto another fronte, and spake of the saine maner, & the people answered him agayne, as before.

And they that heard the wordes which Dauid spake, rehersed thē before Saull, which caused hym to be fett. And Dauid sayde to Saull: Lette no mannes herte fayle him because of him. Thy seruaunte wil go & fyght with this Philistine. And Saul sayde to Dauid agayne, thou arte not able to go vnto this philistine, to fight w him. For thou art but a ladd, & he hath ben a mā of warre euē frō his youth. Thē sayd Dauid vnto Saul, as thy seruaūte kept hys fathers shepe, there came a Lyō & likewise a Beare, & toke a shepe oute of ỹ flock. And Jwēt out after him & smote him, & toke it out of his mouth. And whē he arose agaynste me, Jcaughte hym by the bearde and smote him & slue him. For both a Lyō and also a Beare hath thy seruaūt slayne. And this vncircumcised philistine shalbe as one of thē, for his railing on the host of ỹ liuyng God. And Dauid spake moreouer, the Lorde that deliuered me oute of the hādes of ỹ Lyon & oute of ỹ handes of ỹ Beare, he shall delyuer me also oute of the handes of the Philistine.

Then sayd Saul to Dauid go, & the lord be with the. And Saul put hys rayment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpon his heede, and put a coote of mayle vpō hym, & gyrde Dauid with his owne sword vpon his rayment. And he assayed to go, for he neuer proued it. Then sayd Dauid vnto Saul: Jcan not go in these, for Jhaue not bene vsed therto, and put thē of him & toke his staffe in his hāde, & chose him fyue smothe stones oute of a broke & put thē in a shepardes bagge which he had, & in a poke, & hys slinge in his hande, & went to the Philistine.

And ỹ Philistine came & drue nere to Dauid, withe the man ỹ bare a shylde before him. And whē ỹ philistine loked and saw Dauid: he disdained him, for he was but a lad, ruddy & goodlye to loke vpon. And ỹ philistine said vnto Dauid: am Ja dog, ỹ thou comest to me w a staffe? & he cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes And he sayd to Dauid: come to me and Jwyll geue thy flesh vnto the fowles of the ayre, and to the beastes of the felde. Then sayd Dauid to the Philistine: thou comest to me wyth a swerd & speare and a shilde: But I come to the in the name of ỹ Lord of hostes, the god of the host of Israel whom thou hast rayled vpon. Thys daye shal the Lord delyuer the into my hãde, and I shal smyte the & take thyne head from the, & I wyl geue the karcases of the hoste of the Philistines thys day vnto the fowles of the ayre & to the beastes of the earth, and all the worlde shall knowe, that there is a God in Israel. And all this congregation shall knowe, that the Lorde saueth not with the swerd & speare. For thee battel is the Lordes, and he shal geue you into our handes.

And whẽ the Philistines arose & came & drue nye vnto Dauid. Dauid hasted & ranne in araye euẽ agaynst the Philistine And Dauid put his hand in his poke and toke out a stone and slange it, & smote thee Philistine in his forehead that the stoone soncke into his forhead, & he fel groueling to the earth. And so Dauid ouercame the Philistine with a slinge & a stone, & smote ỹ Philistine & slue him: And because Dauid had no swerde in his hand, he ranne & stode vpõ the Philistine, & toke his swerde & drue it out of hys shethe & slue hym & cutt of his head therwith. And whẽ the Philistines sawe that theyr champion was dead, they fled. And the men of Israel & of Juda arose & showted and folowed after the Philistines, vntyl they came to the valeye & vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fel downe dead by the waye, euen vnto Geth & Akaron. And thẽ the chyldrẽ of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines & robbed theyr tẽtes. And Dauid toke the head of the Philistine & brought it to Jerusalem: But he put hys armoure in hys tente.

Whẽ Saul sawe Dauid goo forth agaynst the Philistine, he sayd vnto Abner the captayne of his host: Abner, whose son is this lad? And Abner answered, as truly as thy soule lyueth, O king, I cannot tel. Thẽ sayd the king: Enquere thou, whose sonne the youngeling is. And so whẽ Dauid was returned frõ the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke him & brought him before Saul, wyth the head of the Philistine in his hand. And Saul sayd to him: whose sonne art thou, ỹ lad? And Dauid answered the sonne of thy seruaunt Jsai the Bethlehemite.

The.xviii. Chapter.

AND when he had made an ende of speakyng vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathas was knit withe ỹ soule of Dauid. Jn so moche ỹ he loued hym as his*owne soule. And Saul toke hym that daye and wolde let hym go no moare home to his fathers house. And Jonathas & Dauid bound them selues the one to the other, for Jonathas loued hi as his owne soule. And Jonathas put of hys owne coote ỹ was vpon him, & gaue it Dauid, & thereto his mãtle, his swerde, his boowe & his gyrdle. And Dauid went out to al that Saull sente hym, and behaued him selfe wysely. And whẽ Saul had set him ouer his men of warre, he pleased al ỹ people, and Sauls seruauntes therto.

*That is as him selfe

And it happened as they wẽt, whẽ Dauid was returned from the slaughter of thee Philistine, that wemen came oute of al cyties of Jsrael synging & daunsing, agaynst Saul, wyth tymbrelles, wyth toy, and with fidilles. And the wemen ỹ played sange therto, and sayde: Saull hathe slayne his thousande, and Dauid hys ten thousande. Then was Saull exceedynge wroth & ỹ sayig displeased him, & he said: they haue ascrybed vnto Dauid tẽ thousand, & to me but a thousande, & what can he more haue saue the kyngdome? Wherefore Saul loked on syde of Dauid frõ ỹ daye forward. And it happened on ỹ morow, that ỹ prophet sprete sent of god came vpõ Saul, so that he prophesyed in ỹ middes of the house. And Dauid plaied on ỹ instrument with his hãde as he was dayly wõt. And Saul had a speare in his hãde, & hourlde it entẽding to to haue nailed Dauid to the wall. But Dauid auoyded out of his presẽce two tymes. For Saull was afeerd of Dauid, because ỹ lord was with him, and was departed from Saul. And then Saul put Dauid from hym & made him a captayne ouer a thousande, & he wente oute & in before the people. And Dauid was wyse in al that he toke in hãde, and the Lorde was vp him. Wherfore

D whē Saul saw that he was so exceedynge wise, he was afraid of hym. But al Israel & Juda loued Dauid, because he went out and in before thē. Thē sayd Saul to Dauid. Beholde my eldeste daughter Merob, her I wyl geue the to wife: Only play the man & fyght the lordes battelles. For Saul thought mine hād shall not be vpō him, but the hāde of ỹ philistinz. And E Dauid answered Saul * what am I? & what is my life or the kinred of my father in Israel, ỹ I shuld be sonne in law to the king: How be it when the time was cōme ỹ Merob Sauls daughter shoulde haue bene geuen to Dauid she was geuen vnto Adriel a Meholothite, to wife. How be it Nicholl Sauls daughter loued Dauid. And when it was shewed saul: ỹ thinge pleased hym wel. And he sayde: I wyll geue hym her that she maye be a snare to hym, to bring the hande of the philistines vpon hym. And Saul sayd to Dauid: ỹ shalte thys day be my sōne in law againe. And Saul commaunded his seruauntes to comen wyth Dauid secretly & say: Behold the kyng hath a fauoure to the, and al hys seruauntes loue the, be therfore the kynges soune in lawe.

II. Reg. ix. a

And Sauls seruauntes spake those F wordz in the eare of Dauid. But Dauid āswered: semeth it to you a lyght thing to be the kynges sonne in lawe, when I am a poore man & of smalle reputacion? And Sauls seruauntes told hym agayne saying: of thys maner āswered Dauid. Thē sayde Saull: thys wyse saye to Dauid: the kyng careth for no nother dowrye but for an hūdred foreskynnes of the Philistines, to be aduēged of the kinges enemies. For Saull thoughte to make Dauid fal into the handes of the Philistines. Then his seruauntes tolde Dauid these wordz, and it plesed Dauid wel to be the kinges sōne in lawe. And shortlye after ỹ Dauid
G arose wyth hys men, and wente, and slue of the Philistines, two hundred men, and brought their foreskynnes, & sattisfyed the kyng therof to be his sonne in law. * And

And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid: O Lord god of Israell, whẽ I haue groped my fathers mynde, one time or other with in this thre dayes, that it stand well wyth Dauid: and I then sende not vnto the & shew it the, the lord do so & so vnto Jonathas. And in lyke maner, yf euell to ỹ war de please my father, I wyl shewe the and sende the awaye, that thou mayste go in peace, And the lord be with the as he hath ben with my father. And ỹ shalt performe vnto me the mercy of the Lorde, not only whyle I lyue but euen when I am deed pluck not thy mercye awaye from my* house for euer: No not when the Lorde hathe destroied ỹ enemies of Dauid euery one from the face of the erth.

And so Jonathas made a bonde wyth the house of Dauid, desyrynge that the Lorde shoulde seke oute of the handes of Dauids enemyes their wickednesse. And wythe other wordes Jonathas adiured Dauid, because he loued him. For as hys owne soule he loued him.

Thẽ said Jonathas to Dauid: to morowe shall be the kyrste daye of the mone. And thou shalt be myssed, because ỹ place shall appere emptye. But thys daye thre dayes come in anye wyse vnto the place where thou shalt hyde thy selfe, when it is worckedaye, euen by the stone Esell. And I wil shote thre arowes by ỹ one side ther of, as though I shott at a marke, & wil sẽde after a ladd, and bidde him go seke the arowes. If I saye vnto the ladd: se the arowes are on this syde ỹ, bryng thẽ: then come ỹ: for it is peace & nothing to do, as sure as ỹ lord liueth. But & yf I say thus vnto the yõg felow, behold, ỹ arowes ar beyõd ỹ, thẽ go, for the lord hath sẽt the away. And of this which ỹ & I haue spoke: behold the Lord is witnesse betwene the & me for euer. And so Dauid hyd him selfe in the felde. And when the new mone was come, ỹ king sat him downe at meate, for to eate. And the king sat him downe after the old maner, in his seat by the wall. And Jonathas arose, & Abner sate by Sauls side, & Dauids place was emptie. Neuertheless yet Saul sayd nothing at al that day. For he thought some thing had chaũced him that he is not cleane. But on thee morow which was the seconde day of the mone, whẽ Dauids place apered emptye. Saull sayde vnto Jonathas hys sonne: wherfore cometh not the sonne of Jsai to meate, nether yesterdaye nor to daye. And Jonathas ãswered vnto Saull. Dauid asked lycence of me to go to Bethlehẽ saying: let me go I pray the, for our kynrede holde an offerynge in the cytte, & my brother hath sent for me. Now therfore yf I haue found fauour in thyne eyes, lett me go and se my brother. And therfore he cometh not vnto the table of the king. Thẽ was Saul angrie with Jonathas & said vnto him: O froward & rebellyous, thinkeste thou I knowe not howe thou haste chosẽ the sonne of Jsai vnto thyne owne rebuke, & vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother. For as longe as the sonne of Jsai lyueth vpon the erthe, thou shalte not be stablished, nor yet thy kingdome, wherfore nowe sende and fett hym vnto me, * for he is the chylde of deeth.

But Jonathas answered Saull hys father & sayde to him: wherfore shulde he dye? what hath he done? Then Saul cast a speare at him to hyt him, whereby Jonathas wiste well, ỹ it was vtterlye determyned of hys father, to slaye Dauid. And so Jonathas arose frõ ỹ table in a great anger & dyd eate no meat the second day of the monethe, for he was sory for Dauid, because his father had done hi shame. On the next morning Jonathas went out into the felde, at the time apoynted vnto Dauid, & a lytle lad with him. And he said vnto the boy: runne & find out myne arowes whiche I shote. And as the boye ran, he shote an arow beyonde him. And whẽ the ladd was come to ỹ place whether Jonathas had shot the arowe, Jonathas cryed after him & sayd: the arow is beyõde the. And he cried after ỹ lad: hast, make spede & stãd not still. And Jonathas lad gathered vp ther arowe & came to his mayster. But ỹ lad wist nothig of ỹ matter: Only Jonathas & Dauid wist it. Then Jonathas gaue his wepõs vnto the lad & sayd vnto ¶ Dauid fleeth in to Nob to Ahimelech the prest & getteth on him shew bread to satisfye hys hunger: & that with a cleane consecrated lye. After he flyeth to kyng Achis, and ther fayneth him selfe to be mad.

The.xxi.Chapter.

A Then came Dauid to Nob to Ahimelech the prest: And Ahimelech was astonied at his coming & said vnto hī: Why comest thou thy selfe alone, & no man with the? And Dauid sayd to Ahimelech the prest: the king hath cōmaunded me to do a certē thing & said vnto me, let no man know where aboute I sende & what I haue commaunded the to do. And therfore I haue appoynted my seruauntes to soche and soche places. And nowe what haste thou vnder thyne hande? geue me fyue loaues of bread or what cometh to hande.

And the prest answered Dauid & said ther is no comen bred vnder myne hande, but ther is halowed bred, yf ỹ young men had abstained onli frō wemē. And Dauid answered the prest & sayde vnto him: of a truthe weimen hathe bene locked vp from vs about a thre dayes, when I came out: and the * vesseles of the young men were holy. Howbeit a‡ this way is vnpure, but it shal be halowed in the vessel. And so the prest gaue hym halowed bread, for there was none other bred ther saue shewe breades that were taken from before the lord, to putte fresshe bread there, the daye that it was taken awaye.

* That is, ỹ bodies.

And ther was ther the same day a certen man of the seruaūtes of Saull abidinge before the lord named Doeg an Edomite the chefest of Sauls heard mē. And Dauid sayde vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thyne hande other speare or swerd? for I haue nether brought my swerde nor myne harnes wythe me, because thee kynges busines requyred haste. Then the Prieste answered: the swerd of Goliath the Philistine whome thou slueste in Eckdale, that is here wrapt in a cloth behind the Ephod Yf thou wylt take that, take it: for there is no nother saue that here. And Dauid said there is none to that, geue it me.

And Dauid arose & fled the same daye frō the presence of Saul, & wēte to Achis the kinge of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis sayd of him: is not this Dauid the king of the land? dyd they not syng vnto this felow in daunses saying: Saul hath slayne his thousand, & Dauid hys.x.thousand? And Dauid putt those wordes into hys hart & was sore afrayed of Achys the king of Geth. And he chaunged his countenaunce before them, and raued in theyr hādes, & scrabled on the dores of the gate, and lett hys spittell fall downe vpon hys beарde. Then sayde Achis vnto hys seruaunt. Loo ye sawe that this mā was besyde hym self, wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me? lacke I mad men, that ye haue brought thys felow to play the mad man in my presence? he shal not come into my house.

The Notes.

a‡ Thys way is vnpure &c. That is, in the waye we take moche vncleanesse (as ye wolde saye) wythe pollucions in the nyght or other thinges, whych are fylthy by Moyses lawe, so that perfectly cleane are we not: but that is a small matter & wyll soone be clensed, because we haue abstayned our bodyes frō oure wyues & kept thē holy & clene. This example of Dauid teacheth that neade hath no lawe: and that man ought not to be a seruaunt to ceremonies, but ceremonies ought to serue the vse of man. Thys to proue doth Christ lead the Pharises hyther. Mat.xii.c

¶ Dauid fleeth into the cave Odollam. After that into Mazphah to the kyng of Moab. And thence in to Hareth Doeg betrayeth Dauid. Ahimelech is accused of treyson and slayne, and lxxxv.prestes mo with him: because they receaued Dauid. Nob is destroyed of Saul. Ebiathar fleeth to Dauid.

The.xxii.Chapter.

AND Dauid departed thence & escaped, and came vnto the cave Odollam. When his brethren & all hys fathers house hearde it, they went thither to hym. And there geathered vnto hym all men all men that were in combraunce and in det and troubled in their hertes and he became a captayne ouer thē. And there were with him vpon a foure hūdred men. And Dauid wēt thence to Mazphah in the lād of Moab, and sayde vnto the kynge of Moab: Let my father and mother I pray the, haue their abydynge with you, tyll I knowe what God will do wythe me. And he left thē with ỹ king of Moab, and they dwelt wt him all the whyle ỹ Dauid kepte him self in holde. And the prophete Gad sayd vnto Dauid: Abide not in castelles, but departe & go to the lād of Juda. Thē Dauid departed and came into the forest Hareth. And Saul hearde of it: for Dauid was knowen & also the men that were with him. And as Saull satt in Gabaah vnder a groue vpō a hye bancke with his speare in hys hand aud al hys men about him, he sayde vnto his seruauntes ỹ stode

B about him. Heare I pray you, you sōnes of Jemini: wil the sōne of Jsai also geue euerye one of you feldes & vineyardes, & make you all captaines ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes: that ye haue al conspired agaynst me, so that ther is none of you that *openeth myne eare, in so moche that my sonne hath made a bonde with ỹ sonne of Jsai, nether is there anye of you that mourneth for me or sheweth it in myne eare: because my sonne hathe set vp my seruaunte to lye a wayte againste me, as it appeareth this daye.

Then answered Doeg the Edomite, which had the ouer syght of the seruaūtes of Saul and sayd: I saw the sonne of Jsai, when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech ỹ sonne of Ahitob, which asked counsell of the Lorde for him, & gaue him vitayles, & the swerde of Goliath the Philistine also. Then the Kynge sente to calle Ahimelech the preast the sonne of Ahitob, & al hys fathers house: that is to say, ỹ preastes that were in Nob. And they came al to ỹ king.
C And Saul said: here thou sonne of Ahitob. And he said: here I am my lord. Thē sayd Saull to him: why haue ye conspyred agaynst me, thou and the sonne of Jsai, in so moch ỹ thou hast geuen him vytaile & a swerd, & hast asked coūcel of god for him, that he shulde arise agaynste me and lye awayte as it is come to passe thys day. And Ahimelech answered the kynge and sayd: who is so faythful amonge all thy seruauntes as Dauid & therto the kinges sonne in lawe, and gothe at thy bydding, and is had in honour in thyne house haue I thys day begōne first to aske coūcel of god for him? God forbid that from me: let not the kyng put soche a thyng vn to his seruaunte & on all the house of my father. For thy seruaūt knoweth nothing of all this, ether lesse or moare.

But for al ỹ the kyng sayd: thou shalt surelye dye Ahimelech, both thou and all D thy fathers house. Then sayde the kynge vnto hys fote men that stode aboute him. turne & slay the preastes of the Lord, both because they haude is wyth Dauid and because they knewe when Dauid fleed and shewed it not to me. But the seruaūtes of the king wold not moue their hādes, to runne vpon the preastes of the Lorde. Then said the King to Doeg: turne thou and smyte the preastes. And *Doeg ỹ Edomite turned & rāne vpon the preastes & slue that same daye foure skore and fyue persones that dyd weare eche man a linne Ephod. And Nob the cytie of the prestes he smote with the edge of the swerd, both man and woman, chylde and sucklynge, wyth ore asse and shepe. 1.Reg.xii.g

But yet one of the sōnes of Ahimelech ỹ sonne of Ahetob, named Abiathar, escaped & fled to Dauid, and shewed Dauid, how that Saul had slaine the lordes preastes. And Dauid sayd vnto Abiathar: I wist it the same day, ỹ Doeg the Edomite which was there wolde tell it Saul. And I am cause of the deethe of all the soules of thy fathers house. Abide wt me & feare not: he ỹ seketh thy soule, shal seke mine, & with me thou shalt be in sauegard.

¶ Dauid deliuereth Keilah. He fleeth into ỹ wyldernes of Ziph. He is comforted of Jonathas. The Ziphites wold haue betrayed him, but he escapethe.

The.xxiii.Chapter.

THē me tolde Dauid saying: Behold, ỹ philistines fighte agaynst Keilah, & spoyle the bernes. Thē Dauid asked ỹ lordes aduise saying: shall I goo and smyte the Philistynes? And the Lorde sayde vnto Dauid: go & smyte the Philistines and saue Keilah. Then sayde Dauids men vnto hym: se we be afrayed here A here in Juda. What shal we thē be, when we come to Keilah, to the hoste of the Philistines. Then Dauid asked the Lorde agayne. And the lord answered him & sayd: vp & goo to Keilah, for I wyl delyuer the Philistines into thyne handes.

And so Dauid and hys men wente too Keilah and fought with the Philistines, & draue awaye theyr catell and slue a greate slaughter of them. And so Dauid saued the enhabiters of Keilah. And it chaunced whē Abiathar the sōne of Ahimelech fled to Dauid to Keilah that he brought an Ephod in hys hande.

B And it was tolde Saull, that Dauid was come to Keilah. Then sayde Saull: God hath delyuered him into myne hand. For he is shut in, for he is come into a town wyth gates and barres. And Saul called all the people to warre, for to go to Keilah to besege Dauid and hys men. But Dauid had knowledge that Saul ymagened myscheke agaynst him, and sayde therfore
1. Reg. xxx. b. to Abiathar the preest: * Bring the Ephod Then sayd Dauid, O Lorde God of Israel, thy seruaūt heareth that Saull is about to come to Keilah to destroye the cytie for my sake: wyll the men of Keilah deliuer me into his hande? or wil Saul come as thy seruaunt heareth saye? Lorde God of Israel tell thy seruaunt: And the Lord sayd: he wyll come. Thē sayd Dauid: wyl the men of Keilah deliuer me and my men into the hand of Saul? and the Lord said they wyl delyuer you.

Then Dauid and his men which were bpō a. vi. hundred, arose and departed out of Keilah and went whether chaunce draue thē. And when it was tolde Saul, that Dauid was fled from Keilah, he lette the iourneye alone. And Dauid abode in thee wyldernesse in stronge holdes, & in a moūtayne in the wyldernesse of Ziph. And Saul soughte hym all hys lyke, but God delyuered hym not into hys hande. And

C Dauid sawe that Saul was come out, to seke his lyke, whyle Dauid was in the wildernesse of Ziph in a thicket. And Jonathas Saules sōne arose & went to Dauid to the thicket, & strenghted hym in God, & sayde vnto hym: feare not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not fynde the, and thou shalte be kynge ouer Israell, and I muste be nexte vnto the. And Saul my father therto knoweth that it shalbe so. And they made * a bonde both of them to gether before the Lorde. And Dauid taried styll in the thicket, and Jonathas went to hys house. Exo. xxiii. a and. xx. b

Then came the Ziphites to Saul, to Gabaah sayinge: Dauid hydeth hym selfe faste by vs in stronge holdes that are in a thycket in the hyl of Hachilah on the right syde of the wyldernesse. Now therfore syr kynge, come downe wyth all the lust that thy soule hath to come. And our part shall be to delyuer hym into the handes of thee kynge. Then sayde Saul: Blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue compassyō on me Go I praye you and marke more dyligētly, & know & se his haunte, where hys fote hath bene, and who hathe sene hym there: D for it is tolde me that he is very sotel. Se therfore and knowe all the lourkyng places where he lourkethe, and come agayne to me wyth certentye, and I wyll go wyth you. And then yf he be in the land, I wyll hunte hym oute wythe all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose & went to Ziph before Saull. But Dauid and hys men were in the wyldernesse of Maon, in the wylde feelde, on the ryghte hand of the wyldernesse. For when Saul was gone with hys men to seke, it was tolde Dauid. And therfore he wente vnto a Rocke and dwelte in thee wyldernesse of Maon. And when Saull hearde that, he folowed after Dauid into the wyldernes of Maon. And Saul and hys men went on the one syde of the moūtayne, and Dauid and hys men on the other. And Dauid as a man amased, made haste to gette from Saul. For Saul and hys men had compased Dauid & his men round about to take them.

But there came a messenger to Saull sayinge: Haste the and come, for the Philistynes are come in and roue thee lande. Wherfore Saull returned from persecutynge Dauid, and went agaynst the Philistines. And therfore the place is called, * Sela Mahelecoth. And then Dauid went thence and dwelte in stronge holdes at Engadi. That is, the rocke of separation

C Dauid fleeth into Engadi and there hydeth him in a caue. Saul cometh in thether too doo hys easement, and Dauid cutteth of the border of his mantel for tel for a token, but hureth him not. Dauid gothe out of the caue after Saul and speaketh to him.

The.xxiiii.Chapter.

A WHē Saul was come againe from the Philistines, there were ỹ tolde him saying: beholde, Dauid is in the wildernesse of Engadi. Thē Saul toke thre thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seke Dauid & his mē in the Rockes, where nothing haũted but wild gootes. And he came to the flockes of the shepe by awayes side where was a caue. And Saul wēt in to couer his feate. And Dauid & his men sat a longe by the sides of the caue. And the men of Dauid saide vnto him: se ỹ day is come, of which the Lorde sayd vnto the: Beholde I wyl delyuer thyne enemye into thine hande, & thou shalt do vñ him what it pleaseth the. Then Dauid arose and cut of a lappe of sauls cote priuely. And immedtatly Dauidshert smote him, because he had cut of a lapp of Sauls cote. And he sayde vnto his mē: the lord kepe me frō doyng ỹ thing vnto my master ỹ is the Lordes anointed, to laye myne hande vpon him, seying he is the lordes anoynted. And so Dauid kept of his seruaũtes vñ wordes, and suffred them not to go vpon Saul.

And when Saul was vp out of ỹ caue & gone awaye, Dauid arose and wēt out of the caue and cried after Saul saying: My Lord king. And Saul loked behinde him. And Dauid stouped to the erth & bowed him self, & sayde to Saull: wherefore geuest ỹ an eare to mennes wordes, that say, Dauid seketh the euel? Beholde this day thyne eyes haue sene, howe ỹ the lord had deliuered the this day, into myne hād in the caue. Whē they bad kil ỹ mine eye had compassyon on the: and I sayde: I wil not lay my hādes on my master, for he is ỹ Lordes anoynted. And moreouer my father, se yet the lap of thy cote in my hand. And in as moche as I kylled ỹ not to, when I cut of the lapp of thy cote, vnderstand & se, ỹ there is nether euell nor trebellousensse in me, & that I haue not sinned against the. And yet thou hũtest after my soule to take it. The lord be iudge betwene the & me, and the Lord auenge me of the. But myne hād be not vpō ỹ. Accor dynge to the olde prouerbe, wyckednesse shal procede out of the wicked: But mine hand be not vpon the. After whom arte ỹ come out, thou king of Israel? After whō chasest thou? euen after a deed doggc, & after a flee: The Lorde be iudge & iudge betwene ỹ and me, & se & pleate my cause, and iudge me fre out of thyne hād. Whē Dauid had made an ende of spcakyng al these wordes to Saul, Saul said: is this thy voyce my sōne Dauid? and he lift vp his voyce and wept, & sayde to Dauid: ỹ art ryghteouser then I, for thou haste rewarded me with good, and I haue rewarded ỹ vñ euel. And thou haste shewed this day how that thou hast dealt louingly vñ me, for as moche as when the Lorde had locked me in thyne handes, thou slueste me not. For who shall fynde hys enemye and lett him depart a good way. Wherefore the Lord rewarde the with good, for ỹ thou haste done vnto me this day. And now I wot well that thou shalt be king, and that the kyngdom of Israel shall be stablysshed in thine hande. Swere therfore vnto me by ỹ Lord, ỹ thou shalt not destroy my seade after me, & that ỹ shalte not destroy my name oute of my fathers house. And Dauid & sware vnto Saull, & Saul went home. But Dauid and his men gatt vp vnto an holde.

Samuel dyeth. Dauid flieth in to the wildernesse of Pharan. He is angry with Nabal: but is pacyfyed by the wysdom of Abigail. Nabal dyeth. Dauid maryeth Abigail.

The.xxv.Chapter.

AND thē Samuell dyed, & all Israel gethered together, & lamented him & buryed hym in his owne house at Rainath.

And Dauid arose & gat him to ỹ wildernes of Pharan. And ther was a man in Maon whose catel was in Carmel, & ỹ mā was exceedyng mighty, & had thre thousād shepe and a thousād gootes. And he was sheryngc hys shepe in Carmell. The name of the man was Naball, & the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and was a womā of good wysdom and bewti full. But the man was churlysshe and of chrewde condicions, and was a Calebite.

swerd about him. And they gyrded euery man his swerde on, & Dauid therto gyrd on his swerde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, & two hūdred abode by the stuffe.

But one of the laddes tolde Abigaill
Nabals wife sayinge: se Dauid sent mes

And so Dauid receaued of her hād that she brought hym, and sayd to her: go in peace to thyne house. And se I haue obeyed thy voyce & haue receaued the to grace.

And whē Abigaill came to Nabal: behold, he held a feaste in hys house lyke the feast of a King, & Nabals herte was merry wtin him & he was dronke a good. Wherfore she tolde him naught nether little nor more, vntyll the morowe daye. But in thee morning, when the wyne was gone out of Nabal, his wyfe told hym these wordes, &
G hys herte dyed within him, and he became as a stone, and vpon a ten dayes after the lord smote Nabal, that he dyed. And whē Dauid hearde that Naball was dead, he sayd: Blessed be the lord that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hand of Nabal, & hath kept his seruaunt frō euel, and hath turned the wyckednes of Naball agayne vpon hys owne head. And Dauid sent to comē wt Abigail, to thintēte to take her to his wyfe. And whē the seruaūtes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmell, thei spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs vnto ye, to take the to hys wyfe. And she arose and bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, & sayd: Beholde thy handmayde, to be a seruaūt to wasche the fete of the seruaūtes of my Lord. And Abigail hasted & arose & gat her vp vpō an Asse, with fyue damoselles of hers ye wēt at her fete, & wēt after the messengers of Dauid & was his wyfe. Dauid also toke Ahinoā of Jezrahel, & they were both his wyues. But saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wife to Phalti the sonne of Lais of Gallin.

For Saul lay within a round banke, and the people pitched round about him. Thē ānswered Dauid & spake to Ahimelech the Hethite and to Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah & brother to Joab saying: who wil go downe wt me to Saul to ye hoste? & Abisai sayde: I wyl B go downe wyth the.

And so Dauid & Abisai came to ye people by night. And beholde, Saul laye slepinge within a rounde banke & his speare pitched in the groūd at his head, Abner & the people lying round aboute him. Then sayd Abisai to Dauid: God hath closed in thyne enemie vnto thyne hande this daye. Now therfore let me smyte hym a felowshyp wyth my speare to the earth, euē one stroke, and I wyl not smyte him the sec-de time. But Dauid sayde to Abisai: destroy him not, for who can lay his hād on ỹ Lordes anointed & be giltles? And Da uid sayd furtherinore: as sure as the lord lyueth, the Lorde shall smyte hym, or hys into battell & there perysshe: but the Lorde kepe me frō laying myne hand vpon the Lordes anointed. Now then take a felow shippe ỹ speare ỹ is at his heed, & ỹ crewse of water, & let vs go. And Dauid toke the speare & the crewse of water that were at Sauls heed, & they gat them awaie, & no mā saw or wist it or awoke. For they were al a slepe, because the Lord had sent a slō-C ber vpō thē. Thē Dauid wēte ouer to the other syde & stode on the toppe of an hil a farre of (a great space being betwene thē) & cryed to the people & to Abner the sonne of Ner saying: Answerest thou not Abner? and Abner answered & sayde: Who art thou that *cryest to the king? and Da uid sayd to Abner: art not thou a mā and who is lyke the in Israell? But wherfore hast ỹ not kept thy Lord the kynge? For ther came one of the folke to destroye the king thy lord. It is not good ỹ thou haste done. As truly as the lord liueth yeat wor

the kinges speare is and the crewse of wa ter that were at his heed.

Then Saul knew Dauids voyce and said: is this thy voyce my sōne Dauid? & D Dauid sayde: it is my voyce my Lorde king. And he sayd therto wherefore dothe my lord persecute his seruaūt: for what ha ue I done? or what euel is in mine hand?
Now heare therfore (my lord kyng) ỹ wor was precyouse in thyne eyes thys daye.

Beholde, I haue played the fole & haue erred exceding moche. And Dauid answe red and saide: Behold ỹ kinges speare: let one of the younge men come ouer and fet it. The lord rewarde euery mānes righte-wesnes & faith: for the Lord deliuered the into my hād this day, but I wold not lay mine hād vpō ỹ lordes anointed. And as thy lyfe was moch set by this time i mine

The .xxvii. Chapter.

Then thought Dauid in hys hert: I maye perysh one day or other by the handes of Israell. There is no better for me, then to flee into the lande of the Philistines, that Saull of verye dispayre to fynde me, maye ceasse to seke me any moare in al the cooastes of Israel: for so I maye escape his hand. And Dauid arose, and he and the sixe hundred mē that were with him went vnto Achis, the sonne of Maoch, kyng of Geth. ¶ The Philistines moue warre agaynst Saul and the Israelites. Saul requireth counsel of God but hath no answere: and then seketh after an enchaunter, whych rayseth him vp the spryte of Samuel.

The .xxviii. Chapter.

A And it chaūced in those dates, that the Philistines gethered their host to gether to warre, entendynge to fight with Israel. And Achis sayd to Dauid: Be sure, thou shalt go out wt me in ỹ host, and thy men also. And Dauid sayde agayne to Achis: then thou shalt knowe, what thy seruaunt cā do. And Achis sayd to Dauid: Then I wyll make the * ✝ kepper of my heed for euer. Samuel was thē dede, & all Israel had lamēted hym & buried hym in Ramath his owne cytye. And Saul had put the wemē ỹ had spyrytes of prophesy & the Sorcerars out of the lād. And the philistines geathered to gether & came and pitched in Sunam. And Saul & al Israell geathered to geather and pitched in Gelboe. And when Saul sawe ỹ host of the Philistines, he was afrayed, & his hert was sore a stonied. And Saul asked councel of the Lord: But the lord answered him not, nether by dreame nor by ✝ Urim, nor yet by prophetes.

Nota Samuel was buried

Then sayd Saul vnto his seruaūtes: seke me a woman ỹ is mastres of a spryte of prophecye ỹ I maye go to her & aske of her. And his seruaūtes said to him: se ther is a wyfe ỹ hath a spryte of Prophesye in her possessiō at Endor. And Saul chaūged his clothes and put on other rayment, & then wente he and two men withe him, & they came to the wife by nighte. And he sayd: prophesie vnto me by the spryte, and bring me him vp whō I shall name vnto the. And the wife said vnto him: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath done, how B he hath destroyed the wemen that had prophesying spyrytes, & the Sorcerars out of the lād. Wherfore thē * layest thou a net for my soule to kyl me? And Saul swore to her by the Lorde sayinge: As surely as the Lord liueth, ther shall no harme chaūce the for thys thyng. Then said the wife: whom shall I fetche vp vnto the? and he sayde: Bryng me vp Samuel. Whē the woman saw Samuell she cryed wythe a lowde voyce & spake to Saull sayinge: why haste thou mocked me? for thou arte Saul. And the king said vnto her, be not afrayde. But what seyst thou. And the wyfe sayd vnto Saul: I se * a God ascēding vp out of ỹ erth. And he sayd: what faction is he of? And the woman sayde: there cometh vp an olde man wt a mantel vpon him. And Saul perceaued ỹ it was ✝ Samuel, & stouped with his face to the ground & bowed him self. And Samuell sayd to Saul: why haste thou vnquieted me, to make me be brought vp? And Saull answered: I am sore encombred. For the philistines make warre against me, & god is departed frō me & āswered me nomore, nether by Prophetes, nether by dreames. And therefore I haue called the, to tell me what I shal do. Thē said Samuel: wherfore doest thou aske of me? while the lord is gone frō the & is thyne enemye, the lord wyl do the as he sayd by my hād. For the Lord wil rent the kyngdome out of thine hande, & geue it thy neyboure Dauid, because thou obeidst not ỹ voice of the lord, nor executedst his fearce wrath vpō ỹ Amaleckites. Therfore hath the lorde done this vnto the this day. And moreouer the lord wil deliuer Israel wt the, into the hād of ỹ philistines. And to morow shalt ỹ & thy sones be wt me, & the lord shall geue the host of Israel into the hādes of ỹ philistines. Then Saul fell streyght waye flatte on the erth as lōg as he was, & was sore a dread of the wordes of Samuel.

¶ Dauid goyng with king Achis to fight against Saul is send againe by the meanes of the lordes of the Philistines.

The. xxix. Chapter

A THe Philistines geathered all their hostes to geather vnto Aphec: And Israell pytched by *akōtaine i Jesrahel. And ỹ lordes of ỹ philistines wēt forth by hūdredes & by thousandes. But Dauid & his men came behinde wt Achis Then sayd the lordes of the Philistines: what ar yonder Ebrues? And Achis sayd vnto the lordes of the philistines: Is not this Dauid ỹ seruaunt of Saul ỹ kyng of Israel, which hath bene wt me daies or yeres, & I haue foūd no fault in him sēce he fleed vnto me vnto this daye. Neuertheles ỹ lordz of ỹ philistines were wroth wt him and sayd vnto him: Make this fellow returne, and let him go againe to his place whiche thou haste appoynted hym. For he shal not go wt vs to battel, leste he be an aduersarye to vs in the battell. For wherewythe coulde he better obtayne the fauour of his mayster, thē vpō the heades of our mē. Is this not Dauid to whō they sang in daūces: *Saul slue his thousand but Dauid his. x. thousand? Then Achis called Dauid & sayde vnto hym: As sure as the Lord lyueth ỹ art honest, & it pleaseth me wel ỹ thou shuldest accōpanye me in the hoste, for I haue foūd none euel wt the sence thou cāmest to me vnto this day Neuertheless the Lordes of the Philistines fauour the not: wherfore returne & go in peace, that thou displease not thee Lordes of the Philistines. And Dauid sayde againe to Achis: Why what haue I done and what hast thou founde in thy seruaūt as long as I haue ben with the vnto this daye: that I may not go fight against the enemies of my Lord the kinge.

A Achis answered and said to Dauid: I wot wel thou pleasest me, as it were an Angel of God. Notwithstādinge the Lordes of the Philistines haue sayd, that ỹ shalte not go with them to batel. Wherfore ryse vp early in the morning with thy masters seruaūtes that at come with the. And whē ye be vp early as sone as ye haue light departe. And so Dauid & his men rose early to departe in the morning & to returne into the lāde of the philistines. And the Philistines went vp to Jesrahel.

The. xxx. Chapter.

B Vt yer Dauid & his mē were come to Zikeleg ỹ thyrde day the Amalekites had runne in a running vpō the south and vpon Zikeleg, and had smytten Zikeleg & burnt it with fyre, and had taken the women that were therein prysoners, bothe small and great: but slew not a man, saue caryed thē wyth thē & wēt theyr wayes. When Dauid & hys men came to the citie: behold, it was burnt with fyre, & theyr wyues, theyr sonnes & theyr daughters were takē prisoners. Thē Dauid & ỹ people ỹ was with hym lift vp theyr voyces & wept, vntyl they could wepe nomore And Dauids two wiues were taken prysoners also. Ahinoam the Jesrahelite and Abigaill the wyfe of Naball thee Carmelite. And Dauid was in a shrowde strayt: for thee people entended to stone hym because because ỹ hertes of al the people were vexed for their sonnes and their daughters.

But Dauid toke a good courage to him in the Lord his God and *said to Abiathar the prest Ahimelechs sone: bringe me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought ỹ Ephod to Dauid. And Dauid asked the Lord saying: shal I folow after this company? shall I ouer take them? And he sayd to hym: folowe, for thou shalte ouer take them and recouer the pray.

And he went and the syxe hundred me that were with him, & they came to the ryuer Besor, wher a part of thē abode. But Dauid and foure hundred men folowed: But two hundred abode behinde beynge to wery to go ouer the riuer Besor. Then they found an Egyptian in the felde, and brought him to Dauid & gaue him breed to eate & water to drynke, & gaue hym a few figgs & .ii. clousters of reasiges. And whē he had eatē, his spretes came agayne to him: for he had eatē no bread nor drōck no water in thre dayes and thre nyghtes. Thē Dauid sayd vnto him: to whō belōgest ỹ & whēce art thou? and the lad ānswered: I am an Egyptian and seruaūt to an Amalekite: & my master left me behind, because it is thre dayes a gone ỹ I fel sicke: we came a rouing vpō the south of Cerethis, & vpon them of Iuda & on the south of Caleb. And we burnt Zikeleg wt fire. And Dauid sayd to him: cāst thou bring me to this cōpany? And he sayd: swere vnto me by god, ỹ thou wylte neither kyll me nor deliuer me into ỹ hāds of my master, & I wyll bringe the vnto them. ¶ Dauid is anoynted in Hebron. The battel of the seruauntes of Dauid and Isboseth.

The. ii. Chapter.

A Fter thys Dauid asked thee Lord saying: shal I go vp in to any of the cyties of Juda? And the Lord sayde: go. And Dauid āswered whither shal I go? He answered, vnto Hebron. And so Dauid went thether wyth hys two wiues also, Ahinoam the Jesrahelite & Abigaill Nabals wyfe the Carmelyte. And the mē that were with hym, dyd Dauid carye vp also, euery man wyth his house. And they dwelte in the townes of Hebron. And the

G men of Juda came and there annoynted Dauid king ouer ꝑ house of Juda. Whē it was tolde Dauid, howe the men of Jabes in Galaad had buried Saul, he sente messengers vnto them & sayd vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lorde, that ye haue shewed soche kyndnes vnto youre Lorde Saul, and haue buried hym. Wherfore ꝑ Lord shew you mercy and truth agayne. And I wyll do you good also, because ye haue done thys thing. And now lett youre handes stere thē & playe ye the mē, though your mayster Saul be dead. And finally vnderstande that the house of Juda haue anoynted me kyng ouer them. But Abner

C thee sonne of Ner that was captayne of Sauls hoste, toke Isboseth thee sonne of Saul and brought hym to Mahanaim & made hym kynge ouer Galaad and ouer the Assurites, & ouer Jesrahell: & ouer Ephraim & Ben Jamin & ouer all Israell. And Isboseth Sauls sonne was fourtye yeare olde when he began to raygne ouer Israell, and raygned two yeare. But the house of Juda onelye folowed Dauid. * And the tyme whyche Dauid raygned in Hebron ouer the house of Juda, was. vii. yere & syxe monethes. And Abner the sōne of Ner & thee seruauntes of Isboseth the sonne of Saul went out of Mahanaim, to Gabaon. And Joab thee sonne of Zaruiah & the seruauntes of Dauid wēt out & mett them by the Pole of Gabaon. And they satt downe, the one part on ꝑ one syde the Pole & the othet on the other side. And Abner sayd to Joab: let the young men aryse & playe before vs. And Joab answeted: be it. Then there arose and went ouer:

The. iii. Chapter.

A THer was long strife betwene the howse of Saull and the house of Dauid. But dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and ỹ house of Saul waxed weaker & weaker. * And i. Sa. xiii. a.
Dauid had children borne him in Hebrō: his eldest sonne was Ammon of Ahinoam the Jezrahelite: the secōde Cheleab of Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmelite: the thyrde Absalom the sonne of Maachah ỹ daughter of Tholmai the kyng of Gessur: the fourth Adoniah the sonne of Hagith: the fyfte Saphatiah the sonne of Abital: the syxt Jethraā by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebrō. And as long as there was battell betwene the house of Saul & ỹ house of Dauid, Abner helde vp the house of Saull, And Saul had a * cōcubyne named Ri- Gen. xxv. a

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid forthwith, saying: whose is the land? & he sayde therto: make a bonde with me, & se, my hād is w the, to bring al Israell vnto the. And Dauid āswered wel sayd, I wil make a bōd wyth the. But one thing I require of the, ỹ thou se not my face, excepte ỹ fyrst bringe Michol Sauls daughter, when thou comest to se me.

And Dauid sente messengers to Isboseth Sauls sonne saying: delyuer me my wyfe Michol whych I maryed wythe an hundred foreskinnes of ỹ philistines. And Isboseth sent and toke her from her husband Phaltiel the sōne of Lais. And her husband wēt w her, and came weping behinde her, tyl they came to Bahurim. Thē sayde Abner vnto him go & returne. And he returned. And Abner had communicatiō with the elders of Israel, sayinge: ye haue long gone about ỹ Dauid shuld be kinge ouer you. Now thẽ do it: for the lord hath sayd of Dauid, by ỹ hand of my seruaũt

D Dauid, I wyl saue my people Israel, out of the hãdes of the Philistines, & out of ỹ hand of al their enemies. And like wordes had he with Bẽ Jamin, & then went to tell in the eares of Dauid in Hebrõ al ỹ Israel was content wyth & the whole house of Bẽ Jamin. And whẽ Abner was come to Dauid to Hebrõ & twentie men with him Dauid made him & the mẽ that were with him a feast. Then Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I wyl vp & go gether all Israel vnto my Lord the king, that they may make an appoyntmẽt wyth the, that thou mayst be kyng ouer all that thyne hart desyreth. And so Dauid lett Abner departe, and he went in peace.

And se, the seruaũtes of Dauid & Joab came frõ chasing robbers and brought a great praye with thẽ. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebrõ: for he had sent him
E away to depart in peace. Whẽ Joab & all the host that was with him were come, mẽ tolde Joab saying: Abner ỹ sonne of Ner came to ỹ king, & he hath sent him away ỹ he is gone in peace. Then Joab went to ỹ kyng & sayde: what haste thou done? Se, Abner came vnto the, why hast thou sente hym awaye, that he shoulde skape quyte? Thou mightest know Abner the sonne of Ner, ỹ he came to flater with the, & to know thy cõuersation & behauoure, & to knowe al ỹ thou doest. And whẽ Joab was come out frõ the king, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him agayne frõ the well of Sirah vnwetting to Dauid. And whẽ Abner was come agayne to Hebron, Joab toke hym a syde in ỹ gate, to speake with him gilefully, & there smote hym vnder the short ribbes ỹ he dyed, for the blou
F de of Asahel his brother. And whẽ it after warde came to Dauids eare, he sayd: I & my kingdõ are gyltlesse before the Lorde for euer, cõcerning the bloud of Abner the sonne of Ner, It fall therfore on the head of Joab & on all hys fathers house, ỹ the house of Joab be neuer without one or other ỹ hath running issues or wout lepers & goers on crouches, & that fal on ỹ swerd and that lacke bread. And the cause why Joab & Abisai slue Abner was, ỹ Abner had slayne their brother Asahel at Gabaõ in battell. And Dauid sayde to Joab & to all ỹ people that were with him, rent your clothes & put on sacke clothe & mourne before Abner. And king Dauid hym selfe folowed ỹ bere. And whẽ they had buryed Abner in Hebron, the king lift vp his voyce & wept ouer the sepulchre of Abner, & so dyd al the people. And the king lamented ouer Abner & sayde: Abner dyed not as a wycke dieth. Thy hãdes were not manacled nor thy fete brought into gyues: but as men fall before wycked chyldren, so fellest thou. And al the people wept yet more ouer hym.

And whẽ al the people came to eat meat with Dauid, while it was yet day, Dauid sware saying: so do God to me & so therto yf I tast bred or ought elles, tyl the sunne be downe. And the people wist it, & it pleased them, as wel as al other good thinges which the king dyd in the syght of the people. And al the people & al Israell thereto vnderstode that daye how that it was not the kinges mynde, to slee Abner the sonne of Ner. And the king sayd vnto his seruãtes: know ye not, how that ther is a Lorde & that a great fellow this daye in Israell? And I am thys daye tender, though I be anoynted king. And the se sonnes of Remō the Berothite, Rechab & Baanah went, & came in the heate of the daye to the house of Isboseth, as he slepte on a bed at none. And behold they came in to the house as thoughe they wolde haue bought *whete, & smote him vnders̄ short ribbes & fled. For they came into the house as he slept on his bed in his resting chamber, & smote him & slue him & beheded him & toke his head & gat them away thorowe the wylde feld al night. And they brought the head of Isboseth vnto Dauid, to Hebron & sayd to the kyng: beholde there the head of Isboseth Sauls sonne thyne enemye, which sought thy soule. But the lord hath aduenged my Lorde the kinge thys daye, of Saul and of hys sede.

And Dauid and all the house of Israell brought the arcke of the Lord with showtyng and trompet blowyng.

G

And as the arcke of the Lord came intõ the cytye of Dauid, Michol Sauls daughter loked thorow a wyndow & saw king Dauid spryng & daunce before the lord, & therfore dyspysed hym in her hert. And when they had brought in the arcke of the lord, & had set it euẽ in his place, euen in ỹ tabernacle that Dauid had prepared for it: Dauid offered burntofferynges & peaceofferynges before the Lord, & as sone as Dauid had made an ende of offering burntofferynges & peaceofferynges he blessed the people in the name of ỹ lord of hostes, & gaue amõg al the folke, euẽ amõge the hole multytude of Israel, as well to the wemen as vnẽ euerye one a Cake of breed & a pece of flesshe and a flaket of wyne. And so the people departed euery man to hys house.

Then Dauid returned to salute hys housholde. And Michol the daughter of Saul came out agaynst him & sayd: Oh how glorious was the king of Israell to day, which stript him self to day before the eyes of the maydẽs of his seruauntes, as a light brained felow is wõt to stripe him self. But Dauid sayd againe to Michol, I wil make spoxte before the lord whiche chose me before thy father & before al his kynne, cõmaundynge me to be ruler ouer al his people Israell. And I wilbe yet more vile then so and wilbe meke in mine owne syght: & shall for all that of ỹ verye same maydeseruaũtz which thou speakest of, be had in honour. But ỹ sayd Michol daughter to Saul had no childe vnto the daye of her deeth.

¶ Dauid of a good entente, entẽdynge to bylde an house vnto the Lord, is forbidden of God. He prayeth that the promeses of god maye be fulfylled.

The. vii. Chapter.

AND in processe as the kynge dwelt in his house after ỹ the Lord had geuen him rest roũde about frõ all his enemyes, he sayd vnto Nathan ỹ prophet: beholde, I dwell in an house of Cedar trees, but ỹ arcke of God dwelleth in the middes of *curtaines. Then sayd Nathã vnto the kyng: go and do al that is in thyne hert, for the Lorde is wyth the.

*That is, of clothes & hãgiges ỹ were set vp at the maskyng of the tabernacle. Exo. xxvi. a. d

But that same night the word of ỹ lorde came vnto Nathã saying: go & tel my seruaũt Dauid, thus sayth the lord: shalt thou go bylde me an house to dwel in? For I haue not dwelte in any house sence the tyme I brought the chyldren of Israell oute of Egipte, vnto thys daye: but haue walked in a tẽt & in a tabernacle. In anye way where I wẽt among al the childrẽ of Israel, spake I one word wt any of ỹ tribes of Israel which I cõmaũded to fede my people Israel saying: why bild ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Now therfore so say vnto my seruaũt dauid, thus sayth the lord of hostes I toke ỹ out of a shepardes cote frõ folowinge shepe to be a ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was wt the in al ỹ thou wẽtest to, and haue destroyed al thine enemies out of thy syght, & haue made ỹ a great name, lyke vnto the name of the great mẽ of the world. And I wyll appoint a place for my people Israell, & wil plante it & they shall contynew in one place & shall moue no moare, nether shall wickyd people trouble thẽ anye more as they did at the beginning, & sẽce the tyme I cõmaunded Iudges to be ouer my people Israell, & I wyll geue the rest from al thyne enemyes. And the Lord tellythe the that he wyll bylde the an houshold.

And whẽ thy dates be fulfilled & thou layde to rest with thy fathers, thẽ I wil set vp thy seede after the, which shal proceade out of thy body, & wyll stablysh his kyngedome. And he shall bylde an house for my name, & I wyll stablyshe the seate of hys kyngdome for euer: I wylbe hys father & he shalbe my sonne: in so moch ỹ yf he synne, I wyll but rebuke hym wyth soche a rodde as mẽ be rebuked wt and wt soche plages as the childrẽ of mẽ be plaged wt. But my mercy wyl I not take away from him, as I toke it from Saull, whom I put downe before the. And thine house & thy kyngdome shal endure wout ende after ỹ, & thy seate shalbe stablyshed for euer. And when Nathan had told Dauid al these woordes and al thys vision. Then wẽt kyng Dauid & set hym downe before the Lord and sayd: what am I lorde Iehouah, and what is my kynne, that thou shuldest haue brought me this farre forthe? And is this a small thynge in thy sight Lord Iehouah but ỹ thou shuldest speake also of thy seruauntes house for a great while to come? is this a lawe amõge mẽ lord Iehouah? ¶ Dauid ouercometh the Philistines and maketh them to become tributaries. He ordeneth & appoynteth hys officers.

The. viii. Chapter.

AFter that, Dauid bett ye Philistines and subdued them & toke the brydell of bondage out of their handes. And he bette ye Moabites & a measured them wyth a lyne a tmakinge the lye a longe on the erth, & then t meatynge the length of two lynes to sley, & the legth of one lyne to sauc a liue. And so became the Moabites Dauids seruauntes & payde tribute. Dauid smote also Adadezer the sonne of Rehob kynge of Zobah as he wēt to make the ende of his coostes at the ryuer Euphrat. And Dauid toke a thousande and seuen hundred horsemē of his, and twentye thousande fote men and destroyed all his charettes reseruing one hundred of thē. Thē came ye Syrians of Damasco to succoure Adadezer king of Zobah. And Dauid slue of thē two & twentye thousād men & put soudiolires in Syria Damasco. And the Syries became seruauntes to Dauid payeng tribute. And thus ye lord saued Dauid in al ye he went to. And dauid toke ye shildes of gold ye were vpō ye seruaūtes of Adadezer & brought thē to Jerusalē. And therto out of betah & Berathai cyties of Adadezer he brought exceedyng great aboundance of brasse.

When Thoi kynge of Hemath had heard how Dauid had discōfited al the host of Adadezer, he sēt Joram his sonne vnto king Dauid tō salute hym wt peace & to blesse him because he had fought against Adadezer and beate him: for Thoi kept warre with Adadezer, whyche sonne brought vessell of siluer, gold & of brasse wyth him. And thē also kyng Dauid did dedicat vnto the Lorde wyth the syluer & golde that he consecrated of all nacyons whych he subdued: of the Syriens, ye Moabites, the chyldren of Ammon, the Philistines, the Amalekites, and of the spoyle of Adadezer sonne of Rehob king of Zobah. And Dauid made him a name after he returned from the slaughter of the Syriens in the valeye of Salt were he slew. xviii. thousande men. And he put kepers in Edom, eue thorow out al Edom put he soudyours and al Edō became hys seruātes. And ye Lorde kept Dauid what soeuer he toke in hand. ¶ Dauid restoreth all ye feldes of Saul, to Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas.

The. ix. Chapter.

THen sayd Dauid: is there yet any man left of the house of Saull, that I maye shewe hym mercye for Jonathas sake? And there was of the housholde of Saul a seruaūt named Zibah; which was called vnto Dauid. And the kyng sayd vnto him: art thou Zibah And he sayd: thy seruaunt is the mā. Thē sayd the kyng remaineth ther yet any mā of the kynred of Saul, whō I may shewe the metеye of God vpō? And Zibah sayd vnto the kyng: Jonathas hath yet a sōne which is lame on both fete. And the kyng said vnto hi: wher is he? And Zibah said vnto the kig:behold he is in the house of Machir:the sonne of Ammiel in Lodaber. Then kyng Dauid sent & fet him out of the house of Machir ꝑ sõne of Ammiel, out of Lodaber. Nowwhen Miphiboseth the sõne of Jonathas the sõne of Saul was come vnto Dauid, he bowed him self and fel on his face. Then said Dauid: Miphiboseth: And he answered. Behold thy seruaũt. And dauid said: feare not for I wil surely shewe the kyndnesse for Jonathas sake & wil restore the al the feldz of Saul thy father, and thou shalte eate meate on mine owne table all waye. And the other bowed him self & said: what is thy seruaũte that thou shuldeste voucheſafe to loke vpon soche a deed dogg as I am.

Then the kyng called vnto Ziba Sauls yoũg mã saying vnto him: I gene vnto thy masters sonne al ꝑ pertained to Saul & to all hys kynne. Se therfore ꝑ thou & thy sõnes and thy seruastes tyll the lande for him, and bring in, ꝑ thy masters sonne maye haue fode to eate. For Miphiboseth thy masters sonne shal eate meate all waye vpon my table. For thys Ziba had fyftene sonnes & twentye seruãtes. Thẽ said Ziba vnto ꝑ kyng: al ꝑ my Lorde hathe sayde vnto hys seruaũt, thy seruaũt shall do. For (sayd the kyng) Miphiboseth must eate vpõ my table, as one of the kynges sounes. Thys Miphiboseth had a sõne ꝑ was younge named Micha, & all that dwelled in the house of Ziba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelt in Jerusalem, for he ate euer at the kynges table, & was therto hault on bothe legges.

¶ The messengers of Dauid are spitefully & villanously entreated of the kyng of Moab: which thinge Dauid aduengeth.

The. x. Chapter.

It happened after this ꝑ the kig of ꝑ childrẽ of Ammõ died, & Hanõ his sõne raygned in his steade. Thẽ sayd Dauid: I wil shewe kindnes vnto Hanõ ꝑ sõne of Nahas, as his father shewed kindnes vnto me. And ther vpõ Dauid sent to cõfort hym by ꝑ hãd of his seruaũtz ouer ꝑ deth of his father. Now whẽ Dauids seruaũtes were come into ꝑ land of the chyldren of Ammon, the Lordes of the childzen of Ammon said vnto Hanon their Lordr: thynkeste thou that Dauid dothe honoure thy father, because he hath sente to comforte the? Naye, he hathe rather sent his seruauntes vnto the, to searche the cytye and to spye it oute, euen to ouerthrow it.

Wherfore Hanõ toke Dauids seruaũtes and shaued of the one halfe of euerye mannes berd & cut of their garmẽtes euẽ in the myddle, euen harde by ꝑ buttockes of thẽ and sent thẽ awaye. When it was told Dauid he sent agaynste thẽ (for they were mẽ exceedingly a shamed) & saide: tary at Jericho vntil your beerdz be growẽ, & thẽ returne. And whẽ ꝑ childzen of Ammõ saw ꝑ they stancke vnto Dauid, they sẽt & hired ꝑ sõnz of Bethrehob & of ꝑ Sities of Zobah. xx. thousãd fote men & of kig Maacah a thousãd men, & of Istob twelue thousãd mẽ. And whẽ dauid hard of it, he sent Joab & al ꝑ host of strõg mẽ. And the chyldrẽ of Ammõ came out & waged battell before the gate & the Striens of Zobah, of Rehob, Istob & Maacah were by them selues in the feldes.

When Joab saw that the front of the battell was before and after, he chose of all the best of Israel & put them in araye agaynst the Sirtens. And the reste of the people he deliuered in ꝑ hãd of Abisai his brother, which put them in aray agaynste the childzen of Ammon. And he sayde: yf the Sirtes ouercome me, thẽ succour me. But yf ꝑ childzen of Ammon be to good for ꝑ, I will come & succoure ꝑ, quyte the like a mã, & let vs fight lustelye for oure people & for the cities of our god. And the lord do what semith best in his eyes. And forth wt Joab prooceded & the people that was wt him into battel against ꝑ Sirtes, which fled before him. And whẽ ꝑ childrẽ of Ammõ saw ꝑ the Sirtes were fled, thẽ fled they also before Abisai, & entered into the citie. And so Joab returned frõ ꝑ childrẽ of Ammõ & came to Jerusalem. And whẽ ꝑ Sirtens sawe ꝑ they were put to ꝑ worse before Israel they gethered thẽ together. And Hadadezer sent & brought out ꝑ Sirtens ꝑ were beyoũd the ryuer. And ꝑ host of them came, & Sobah the captayne of the host of Hadadezer before them.

And when it was shewed Dauid, he gethered al Israel and passed ouer Jordã & came came to Helam: where the Sirians put them selues in araye agaynste Dauid and fought wyth him: howe be it the Sirians fled before Israell. And Dauid destroyed seuen hundred charettes of thē & fourtye thousand horsemen, & smote Sobah the captayne of hys hoste, that he therdyed. And when all the Kinges that were seruauntes to Hadadezer sawe that they were put to the worsse before Israel, they made peace with thē and serued thē. And so the Sirians feared to helpe the childrē of Ammon any moare.

¶ The aduoutry of Dauid with Bethsabe ỹ wife of Vrias, Vrias is sylefully slayne. After that Dauid taketh Bethsabe to wyfe.

The. xi. Chapter.

A 2. Par. xx. a

AND it came to passe in the beginning of a new yere, in the times whē kinges are wōt to go forthe to battell, ỹ Dauid sent Joab & hys seruauntes with him & al Israel. And they destroyed the childrē of Ammon, & beseged Rabah. But Dauid taryed styl at Jerusalē. And it chaūced in an euenynge ỹ Dauid arose frō his cowche & walked vpō the rouffe of ỹ kynges palace, & frō the rouffe sawe a very bewtiful womā washyng her selfe. And he sēt to enquyre what womā it should be. And it was answered agayne, ỹ she was Bethsabe the daughter of Eliā & wife to Vrias ỹ Hethite. And Dauid sēt messengers & fett her, & she came vnto hym & he laye wt her. And she was streyght wayes purified frō her vncleānes, & returned vnto her house. And when the woman had perceaued that she had cōceaued, she sēt & tolde Dauid and saide: I am with child. Then Dauid sente to Joab, to send vnto him Vrias the hethite. And Joab sēt Vrias to Dauid. And when Vrias was come vnto him he demaunded how Joab dyd, and how the people fared, and howe ỹ warre prospired. And Dauid said moreouer to Vrias: go downe to thine house & washe thy fete. And Vrias departed out of the kinges place, and there folowed him a seruice frō the kyngs table: But Vrias slept at the dore of ỹ kynges palace wythe all ỹ seruaūtes of his Lorde, and wēt not downe to his house.

Then they told Dauid saying: Vrias descendyd not into his house. Then sayd Dauid vnto Vrias: Seynge that ỹ arke come frō iorneynge, why dooste thou not go downe vnto thyne house? And Vrias said vnto Dauid: ỹ arcke & Israel & Juda dwell in pauylions: & my Lord Joab & the seruaūtes of my Lord lye in tētes vpon ỹ flat earth: & shuld I thē go into mine house, to eate and to drynke & to lye wyth my wife? * By thy life and as sure as thy soule liueth I wil not do that thyng. Thē said Dauid vnto Vrias: * tary here this day also, & to morow I wil lett ỹ departe. And so Vrias abode in Jerusalē ỹ daye & on the morow. And Dauid called hym, and he ate & dranke before hym, & he made him droncke. And at euē he wēt out to lye on his couch wythe the seruaūtes of ỹ lorde, & went not downe to his house. Wherefore on ỹ morow Dauid wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by Vrias. And he wrote in the letter saying: put Vrias in the forefront of the battel where it is most strōg, and come back from him that he maye be smyttē to deeth. And as Jacob beseged ỹ citie he assigned Vrias vnto a place wher he wist ỹ strōg men were. And the men of ỹ citie came out & fought with Joab. And there were certen onet throwen of the people and of the seruauntes of Dauid, and Vrias the hethite dyed also.

Then Joab sent and tolde Dauid all the processe of the warre and charged the messengers saying: when thou hast made an ende of tellyng the story of warre vnto the kyng yt he begynne to fume & saye vnto the: wherfore approched ye so nie vnto the citie to fyght? wyst ye not that men wolde hourle and shote from the walles? who smote Abimelech soune of * Jerobeseth? did not a woman cast a pece of a mil stone vpon hym from of the walles, that he dyed in Thebes? why then went ye nye the walles, then saye thou: thy seruaunte Vrias the hethite is deed also.

And the messengers went and came & shewed Dauid al that Joab had sēt him wyth, and sayde vnto Dauid: ỹ men preuaile against vs, & came oute vnto vs into the feld, & we stack vnto thē, euē vnto ỹ enteringe of the gate. And the shothers shote frō the walles, & some of the seruaūtes of the kyng be deed: And thy seruaūte Vrias the hethite is deed also. Thē sayde

The xii. Chapter.

AND ȳ lorde sent Nathā vnto Dauid. And he came vnto him and sayde vnto hym: there were two men in one cytye, a ryche and a pooze. And the ryche hadde exceadinge greate aboundaunce of shepe and oxen. But thee pooze hadde nothynge saue one litle lambe whyche he bought and norysshed vppe. And it grewe vp with him and hys childzen, and dyd eate of hys owne meate and dzancke of his owne cuppe, and slepte in hys bosome, & was as dere vnto him as his daughter. And there came a straunger vnto the ryche man. And he coulde not fynde in hys hert to take of his owne shepe noz of hys beestes to dzesse foz ȳ straūger ȳ was come vnto him. But toke the pooze mānz lābe & dzessed it foz the mā that was come to him. And Dauid was exceding wzoth wythe the man, and sayde to Nathan: as surelye as the Lorde lyueth the felowe that hathe done thys thynge, *is the chylde of deeth & shall restoze the lambe foure folde, because he dyd thys thynge and because he had no pytye.

Thē Nathā sayd to Dauid: ȳ art the mā. Thys sayth the Lorde God of Israel: I anointed the kyng ouer Israel & rydde the out of the handes of Saul. And I gaue ȳ thy maistres house & thy masters wyues into thy bosome, and gaue the, the house of Israell and of Juda, and wolde yt that had bene to lytle: haue geuen the ewyse so moche moare. Now therfoze the swerd shal neuer departe frō thyne house, because (sayth the Lorde) thou hast despysed me & taken the wyfe of Vrias the hethite, to be thy wyfe. Thus sayth the Lorde: beholde I wil stere vp euell agaynste the euen of thyne owne house and wil take thy wiues before thine eyes, and geue them vnto thy neyboure, whych shall slepe with them *in the syght of the sunne. And thou dydest it secretlye, yet wil I do this thing before all Israell and in the open sunne lyght.

Then sayde Dauid vnto Nathan: I haue synned agaynst the Lorde. And Nathā sayd agayne to Dauid: the lorde hath put away the synne ȳ shalt not die. Howe be it because in doynge thys deade thou haste geuen the enemyes of the Lorde a cause to rayle, ȳ child that is borne, ȳ shal die surely. And Nathā departed vnto his house. And ȳ lorde stroke ȳ child that Vrias wife bare Dauid and it sickened. And Dauid besought god foz the boy & fasted & went & laye al nyght vpō the erthe. And the elders of his house arose & wēt to hym to take him vp frō the erth. But he wolde not, nether yet eate meate with them.

And it hapened the seuenth daye that the child died. But ȳ seruaūtes of Dauid durst not tel him that the child was deed. For they sayd: le, while the chyld was yet alyue, we spake vnto hym, and he wolde not herken vnto oure voyce. How moche moare then wyll he vexe hym selfe yf we tell him that the chylde is deed? But Dauid sawe his seruauntes whysperinge and therby perceaued that the child was deed, & said vnto his seruauntz: is ȳ child deed, And they sayd ye. Then Dauid arose frō the erth and washed & anoynted hym selfe and chaunged his apparel, and went into the house of the lorde and prayed, & after came to hys owne house & bade that they shulde set meate before hym, & he dyd eate. Then sayd his seruaūtes vnto him: what is this ȳ thou hast done? Thou fastedeste and wepeste foz thy chyld while it was a lyue, and

C Ammon Dauids sonne dekileth his sister Thamar Absalom therfore kylleth Ammon and after fleeth away for feare of hys father.

The. xiii. Chapter.

A Nd it chaūced that Absalom Dauids sonne had a fayre syster nāmed Thamar, whō afterward Ammon another sōne of dauid loued. And this Ammon was so vexed that he fel sycke for the loue of his systet Thamar: for it thought him harde to come by hys purpose of her, seinge she was yet a vyrgyn. But Ammon had a cōpanion called Jonadab the sonne of Samah the brother of Dauid: whyche Jonadab was a verye wyse man. And he sayd vnto him how cometh it that thou being the Kinges sōnne art thus consumed euery morning? mayst thou not tell it me? And Ammon answered hym: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Then sayd Jonadab vnto him: lye on thy bedde and fayne thy selfe sycke. And whē thy father is come to se the, say vnto hym, let my sister Thamar come & geue me meate and dresse it in my syght, that I mays se it and eate it of her hand.

And Ammō laye downe & made him self sicke. And whē ȳ king was come to se him Ammō sayd vnto him: let Thamar my syster come & make me a couple of frytters in my syght, that I may eat of her hande. And Dauid sent home to Thamar saying go to thy brother Ammons house & dresse hym meat. Nowe Thamar came to her brother Ammons house he laye. And she toke flowre and made paste and made frytters in hys syght and dyd bake them, and toke a platter and powred them oute before hym. And Ammon wolde not eate, but commaunded to haue oute all men from hym. And they went all oute from hym.

Then sayd Ammon vnto Thamar: bringe the meate into the chambre that I maye eate of thyne hande. And Thamar toke the frytters whyche she hadde made, and broughte them into thee chāmbre too Ammon her brother and sette them before hym to eate. And he toke her and sayde vnto her, come lye wyth me my syster. And she answered hym: naye, my brother doo not force me, for it ought not too be so in Israel, doo not thys folly. * For whether shall I goo wyth my shame? And thou shalte be as one of thee fooles in Israell. But speake vnto the kyng & he shall not denye me vnto the.

heare her, but called his lad ꝑ wayted vpō him & sayd: put her out at the dores frō me & bolt the doze after her. And she had a kir tel of diuerse coloures vpō her: for wt soch were the kinges daughters ꝑ were virgi= nes appareled, made strayt vnto thē. Thē his seruaūt brought her out at the dores & C locked the doores after her. And Thamar put ashes on her head & rent her gaye kyr= tell that was on her & putt her hand on her head & so went & as she went cryed. Then Absalom her brother sayd vnto her: hathe Amnon thy brother bene wyth the? Nowe then be styl my syster: for he is thy brother And let not thys thyng greue thyne herte. And so Thamar remayned dis cōforted in her brother Absalōs house. And king Da uid heard of al these thinges & was verye wroth. And Absalom sayde vnto hys bro= ther Amnon nether good nor bad. How be it Absalō hated Amnō because he had for ced hys syster Thamar.

And it happened two yere after ꝑ Absa lom had a shepe shering in Baal Hazor be sydes the tribe of Ephraim, & bad all the kinges sonnes & he came to the king & say de: behold thy seruaūt hath a shepesherin= ge, let the king & hys seruaūtes come wyth thy seruaūt. And the king said vnto Absa lō: Oh naye my sonne let vs not go euery one of vs that we be not chargeable vnto ꝑ. And Absalō laye sore vpō him: how be it he wold not goo, but blessed him. Then sayd Absalō: then lett my brother Amnon go with vs. And the king answered what nedeth it that he go with the. But Absalō made soch instance that he let Amnon goo wyth hym, & all the kynges chyldren.

Then Absalō cōmaunded hys younge men saying: marke when Amnons hert is mery with wyne, & when I byd you smyte Amnon then kyl hym: feare not, for it is I that byd you, be bold ther fore & playe the lusty bloudes. And the young men of Ab= F salom serued Amnō euē as Absalō cōmaū ded thē. And all the kinges sonnes arose & toke eche man hys Mule & fled. And why le they were yet in the way, tydinges came to Dauid that Absalom had slayne al the kinges sonnes, so that none was left a ly= ue. Then the kynge arose and tare his gar mentes and laye alonge on the earth: and all hys seruauntes stoode by wythe theyr clothes rent. Then Jonadab the sonne of Samah Dauids brother answered and sayde: let not my Lorde suppose that they haue slayne all the young men the kinges sonnes, saue Amnon onely is dead. For ꝑ hath bene euer in Absaloms mouthe sence he forced his syster Thamar. Now therfo re lette not my Lorde the kynge take the thinge so greuously to thincke that al the kynges sonnes were dead, when Amnon onelye is dead. G

But Absalō fled. And the youge man ꝑ kept the watche lyfte vp hys eyes & loked about. And behold, ther came moch people by awaye that was behynde hys backe a= long by an hilles side. Thē said Jonadab vnto the kyng: behold, ꝑ kinges sonnes ar come, and as thy seruaunte sayde, so it is. And as sone as he had left speakinge: be= hold, the kinges sonnes came and lifte vp theyr voyces & wept. And therto the king and al his seruauntes wepte exceding lye. But Absalō escaped & wente to Tholmai the sōne of Amihud kyng of Gesur. And the king mourned for his sonne cōtinual= ly. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gesur, & was there. iii. yeres. And by that tyme the king turned hys mynde frō pur suing Absalō. For he had left mournynge for the death of Amnon.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Whē Joab the sōne of Zaruiah perceiued that ꝑ kinges hert A was turned again to Absalom, he sen te to Thekoa and fette thence a wise woman, and saide vnto her, feyne thy sel= fe to be a mourner, & put on mourning ap parel. And anoynt not thy self wt oyle, but be as a womā ꝑ had longe tyme mourned for ꝑ death of some body, And go to ꝑ kin ge & speake of this maner vnto him. And so Joab taught her what she shuld saye.

And whē the wife of Thekoa was come B to speake with the king, she fel on her face to ꝑ grounde & dyd obeysaūce & sayd: helpe me O king. And the kynge sayd vnto her what ayleth ꝑ? & she ānswered. I am a we= dow, and myne husband is deed. And thy hādmayde had two sōnes which fought to gether in ỹ feldes wher was noman to go betwene thē, & the one slewe the other. And behold, ỹ whole kinred arose agaynst thy hādmayde & said: deliuer vs him ỹ smote his brother: ỹ we may kil him for ỹ *soule of his brother who he slue, for we wyll de- stroy ỹ heyre also. And so they shal quēche my sparkle which is left ỹ he shal stere vp nether name or issue vpō the erth vnto my husbād. And the king sayd vnto the wyfe ℭ go hōme to thine house, & I wyl geue a char ge for ỹ. And ỹ womā of Thekoa said vn to ỹ king. My Lorde kyng, the trespace be on me & on my fathers house, & the king & hys seate be giltlesse. And thē sayd the kin ge: yf any man saye ought vnto the, bring hym to me, & he shall no more trouble the. Then sayd she: let the king remember hys Lord God, that the next of the bloude gea ther not on heapes to gether to destroye, & ỹ they slaye not my sonne. And he sayde as sure as the Lord lyueth, there shal not one heatre of thy sonnes head fall to the erth.

Then the womā sayd: let thine hādmay ℭ de speake one word more vnto my Lord ỹ kynge & he sayd: saye on. And the woman sayd wherfore then hast thou determyned on thys same maner against the people of god: that the king shuld speake this thing & be fautye therein, so that the kyng shuld not fett home agayne hys banesshed. For we must nedes dye and perysshe as water spylt on the grounde whych cānot be gea thered vp agayne & God wyll not take a- waye the lyfe but fynde the meanes that ỹ banysshed be not vtterly expelled frō hym. And now cōcerning ỹ I am come to spea ke of this thing vnto the king my Lord in the presence of the people: thy handmayde thoughte: suerlye I wyll speake vnto the kyng, paraduenture the kyng wyll heare the request of his handmayde. And the kin ℭ ge shal heare hys hādmayde & delyuer her out of the hande of the mā that wold haue destroyed me & my sonne also out of the en heritaunce of God. Then thine handmay de sayd: I praye God that the word of my Lord the king maye be *immutable. For my Lord the king is as an Angel of God in hearinge of good or badd: and therfore the Lord thy God be wyth the.

Thē the king answered & sayd vnto ỹ womā: hide not frō me I pray the: ỹ thing that I shal aske the. And the womā sayd: let my Lord the kyng say on. Then sayde the king. Is not the * hand of Joab with the in al this matter? And ỹ womā answe- red & sayd: as sure as thy soule lyueth my Lord king, it is * nether on the right hand nor on ỹ lefte that my Lord the kyng hath spokē. For thy seruaunt Joab he bad me, & he put all these wordes euē in the mouth of thyne handmayde. And the turning of my talc another way, ỹ made thy seruaūte Joab. And so I se that my Lorde is wyse euē as an Angell of God, to vnderstande all thinges that are in the earth. Thē sayd the king to Joab: behold, I am content to ℭ do this thing. Go therfore fett home ỹ lad Absalō. And Joab fel to the groūd on his face & bowed him self & * blessed the kyng and sayd: now thy seruaunt knoweth that I haue founde grace in thee syghte of my Lorde the kynge in that he hath fulfylled the request of hys seruaunt. And so Joab arose & went to Gesur & brought Absalō to Jerusalē. Then sayd the king: let hym turne to hys owne house, but se that he co- me not in my presence. ¶ Absalom maketh insurrection agaynst his father. Dauid is fayne to flee for feare of him

The. xv. Chapter.

AFter thys Absalom gatt hym charetes & horsses & fyfte mē to runne before him. And ther to he vsed to ryse vp earlye in the morninges & to stande by the wayes syde that led to the gate of thee cytte. And all the men of Israell that had cōplaynte & came to ỹ king for iudgemēt he called vnto him & sayde: of what cytye arte thou? And when the other answered: thy seruaunt is of soch a trybe of Israell. Thē sayd Absalom vnto hym: se, thy matter is good & ryghteousse, & yet no man is deputed of the kinge to heare the. Thē Absalom sayde moreouer: Oh, that I were a iudge in the land, & that al mē which haue pleyes & matter in the lawe, shuld come to me. For I wold do them iustice. And also when any mā came nye to hym to do hym obeysaunce, he put forth hys hand & toke hym to hym and kissed hym. And on thys maner dyd Absalom to all Israel that came to the kyng for iudgement, & therwith *stale the hartes of ỹ mē of Israel. And at fourtye yeres ende Absalom sayd vnto the king: let me go I praye the to Hebrō, & paye my vowe which I haue vowed, vnto the Lord: for thy seruaunt vowed a vowe when I was in Gesur in the land of Sitia saying: yf the lord shal bring me agayne to Jerusalē, I wyl serue the lorde. And the kynge sayd: go in peace. And so he arose and went to Hebron.

Then Absalom sent spies thorow oute al ỹ tribes of Israel saying: as sone as ye heare ỹ voyce of the trompett blowe, saye: Absalom raygneth kinge in Hebron. And with Absalom went two hundred mē oute of Jerusalem that were called. And they went wyth pure hertes and wist nothinge of the matter. And Absalom sente also for Ahithophel the Gelonite Dauids counseller, and fet him out of his citie Giloh, whē he sacrifyed sacrifyces. And there was wrought stronge treason. And the people drue to Absalom in great multitude. And there came a messenger to Dauid & sayde: the hartes of the men of Israel are to folowe Absalom. Then sayde Dauid vnto al his seruaūtes that were with him at Jerusalē: vp & let vs flee, for we shall not else escape from Absalom. Make spede to departe: lest he come sodenly & catche vs & bringe some mischeue vpon vs, & smyte the citie with the edge of the swerd. And the kinges seruaūtes sayd to hym: behold thy seruauntes are redy to what soeuer my Lord the kynge shal appoynte.

And the king & al his houshold departed a fote. And he left behindhim. x. wiues that were his * concubines, to kepe ỹ house. And so the kinge & al the people wente out a fote & taryed farre frō ỹ house. And al his seruaūtes went by his syde. And all the Cerethites & all the Pheletheites, & all the Gethites cuen. vi. hundred men whych were come a fote frō Geth, wēt before the king. Then sayd the kyng to Ethai ỹ Gethite, wherfore shouldest thou go with vs also? Returne & abide wyth the kinge, for thou art a straūger & art remoued frō thyne owne place. Thou camest but yesterday and shuld I vnquiet the to daye to go wi vs? I wyl go whether I go. But returne thou & carie agayne thy brethrē. Mercy & truth be with the. And Ethai answered the kyng & sayd: as surely as the lord lyueth, & as surely as my lorde the king lyueth, in what place my Lord the king shalbe, whether in death or lyfe, euen there wyl thy seruaūt be. Then sayd the king to Ethai, come & go forward. And Ethai the Gethite went forth, & all his men, & all the children that were wyth hym. And al the countreye wepte wyth a lowde voyce. And al ỹ people went forwarde the strayghte waye to the wildernes. And behold, Sadock & al ỹ Leuites were wt him & bare the arcke of ỹ appoyntmēt of god. And whē they had set downe the arke of god, Abiathar came vp vntyll the people were all come ouer oute out of the cytie. Then sayd the kynge vnto Sadock. Carye the Arke of God agayne into the citie. Yf I shal fynd fauour in the eyes of the lord, he wyl bring me agayne, & shewe me both it & the tabernacle therof also. But and yf the Lord thus saye: I haue no luste vnto the. Beholde, here am I, lett hym do wyth me what seemeth beste in hys eyes.

The king sayd also vnto Sadock the preest: thou art a Seär. Returne therfore into the citie in peace. And take youre two sonnes with you: Ahimaaz thy sonne, & Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar. And see, I wyll tarye in the feldes of the wyldernesse vntyll ther come some worde from you to be tolde me. And so Sadock & Abiathar carved the Arke of God agayne to Jerusalem, & they tarved ther. And Dauid wēt vp on mount olyuet & wepte as he went, & had his head couered & wēt thetto barefote. And all the people that was wyth hym, had euery man hys head coueted, and as thei went wepte also. And one told Dauid saying: Ahithophel is one of them that haue conspyred wyth Absalom. Then sayde Dauid: O Lord, turne the councell of Ahithophel into folisshnes:

Whē Dauid was come to the top of ỹ mount & had bowed him selfe vnto God: behold, Husai the Arachite came agaynste him wt his coote torne & erth vpō his head Unto whō Dauid sayd: yf thou go withe me thou shalt be a burthen vnto me. And yf thou returne to the cytie: thē shalt thou saye vnto Absalom I wyl be thy seruaūt O king: thus lōg haue I bene thy fathers seruaūt, & now I am thyne. And destroye me the counsel of Ahithophel. And ỹ haste ther with the Sadock & Abiathar the preestes, vnto which thou shalt shew al ỹ thou canst heare out of the kinges house. And behold, ye haue ther with you theyr .ij. sonnes: Ahimaaz Sadockes sonne, & Jonathas Abiathars sonne, by whyche ye shall send me all that ye can heare. And so Husai Dauids frend gatte hym to the cytie. And Absalom also entred into Jerusalē.

Ziba bringing presentes to Dauid, doth falsely accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid & hurleth stones at him. Absalō by the councel of Ahithophel lyeth with his fathers concubynes.

The .xvi. Chapter.

And whē Dauid was a lyttle past the top of the hyl: behold Ziba the seruaūt of Miphiboseth came agaynst hym wt a couple of Asses sadelled, & vpō the .ij. hūdred loues & one hūdred bōches of Resinges, & an hundred frayles of dryed figges, & a bottel of wyne. Thē sayd the kinge to Ziba: what haste thou there? And Ziba sayd: Asses for the kinges housholde to ryde on, & bread & fruyte for the young men to eate, and wyne to drynke, yf any man faynt in the wyldernesse. Then sayd the king: wher is thy masters sonne? and Ziba sayd vnto the king: beholde, he tarryeth styl at Jerusalē. For he sayd: this daye shal the house of Israel restore me ỹ kingdom of my father. Thē sayd the king to Ziba: behold, thyne ar al that pertayned vnto Miphiboseth. And Ziba answered: I beseche the that I maye fynde grace in thy syght my Lord kinge.

And whē kynge Dauid came to Bahurim: behold, thence came oute a man of the kindrede of the house of Saul named Semei the sonne of Gera & he came oute cursing. And therto he caste stones at Dauid and at al the seruaūtes of king Dauid, al the people & all the men of warre goynge part on his right hand, & part on his lefte. And thus sayd this Semei as he cursed: come forth, come forth, thou bloud sheder & thou vnthryftie mā. The lord hath brought vpon the al the bloud of the house of Saul, in whose stede thou hast raygned, & he hath deliuered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom thy sonne. And thou art wrapped about wyth thyne owne myschefe, because thou art a bloudsheder.

Thē sayd Abisai the sonne of Zaruiah vnto the king: why doth this dead dogge curse my Lord the kinge? let me go & take of the head of him. And ỹ king sayd: what haue I to do wt you ye sōnes of Zaruiah let him curse: for the lord hath bidde hym curse curse Dauid. And who dare presume to say wherfore doth he so? And Dauid said to Abisai & to al his seruaūtes: behold, my sonne whych came oute of myne owne bowelles seketh my lyfe. Howe moche more then may thys sone of Jemini do it? Suffre hym therfore to curse, for ỹ Lord hath bidde him: haply ỹ Lorde wyl loke on my wretchednes, & do me good for his cursinge this day. And thus as Dauid & his mē wēt by the waye. Semei wēt along on the hilles syde ouer agaynst him, & cursed as he went, and threw stones at hym and cast dust. And the King and al that were with hym came wery, and refreshed them selues there.

And Absalō & al the people of the men of Jsrael came to Jerusalē & Ahithophell with hym. And as soone as he was come: Husai the Arachite went vnto Absalom & D sayde vnto hym: God saue the kyng, God saue the kyng. And Absalom sayd agayn to Husai: is this the kindnesse thou owest to thy frend? Why wentest thou not with hym? And Husai sayd vnto Absalom: nay not so, but whō the Lorde & thys people & al the men of Jsrael chose, his wyl I be, & with him wyll I dwell. And forthermore vnto whō shal I do seruice but cuē to his sonne? And as I was seruāt before wyth thy father, euen so shal I be with the. Thē spake Absalō to Ahithophel geue councel what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom: get the in vnto thy fathers * cōcubines which he hath left to kepe the house. For whē al Jsrael shal heare that thou hast made thy father to stincke, then shal the handes of al that ar with the be strong. And so they pitched Absalom a tent vpō the * toppe of the house. And he went in vnto hys fathers concubynes in the syght of all Jsraell.

And the coūcel of Ahithophel which he coūceled in those dayes, was as a mā had asked councell of God: euen so was al the councell of Ahithophel, both vnto Dauid and also vnto Absalom.

THen Ahithophel sayd vnto Absalom: let me A chose out I praye the twelue thousandiē. And I wyll vp & folowe after Dauid by nyght. And I wyl come vppon him whyle he is werye & weake handed, & wyll feare hym, that all the people that are wyth him shal flee. And so wyl I smyte the kyng on ly, & wyl bring agayne al the people vnto the. And when all these men whyche thou sekest are turned to the, al the people shall haue rest. And the saying pleased Absalō well and all the elders of Jsrael. Thē sayde Absalō: call also Husai thee Arachite & let vs heare hys sentence. When Husai was come to Absalom, Absalō spake vnto him saying: Ahithophel hath geuē soch councel: whether it be best we do after hys sayinge or not, tell thou.

Then sayd Husai to Absalom: the coū cell ỹ Ahithophel hath geuen is not good at this tyme. For (sayde Husai) thou know- B west thy father & the mē that are with him how that they be strong men. And they be chafed in theyr myndes, euen as a * Beare robbed of her whelpes. And thy father is a man practised in warre, & wyll not lye a nyghtes among the comen people. The. xviii. Chapter.

A Nd ỹ kynge nōbzed ỹ people that were with hym, and sett captaynes of thousādes and of hūdzedes ouer them. And he sēt one part of thē wb Joab, & a nother parte wyth Abisai the sōne of Zaruiah Joabs bzother, & the thyrde part with Ethai the Gethite. And ỹ kinge sayd vnto the people: shall J go wb you? And the people answered: naye, foz yf we fle, oure aduersaryes wyl not care foz vs: nether thoughe halfe of vs were slayne, shall they regarde vs. But thou were wozth ten thousande of vs. And therto it is better ỹ thou be readye to succoure vs out of ỹ cytie. Then sayd the kyng: what semeth you best, that wyll J do.

And the kyng stode by the gates syde, & al the people came out by hundzedes & B by thousādes. And the kyng cōmaunded Joab Abisai, & Ethai saying: intreate me gently my sonne Absalō. And al the people heard whē the king gaue all the captaines charge ouer Absalō. And the people wēt out into the felde against Jsrael, & the battel was in ỹ woode of Ephzaim. Wher ỹ people of Jsrael were put to the wozsse before ỹ seruaūtz of Dauid, & ther was a great slaughter ỹ day, euē of twentie thousād men. And ỹ felde was fought in diuerse places, all abzoade vpō ỹ erthe.

And the woodes deuoured moo people yͤ daye than dyd the swerde. And it chaũced Absalom to come before the seruauntes of Dauid rydyng vpon a Mule whyche carryed hym vnder the thycke bowes of a great Ocke. And hys heed caughte in the Oke, & he was lefte betwene heuẽ & erth, and the Mule that was vnder him went hys waye. And one that saw it tolde Joab saying: beholde, I saw Absalom hang in an Ocke: and Joab sayde vnto hym that told him: lo, sawest yͤ him? And why didest not thou there smyte him to the ground, yͤ I shuld haue geuẽ yͤ ten sicles of syluer & a soudyoures gyrdle.

And the man answered Joab: though I had a thousand sicles of siluer tolde in my hande yet wolde I not stretche oute myne hande agaynste the kynges sonne. For we heard vͤ oure eares whẽ the king charged yͤ, Absai and Ethai, saying: spare me the lad Absalõ. Moreouer thoughe I had ieoparded my life & done falsly therto, yet could nought of al the matter haue bene hid frõ the kynge: ye & thou thy selfe woldest be agaynst me. Thẽ sayd Joab* I may not stand tarying with the.

That is, it is not beste yͤ Ioab is with the, & loke yͤ thou shuldest go kyll hym.

And therwythe he toke thre speares in hys hand & thrust thẽ into the hart of Absalom, while he was yet a lyue on yͤ bodye of yͤ tree. And ten seruaũtes that bare Joabs wepõs, turned & smote Absalom and slue him. Then Joab blew a trõpet, & the people returned frõ folowing Israel: for Joab spared yͤ people. And they toke Absalõ & cast him into a great pit yͤ was in yͤ wood, and cast a mightye greate heape of stones vpon him. And all Israel fled euery mã to his tent. And thys Absalom yet in his life tyme, toke & reared vp a pyler, which is yet in kynges dale. For he sayd: I haue no male chylde. And therefore to kepe my name in remẽbrance do I it. And he called ypiler after his owne name. And it is called vnto this day, Absalõs pyller.

Then sayd Amiaaz yͤ sõne of Sadock: let me runne I pray the, & beare the kyng tydinges, how that yͤ Lorde hath iudged him quyte of the hãdes of al his enemies. And Joab said vnto him: thou art no mã to beare tydinges to day: thou shalt beare tydynges a nother tyme: but to daye thou shalt beare none, because yͤ kynges sonne is deed. Then sayde Joab to Chusi: go & tel yͤ kyng what thou hast sene. And Chusi bowed him self vnto Joab & rãne. Thẽ sayde Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock agaĩne to Joab: come what come wil, let me rũne I praye the after Chusi. And Joab sayd: wherfore shuldest thou rũne my sõne? for & thou rũne thou gettyst no rewarde: wel come what wyl let me runne. And he said vnto him: rũne. Thẽ Ahimaaz rãne by the playne and ouer ranne Chusi.

And Dauid sat betwene the two gates. And the watchmen went vp to the rouffe ouer the gate vnto the walle, and lyft vp his eyes and saw: and behold, there came a man runnyng alone. And the watchmã called & tolde the kynge. And the kynge sayde: yͤ he come alone, ther is tydynges in his mouth. And he came and drew nye. And the watchmã saw a nother man runnyng, and called vnto the porter & sayde: behold ther cometh a nother runnynge alone. And the king answered: he is also a tidinges bringer. And yͤ watchmã said: me thinketh the rũning of the formost is like the rũning of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock. And the king sayd: he is a good mã & cometh vͤ good tidynge. And Ahimaaz called and sayd to the kynge: good tydinges, and bowed him selfe to the erthe vpon hys face before the kynge and sayde: blessed be the Lorde thy God which hath *shut vp al yͤ mẽ that lifte vp their hãdes agaynst my Lord the king. And the king saide: is the lad Absalom safe? And Ahimaaz ãswered I saw a greate a do, when the kinges seruaũt Joab sent me thy seruaũt. But I wotte not what it was. And the kyng sayd: turne and stand here. And he turned and stode.

*That is, cut short.

And behold Chusi came and said: tidinges my Lorde the kyng, the Lorde hathe quytte the thys day out of the handes of all that rose agaynste the. And the kynges sayde to Chusi: is the lad Absalom safe? And Chusi answered the enemyes of my lord the kynge & all that ryse agaynst the, to haue the, be as thy lad is. And the king was moued & wẽte vp to a chãbre ouer yͤ gate & wept. And as he wẽt thus he said: my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne, my sonne Absalõ wold to god I had died for the Absalom, my sonne, my sonne.

Dauid

The.xix. Chapter.

A ¶ And it was told Joab, how ye the king wept & mourned for Absalō. And the victory was turned that daye into mourning vnto al the people. For the people heard say that day, how ye kinge sorowed for hys sōne, & the people wēt stealynge into the cytye, as people confoū ded stele awaye, when they flee in battel. And the kynge hyd hys face and cryed w a loude voyce: my sonne Absalom Absalom my sonne my sonne.

And Joab went into ye house to ye king & saide: thou hast shamed thys day the faces of al thy seruaūtes, whych thys daye haue saued thy lyfe, & the liues of thy sōnes & daughters, & ye lyues of thy wyues & cōcubines, in ye louest thine enemyes & hatest thy frendes. Thou hast declared thys day ye thou camest nether for thy lordes nor seruaūtz. For this daye I do per-
B ceaue, yt Absalō had lyued, & all we dyed this day, ye thē it had pleased ye wel. Nowe therfore vp & come out, & speake kindly vnto thy seruaūtes, I swere by ye lord except ye come out, ther wyl not tary one mā with the this nyght. And that wilbe worsse vnto the, thē al the euell that fell on the from thyne youthe vnto thys houre. Then the kyng arose and sat downe in ye gate. And it was tolde vnto all the people, howe the kynge satte in the Gate. And then all the people came before the king. But Israell fled euery man to his tent.

And all the people were at stryfe thorow out al the tribes of Israel saying: the kyng delyuered vs out of the hād of oure enemyes. And he deliuered vs out of the hād of the philistines. And now he is fled out of the lāde for Absalō. But Absalom whō we anoynted ouer vs is deed in bat-
C tel. Now therfore why at ye so stil, that ye bring not the king againe. And king Dauid sēt to Sadock & Abiathar the prestes saying: speake vnto the elders of Juda & say: why shuld ye be the last ye shuld bringe againe ye king to his house, seig ye soch tidinges is come frō al Israel vnto ye kinge euē to his house: ye are my brethrē, my bones and my flesche: wherfore then shuld ye be the last that shulde come to bryng ye kyng home agayne? And saye to Amasa: art thou not my bone and my flesche? And god do so to me & so therto: except thou be captaine of ye host to me for euer in ye roume of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of al the mē of Juda, as a man wolde bowe the herte* of one man: so ye they sēt worde to the kynge, that he shulde returne w all his seruaūtes. And the king returned and came to Jordā. And Juda came to galgal for to go against the king to cōuey him ouer Jordan. And Semei* ye sōne of Gera the sōne of Jemini which was of Bahuri, hasted & came w ye mē of Juda against king Dauid, & a thousād mē of Beniamin w him, & * Ziba the seruaūte of the house of Dauid & hys .xv. sonnes and twentye seruauntes wyth him. And they whypt ouer Jordā before the kyng. And ther wēt ouer a Bott to carye ouer the kynges hou sholde and to do hym pleasure.

And Semei the sonne of Gera fell be-D fore the kyng, as he was come ouer Jordan & sayd vnto him: let not my lorde impute wickednes vnto me, ner let hym not remēber the wyckednesse ye thy seruaunte did, whē my Lord the kyng departed out of Jerusalem that the kinge shuld take it to hert. For thy seruaūt dothe know how that I haue done amisse. And therfore behold, I am the first this day of al ye house of Joseph ye am come to mete my lord the king. But Abisai the sōne of Zatuiah ā-swered & sayd: shall Semei not die for ye cause: which cursed the Lordes anointed? And the kyng sayde: what matter is betwene you & me ye sonnes of Zatuiah, ye ye shuld this day beaduersaries vnto me? Ther shal no mā dye thys daye in Israel: for I know that I am this day kynge ouer Israel. And the kyng said vnto Semei: thou shalt not dye, & swore vnto him.

And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul
E came to mete ye king, & had nether dressed his fete ner shauē his beerde ner washed his clothes from the time the king departed, vntil he came againe i peace. And whē he was come to Jerusalē toward thee kinge, the king said vnto him: wherfore wente not ye w me Miphiboseth? And he said: my lord kig, my seruaūt deceaued me. For thy seruaunte sayde: that I wolde haue myne Asse sadled to ride therō, for to go to ỹ kig, because thy seruaūt is lame. And he hath therto cōplained on my seruaūt vnto my lord ỹ kig. But my lord ỹ kinge is as an angell of God: do therfore what semeth best in thine eyes. For al my fathers house were but deedmē vnto my lord ỹ kinge: & yet didest ỹ put me amōge thē ỹ eate at thine owne table. What right therfore haue I yet, to crie any more vnto ỹ kyng? And ỹ kig said: it needeth ỹ not to speake any more, for I haue sayde: ỹ thou & Ziba shal deuide ỹ lādes betwene you. And Miphiboseth sayd vnto ỹ kyng: yee let hi take al: for so moche as my lord the kinge is come in peace vnto hys owne house.

¶ And Berselai ỹ galaadite came frō Rogeli & wēt ouer Jordā wt ỹ kyng to accōpanie hi ouer Jordā: which Berselai was a very aged mā, euē foure skore yeres old, & had prouided ỹ kig of sustenaūce while he lay at Mahanaim: for he was a mā of very great substaūce. And ỹ king said vnto Berselai: come ỹ wt me, ỹ I may fede ỹ wt me i Jerusalē. But Berselai said vnto ỹ king of what age am I of, ỹ I shuld go wt ỹ kig into Jerusalē. I am this day foure skore yere old: & therfore cānot decerne sauery frō vnsauery, nether hath thy seruaūt te pleasure in ỹ he eateth or drincketh: nor yet delectaciō in ỹ sōgs of mē or womē. It is no nede ỹ thy seruaūt be a burthē vnto my lord ỹ kynge: let thy seruaūt go a litle way ouer Jordā wt ỹ king: for why shuld ỹ kyng rēder me soche a reward? But let thy seruaūt turne back agayne, ỹ I maye die in mine owne citye, by the graue of my father and mother. But lo here is thy seruaūt Chamaā: let him go wt my lorde the king, & do to hym, what shal please the.

¶ And ỹ kyng āswered: Chamaam shall go wt me. And I wyl do to hym that thou shalt be cōtent wt. And therto whatsoeuer thou shalt require of me, that same wyl I do for the. And al the people wēt ouer Jordā. And whē ỹ king was come ouer Jordā, he kissed Berselai & toke hys leaue of him, & he wēt back againe vnto his owne place. And then the king wēt to Galgal, & Chamaam went wt him. Now al the men of Juda were at the bringing ouer of the king, and but halfe the men of Israel.

¶ Wherfore al the mē of Israel came to ỹ kig & said vnto hym: why haue oure brethren the men of Juda stolen the away & haue brought the kig & his housholde & al Dauids men wt him ouer Jordā? And al the mē of Juda āswered ỹ men of Israel. For ỹ kig is nere of kynne to vs: wherfore be ye angrye for that matter? thynke ye ỹ we eate of the kinges cost, or ỹ the king geueth vs any gyftes? And ỹ men of Israel āswered the men of Juda & said: we haue tē partes in the kynge, & haue therto more right to Dauid then ye. Why then did ye despise vs, that oure aduise had not bene first had in restoryng our kynge agayne? And the wordes of the mē of Juda were fearcer thē the wordes of the mē of Israel

The. xx. Chapter.

AND there happened to be an vnthristie felow named Seba ỹ sōne of Bochri a mā of Gemini which blew a trōpet & said: we haue no part i Dauid, nor enheritaūce in the sonne of Isai; O Israel, lette vs departe therfore euerye mā to hys tent. And all Israell went from Dauid & folowed Seba the sonne of Bochri. But the mē of Juda claue fast vnto the king, from Jordan to Jerusalem.

¶ And whē Dauid was come to his house to Jerusalem, he toke the tē wiues his cōcubines ỹ he had left behinde hi to kepe ỹ house, & put thē in warde & mynystred all thynges vnto them: but lay no moare wt thē. And so they were enclosed vnto ỹ day of the death of thē, & liued a widowes life.

¶ Then said the king to Amasa: cal me ỹ men of Juda togeather wt in thre daies & present thy selfe here. And Amasa went to gether the men of Juda together: but taried lōger thē ỹ time which was apoynted him. Wherfore ỹ kig said to Abisai: now shal Seba ỹ sōne of bochri be wors to vs then Absalō. Take ỹ therfore thy *lordes seruaūts & folow after hi: lest he gett hym walled cities & escape vs. And ther wente out after him Joabs mē & ỹ Cerethites & ỹ Phelethites & ỹ mē of mighte. And they departed out of Jerusalē to folowe after Seba ỹ sonne of Bochri. And when they were come to the great stone in Gabaō, Amasa met thē. And Joab had hys garmēt that

And Amasa toke no hede to the knyfke ȳ was in Joabs hād, wᵗ which Joab smote hym in the short rybbes & shed out his bo welles to ȳ groūd and smote hym but one strocke, and he dyed. pro.xxvii.a

D And thē Joab & Abisai his brother fo lowed after Seba ȳ sōne of Bochri. And one of Joabs mē ȳ stode by hī sayd: what is he ȳ he wolde be as Joab, & what is he ȳ wold be vnto dauid istede of Joab? And Amasa lay walowig in bloud in ȳ midd of ȳ way. And ther was a mā that saw all the people stād styl. And whē he sawe that * al ȳ came by hī stode stil, he rowled Amasa out of ȳ way into the feld & cast a cloth vpō hym. And as sone as he was tōbeled out of the way, al ȳ people wēt after Joab, to folow after Seba ȳ sōne of bochri. 2.Reg.xx.c

E And he wēt thorow all the trybes of Israel vnto Abel, Bethmaacah & al Barim. And ȳ people gethered vnto hī & wēt also after hym. And they came & beseged hī in Abel bethmaacah. And they cast vp a bāc ke against ȳ citie. And it was beseged. Al ȳ people ȳ was wᵗ Joab laborēd busely e to ouer throw the wal. Then cried a wyse womā oute of the citie, heare heare, byd I pray you Joab that he come hither, that I may speake wᵗ hī. When Joab was come the womā said: art thou Joab? And Joab F āswered yam I. And she said to hī: heare ȳ wordz of thy hādmaid? And he said: I am ready to heare. And she said: it hath ben a comē saying in the olde time, men* muste aske of Abel, & then go to and fynysche the worck. Abel is one of the quietest & faith= fullest cities ȳ are in Israel. And Joab āswered & said: god forbid, God forbid it me, ȳ I shuld ether deuow= re or destroy it. The matter is not so: But there is a mā of mount Ephraim, Seba ȳ sōne of Bochri by name, which hath* lifte vp his hād against king Dauid. Deliuer ys him only, & I wyl depart frō the citie, That is to become ad uersaries enemye

And the womā said vnto Joab: Behold, his heed shalbe throwē thorow the wal to the. And thē the womā wente vnto all the people* in her wisdom. And they smote of the heed of Seba ȳ sōne of Bochri, & cast it to Joab. THen ther fel an hongre in the dayes of Dauid thre yeres, yere by yere. And Dauid en quired of ȳ lord. And ȳ lorde āswered: it is for Sauls sa= ke & ȳ house of bloude, because he slue the Gabaonites. And ȳ king called ȳ Gabaonites & said vnto thē. Now these Gabaō nites ar not of ȳ childrē of Israel, but a rē naūt of ȳ Ammorites, & ȳ childrē of Isra el sware vnto thē. And yet Saul soughte to sley them, for a zele ȳ he had to the chyl= dren of Israel & of Juda. Wherfore Da uid said vnto thē: what shal I do for you= & wherwith shal I content you ȳ ye may *blesse the enheritaunce of the Lord. That is fa uoure & fa ther by. As in Gal.xxvi.a

And the Gabaonites said vnto him: we haue no matter of syluer or of gold wyth Saul or wᵗ his house: nether haue we a= ny mā ȳ we wold kil i Israel. Thē he saide: what say ye ȳ I shal do for you? But the king had cōpassion on Miphi boseth the sōne of Jonathas, the sonne of Saul, because of ȳ lordes othe that was betwene thē: ȳ is to saye betwene Dauid & Jonathas ȳ sōne of Saul. But he toke

the two sones of Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah which she bare vnto Saul, Armoni & Miphiboseth, & the fiue sonnes of Michol ꝑ daughter of Saul which she bare to Adriel ꝑ sone of Berselat ꝑ Molathite, & deliuered thē vnto the hādes of the Gabeonites, which hāged thē in ꝑ hill before the lord. And they fel all seuen to geather in ꝑ first dayes of heruest: euē in ꝑ beginnyng of Barley heruest.

And Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah toke Sackclothe & spred it vnder her vpō the Rocke, euē frō ꝑ begining of haruest vntill raine dropped vpō thē out of heuen & suffered nether ꝑ birdes of ꝑ Aire to fal on thē by day nor beastes of the felde by night. And whē it was told Dauid what Rezphah ꝑ daughter of Aiah ꝑ cōcubyne of Saul had done, he wēt & toke ꝑ bones of Saul & of Jonathas his sōne, of ꝑ unē of Jabes in Galaad, which they had stolē frō ꝑ strete of Bethsā, wher ꝑ Philistines had hāged thē in ꝑ dayes whē ꝑ philistins had slaine saul i Gelboe. And he brought thēce ꝑ bones of Saul & the bones of Jonathas his sōne, & they fet away ꝑ bones of thē that were hāged & buryed thē with the bones of Saul & Jonathas his sonne in the cōtrey of Bēiamin, in Zela, in ꝑ sepulchre of Cis his father. And when they had performed al ꝑ the kyng cōmaūded, God was then at one with the lande.

And ꝑ Philistines had yet againe warre wꝫ Israel. And Dauid went downe & his seruaūtes wꝫ him, & fought with ꝑ Philistines. And Dauid wared faintle, & Jesbi of *Nob one of the sōnes of *Haraphah whose speare hed waied thre hūdred sycls of Brasse, & was gyrd with a new swerde thought to haue slaine dauid. ¶ The Canticle or song of Dauid for ꝑ deliuerance from his enemyes.

The. xxii. Chapter.

AND Dauid spake ꝑ wordes of this sōg vnto the lorde, what tyme ꝑ lord had deliuered hi out of the hādes of all his enemies, & out of ꝑ hādes of saul.

And he said: the Lord is my rocke, my castel & my deliuerer. God is my strēgth, & in him wil I trust: my shyld & the horne that defēdeth me: mine hie hold & refuge: O my Sauer, saue me from wronge.

I wyl prayse & cal on the lord, & so shall be saued from myne enemyes. For ꝑ waues of deeth haue closed me aboute, & the flodes of belial haue feared me. The cordes of hel haue cōpased me about, & ꝑ snares of deth haue ouertake me. In my tribulacīō I called to the lord, & cried to my God. And he heard my voyce out of his tēple, & my crye entered into his eares. And ꝑ erth trimbeled & quoke, & the foūdacions of heuē moued & shoke, because he was angrie.

Smoke wēt vp out of his nostrelles, & consuming fyre out of his mouth, ꝑ coles were kēdled of him. And he bowed heuē & came downe, & darckneſſe vnder neth hys fete. And he rode vpon Cherub & flewe: & apered vpon the winges of the wid. And he made darckneſſe a tabernacle round about hym, wꝫ water gethered togeather in thycke cloudes. Of the bryghtnes, ꝑ was before hym, coles were sett on fyre.

The Lord thundred from heuen, & the most hye put out hys voyce. And he shot arowes & skatered them, and hurled lyghtenyng & turmoyled thē. And the bottome of the see appered, and the foūdacyons of the worlde were sene, by the reason of the rebukynge of the Lorde, and thorowe the blastynge of the breeth of hys nostrelles. He sēt from an hye & fet me, & plucked me out of myghtye waters.

He

He delliuered me frō my mightie enemy, & frō the that hated me & were to stronge for me. Whē they had compased me in the day of my tribulatiō, the Lorde stayed me vp. And he brought me out into rowmeth & delyuered me, because he delyted in me.

¶ The lord rewarded me according to my rightwysnes, & according to the pureneſſe of my hādes he dealt with me. For I kept the wayes of the Lord, & dyd no wyckednes forsaking my God. But I had al his lawes in my sight, & turned my face from none of his ordināces. But was pure vnto hi ward, & kept my selfe frō wickednes.

And the Lord dyd to me agayne, according to my righteowysnes, & after my pure nes that I had in his sight. With the holy thou shalt be holy, & wyth the man that is vncorrupte, ÿ shalt be vncorrupt. With ÿ pure ÿ shalt be pure, & with the froward ÿ shalt be froward also. And the people that ar in aduersite thou shalt help. And on the proude shalt thou caste thyne eyes. Thou art my light O Lord, & the lord shal light my darkenesse.

With thy helpe I will runne thorow an hoste of mē, & by the ayde of my God wyl spring ouer a walle. The *way of God is vndefyled, & the word of the lord fined as gold, & he a shilde to al that trust in hym.

Who is a god saue the Lord, and who mightie saue our god? God is my strēgth in warre, & ryddeth the waye cleare before me. And maketh my fete as swyfte as an hindes & setteth me fast vpō my hye hold.

And teacheth my hādes to fight, ÿa bowe of brasse is to weake for myne armes.

And thou hast saued me with thy shyld, & keppest me euer in meakenes. And thou madest me space to walke in, that my fete should not stōble. I followed myne enemies & destroyed thē, & turned not agayn vntyl I had consumed them.

I wasted thē & so clouted thē, that they could not aryse: but fell vnder my fete.

And ÿ compasedest me about wt might to battel, & madest them that rose agaynst me to stoupe vnder me.

And ÿ madest myne enemies to *turne theyr backes to me, & them that hated me, & I destroyed them. They loked for helpe But none came to saue thē vnto the Lord they cryed, but he heard them not.

And I wyl beate them as small as the dust of ÿ erth, & wyl stāpe thē as the dyrte of the strete, & wyll spreade them abroade.

And ÿ delyuerdst me frō the dyssenciō of my people, & kepest me to be an head ouer nacīōs, for the people whych I knewe not be came my seruauntes.

And the alientes crouched vnto me, and obeyed me at a word.

And the alyentes ÿ shrinke away shall trēble for feare in theyr *defenced places.

The lord lyue, & blessed be he that is my strength: & exalted be God ÿ strength that saueth me. It is God that aduēgeth me, & bringethe downe ÿ people vnder me. And delyuereth me frō myne enemies, thou lyftest me vp on hye frō thē that ryse against me, & delyuerest me from the wicked men.

And therfore I wyl prayse the O Lord amōg the heathē, & wil sing vnto thy name. For thy great & manifold sauīg of the kyng, & shewing mercy vnto thyne anoynted, cuē to Dauid, & hys sede for euer.

That is, in ther where they lurke and hide thē selues al though in stronge holdes

AND the Lorde was wroth a= gaine against Israel, & stered A vp Dauid against thē saying go & nombre both Israel and Juda. And forth with ȳ king sayde to Joab the captayne of hys Hoste:
go abroade I praye the, thorow out al the

trybes of Israel, euē frō Dan to Berſabe & nōbre the people that I maye know the nōbre of thē. And Joab ſayd vnto ỹ king I beſeche ỹ the Lorde thy God make the people as many moo as they be: ye & an. C tymes ſo many moo, & that the eyes of my lord ỹ king may ſe thē. But how is it ỹ my lord ỹ king hath a luſt in this thing? not wtſtādyng ỹ kinges wordes preuailed againſt Joab & againſt al ỹ captaynes of ỹ hoſte.

Thē Joab & the captaynes of the hoſte went out frō the king, to telle the people of Israel. And they paſſed ouer Jordā & pitched i Aroer on the right ſyde of the citie ỹ lieth in the myddes of the valey of Gad & ſo forth to Jazer, And thē they wēt to Galaad & to the nether lande of Hodeſi, & frō thence to Dan Jaan, & aboute to Sidon, & came to the ſtronge towne of Tyre, & to al the cyties of the Heuites & of the Cananites, & thē wēt out to the South of Juda euē to Berſabe: And ſo whē they had ben abroade thorowout al ỹ lande they returned to Jeruſalē agayne at the ende of .ix. monethes & .xx. dayes. And thē Joab deliuered vp the rekeninge of the nōbre of the people vnto ỹ king. And ther were foūd in Israel .xx. hūdred thouſand men of might that drew ſwerdes. And the men of Juda were fyue hundred thouſand men.

And Dauids hert ſmote him after that he had nōbred the people. And he ſayd vnto the Lord: I haue ſinned exceedingly in ỹ I haue done. And now Lord take awaye the treſpace of thy ſeruāt: for I haue done foliſhlye. And when Dauid was vp in a morning, the word of the Lord came vnto the prophet Gad Dauids ſeār ſaying: go and ſaye vnto Dauid, thys ſayth the lord I offer the thre thinges, chooſe whych of thē I ſhal do to the.

And Gad came to Dauid & ſhewed him & ſayd vnto him: whether wylte thou haue vij. yeres hūger in thy lād, or that thou flee thre monethes before thyne enemies & thei folowing the, or that ther be thre dayes peſtilence in thy lāde. Now vnderſtand and ſe, what word I ſhal bring agayne to him that ſent me. Thē ſayd Dauid vnto Gad I am in a marueylous ſtrayte. But let me fal I pray the, into the handes of the Lord for moch is his mercy, and let me not falle into the handes of men.

And the Lord ſent a peſtilēce in Israell frō the morning vnto the ende of the tyme apointed. And there died of the people betwene Dan & Berſabe. lxx. thouſand men And whē the angel ſtretched out his hand vnto Jeruſalē to haue deſtroyed it, ỹ lorde had cōpaſſion to do that euel, & ſayd to the Angel that deſtroyed the people: it is ſufficient: let thyne hand ceaſe. And the Angell was at ỹ threſſinge place of Areunah the Jebuſite. Thē ſpake Dauid vnto the lord whē he ſaw the Angel ỹ ſmote the people, and ſayd: loo, it is I that haue ſynned, and I that haue done wickedly. But the ſhepe what haue they done? let I pray the thyne hand be on me and on my fathers houſe.

And Gad came the ſame day to Dauid & ſayd vnto him: go vp & reare an aultare vnto the lord in the threſſing flowre of Areunah the Jebuſite. And Dauid accordinge to the ſaying of Gad wēt vp as ỹ lorde cōmaunded. And when Areunah loked & ſawe the king & his ſeruaūtes coming towarde hym, he went out: & bowed him ſelf to the king flat on his face to the grounde, & ſayd: wherfore is my Lord the king come to his ſeruaunt? And Dauid ſayd: to bye the threſſing flowre of the, for to make an aultare vnto the Lord that the plage may ceaſe from the people.

And Areunah ſayde vnto the kinge: lett my lord the king take & offer what ſemeth him good in his eies: Behold oxē for ſacrifyce, & ſleades & the other inſtrumentes of the oxē for wood. And Areunah ỹ kynges frend gaue al to the king and ſayd moreouer vnto the king: the Lord: the Lorde thy God accept the. But the kinge ſayd vnto Areunah: not ſo, but I wyl bye it of the at a pryce, & wyll not offer ſacrifice vnto the Lord my God that ſhall coſt me nought. And ſo Dauid bought ỹ threſſing flowre, & the oxen for fyftie ſycles of ſyluer. And Dauid bylt ther an aultar vnto the Lorde & offred burntſacrifices & peaceoffringes. And ſo the Lord was agreed wyth the lande. And the plage ceaſed from Israel.

For elles whē my lord ỹ kynge is layde to rest with hys fathers, I & my sonne Salomō shall be *‡ synners.

And behold whyle she yet talked with ỹ king. Nathā the prophete was come. And they told the king saying: here cometh Nathā the prophet. And whē he was come before the king, he made obeysaunce vnto ỹ king vpō his face vnto ỹ groūde, & sayd: My Lord king, hast thou sayde, Adoniah shal raygne after me, & he shall syt vppon my seate: For he is gone downe this daye and hathe offered oxen, fatlynges & shepe D aboundantly, & hath called all the kinges sonnes & the captaynes of the Hoste, & Abiathar the priest. And se, they eate & drinke before him and say. God saue kyng Adoniah. But me thy seruaūt and Sadock the Priest and Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada, & thy seruaunt Salomon he hath not called. Is this thing done of my lord the kinge & yet woldeste not shewe me thy seruaūt, who shuld sytt on the seate of my Lorde the kynge after hym:

Then

Then kynge Dauid answered & sayde: cal me Bethsabe. And she came in & stode before him. And ỹ king swate saying. As sure as the Lord (that hath rydd my soule out of al aduersite) lyueth: euẽ as I swate vnto the by the Lord God of Israell saynge: Salomon shal raygne after me, & he shal sytt vpõ my seate for me, so wyl I do thys daye. And Bethsabe bowed on her face to the earth & dyd obeysaunce vnto the kynge and sayde: I praye God my Lorde kyng Dauid way lyue euer. Then sayde king Dauid cal me Sadock the prieste & Nathan the Prophet & Banaiah the sõne of Iehoiada. And when they came before the kyng. The king said vnto thẽ: take wt you the seruaũtes of your Lord, & set Salomon my sonne vpon myne owne Mule and carye hym downe to Gihon. And lette Sadock the Priest and Nathan the prophet anoynte hym there, to be kynge ouer Israell. And then blowe ye wyth a trõpet & saye: God saue king Salomõ. And thẽ come vp after hym, & let him come and syt vpon my seate. For he shalbe kinge in my stede. And hym I haue cõmaunded to be captayne ouer Israel and Juda. And Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada ãswered the kyng & sayd, Amẽ, & so I praye God that the Lord God of my Lorde the kyng saye so to. And as the Lord hath bene wyth my Lorde the kynge, euen so, I praye God he maye be, with Salomõ and that he make hys seate gloriousser then thee seate of my Lord kinge Dauid.

And Sadock the Prieste & Nathã the prophet & Banaiah ỹ sõne of Iehoiada & the Cerethites & Phelethites wẽt down, & set Salomõ vpõ kinge Dauids Mule & led him to Gihon. And Sadock the Prest toke an horne of oyle out of ỹ tabernacle & anoynted Salomon. And they blew a trõpett, and all they sayde: God saue kynge Salomon. And all the people came vp after hym pypynge wythe pypes and reioysynge greatlye, so that the etth range with the sounde of them.

And Adonias & all the gestes that were with him, heard it euẽ as they hadde made an ende of eatinge. And whẽ Joab hearde the soũde of the trõpet, he said: how happeneth it ỹ there is soche a noyse in the cytie? And as he yet spake, se, Jonathas ỹ sõne of Abiathar the priest came. And Adonias sayd: come for thou art a lusty bloud and bryngest good tydynges. And Jonathas answered and sayde to Adonias: Uerelye oure Lord kynge Dauid hath made Salomon kyng. And the kynge sente wythe hym, Sadock the prest & Nathan the prophet: & Banaiah the sonne of Iehoiada & the Cerethites & the Phelethites, & they haue set hym vpõ ỹ kinges Mule. And Sadock the priest & Nathan the Prophet haue anoynted hym king in Gihon. And as they came vp agayne they reioysed that ỹ cytie dyd sounde agayne. And that is thee noyse that ye haue heard. And therto Salomon sytteth on the seate of the kingdom And moreouer the kynges seruaũtes wẽt in to blesse our Lord king Dauid saying: thy god make the name of Salomõ more fauoure then thyne, and hys seate moare gloryouse then thyne. And the kynge bowed hym selfe vpon the beed. And laste of all thus sayde thee kynge: blessed be thee Lorde God of Israell whyche hath made one to syt on my seate thys daye, euen myne eyes seynge it.

And all the gestes that were wyth Adonias were afrayed & rose vp & went euery mã hys waye. And Adonias fearing Salomon arose & went & caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And it was told Salomõ, how that Adonias for feare of king Salomõ hath *caught handfast by ỹ hornes of the aultar saying: let king Salomõ swere vnto me thys daye, that he wyll not sley his seruaunt with the sword. And Salomon sayde, yf he wilbe a chyld of vertue thet shal not an heare of hym fal to ỹ erth But & yf wickednesse shalbe found in him he shal dye for it. And ther vpon king Salomon sent & fet him downe from the aultare. And he came & dyd obeysaunce vnto kyng Salomon. And Salomon sayd to hym: get the to thyne house.

i, Paralip. xxix. f

After ỹ Adoniah the sonne of Hagith came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomō And she sayde: * Betokeneth thy comyng peace? And he sayde: it betokeneth peace. Then sayde he, I haue a matter to shew ỹ And she sayd: saye on. And he sayde: thou knowest that the kyngdom was myne, & ỹ al Israel put theyr eyes on me, that I shulde raygne, howbeit the kingdom was turned away & geuē to my brother, for it was appoynted him of the Lord: & now I aske a petitiō of the, wherof denye me not. And she sayd vnto hym: tel what it is. Then he sayd: speake I praye the, vnto Salomon the king (for he wil not saye the naye) that he geue me Abisag the Sunamite to wife And Bethsabe sayde: well, I wyll speake for the vnto the kyng.

i, Reg. xvi, b

And ther vppon Bethsabe wente vnto kinge Salomon to speake vnto hym for Adoniah. And ỹ king rose vp against her and bowed hym self vnto her, and sat him downe on hys seate. And there was a seate sett for the kinges mother, & * she satt on hys ryght syde. Then she sayde: I muste desyre a lyttle petition of the: saye me not naye. And the king said vnto her: Aske on my mother: for I wyll not saye the naye. And she sayd: lette Abisag the Sunamite be geuen to Adoniah thy brother to wyfe. And king Salomon answered & sayd vnto his mother: whi doest thou aske Abisag thee Sunamite for Adoniah? but rather aske for him the kingdom, seing he is myne elder brother: Euen for him aske it and for Abiathar the priest, & for Joab the sonne of Zaruiah. Then kyng Salomō swore by the Lord saying: a‡ God do so to me and so therto yf Adoniah haue not spoke thys worde agaynst him self. Now therfore as surely as the Lord liueth which hath stablished me & set me on the seate of Dauid my father, & whyche hath made me an C house as he promysed me, Adoniah shall dye thys daye. And king Salomon sente by the hand of Banaiah thee sonne of Jehoiada, and smote hym that he dyed.

3 Reg. ii, d

And vnto Abiathar the priest sayd the king: get the to Anatoth vnto thyne owne feldes, for thou art worthy of death: but I wyll wil not at this time kyll the, because thou barest ỹ arck of the lorde Jehouah before Dauid my father & because ỹ sufferedst wyth my father in al his afflictions. And so Salomō put away Abiathar frō beyng prest vnto the lord: to fulfil the wordz of the lorde which he spake ouer the house of Eli in Siloh. Then tydinges came to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adoniah but not after Salomon. Wherupō he fled vnto ỹ tabernacle of ỹ lord & caughte *thandfast on the hornes of the aultare. And it was tolde kyng Salomon how ỹ Joab was fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lord and stode by the aultare. Then Salomō sent Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada saying: go & smyte him. And when Banaiah was come to the tabernacle of ỹ lorde he sayd vnto him: thus sayth the king, come out. And he sayde naye: But I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiah brought the kyng worde sayinge: thus sayd Joab and thus he answered me.

And the kyng sayd: do euen as he hath sayd: smite him & burie him, & take awaye the bloud (which Joab shed causelesse) frō me & from ỹ house of my father. And the lord bring his bloud vpō hys owne heed, for he smote two men right wyser & better thē he, & slue them with the swerde, my father vnwetyng: euē Abner the sōne of Ner captayne of the host of Israel, & Amasa ỹ the sōne of Jether captayne of the host of ¶ Juda. And their bloud returne vpō ỹ hed of Joab & on the heed of his seed for euer. And prosperite be vnto dauid, & vnto hys seed, & vnto his house, and vnto his seate, of the Lorde for euer.

And Banaiah ỹ sōne of Jehoiada wēt vp & smote him and slue him & buried him in his owne house in ỹ wildernesse. And ỹ kyng put Banaiah ỹ sōne of Jehoiada in his rowme ouer the host, & put Sadock ỹ preast in the rowme of Abiathar.

Then the kinge sente & called Semei, & sayd to him: buylde the an house in Jerusalē & dwell there & se that thou go not once thēce anye whether. For be ỹ sure of it, the daye ỹ goest oute & passeste ouer the riuer of Cedrō, thou shalt die for it, & thy bloude shalbe on thyne owne heed. And Semei sayd vnto the king: it is wel sayd: as my Lord the kyng hath sayde, so wyll his seruaūt do. And Semei dwelt in Jerusalem many a day. And it chaunced at the ende of thre yere ỹ two of the seruaūtz of Semei came awaye vnto Achis sōne of Maacah kynge of Geth. And one tolde Semei sayinge: se, thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semei stode vp and sadled his asse & gat him to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruauntes, & came & broughtthē agayne from Geth.

But it was tolde Salomon how that Semei had gone from Jerusalē to Geth and was come agayne. And the kyng sēt & called Semei & sayd vnto him: Did I not adiure the by the Lord, & testified vnto the sayinge: be sure when so euer thou goest out & walkest abrode any whether, thou shalt dye for it: And thou āsweredst me, it is good tydinges that I haue herde. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of the Lord, and the cōmaundement that I commaunded the:

And then the kynge sayde to Semei* thou remembrest al the wickednes whych thyne herte knoweth that thou dydeste to Dauid my father. The Lord therfore rēder agayne thy wyckednesse vpon thyne owne heed: & kynge Salomon be blessed, & the seate of Dauid be stablished before the Lord for euer. And the kyng cōmaūded Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada: whiche went out and smote him that he dyed. And so was the kyngdome settled in the hand of Salomon.

And Salomon loued the Lord and walked in the ordinaū ces of Dauid hys father, saue onelye that he sacrefyced & offered incense vpon aul= tars in hylles.

And the king went to Gabaon, to offer there: for that was a great offering place. And ther Salomō offred a thousād burn tofferinges vpō that aultare. And in Ga= baon the Lord appeared to Salomō in a dreame by nyghte. And God sayde: Aske what I shall geue the. And Salomō said thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunt Da= uid my father great mercy, accordinge as he walked before the in truth & in righteous nes & playnesse of hert wyth the. And thou hast kept for hym thys great mercye, that thou hast geuē hym a sonne to sytt on hys seate: as it is come to passe this day. * And now Lord, my God, it is e that hast made thy seruaunt kinge in stede of Dauid my father. * And I am a young lad and woot not howe to order my self. And thy seruāt is in the myddes of thy people which thou hast chosen, a people that are so many that they cannot be tolde nor nōbred for multi tude. * Geue therfore vnto thy seruaunte an vnderstādyng herte to iudge thy people & to decerne betwene good, and badd. For who is able to iudge this thy so waighte a people?

And it pleased the Lord well, that Sa= lomon had desyred thys thing. Wherfore God sayde vnto hym: because thou haste asked thys thyng & hast not asked long ly fe, neyther hast asked ryches, nor the liues of thyne enemyes, but haste asked the dis= crection to vnderstande equytie. Se, I ha= ue done accordinge to thy petycion: & be= holde, I haue geuen the a wyse and an vn derstandinge herte, so that there was none lyke the before, neyther after the shal anye aryse lyke vnto the. And yf thou wylte walke in my wayes, to kepe myne ordinaū ces and commaundemētes as Dauid thy father dyd walke, I wyl lengthen thy day es also. When Salomō awoke, this was hys dreame. And he came to Ierusalem & presented hym selfe before the Arke of the Testament of the Lord, and offred burnt offrynges and peaceofferinges, and made a feast to all hys seruauntes.

Then came there two wemen that were harlottes vnto the kinge and stode before hym. And the one of them sayde: Oh my Lorde I & thys woman dwel in one house And I was delyuered of a chylde wythe her in the sayde house. And the thyrd daye after that I was deliuered, she was dely= uered also: we two beinge together and no straunger wythe vs in thee house saue we two alone. And thys wyues chylde dyed in a nyght, for she had * ouerlayed it. And then she arose at mydnyghte and toke my sonne frō my syde, whyle thyne handmay= de slepte and layde it in her bosome, & putt her dead chylde in my bosome. And when I rose vp in the morninge to geue my chil de sucke: se, it was dead. But when I had loked more dyligently vpon it in the mor= ninge: Behold, it was not my sonne which I dyd beare. And the other woman sayde it is not so: But the lyuinge is my sonne, and the dead thyne. And she sayd agayne: thou sayest vntrue, for the dead is thy son ne, and the lyuinge myne. And thus they pleated before the kinge. Then sayde the kynge: the one sayeth, thys that is a lyue is my sonne, and the dead is thyne. And y other sayth nay: But thy sōne is the dead and the lyue chyld is myne. Then sayd the kyng: bring me a swerde. And they brou= ghte a swerde before the kynge. And then the kinge sayd: Deuyde the lyuing chyld in two, and geue the one halfe to the one, & the other to the other.

Then spake the woman whose the ly= uynge chyld was, vnto the kinge (for her a bowelles yerned vpon her sonne) & said I beseche the my Lorde, geue her thee ly= uyng chylde, and in no wyse slaye it. And the other sayde: it shall be nether mine nor thyne, but deuyde it. Then the kynge an= swered and sayde: * geue her the lyuynge chylde and slaye it not, for she is thee mo= ther therof. And all Israel heard of the iudgemente whych the kynge had iudged and feared the kynge: for they sawe that the wysdome of God was in hym to do iustyce.

The.iiij. Chapter.

A Nd so kyng Salomon was kynge ouer all Israell. And these were hys Lordes: Azariah the sōne of Sadock the Priest: Elihoreph and Ahiah the sonnes of Sisa, scribes, Jeosaphat ỹ sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. And Banaiah the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer ỹ host And Sadock & Abiathar were the prestes And Azariah the sonne of Nathan was ouer the general receauers. And Zabud the sonne of Nathan was a wayter and thee kynges companyon. And Ahisar steward of household: And Adonirā sonne of Abda ouer the trybute.

And Salomon had twelue general receauers ouer all Israell whych sustayned the kyng and his houshold: eche man his moneth in a yeare. Whose names ar these the sonne of Hur in mounte Ephraim: the sonne of Dekarin Makez, in Salem in Bethsames, in Elon & in Bethhanan: thee sonne of Hesed in Aruboth, & to hym pertayned Socoh and all the land of Hepher
B the sonne of Abinadab, whyche had all the regions of Dor, and Tapheth the daughter of Salomon was hys wyfe: Baanah the sonne of Ahilud had Thanach Magedo and al Bethsan which is by Zarthanah beneth Jezrahel, and from Bethsan to Abell Mehulah and vnto beyounde Jecmaam, the sonne of Gaber had Ramoth Galaad, and hys were the townes of Jair the sonne of Manasse which lye in Galaad, & hys was the cooستes of Argob in Basan, thre skore great cyties with walles & Barres of Brasse.

Ahinadab the sonne of Ado had Mahanaim: Ahimaaz hadd Nephthalim, & he had taken Basemath the daughter of Salomon to wyfe: Baanah the sonne of Husai had Aser and Aloth: Jehosaphat thee sonne of Pharuah had Issachar a‡ Semei the sonne of Elah hadde Ben Jamin: Gaber the sonne of Ury hadde thee countrey of Galaad and the lande of Sehon kynge of the Amorites and of Og kynge of Basan, and was alone receauer in thee lande. And Juda and Israell were many euen as the sande of the see in nombre, eatynge, drynckinge, and makynge merye. And Salomō raygned ouer all kyngdōs from the ryuer thorowe out all the land of the philistines vnto the borders of Egipt and they brought presentes & serued Salomon all dayes of hys lyfe. C

And Salomons fode was in one daye thyrtie quarters of manchett floure & thre skore quarters of mele: ten stalled oxen, & twentie out of the pastures & an hundred shepe and gootes, beſydes herttes, buckes and buballes & fatt pultrye. For he ruled in all the regiōs on the other syde Euphrates, frō Thaphsah to Gaza, and also ouer all the kinges on thee other syde the sayde Euphrates. And he had peace wyth al his seruauntes on euery syde. And Juda and Israel dwelt without feare, euery man vnder his vine & vnder his fyg tree frō Dan to Bersabe, al the dayes of Salomon. D

And Salomon had fourtie thousande stalles of horsses for charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen. And the forsayd generāl receauers made purueyaunce for king Salomon and for all that came to kynge Salomons table, euery man his moneth, so that there lacked nothynge. And as for barlye & strawe for thee horsses & beastes they brought vnto the places where the officers were, euery man in hys office.

The. v. Chapter.

A ND Hiram king of Tire sent his seruaūtes vnto Salomō for he had heard that thei had anoynted him king in ꝯ rowme of his father. And thereto Hirā was euer a louer of Dauids. * And Salomō sent agayne to Hiram saying: ℣ knowest of Dauid my father, how he could not bylde an house vnto thee name of ꝯ Lord hys God for warre which he had on euery syde, vntyl the Lord had put thē vnder his fote. But now the Lorde my God hath geuē me rest on euery syde, so ꝯ there is neyther aduersarye nor any euel plage. And therfore I am disposed to bylde an house vnto the name of the Lord my god, as he promysed Dauid my father saying: thy sonne whych I wyl put vpon thy seat for the, he shal bylde an house vnto my name. Now then commaunde that they hewe me Cedar trees in Libanō. And let my seruauntes be wyth thyne, & I wyll geue the hire of thy seruaūtes in al soch thinges as thou shalt appoynt, for thou knowest that ther are not among vs that can skyl to hewe tymber lyke vnto the Sidones.

* 3. par. Ki. 5.

When Hirā heard the wordes of Salomon, he reioysed greatly & sayd: Blessed be the Lord this day whych hath set Dauid a wise sōne ouer this mightie people. And Hiram sent agayne to Salomō saying: I haue accept the request whych thou sentest to me for, & wyl satysfye al thy lust, concernynge tymber of Cedar trees & fyre. My seruauntes shal bring thē frō Libanon to the see. And I wyl conueye thē by shyppe vnto thee place that thou shalte sende me worde, and wyl cause thē to be discharged ther, that thou maist receaue thē. And thou shalt do me this pleasure agayne, to minister fode for myne house. And so Hirā gaue Salomō Cedar trees & fyre trees, as moch as he desyred. And Salomon gaue Hiram twētie thousand quarters of wheate to fede hys housholde wythal, & twentie butts of pure oyle. And so moch gaue Salomon to Hiram yeare by yeare.

And the Lord gaue Salomō wysdom as he promysed hym. And there was peace betwene Hiram & Salomon & they were cōfedered together. And kyng Salomō a reysed a tribute thorowout al Israel. And the tribute was. xxx. thousand men, which he sent to Libanō, ten thousand a moneth by course, so that they were one moneth in Libanon and two monethes at home.

And Adoniram was ouer the trybute. And Salomon had thre skore & ten thousand that bare burdens, & thre skore & ten thousande that hewed in the mountaynes besydes the Lordes he had, to ouer se thee worcke, in nombre thre thousand and thre hūdred, which ruled the people ꝯ wrought in the worke. And at the cōmaundemente of the king, thei brought great stones and that fre stones, & hewed therto, to laye in ꝯ foundation of the house. And Salomōs masons & the masons of Hiram did hewe them, wyth thē of the borders. And so they prepared both tymber and stone to bylde the house.

And ꝯ third. vii. cubites broade For he made ꝯ walles without whereon ꝯ beames laye, euer thynner and thynner, so that they were not fastened in ꝯ walles of the

the house. And the house was bylt of stone made perfect al ready yer it was broughte thyther, so that there was nether hāmer or axe ether any tole of yron heard in the house, whyle it was in buyldinge.

B And the doze of ỹ middle galery was in the ende of ỹ house on the righte syde. And mē went vp with winding steares into the middle galery, & out of the middle into the thyrd. And so he bylt the house & fynished it, & roufte it wyth beames of Cedar tymber made holowe & ioyned togeather. And thē he bylt chambers ouer al the temple of fyue cubites height, & coupled the house to gether wyth beames of Cedar.

And the word of the Lord came to Salomon, saying: concerning the house whiche thou art in bilding, yf thou wilt walke in myne ordinaunces & execute my lawes, and kepe al my cōmaundemētes, to walke in them: then wyl I make good vnto the, my promes * whyche I promysed Dauid thy father. * And I wyl dwel amonge the chyldrē of Israel and wil not forsake my people Israel. And so therfore Salomon bylte the house and fynisshed it and syled the walles of the house wythin, wyth rybbes of Cedar tree: euen from the pauemēt vnto the roufte dyd he syle it wythin, and borded thee flooze of thee house with plankes of fyre.

And he syled .xx. cubites in the ende of ỹ tēple both flooze & walles with Cedar, and dressed it wythin to be the quere and place moost holy. And the fyrst house, that is to saye, the bodye of the tēple was .xl. cubites longe. And the Cedar of the house wythin was kerued wythe knoppes and grauen wyth flowres, and all was Cedar tymber, so that no stone was sene. And the quere that was wythin thee temple, he prepared to sette there the Arcke of the appoyntmēt of the Lorde. And the quere was twentye cubytes longe, and twentye in bredthe and twentye in heyghte. And he syled it wythe pure goulde, and borded the aultar wyth Cedar.

And Salomon syled the house with in also wythe pure goulde. And he made goulden barres runne a longe the quere, whych he hadde couered wyth gould. And the whole house he ouerlayde wyth gould vntyll he hadde ended it. And the aultare that was in the quere he ouerlayde wythe goulde also.

And wythin the quere he made twoo * Cherubins of olyue tree, ten cubites hye a pece, & euery winge fyue cubites longe: so that frō the vttermost parte of one wynge vnto the vttermost part of the other were ten cubites. Exo. xxv. b

And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hye also: so that bothe thee Cherubes were of one measure and one syse. The heyghte of the one Cherub was ten cubytes, and so was it of the other. And he putt the Cherubes in the myddle of thee ynner house. * And the Cherubes stretched their wynges, so that the one wynge of thee one touched the one walle, and the one wynge of the other touched the other walle. And the other two wynges of them touched one āother in the myddes of the house. And he ouerlayde the Cherubes wyth gould. D Exo. xxv. b

And all the walles of the house rounde about, he garnesshed wyth worcke of Cherubes and paulme trees and grauen flowres, bothe wythin in the queare and wythoute in the temple. And the flooze of thee house he couered wyth goulde bothe wythin, in thee quere and also wythoute in thee temple. And in the enterynge of the queare he made two dozes of olyue tree, wyth the vpper and twoo syde postes fyue square. And the two dozes of olyue tree, he graued wyth grauynge of Cherubes and paulme trees and grauen flowres, & couered them wythe goulde, and layde goulde ouer thee Cherubes and also the paulme trees. And in lyke maner vnto the doze of the temple he made postes of olyue tree .iiii. square, & two dozes of fyre tree, & ethet dooze with twoo foldynge leues and grauen thereon Cherubes Paulmetrees and flowres, and couered them wythe goulde made playne by a ruler.

And thē he bylte the ynner courte wyth thre rowes of hewed stoone & one rowe of Cedar wood.

In the fourth yere of hys raygne was the foundatyon of the house of the Lorde layde, euen in the moneth * Zif, and in the xi. yeare in the moneth * Bull whyche is the .viii. moneth, it was full fynysshed in all that pertayned thereto, and facyoned as it shulde be in all poyntes: And so was he

¶ The bylding of the house of Salomō. The house of Pharaos doughter. The kozme of the pyllers of Bzalle, of the Bzalen Se. &c.

The. vii. Chapter.

And Salomō bylte his owne house in thyztene yeare space and full fynished it. And he bylte thee house of the wood of Libanon, an hundzed cubytes longe and fyftie bzoade, and thyztie hye, foure square wythe rowes of Cedar pyllars, and Cedar beames along vpō the pyllers. And the rouffe was Cedar aboue an hye vppon the beames that laye an hye on the pyllers, whych pyllers were fourtie and fiue in nomber, fiftene on a rowe, and the spaces betwene the pillers were one agaynst another thze folde. And all the doores with the syde postes were foure square one agaynst another thze folde.

And he made a pozche of pillers fyftye cubytes longe and thyztie cubytes bzoade and yet a pozche before that wyth pyllers, and a thycke pyller before that. Then he made a pozche to sytte and iudge in, syled wyth Cedar thozow out all the pauementes. And his owne house where he kept residence in another courte wythoute that pozche was of the same wozcke. And then B Salomon made an house for Pharaos iii, Re. iii. a daughter * which he had taken to wyfe, lyke vnto that pozche.

And all these thynges were of ryche stones hewed after a measure and sawed wyth sawes wythin and wythout, euē frō the foundation vnto that wheron the beames were layed, and on the oute syde there to towarde the greate courte. And the foūdation was of ryche stones and that mighty great stones of tē cubites and of eyght And aboue were ryche stones hewed accozdynge to the same syse, and also wyth Cedar. And the greate courte rounde aboute was wythe thze rowes of hewed stone and one rowe of Cedar planckes. And lykewyse was it in the ynner court of the house of the Lozde and of the pozche of the temple. * And kynge Salomon sent and fett one ii. Par. iii. c. Hiram oute of Tire, a wedowes sonne of the trybe of Nephthalim, hys father beinge of Tire. Which Hiram was a craftes man in bzalle, and full of wysdomme, vnderstandynge and connynge to wozcke all maner of wozcke in bzalle. And he came to kynge Salomon and wzoughte all hys wozcke. He caste two pyllers of bzalle of xviii. cubytes a pece hye, and a strynge of xii. cubytes myght compasse ether of them aboute. And he made two head peces of molten bzalle to sette on the toppes of the pyllers, of fyue cubites longe a pece, with garlandes of bzayded wozke and whopes of chayne wozcke for the headd peces that were on the pyllers seuen for thee one and seuē for the other. And he made the pillers and for ether of the head peces a garland, C wyth two rowes of pomegranettes to coner them wyth al. And the head peces that were on ỹ toppes of ỹ pyllers were wzoughte wyth lylies in the pozche the space of foure cubites of them. And the pomegranettes aboue & beneth on the wzethzē chaynes that compased the myddle of the head peces were in nōbze two hundzed on ether head pece. And he set vp the pyliers in the pozche of the temple, and when he had sett vppe the ryghte pyller, he called the name thereof Jachin, and when he had set vppe D the lefte pyller he called thee name thereof Boaz. And the toppes of the pyllers were thus wzoughte wythe lylyes, and so was theyz wozkemanshyppe fynished.

Then he caste a see of bzalle, ten cubytes wyde from bzym to bzym and rounde in compase, and fyue cubytes hye. And a strynge of thyztie cubytes myghte compasse it aboute, and vnder thee bzym of it as it were apples compased and embzased the sea of ten cubytes wyde in two rowes cast wyth it when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oxen: of whyche thze looked Northe, thze West, thze Southe, and thze Easte, and the see on hye vpon them, and all theyz hynder partes were inward. And it was an hand bzeadeth thicke, & the bzim wzought lyke the bzym of a cup with flowres of lylies. And it contayned * two thou- * Or, thze. ii. para. iiii sande at Bathes.

And he made. x. botomes of bzalle, foure cubites longe & iiii. cubites bzoade a pece, & thze hie. And the wozkes of the botomes was on this maner ỹ the sydes were as it were flat bozdes betwene the ledges. And on the

Eon the flatte bordes betwene the ledges were lyons, oxen & Cherubes. And vpon the ledges that were aboue & beneth the lyons and oxen, was ioyned pendant worcke. And euerye bottom had foure brasen wheles, whose axelltrees were allo of brasse. And in the foure cornets were vndersetters vnder ỹ lauetorie caste eche ouer agaynst his felow.

And the stalck of the lauetorie was in the middle of the bottome one cubit hye, & a cubyte and an halfe roũd, & it had knoppes ther on in the bare places which were foure square not rounde. And vnder the fydes were foure wheles and theyr axeltrees ioyned fast to the bottome. And the height of euerye whele was a cubyte and an halfe. And the worckeman ſhipe of the wheles was lyke the worcke of a charette whele. And the axeltrees, ỹ nauelles ſpokes & ſhaftes were al moultẽ. And ỹ foure vndersetters in the foure corners were of the verye bottomes.

And vnder the ſtalcke of the lauatorie in the myddes of the bottome was there a rounde fote of halfe a cubyt hye. And ther on playne places and ledges of the ſelfe. And he graued in the playne & alſo on the ledges, Cherubes, lyõs & paulmettees, euery where round about. And on this maner he made the ten bottomes caſt worck: al of one meaſure and one fyſe. Then he made ten lauers of brasſe cõtayning fourtye Bathes a pece, and they were of foure cubites a pece, for euery one of ỹ botomes a lauer. And he put fyue of thoſe bottomes on the right cornet of the temple, and other fiue on ỹ lefte: And put the ſee on the ryght corner of the tẽple Eaſtwarde & towarde the South.

And Hiram made pottes, ſhouelles & baſens, and ſo finiſſhed all ỹ worcke that he made kynge Salomon for the houſe of the Lord: that is to ſaye, two pyllers & two ſkaipes of the hedes that were on the toppes of the two pyllers, and foure hundred põgranetes vpõ two wrethes, two rowes on ether wrethe, to couer the two ſkaipes of the heedes ỹ were on the toppes of ỹ two pillers: And the tẽ bottomes of brasſe wt ten lauers vpõ thẽ: & a ſee wt twelue orẽ vnder it: & pottes, ſhouelles & baſens. And all theſe veſſelles whych Hiram made to kyng Salomon for ỹ houſe of the lord were of bright brasſe. And in ỹ plaine of Jordã dyd the king caſt thẽ eue in the claie of the erth betwene Socoth & Zarthã. And Salomõ left all the veſſelles vnwayed, for the exceding aboundãce of brasſe that was in them.

And Salomon made al the veſſelles ỹ pertayned vnto the houſe of the Lord: the Aultare of goulde, and the table of goulde wheron the ſhewe breed was put: And fyue candelſtyckes, for the rightſyde, and as many for the lefte, before the quere, of pure gouldc: wt flowres, lãpes, & ſnuffers of goulde: and Bolles, Pſalteries, baſõs, ſpones and fyre pannes of pure goulde: and hynges of gould bothe for the dores of the quere, the place moſt holy, & for the dores of the temple alſo.

And ſo was ended al the worck ỹ king Salomon made for the houſe of the Lorde. And then * Salomon brought in the thynges whych Dauid his father had dedycated in ſyluer, gould and other veſſelles, & put them to the treaſure of the houſe of the Lorde. ii. Par. v. a

The. viii. Chapter.

THẽ Salomon geathered the elders of Iſrael, al the hedes of the trybes and auntyente Lordes of the chyldren of Iſrael, vnto hym to Jeruſalẽ, to bryng vppe the Arcke of the appoyntment of the Lord out of the cytye of Dauid which is Sion. And al the men of Iſrael aſſembled vnto kynge Salomon to the feaſt that falleth in the moneth * Ethanim whiche is the ſeuenth moneth. And whẽ al the elders of Iſrael were come, the preaſtes toke vp the Arck of the Lorde, & brought it & alſo the tabernacle of witnes & al ỹ holy veſſelles ỹ were therin. And ỹ preſtes & the leuites brought thẽ vp. And king Salomõ and al the congregacõ of Iſrael that were aſſembled & were wythe him before the arcke dyd offer ſhepe and oxen ỹ coulde not be tolde nor nombred for multytude. * that is. September apoyntment of the Lorde vnto his place: euē into the quere of the temple and place most holy, vnder the wynges of the Cherubes. For ỹ Cherubes stretched out their wynges ouer the Arcke, and coucred both it & also the staues thereof a hye vpon it. Howbe it the staues were so longe ỹ the endes of thē appered out of the holy place before the quere, but were not sene without. B And ther they be vnto this day. And ther was ✠nothyng in the Arcke saue the two tables of stone which Moses put ther at Horeb, when the Lord made an appoyntmēt with the children of Israel after they were come out of Egypt.

And ſo the preſtes brought the ark of ỹ

And when the preastes were come out of the Holy place, then a cloude fylled the house of the Lord, that the preastes could not endure to minister because of ỹ cloud for the glorye of the Lorde had fylled the house of the Lord. Thē spake Salomō: the Lord sayde, ỹ he wolde dwel in darcknesse. I haue bylt the an house to dwel in, & an habitaciō for the to abide in for euer. And the kyng turned his face & blessed al the congregacion of Israel, al the congregacion standyng. And he sayde.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israell, which hath fulfilled with his *hand, that he spake w̄ his mouthe vnto Dauid my father saynge: from the daye I brought my people Israell out of Egipt, I chose no citie amōg any of the tribes of Israel, to buylde an house, ỹ my name might be ther: But I haue chosen Dauid to be ruler ouer my people Israell.

And it was in the hert of Dauid my father, to bilde an house for the name of the Lord God of Israel. But the Lord God sayde vnto Dauid my father: in ỹ it was in thyne hert to byld an house for my name, thou dydest wel, ỹ thou wast so mynded. Neuertheles thou shalt not bild the house, but thy sōne that shall come out of C thy loynes, he shal bylde an house for my name. And the Lord hath made good his word that he spake. For I stode vp in the rowme of Dauid my father, & sate on the seate of Israel, as the lord promesed, & haue bylt an house for the name of the lorde God of Israell. And I haue prepared therin a place for the Arcke wherin ỹ couenaūt of the lord is, which he made w̄ our fathers, after he had brought thē oute of the lād of Egypt. And Salomō stode before ỹ aultare of ỹ lord in ỹ sight of all ỹ congregaciō of Israel & stretched out his hādes to heuē & said: lord God of Israel, ther is no god like ỹ in heuē aboue or in the erth beneth, ỹ kepest appoyntemente & mercye w̄ thy seruaūtes that walck before the w̄ al their hertes: which also hast kepte withe thy seruaunte Dauid my father, that ỹ promesest him. Thou spakest w̄ thy mouthe & hast fulfilled w̄ thine hāde, as it is come to pas this day. And now Lord God of Israel, kepe w̄ thy seruaūt Dauid my father, that ỹ promesedst hym saying: thou shalt not be withe out one or other before me, sytting on the seate of Israel: Howbe it yf thy children shall take hede to their wayes that they walck before me, as thou hast walcked before me. Now then O Lorde God of Israel, let thy worde be stable which thou spakest vnto thy seruaunt Dauid my father.

☞ But in deade can God dwell on the erth? Behold nether heuē, nor heuē aboue all heuens are able to contayne the: howe moch lesse then this house that I haue bylte? but loke to the prayer of thy seruaunte & his supplicaciō O lord my god, to geue an eare vnto the voyce and prayer which thy seruaunt prayeth before the this day, that thine eies may be opē vpō this house nyght and day, and vpō the place, of whyche thou hast sayde, my name shalbe ther: that thou herken vnto the prayer whyche thy seruaūte shal praye in this place. And herkē vnto ỹ supplicacion of thy seruaūt and of thy people Israel which they shall pray in this place: And heare thou vp vnto heuē thy dwellynge place, & when thou hearest haue mercye. And yf any mā trespace agaynst his neyboure, & his neybour *take an adiuracion to adiure him w̄ al, & ỹ adiuracion come before thine aultare at this house thē herkē thou vp to heuē, & worke & iudge thy seruauntes, that ỹ condēpne the wycked to bring his way vpon his heed, & iustefie ỹ righteous to geue hī accordīg to his righteousnes. Whē thy people Israel be put to ỹ worse before their enemies, because they haue sined agaīst ỹ, & afterward turne againe to ỹ & praise thy name, & praye & make supplicacion vnto the Lorde Iehouah.

And whẽ Salomõ had made an ende of prayinge al this praier & supplicacyon vnto the lord, he arose from before ꝑ aultare of the lorde & from kneling on hys knees & stretchynge of hys handes vp to heauẽ & stoode & blessed all ꝑ cõgregacyõ of Israel with a loude voyce saying. Blef these my wordes which I haue prayed be fore the lord, be nye vnto ꝑ Lord our god daye & nyght, that he defende the cause of hys seruaunt and of hys people Israel euermore, that al nacyons of thee erth may know that the Lorde, he is God and none but he. And I pray God that your hertes may be sounde with the Lorde oure God, to walke in his ordinaunces & to kepe his lawes as we do this daye.

And the kyng & al Israel with him, of fered offeringes before the lord, * And the peaceofferinges ꝑ Salomõ offered vnto ꝑ Lord, were. xxii. thousand oxen & an hũdred & twentye thousand shepe: And so ꝑ kyng & al the chyldren of Israell dedicated the house of the Lorde. And the same day the kynge halowed the myddle of the

AND when Salomon had fynisshed ꝑ byldyng of ꝑ house of the lord and of the kinges palace, and of all that his de-syre, & lust was to make: the Lord apered vnto hym agayne, as he appered to hym at Gabaon. And the Lord said vnto him: I haue heard thy prayer and intercessyõ ꝑ thou madest before me, & haue halowed this house whiche thou haste bylte, to put my name there for euer & myne eyes and myne hert shalbe there perpetually. And yf thou wylte walcke before me, as Dauid thy father walcked, in purenes of hert and playnnesse, to do all that I haue cõ maunded the, and shalt kepe myne ordy-naũces and customes: then I wyl stablish ꝑ seate of thy kyngdome vpon Israel for euer, as I promesed to Dauid thy father saying: * Thou shalt not be wout one of other vpon the seat of Israel. iii. Reg. ii. b

But & yf ye and youre children shall turne away from after me, & shal not kepe myne ordinaũces which I haue set before you, but shall go & serue other Goddes & bowe youre selues vnto thẽ: then I wyll weede Israel out of the lãd which I haue geuen them. house, & Melo & the walles of Jerusalē, and Hezer, and Magedo, and Gazer.

For Pharao king of Egipt went vp & toke Gazer & burnt it with fyre, and slue the Cananites ỹ dwelt in the cytie, & gaue it for a present vnto his daughter ỹ was Salomons wyfe. And Salomon bylte Gazer and Beth Horon the nether: and Baalath and Thamar in the wildernes ỹ is in the lande: & al the stooze cities ỹ Salomon had, & cyties for his charettes, & cities for his horsemen & al ỹ hys luste was to bylde in Jerusalē and Libanon & in al the land of his kyngdome.

And all the people that were left of the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, Heuites & Jebusites, which were not of the childze of Israel, the childzen of the sayd nacyōs that were lefte in the land, because the childzen of Israell were not able to destroye them, dyd Salomō make trybutaries vnto thys daye. And of the chyldzen of Israell dyd Salomon make no bondemen. But they were men of warre and his seruaūtes and his lozdes & Captaynes & rulars of his charetz & of his horsemē. And these many lozdes ỹ ouersawe the wozcke had Salomon, fyue hundzed and fyftye, whiche ruled the people that wzoughte in the wozcke.

And pharaos daughter came vp out of ỹ cytie of Dauid vnto ỹ house which Salomō had bilt for her. And after ỹ he bylte Melo. And thzise a yere did Salomō offer burntofferinges & peaceofferinges vpon the aultare which he had bilt vnto ỹ lozd, to burne the fat therō: which aultare is before the Lozde.

And when king Salomō had made the house perfect, he made shipz in Aziō Gaber which is beside Eloth, on the bzinck of the red see, in the lād of Edō. And Hiram sent by shippe also of hys seruauntes, ỹ were shypmen & expert in the see, wyth the seruaūtes of Salomon. And they wēt to Ophir & fet frō thēce goulde, to ỹ summe of.xiiij.hundzed & .xxti. talētes, & bzoughte it to Salomon.

¶ The Quene of Saba cōmeth from the vtterm̄ost costes of the land to heare and se the wisdom of Salomō. The yerly reuenues and rentes of Salomon. His throne, vesselles of gould, charettes, horsemen, and aboundaunce of syluer.

The.x. Chapter.

AND ỹ quene of Saba heard of the wysdome of Salomō cōcerning the name of the lozde, and came to proue him wt rydelles. And she came to Jerusalem wt a mightie great multitude of Camelles that bare swete odoures and goulde exceadynge moche, and precyouse stones. And when she was come to Salomō, she comuned with him of al that was in her herte. And Salomon expounded her all her questiōs, that ther was not one thynge hydd from the kynge which he expounded her not.

And when the quene of Saba had sene all Salomons wisdome & the house that he had bylt, & the meate of his table, & the syttinge of his seruauntes, & the stādyng of hys seruytoures & their apparel, & hys buttelers, and hys sacrifyce that he offered in the house of the lozd, she was astonied. Then she sayd to the kyng: the wozd I harde in mine owne lande of thy dedes and wisdom, is true. How be it I beleued it not, tyll I came and sawe it wythe myne eyes. And se, the one halfe was not tolde me: for thy wysdome and goodnes exceadeth the fame which I hearde. Happy are thy men: and happye are these thy seruaūtes, which stande euer before the and heare thy wysdome. And blessed be the Lozde thy God whyche had a luste to the, to sett the on the seate of Israell, because the Lozde loued Israell for euer, and therefore made the kynge, to do enquyre and ryghtwysnesse.

And she gaue the kynge an hundzed & xx. talentes of goulde, & of swete odoures exceding moch, & precyouse stones. There came neuer after soche aboundaunce of swete odoures as ỹ Quene of Saba gaue to kyng Salomō. And therto ỹ shipz of Hirā that bzought goulde frō Ophir, brought from Ophir greate plentye of * Almuge tre & precyouse stones. And king Salomō made of the Almuge trees pyllers in the house of ỹ Lozd & in the kynges palace, & made harpes & psalteries for syngers. There came no moare Almuge trees so, nor was any moze sene vnto this day. And kynge Salomon gaue vnto the Quene of Saba al her desyre that she asked of him: besides ỹ he gaue her wt hys owne

C The weyght of gould that came to Salomon in one yere, was syxe hundred thre skore & .vi. talentes of gould, besides that he had of chapmē & of marchaūtes of Potycaries, & of al the kinges of Arabie & of the Lordes of the coūtreye. And king Salomon made two hundred bouckelers of beatē gould, vi. C. sycles of gould wēte to a bouckelar. And he made thre. C. shyldes of beaten gould, thre pound of gould goynge to a pece, and putt thē in the house of the wood of Libanon.

And the kyng made a great seate of Iuorye and couered it with precious gould And the seate had sixe steppes. And the toppe of thee Seate was rounde behynde hys backe wythe pomelles on ether syde on the place where he satte, and two lyons stādyng besyde the pomelles. And ther stode .xii. lions on the steppes, syxe on a syde. Ther was none like sene in any kingdom And all kyng Salomons drynkinge vessels were of goulde, & al the vessels of the house of the wood of Libanon were of pure gould. And as for syluer it was nothig D worthe in the dayes of Salomō. For thee see shyppes which the kinge had in the see wyth the shyppes of Hiram, came euerye thyrd yere laden wyth gould, syluer, Iuorye, apes & pecockes. * And so king Salomon exceaded all the kynges of the erth in rychesse & wisdom. And al the world resorted to Salomon, to heare hys wysdō, whiche god had put in his hart. And brought him euery man hys present, vessels of syluer and of gould, & of raymente, harnesse, swete odoures, horsses & Mules, yeare by yeare. And Salomon geathered together charettes and horssemen: so that he had a thousand and .iiii. hundred charettes, and xii. thousand horsemē, whych he bestowed in the charett cyties and wyth the kyng at Ierusalem.

* And the kyng made syluer in Ieru- d. Dat. d. salem as plentcous as stones, and Cedar as plēteouse as the mulbery trees ỹ grow in the valeyes. And Salomons horsses came out of Egipt from Keua: The marchauntes fett thē from Keua at a pryce. A charet came out of Egipt for .vi. hundred sicles of syluer, & an horsse for an hundred and fyfftie. And euen so by the handes of the sayde marchauntes, horsses were brought out for all the kinges of the Hethites and for the kynges of Siria.

C Salomō hath seuē hundred quenes and thre hundred Cōcubines, which bring hym to idolatry. His aduersaries rebel agaynst hym. He dieth. Ieroboam his sonne raygneth in hys stede.

The .xi. Chapter.

But kinge Salomon loued many outlādish A she wemen: the daughter of Pharao: and of thee Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Zidonites & Hetthites, euen of naciōs of whych the Lorde sayde vnto the chyldren of Israell, se ye come not at thē nor let thē come to you: for surely they wil turne youre hertes after theyr Goddes. Neuerthelesse to sochē Salomō claue & fell in loue wyth them. * And he had seuen hundred * very Quenes and thre hundred concubynes whych turned awaye hys hert. For whē Salomon was olde, hys wyues turned hys hert after other Gods: so that his hert was not perfect with the lord his god as was the hert of Dauid his father.

Cantl. bl. c * After the Chalde.

And Salomon folowed Astharoth the B God of the Zidons, and Milcō the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomon wroughte wyckednesse in the syghte of the Lord & continued not after the lord as dyd Dauid hys father. After that Salomon bylt an aultar for Chamos the abhominatyon of the Moabites in thee hyll that standeth before Ierusalem, and vnto Moloch the abhomination of the chyldren of Ammon. And lykewyse dyd he for all hys outlandische wiues which burnt ensense and offered vnto theyr Gods. Then was the Lord angrye with Salomon because hys herte turned from thee Lorde God of Israell whych appered vnto him twyse, & gaue hym a charge of thys thinge that he shulde not folowe other Goddes. But he kept not that which the Lorde commaunded hym: where vpon thee Lorde sayde to Salomon: for as moche as thys is done of the, & thou hast not kepte myne apoynt ment and myne ordynaunces whych I haue commaunded the, therfore I wyll rent the kingdom from the, and wyll geue it to C thy

C thy seruaũt. Notwithstanding in thy dayes I wyl not doo it, because of Dauid thy father: but wyl take it frõ thy sonne. Howbeit I wyll not take awaye all: But wyll geue one trybe to thy sõne, because of Dauid my seruaunt & because of Jerusalem whych I haue chosen.

And the Lord stered vp an aduersarye vnto Salomon, one Hadad an Edomite and of the kinges lignage of Edom. For whẽ Dauid was in Edõ, & Joab the captayne of ỹ hoste was gone vp to burie thẽ that were slayn: & had slayne al the mẽ childrẽ in Edom. For. vi. monethes dyd Joab remaine ther & al Israel, tyl he had destroyed al the mẽ childrẽ in Edõ. And thys Hadad fled & certẽ other Edomites of his fathers seruaũtes with him, to go to Egipte Hadad being yet a lytle lad. And they arose out of Madian & went to Pharan & toke men wyth them out of Pharan and came to Egipt vnto Pharao kynge thereof, which gaue him an house, & apoynted him vitayles and gaue hym landes.

And Hadad gatte greate fauour in the syghte of Pharao, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the syster of his owne wyfe, ỹ syster of Thahaphnes the quene. And ỹ sister of Thahaphnes bare hym Senubath his sõne. And Thahaphnes wened him in Pharaos house. And he was in Pharaos house amõg the sonnes of Pharao. And when Hadad heard say in Egipt ỹ Dauid was
D layd to slepe with his fathers, & that Joab the captayne of the host was dead also, he sayd to Pharao let me depart, ỹ I may go to myne owne coũtrey. Thẽ sayd Pharao vnto him: what lackest thou here with me, that thou woldest go to thyne owne countrey? And he sayd, nothing: howbeit let me go. And god stered vp another aduersary one Razon the sonne of Eliada, which fled from Hadadezer kiug of Zobah his mayster. Which Razon getherꝯ mẽ vnto hym & became captayne ouer the cõpanie, when Dauid slue them. And they wente to Damasco and dwelte therein, and raygned in Damasco. And he was an aduersarye too Israell all the dayes of Salomon, wythe the euell that Hadad dyd, whych abhorred Israell and raygned in Syria.

And Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat an

Salomon bylt Melo & mẽded brokẽ places in the citie of Dauid his father. And this felowe Jeroboã was an actiue mã. And whẽ Salomon saw the younge man, ỹ he wrought so lustely in the worke, he made hym ruler ouer al the charges of the house of Joseph And it chaũced at ỹ season, as Jeroboam was gone out of Jerusalẽ, that ỹ prophet Ahiah the Silonite met him by the waye, hauing a new mantel on him, & they twoo alone in the felde. And Ahiah caughte the new mãtel that was on hym & rente it in twelue peces, & said to Jeroboã: take the. x peces. For this sayth ỹ Lord god of Israel: behold, I wyll rent the kingdõ out of ỹ handes of Salomõ & wyl geue ten tribes to the, & he shal haue one, for my seruaunt Dauids sake & for Jerusalẽ the citte whych I haue chosen out of al the trybes of Israel: because they haue forsakẽ me, and haue bowed them selues vnto Astharothe the God of the Zidons, & to Camos ỹ god of the Moabites, and to Milcom the god of the chyldren of Ammon, and haue not walked in my wayes, to doo that pleaseth me, and myne ordinaunces and costumes as dyd Dauid hys father.

Howbeit I wyl take none of the kingdom out of his hande: but wyl make hym cheke al hys lyfe longe, for Dauid my seruãtes sake, which I chose: because he kept my cõmaundementes & ordinaũces. But I wyl take the kingdom out of hys sõnes hand & wyl geue vnto the ten trybes of it: and wyl geue hys sonne one, that Dauid my seruaunt may haue a lyght alway before me in Jerusalẽ, the cytie whych I haue chosen me, to put my name there. And I wyll take the, & thou shalt raygne vpon all that thy soule desyreth, & shalt be kyng ouer Israell. And yf thou shalt herken vn

The. xii. Chapter.

A AND Rehoboam went to Sichē: for all Israell were come to Sichē to make him king. And whē Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat hearde of it being yet in Egipte: for he fled to Egipt for feare of Salomon, and dwelt in Egipt. And they sent and called him: and so Jeroboam and al the congregation of Israel came & spake vnto Rehoboam saying: thy father made oure youcke greuouse, but now make thou the greuouse seruice of thy father and hys sore youcke which he put vpō vs lyghter, & so we wyl serue the. And he sayd vnto them: depart yet for the space of thre dayes, and then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kyng Rehoboā toke councel wyth the olde men that stode before Salomon his father, whyle he yet lyued, & said: what coūcel geue ye to ānswere thys people withal?

B And they sayd vnto him: Yf thou shalt be a seruaunt vnto thys people thys daye and serue thē and answer thē & speake kinde wordes to thē: they wyl be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the councel that ỳ olde men had geuē hym, & counceled with the young men that were nourished vp wh hym, & had wayted on hym.

And he sayd vnto thē: what councel geue ye, to answere this people withal which haue cōmuned with me sayinge: make the youcke which thy father dyd put vpō vs, lyghter? And the younge men that were brought vp with him, answered hym sayinge this people that haue sayd vnto the: thy father made oure youcke heuye, make thou it vs lighter: thus answere thē. My little finger shalbe wayghtter then my fathers loynes. And nowe where my father put a greuouse youcke vpon you. I wyll make it heuyer. For where my father corrected you wyth scourges, I wyl chastyse you with scorpions. And whē Jeroboam: & al the people were come to Rehoboā the thyrde day, as the king apoynted thē, sayinge: come to me agayne this day thre dayes: the king ānswered the people churlishly & left the aduise that olde men gaue him: & spake to thē after the councel of the younge mē saying. My father made your youc C ke greuouse, but I wyl make it greuouser For where my father chastised you wyth whippes, I wyl chastise you with scorpions. And so the king herkened not vnto ỳ people: for the turning away was of the Lord, * to perfourme hys sayinge, whych ỳ Lord sayd by Ahiah ỳ Silonite vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. (* 3. Reg. 11.

And so Israel departed vnto their tētes. Howbeit ouer ỳ chyldrē of Israel which dwelt in the citie of Juda, dyd Rehoboā raygne styl. Thē kinge Rehoboam sent Aduram the receauer of the tribute. And al Israell stoned hym to death with stones. But kinge Rehoboā made spede & gatt him vp to hys charet & fled to Jerusalē. And so Israell departed frō the house of Dauid vnto this daye. And whē al Israel heard ỳ Jeroboā was come agayne, they sent & called hym vnto the congregatiō and made him kyng ouer Israel: so ther folowed the house of Dauid, but the tribe of Juda onely * And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, he geathered all the house of Juda and the tribe of Ben Jamin an hūdred and foure skore thousandes of chosen mē and good warryoures, to fyghte agaynst the house of Israel: and to bringe the kyn (* 2. kyngdom agayne to Rehoboam the sõne of Salomon.

Then came the word of the Lord vnto Semetah the man of God saying: speake
I vnto Rehoboam thee sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda, and vnto all the house of Juda and Ben Jamin, and the remnaunt of the people and saye. Thus sayth the lorde: go not nor yet fyght agaynst your brethren the chyldren of Israell, but returne euery man to hys house, for this doynge is of the Lord. And they obeyed the word of the Lord and returned and departed according to the worde of the Lord. The Jeroboam bylt Sichem in mount Ephraim and dwelt therein. And wente from thence and bylte Phanuel.

And Jeroboam thought in his hert: now might thee kingdõ returne to the house of Dauid agayn. For yf thys people shal go vp & do sacrifice in the house of the Lorde at Jerusalem, then shal theyr hertes turne agayne vnto theyr Lord Rehoboam king of Juda. And so shal they kyl me and goo agayne to Rehoboam kinge of Juda. *
Wher vpõ the kinge toke councel & made two calues of gould & sayd vnto the people: ye shal not nede to go any more to Jerusalẽ. Behold your Gods Israel whych brought you oute of the lande of Egipte.
G And he put the one in Bethel and the other in Dan. And that doynge was a cause of synne. And the people went before the one as farre as Dan. And he made houses of hill aultars, and made of the lowest of the people prestes which were not of ỹ sonnes of Leui. And Jeroboam made a feast the xv. daye of the. viii. moneth, lyke vnto the feast that was in Juda, and offered on the aultare. And so dyd he in Bethell, to offer vnto the calues that he had made. And he put in Bethell the prestes of the hyll aultars, which he had made. And he offred vpon the aultare whych he had made in Bethel, the. xv. daye of the. viii. moneth, whyche he hadd ymagened of hys owne herte: and made a solempne feast vnto the chyldren of Israel, and wente vp to the aultar to burne sacrifice.

The. xiii. Chapter.

AND behold, there came a man
A of God out of Juda with the worde of God, to Bethell, as Jeroboã stode by the aultare to offer, & cried agaynst ỹ aultare at the cõmaundemẽt of the Lord and sayd: aultar, aultar, thus sayth the Lorde: Behold a chylde shalbe borne of the house of Dauid, Josiah by name, whych vppon the shall offer the prestes of the hyll aultars that sacrifyce vpon the, & shall burne mennes bones vpon the. And he gaue thẽ the same tyme a signe sayinge: thys is the sygne of that the Lord hath promysed. Behold the aultar shall rente and the asshes that are in it shall falle out.

And when the kynge heatde the sayB inge of the man of God which he cryed agaynste the aultar in Bethell, he stretched out hys hande from thee aultare sayinge: holde hym. And hys hande whych he putt forth towarde hym, dryed vp, that he coulde not pull it in agayne to hym & the aulter claue and the asshes came oute of the aultare accordinge to the token whych the man of God had geuen at the commaũdement of the Lord. And the king answered and sayd vnto the man of God: Oh pray vnto the Lord thy God & make intercessiõ for me, that my hande maye be restored me agayne. And the mã of God besought the Lorde, and hys hande came to hym agayne as well as before.

Thẽ sayd the king vnto ỹ man of god: come home with me & ref reshe thy selfe, & I wyl geue the a reward. But the man of God answered ỹ kyng, yf ỹ wouldest geue me halfe thine house, I wolde not go w ỹ nether wold I eate meate or drinke water in thys place. For so was it charged me, C thorow the word of God & sayd to me: eate no bread nor drinke water nor turne agayne by the same waye thou wentest. And so he wet another way & returned not by the waye he came to Bethel. And there dwelte an olde Prophet in Bethel, whose sonnes came & tolde hym all the workes that the mã of God had done that day in Bethell, & the wordes which he spake vnto ỹ king they tolde theyr father also. And their father sayd to thẽ: what way wẽt he? for hys sonnes had sene what way the mã of god went whyche came from Juda. Thẽ sayd he to his sones: sadle mine Asse. And they sadled hym an Asse. And he gat him vppe theron and went after the man of god, and found him sytting vnder an Ocke & sayd vnto him: art thou the man of god that camest frō Juda? And he sayd: yee.

D Then he sayd to him: come home wyth me & eate bread. And the other said agayn I may not returne with the, to go with the nether may I eate bread or drincke water wyth the in thys place. For it was sayd to me by the cōmaundemēt of the Lord, eate noo bread nor drincke water in thys place, nor turne agayne by the waye thou wentest. And the olde Prophet sayd vnto him I am a prophet as well as thou, & an Angel spake vnto me wyth the worde of thee Lord saying: bring hym agayne wyth the to thyne house, and let him eate bread and drinke water, & yet lyed vnto him. And so the other went agayne wyth hym and ate bread in hys house and dranke water.

E And as they sate at the table, the worde of the Lorde came vnto the Prophet that brought him agayne. And he cryed vnto ỹ man of God that came frō Juda, saying: thus saith the Lord: because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, & hast not kept the cōmaūdemēt which the Lord thy God cōmaunded the, but camest backe agayne & hast eatē bread & drōke water in ỹ place in whych he bade that thou shuldest eate noo bread nor drincke water: therfore thy carkasse shal not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And whē he had eatē bread & drōke, he sadled an Asse for the Prophete whych he had brought againe. And as he journeyed a Lyon met him by the waye & slue hym, & hys carkasse laye a long in the waye & the Asse stode therby, & the Lyon stode by the coorse also. And men that passed by, sawe F the carkasse caste a longe in the waye and thee Lyon standinge thereby, and wente and tolde it in thee Towne where the olde prophet dwelte. And when the prophete ỹ brought hym backe agayne frō the waye, heard therof, he sayde: it is the mā of God whic disobeyed ỹ mouth of ỹ Lord. And therfore ỹ lord hath deliuered hym vnto ỹ Lion which hath rent him & slayne him, accordinge to the worde of the Lord, whych he sayd to him. And he sayd to hys sonnes sadle me an Asse: & so they did. And he wēt & found the body cast along in the waye & the Asse & the lyon standing therby. And ỹ Lyon had not eaten the carkasse nor burte the Asse. And he toke vp the body of ỹ mā of God & putt it vpon the Asse & brought it agayne, & came to the cytie of the old prophete to lamente hym, and too burye hym. And he layde his body in hys owne graue and lamēted ouer him, Oh my brother. * And when he had buried him, he spake to hys sonnes sayinge: when I am dead, se ye burye me in thee sepulchre wherein thee man of god is buried, & laye my bones by hys. For the saying whiche he cryed at the bydding of the Lord agaynst the aultare in Bethel, & agaynst all the houses of hyll aultares which are in the cyties of Samarie, shal come to passe.

Go & tel Jeroboam, thus sayth the lozd God of Israel: foz as moche as I exalted the from among the comen people & made the prince ouer my people Israel, and dyd rent the kingdom away from the house of Dauid & gaue it the: & thou hast not bene as was my seruaunte Dauid, which kept my cōmaūdemētes & folowed me with all his herte, to doo that onelye whych seemeth right in myne eyes: but hast done euel abo ue al that were before the, and hast gone & made the other Gods & ymages of metall to prouoke me, & hast cast me behynde thy backe: therfoze beholde I wyl bzynge euel C vpon the house of Jeroboam and wil stry ke frō Jeroboam al that *pisseth against Greg.xrv.d the wall, & what soeuer is in prison oz foz saken in Israel, and wyl take away the rē naunt of the house of Jeroboam, as men take awaye a dong hyll, tyll it be cōsumed *And whosoeuer of Jeroboams house Ai.xxi.b, a and.xi.k dye in the towne, hym shal the dogges eat and hym that dyeth in the felde, shall thee fowles of the ayze eate: foz the Lozd hath sayd it, vp & get the to thine house, and as D sone as thy fote entereth the cytte, the ladd shall dye. Howbeit al Israel shal mourne hym and burye hym, foz thys onely of all Jeroboam shall come to the sepulchze, be cause in hym there is founde goodnesse to warde the Lozd God of Israel in the hou se of Jeroboam.

Moreouer the Lozd shal stere hym vp a king ouer Israel which shal destroye the house of Jeroboam in that day. And what is that, that is now in hād? And the Lozd shal smyte Israel, as a rede that groweth in the water is shakē, & wyll wede Israell oute of this good lande whych he gaue to their fathers, & wyll skatter thē beyounde Euphrates, because they haue made them groues to angre the Lozd. And he wyl ge ue Israell vp, because of the synne of Je roboam wherwith he dyd synne and made Israel synne therto.

And Jeroboās wyfe arose & departed E and went to Therzah, and be that she was come to the treshholde of the doze, the ladd was dead. And al Israel burye hym & la mented hym, accozdinge to the wozde of ỹ Lozde whych he spake by the hand of hys seruaunt Ahiah the Pzophet. And the rest of the dedes of Jeroboam, how he warred and how he raygned, are wzitten in the bo ke of the stozyes of the Kynges of Israell And the dayes which Jeroboam raygned were twentie and two yeare. And thē he re sted wyth his fathers, and Nadab his son ne raygned is hys steade.

And Rehoboam the sonne of Salomō F. raygned in Juda and was .xlii. yeare olde when he beganne to raygne, and raygned xvii. yeare in Jerusalem the cytye whyche the Lozde had chosen oute of al the tribes of Israel, to put hys name there. Hys mo thers name was Naamah an Ammonite. *And Juda wzought wyckednesse in the syght of the Lozd and angred hym aboue al that theyr fathers dyd, with theyr synne which they synned. Foz they also made thē hyll aultares & Images & groues on eue rye hye hyll & vnder euery grene tree. And therto ther was a stues of *malechyldzen Rab Salo in the lande, & they dyd accozding to al the abhominations, of the nations whych the Lozd cast out before the chyldzē of Israel And the fyfte yere of king Rehoboā came G Sesak king of Egipte vp to Jerusalem, and toke away the treasure of the house of the Lozd, & the treasure of the kinges hou se and al that was to be had. And he toke away the shyldes of gould *which Salo mon made. In whose steade kynge Reho- iij. The.xx. yere of Jeroboã king of Israel began Asa to raygne ouer Juda, & rueled in Jerusalẽ. xli. yere. And his mothers name was Maacah the daughter of Abesalom. And Asa dyd that semed ryght in the eyes of the Lord, lyke Dauid hys father. And he made theffues of males depart the land, & put awaye al the Idolles that hys fathers had made. And therto he put downe Maacah his mother frõ beeing rule, because she had made an Idol in a groue. And Asa destroyed her Idol & burnt it by the broke Cedron. But he putt not downe the hyl aulters. Neuertheless Asas harte was whole with ỹ Lord al his dayes. And he brought in that his father had dedicat, and the thinges dedicat vnto the house of the Lord, siluer, golde, and Jewelles. And there was warre betwene Asa and Baasa kyng of Israel al theyr dayes.

And Baasa king of Israel went vp agaynst Juda & buylt Ramah, because ỹ he wold let none of Asas people king of Juda, go in or out, The Asa toke al the siluer & gould that was lefte in the treasure of ỹ house of the Lord, & all the treasure of the kinges house & delyuered it vnto hys seruauntes, & sent thẽ to Benhadad the sõne of Tabzemon the sonne of Hezion kynge of Syria that dwelt at Damasco, saying: ther is a bond betwene the & me as was betwene thy father & myne. Therfore I send the both gold & syluer for a gift, that thou go & breake the appoyntmẽte betwene the and Baasa king of Israel, that he may departe from me. And Benhadad herkened vnto kyng Asa and sent the captaynes of the hostes whych he had agaynst the cytyes of Israel, and smote Ahion, Dan, Abel called Beth Maacah & al Cenroth wyth all the lande of Nephthali. And when Baasa heard that, he lefte buyldinge of Ramah and dwelte in Therzah. Then kynge Asa made a proclamacyon thorow out al Juda, that none shoulde be excused. And they toke the stones of Ramah & the tymber wherwyth Baasa hadde buylt, & king Asa bylte therewyth Gabaah in Benjamin and Maspha.

And the remnaũt of al the dedes of Asa and of al his mighte & of all that he dyd, & the cyties whych he bylt, are written in the chronicles of the actes done in ỹ dayes of the kinges of Juda. Neuerthelater in his olde age he was diseased in hys fete. And Asa laide him to rest with his fathers, and was buryed vỹ hys fathers in the cytte of Dauid his father. And Josaphat hys sõne raigned in his rowme. And Nadab ỹ sõne of Jeroboã began to raygne vpõ Israel the second yere of Asa kyng of Juda, & raygned vpon Israell two yere. And he dyd euel in the sight of the Lord & walked in the waye of his father and in hys synne wherwith he made Israel synne. But Baasa the sonne of Ahiah of the house of Issacar cõspired agaynst him, & slue him at Gebethõ a citie of ỹ Philistines for Nadab & all Israell laye at seage before Gebethon. And it was the thyrd yere of Asa kinge of Juda, whẽ Baasa slue him, & raygned in his stede. And as sone as he was kyng, he slue al the house of Jeroboam & left hym naught that brethed, vntil he had put him cleane out, agreing vnto the saying of the Lorde whyche he spake by hys seruaunte in the name of the Lorde. And he made a gutter rounde about the aulter, able to receaue two peckes of corne. And he put the wood in order, and hewed the ore in pe-ces, and put hym on the wood, & sayd: fyl foure pitchers wyth water and powre it on ȳ sacrifice and on ȳ wood. And he sayde: do so agayne. And they did so againe.

Then he sayd: do it the thyrde tyme. And they did so the thirde tyme. And the water

The .xix. Chapter.

And Ahab tolde Jezabell, all ȳ Eliah had done, and altoge ther how he had slaine ȳ prophetes with the swerd. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Eliah sayinge: * so do God to me & so therto, except I make thy soule like one of theires, by to morowe thys tyme: when he saw ȳ, he arose & went for his life, & came to Berseabe in Juda, & lefte his lad there.
And he went a dayes Journey into ȳ wil dernesse, and whē he was come sat downe vnder a Gīnaper tree, and desired for hys soule, that he mygbt die, & said, * it is now ynough O lorde, take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.

And as he lay and slept vnder the Gīnaper tree: beholde, ther came an angell & touched him, & saide vnto him: vp & eate.

And he looked aboute hym: and se, there was a loffe of bzoyled bzeade and a cruse of water at his heed. And he ate and dzãcke and layde hym downe agayne to slepe. And the Angel of the Lozd came agayne ỹ seconde tyme and touched him, & said: vp and eate, foz thou hast a long Journey to go. And he arose & dyd eate & dzynck and went in the strength of that meate fourtie dayes and fourtie nightes, vnto Hozeb ỹ mount of God, & entered ther into a caue and lodged ther all nyght.

And then ỹ woozd of the Lozde came to him & sayde what doest thou here, Eliah? And he answered: I haue bene *†thozow angry foz ỹ lozd god of Hostes sake. Foz the chyldzen of Israel haue forsake thy couenãte, & haue bzoke downe thine aulters & slayne the Pzophetes with the swerde, & I onlye am lefte, & they seke my soule to haue it too. And he said come out & stãd before the Lozde. And behoilde, the lozd wẽte by & a mightie stzõge wynde that rent the moũtaynes & bzake ỹ rockes before hym. But ỹ Lozd was not in the wynd. And after the wind came an erthy quake. But the Lozd was not in the erthe quake. And after the erthe quake, came fire: but the lozd was not in the fyze. And after ỹ fyze, came a small still voyce. And when Eliah heard it, he couered his face with his mantle, & went out & stode in the mouthe of ỹ caue. And se, there came a voyce vnto hym and saide: what doest thou here Eliah? And he answered: I was gelouse foz the lozd god of Hostes sake: because ỹ childzẽ of Israel haue forsaken thyne appoyntment and haue cast downe thyne aulters and slayne thy prophetes with ỹ swerde, & I only am lefte, & they seke my soule to haue it. Then ỹ Lozd sayde vnto him: go and turne thy way to the wildernes of Damasco, & go & annoynte Hazaell to be kynge of Syria. And Jehu the sonne of Namsi, annoynte to be kynge ouer Israel. And Elizeus the ¶ sonne of Saphat of Abell Mehulah annoynte to be Pzophete in thy rowme. And whoso escapeth ỹ swerd of Hazael, hi shal Jehu slaie: & yf any man scape the swerde of Jehu, hym shal Elizeus slaie. And ther to I haue lefte me seuẽ thousãd in Israel, of which neuer man bowed his knees vnto *†Baal noz kissed him with his mouth.

And he departed thence and found Elizeus the sonne of Saphat plowyng with twelue pock of oxen before him, and he ẅ the twelue. And Eliah wẽte to him & caste his mãtell vpon him. And he lefte the oxẽ & ranne after Eliah & sayde: let me I pzay the, kysse my father & mother, & thẽ I will folow the. And he layde to hym: go backe agayne, foz what haue I done to ỹ? And he went backe againe from after him and toke a pocke of oxen and slue them, & dzessed the flesshe with the instrumentes of the oxen and gaue it the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose and went after Eliah and ministred vnto him.

¶ The first and second time that Samaria was beseged of Benhadad kyng of Syria.

The. xx. Chapter.

AND Benhadad kyng of Syria geathered all hys hoste together, and. xxxii. kynges ẅ hym, wyth hozse and charett: and wente vp and beseged Samaria and warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kinge of Israell into the cytye, and sayde vnto hym: thus sayth Benhadad. Thy syluer and thy gould is mine, & the best of thy wiues, and the best of thy chyldzẽ be myne. And ỹ kinge of Israel answered and sayde: my lozd king according to thy saying, I am thine wyth all I haue.

And the messengers came againe to Ahab and sayde: thus sayth Benhadad. I haue therfoze sent vnto the, sayinge: delyuer me then thy syluer and thy gould, and thy wiues, & thy chyldzen. Oz elle I wyll sende my seruauntes vnto the by to moroẅ this time: & they shal serch thine house, & ỹ houses of thy seruaũtes, which shal take all that is glozyous in thyne eyes, and bzynge it awaye withe them. Then ¶ the kinge of Israell sent the elders of the land and sayde: take hede I pzay you & se, howe how thys felowe goeth aboute myschcue. For he sent vnto me, for my wyues & my children, and my syluer and my goulde: & I denyed hym nothynge of it. And all the elders of Israel & all the people sayd: herken not to him nor consent.

Wherupon he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my Lord the king all that he sent for the fyrste tyme, that I wyll do: but this requeste I maye not do. And the messengers departed & broughte hym woorde. Then Benhadad sent vnto him and said: thus do the gods to me & so therto, yf ꝑ dust of Samaria be ynoughe for al the people that folow me, that euery man maye haue an handefull. And the kyng of Israel answered and sayde: tell him, let not him that puttethe on hys harnesse bost him self, as he ꝑ putteth it of*. And when Benhadad hearde that tydynges, as he and the kinges were drincking in ꝑ paupilliõs, he sayde vnto hys seruaũtes: put ye in aray. And they put them selues in arate agaynst the cytye.

C And behold there came a Prophet vnto Ahab kig of Israel, & said to him: thus saith the Lorde. Seyst thou al this great multitude? behold, I wyl deliuer thẽ into thyne hãd this day, that thou mayst knowe ꝑ I am the Lorde. And Ahab sayd, by whome? And he sayd thus sayth the lord: euẽ by the men of the gouernoures of the shires. And Ahab sayd: who shal ioyne batayle? And he sayd, thou. Then he nõbred the men of the gouerners of the shyres: & they were two hundred & .xxxii. And after thẽ he nombred all the people, and all the chyldren of Israell were seuen thousand. And they went out at none whẽ Bẽhadad was a dryncking strõg drincke in the paupilliõs wyth the .xxxii. kinges that holpe hym. And the mẽ of the shyres of ꝑ shires went out fyrste.

And Benhadab sẽt out, & they shewed him saying: ther came mẽ out of Samaria. And he sayd: yf they come out for peace, take thẽ a lyue. And also yf they come for warre, take them yet alyue. And when D those mẽ of the shyres of the shires were come out of ꝑ cytie and ꝑ host after them, they slue euery one of them hys mã. And the Siriens fled, and Israel folowed after them. And Bẽhadad the kynge of Siria scaped on a horse wyth his horsemen. And the kynge of Israel went out & smote horse and charett, & slue a great slaughter of the Sirians.

Thẽ ther came a Prophet to the kinge of Israel, and said to him: go forth & play the man, be wise and take hede what thou doest: for whẽ the yere is about, the kynge of Siria will come agaynste the agayne. Then sayd the seruauntes of the kynges of Siria to him: the goddes of the hylles are their Gods, and therfore they had the better of vs. But let vs fyght with them in the playne, & for what ye wyll, we shall haue the better of them. And this do: take ꝑ kiges away euery mã out of hys place, & put dukes in their rowmes. And do ꝑ nõ bre ꝑ an host, lyke ꝑ hoste ꝑ thou hast lost, & horse for horse & charette for charette, & let vs fight wt thẽ in ꝑ plaine, & for a wager, we get ꝑ better of thẽ. And ꝑ king herkened vnto their voyce and dyd euen so.

And as sone as the yere was about, Bẽhadad nõbred ꝑ Siriens & went vp to Aphek to warre wt Israel. And the chyldren E of Israel were nombred & prouided of vitayle, & went against thẽ, & pitched before them lyke two lytle flockes of kiddes: but the Sirians fylled the countreye. Then there came a man of God & sayde vnto ꝑ kyng of Israell thus sayth the Lord. Because the Siriens say, ꝑ the Lord is but a God of the hilles, & not God of ꝑ valeyes to: therfore will I delyuer all thys greate multitude into thyne hand ꝑ ye may knowe ꝑ I am the lord. And they pytched one ouer against ꝑ other .vii. dayes, and the seuẽth daye ioyned batayle. And the childrẽ of Israel slue of the Sirians an hundred thousãd fote mẽ in one daye. And the rest fled to Aphek into the cittie. And ther fel a wall vpõ .xxvii. thousãd of thẽ that were left. And Benhadad fled & went into ꝑ cittie, from chambre to chambre.

Then sayd his seruauntes vnto hym: behold, we haue hearde saye, that the kinges of the house of Israel are mercyeful kynges. Let vs put sack cloth aboute our loines & ropes about our heedes, & go out to ꝑ king of Israel: happly he wyl saue thy lyfe. And they guirded sack clothe about their loines & put ropes about their heedes, & went out to the kynge of Israel and sayd: thy seruaunte Benhadad sayth, I praye the let me lyue. And he sayd: is he yet a liue? what he is my brother. And they toke the word for good lucke and hastely caught it out of hys mouth & sayd yee thy brother Benhadad. Then he sayd: go and bringe hym. And Benhadad came out to hym, and the other toke hym vp into the chaiett. And Benhadad sayde: the cytyes whych my father toke from thy father, I wyll restore agayne. And thou shalt make streates for the in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyll make an appoyntment wyth the and sent the awaye. And so made an appoyntment wythe him and sent hym awaye.

Then a certen man of the chyldren of ỹ Prophetes sayde vnto hys felowe wythe the worde of the Lord, smyte me I praye the. And the mā wold not smite him. And he sayde, because thou hast not obeyed the voyce of the Lorde: beholde, as sone as ỹ art departed from me a lyon shal slay the. And as sone as he was departed frō him, *a Lyon found him and slue him. Thē he founde a nother man & saide to him: smite me I pray ỹ. And ỹ man gaue him a good stripe & woūded him. And ỹ prophete wēt forthe & wayted for the kyng by the waye & put asshes vpō his eyes, & put him selfe out of knowledge. And when the kynge came by, he cried vnto him & sayd, thy seruaunt wēt out in the middes of the battel. And se, ther was one beganne to flee. And there came a man to me & sayde: kepe this mā. And if he be missed thy life shalgo for hys, or else thou shalt paye a talente of syluer. And as thy seruaunt had here & there to do, he was gone. And the kyng of Israel said vnto him: euē so shal thy iudgemēt be as thou haste defined it thy selfe.

And he hasted & toke the asshes awaye from his eies: & the kinge of Israel knew him, that he was of the prophetes. And he sayd vnto the kinge, thus saith the Lorde: because thou hast lett go a mā that ought to haue dyed, thy lyfe shal go for hys life, & thy people for his. And the king of Israel wente to his house waywarde & heuie, & entred into Samaria.

¶ Jezabel cōmaundeth to kyl Naboth, for ỹ vineyard that he refused to sell Ahab. Helias reproueth Ahab, and he repenteth.

The. xxi. Chapter.

After these thinges were done, it chaunced that Naboth the Jezrahelite had a vyneyarde in Jezrahel hard by the palace of Ahab king of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth saying: lett me haue thy vyneyarde, to make me a gardē of yerbes therof, because it lyeth so nye my house: and I wyll geue the a better vyneyard for it: or yf it playse ỹ I wyl geue the, ỹ worth of it in syluer. But Naboth saide to Ahab: the lord forbidde that from me, ỹ I shulde geue the enheritaūce of my fathers vnto the.

Then wēt Ahab vnto hys house wayward and euel apaide, because of the wordes which Naboth ỹ Jezrahelite had spoken to him saying: I wyll not geue to the, the enheritaūce of my fathers. And he layde hym downe vpon hys becd & turned awaye hys face, and wolde eate no meate. And then Jezabel his wyfe came to hym, & sayde vnto him: why art thou so frowarde, that thou eatest no meate? And he sayd vnto her, I spake vnto Naboth ỹ Jezrahelite, & sayd vnto him: geue me thy vineyarde for syluer, or else yf thou wylte, I wyll geue the another vyneyarde for it. And he sayde: I wyl not geue the my vyneyarde.

Thē sayd Jezabel hys wife vnto him: what a goodly kyngdome wher thou able to make in Israel? vp & eate meate & sette thyne hert at rest, for I wil geuē ỹ the vineyarde of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And she wrote a letter in Ahabs name and sealed it wt his seale, & sēt it vnto the elders & chefe men of hys cytie that dwelt wher Naboth dwelte. And she wrote in the letter saying: proclayme fastynge and sette Naboth on hye among the people, and set two vnthryfte tes before hym, and let thē testifie against hym sayinge: thou dydest curse bothe god and the kynge. And vpon that carye hym out and stone hym to deeth.

And ỹ elders & nobles of his citie, whyche dwelt in hys citie, did as Jezabel had sete vnto thē, & as it was writtē in the letter which she had sent vnto them. They proclaimed fasting, & sett Naboth an hie amōge the people, & ther came in two vnthryfte persones & sate before hym. And ỹ two vnthryfte persones witnessed agaīst Naboth before ỹ people sayinge Naboth did curse God and the king.* And vpō ỹ they carted him out of the citie & stoned him wt stones to deeth. And then they sente to Jezabel saynge: Naboth is stoned to dethe. Act.vii.g.

¶ And when Jezabell hearde that Naboth was stoned to deeth: she sayd to Ahab: vp and take possessyō of the vyneyard of Naboth, the Jezahelite, which he denied to geue the for syluer, for Naboth is not a liue, but deed. And when Ahab heard that Naboth was deed. He stode vp to go down to the vyneyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite, to take possession of it.

And ỹ word of ỹ lord came vnto Eliah ỹ Thesbite saying: vp & go downe to mete Ahab kyng of Jsrael which is in Samaria Beholde, he is in the vyneyarde of Naboth: for he is gone downe thyther, to take possessyon of it. And saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lord, thou haste killed & thereto gottē possessyon. And saye moreouer vnto him, thus sayth the Lord: in ỹ place where ¶ dogges lapped the bloud of Naboth, shal dogges lapp euen thy bloud also. And Ahab said to Eliah: hast thou foūd me thine enemye at any tyme? And he sayde yee, because thou art vtterly geuen to worck wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde. Behold, I wil bryng euel vpon the, & wil make cleane riddance of the, & wil destroye vnto Ahab all ỹ pysseth agaynst the walle, and yf ought be preserued or forsaken in Jsrael: & will make thine house, lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, & lyke the house of Baasa ỹ sonne of Ahiah, for the angeryng wherwyth thou hast angered, and made Jsrael synne.

And therto against Jezabel came ỹ worde of the Lord saynge: dogges shall eate Jezabel, vnder the* walles of Jezrahell. And he ỹ dyeth of Ahab in the towne, him shall dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the feldes, him shal the foules of the ayre eat. For ther was none at all like Ahab, ỹ was so vtterly geuē to woorcke wickednesse in the sight of the Lorde and that because Jezabel his wyfe prycked him forward. And therfore he dyd exceding abhominably, in folowing Idoles, in al thinges like as did the Ammorites which ỹ Lord cast out before the children of Jsrael.

When Ahab hearde those wordes, *he rēt his clothes & put sackecloth about his flesshe and fasted, and laye in sack and wēt cōfortlesse. And the word of the lord came to Eliah the Thesbite saynge: seyste thou how Ahab humbleth himselfe before me: because he so submytteth hym selfe before me, I wyl not bringe that euel in his dayes: but in his sonnes dayes, I wyll bringe euel vpon his house.

¶ Foure hundreth false Prophetes do cōcel Ahab and Jehosaphat to warre against Ramoth: only Micheah prophesyeth the truthe, for which he is smitē and put in prison.

The.xxii.Chapter.

And they contynued three yere wythout warre betwene Sitia and Jsrael.* And ỹ third yere Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, came to the kynge of Jsrael. Then sayd the kynge of Jsrael vnto his seruauntes, know ye not that Ramoth in Galaad is ours, and we sytt stylle and take it not oute of the handes of the kyng of Sitia? And he sayd vnto Jehosaphat: wylte thou go with me to batayle, to Ramoth in Galaad? B Thē said Eliah to Eliseus: tary heare a felowship, for the Lord hath sent me to Jericho. And he sayd: as surely as the lord lyueth, & as surely as thy soule liueth, I wil not leaue the, and so they went to Jericho. And the chyldrē of the Prophetes ẏ were at Jericho came to Eliseus and sayd vnto hym: art thou not ware that ẏ Lorde wyl take away thy master frō ẏ this day? And he āswered: I know it also, hold your peace. And Eliah sayd to him: tary I pray the here, for the Lorde hath sent me to Jordā. But he sayd: as surely as the Lord lyueth and as thy soule lyueth, I wyl not leaue ẏ And so they went both of them to geather. And fyftie men of the sonnes of the Prophetes went & stode in syght a farre of, as they two stode by Jordan.

And Eliseus sawe & cried: O my father, O my father, the charet of Israell and the horsmē therof, & saw him nomore and therfore toke hys owne clothes & rent them in two peces.

And thē he toke vp the mantell of Elias that fell frō hym, & wente backe agayne & stode by Jordās syde, & toke the mantel of Elias that fell frō hym, & smote the water and sayd: wher is the Lord God of Elias where is he? And when he had smitē ꝑ water it deuided part this waye & part ꝑ way and Eliseus went ouer. And the chyldren of the Prophetes of Jericho whych sawe hym frō a farre, sayde: the spryte of Elias doth reste on Eliseus, and wente agaynst hym & bowed to the earth vnto hym. And they sayde vnto hym: see, there be amonge thy seruaūtes fyftie lustye men: let thē go and seke thy master: happely the spryte of the Lorde hath taken hym vp & caste hym vpon some mountayne or in some valeye, And he sayde: sende not. Neuertheless yet they laye vpon him, tyll he was a shamed, and sayd: sende, and they sente fyftye men whych sought hym thre dayes & thre nyghtes, but founde him not. And they came agayne to him, for he taried at Jericho. And he sayde to them, dyd I not saye vnto you that ye shulde not go.

Thē the mē of Jericho said to Eliseus behold the citie standeth pleasantly as my Lorde seyth, but the water is naught and the ground barē. And he sayd: bring me a newe cruse and put salte therein. And they brought it to hym. And he wente vnto the spryngs of the water & cast the salt in thyther, & sayd thus sayth the Lorde: I heale thys water, ther shall not come henceforth ether deathe or barennesse. And the water was helthsome euer after according to the saying of Eliseus whych he spake.

And he went frō thence vp to Bethell. And as he was goyng vp in the way, ther came lytle laddes out of the citie and mocked him, and said to him: go vp thou bald head, goo vp thou bald head. And he turned backe and looked on them and cursed them in the name of the Lorde. ¶ And ther came twoo Beares oute of the wood and tare. xlii. of the boyes. And he wente from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence went agayne to Samaria.

The. iiij. Chapter.

And the creditor is come to fett my two sonnes, to be his bondemen. And Elisseus sayd to her: What shal I do for the? Tell me, whathast thou in thine house? And she sayde thine handmayde hath nothinge at all in her house, saue a pytcher wyth oyle. And he sayd: Go & borow the in other places, of all thy neyboures, emptye vesselles and that not a fewe. And thẽ go and shutt the doze to the and to thy sonnes, & powre out into all those vesselles, and putte the full alwaye a syde.

And she wẽt frõ him, & shut the doze to her & to her sõns. And they brought to her, & she powred out. And when the vesselles were ful, she said to her sonne: bryng yet a vessel. And he sayd: ther is no mo. And thẽ the oyle ceased. Then she came & tolde the mã of god. And he said: go & sel the Oyle and paye thy creditor. And liue thou & thy chyldren of the rest.

And it fell on a day, that Elisseus came to Sunam, where was a ryche woman ẏ toke him in for to eate breed. And as ofte as he came that waye, he turned in thither to eate breed. And she sayde vnto her husbande: se, I perceaue that the man of god is perfecte, & cometh alway by vs. Let vs make hym a chambre wyth a lytle wall, & let vs set him there a beed, a table, a stole & a candelstycke ỹ he maye turne in thither, when he cometh to vs.

And it fortuned one a tyme ỹ he came
C thyther & turned into the chambre and lay there. Then he sayde to Gihezi his seruaũt: cal this Sunamite. And he called her, & she came before him. And Eliseus sayde to him, saye to her I pray the: se, thou hast made all thys prouision for vs, what shal we do for the? woldeste thou be spoken for to the king or to the captaine of ỹ host? And she sayde * I dwell amonge myne owne people. Then he sayde, what is to be done for her? And Gihezi sayd: Verely she hath no chylde, and her husbande is olde. And he sayd: call her. And he called her. And she came and stode at the doore. Then he sayd: by soch a tyme, as sone as ỹ frute can liue, thou shalt embrace a sõne. and she saide, Oh naye my Lorde thou mã of god do not lie vnto thine hãdmaid. And ỹ wife conceaued and bare a sonne ỹ same season that Eliseus had said vnto her as sone as the frute coulde haue lyfe.

And when the ladd was great, it fell on a daye, that he went out to his father, to ỹ haruestmẽ. And there he cõplayned to his
D father, my heed, my heed. And his father sayde to a ladd, carye hym to his mother. And he toke him & brought him to his mother. And he sat on her knees til none & thẽ dyed. And she caryed hym vp & layd hym on the bedde of the man of god, and shut ỹ doore to him, & wẽt out, and came to her husbãde and sayde: sende me one of ỹ young men & an asse that I maye rũne to the mã of God. And he saide: wherfore wylt thou go to him to daye, whyle it is neither newe mone nor Saboth daye. And she sayd: be content. Then she sadelled an Asse & sayd to the ladd: leade awaye and make me not cease rydyng, vntyll I byd the.

And so she went & came vnto the man of god, to moũt Carmel. And whẽ the mã of God saw her a farre, he sayde to Gihezi hys seruaunt: se, wher oure seruaunte cometh. Now rũne against her, * & aske her, whether it be all well wyth her, and wyth her husbãd and with the lad. And she sayde: all is wel. Thẽ she wente to the man of god vp to ỹ hil and caught him by ỹ fete. And Gihezi wẽt to her, to thrust her away. But the man of god said: let her a lone, for her soule is vexed, and the Lord hath hyd it from me and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayde: dyd I desyre a sonne of my lorde? dyd I not saye, that thou shuldeste not brynge me in a foles Paradyse.

Then he sayde to Gihezi: gyrde vp thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hãde & awaye. If anye man mete the, salute hym not. And yf any salute the, ãswere him not agayne. And put my staffe vpon the boy. Not withstandynge the mother of ỹ chylde sayde: * as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, I wyl not leaue the. And then he arose and folowed her. Gihezi went before them and put the staffe vpon the ladd. But there was nether voyce nor attending. And then he wẽt agayne against his master and told hym saying: it hath not awaked the ladd.

When Eliseus was come to ỹ house: Beholde, ỹ ladd was deed & layde vpon hys bed. And he went in & shut the doore to the lad & him, & prayed vnto the Lord. * And he wẽt vp & laye vpon the ladd, & put hys mouth on hys mouth, and his eyes on hys eyes, & the palme of his handes on the palme of hys hãdes, and spred him self vpõ ỹ lad that the flesh of the child waxed warme. And wẽt agayne & walked once vp & downe in ỹ house, and thẽ went vp & spred him self vpõ him. And thẽ the lad neesed seuẽ times & opened hys eyes. And he called gihezi & said: cal for this Sunamite. And he called her. And whẽ she was come to hi, he said: * take thy sõne. Thẽ she wẽt & fel at his fete & bowed her self to the groũd, & toke vp her sõne & wẽt out. Whẽ Eliseus was come to Galgal agayne, there was a dearth in the lande, and the children of the prophetes dwelt wyth him. Then he sayd to his seruaũt, put on a great pot, & make pottage for ỹ children of ỹ prophets. And one wẽt out into the felde, to geather herbes, & found as it were a wylde vyne, and gethered therof Coloquintydaes his lappful, & came & shred thẽ into the pott of potage, they vnwetynge. And they powred out for the men to eate. And whẽ they had

There came a man from Baalsalisa and broughte the man of God bredde of fyrst frutes, euen .xx. loues of barleye, and new corne in a cloth he had. And Eliseus bade put it before the people that they myghte eate. Then hys mynister sayd: what shulde I set this before an hundred men? And he sayde: sett it before the people and lette them eate. For thus sayth the Lorde: they shal eate and leaue. And he sett it before them, and they eate and left according to ỹ worde of the Lorde.

¶ Naamā ỹ Syriē is healed of his leprosie. Giezi is stricken with a leprosie because he toke money & rayment of Naaman.

The. v. Chapter.

A NAaman captayne of the Host to ỹ kig of Syria, was great wt his master & well takē: for thorow hym the Lorde saued Syria. And he was an actiue man, and yet a leper. And there had gone a companie of Soudyoures oute of Syria a rumyng, and had broughte oute of the contreye of Israel a lytle mayde, whyche was with Naamās wife. And the Damosell sayde vnto her ladye: I wolde my master were with a prophet that is in Samaria: he wolde deliuer hym of hys leprosye. And she went & told her husband saying: thus & thus saith ỹ maide ỹ is out of ỹ lāde of Israel. And the king of Syria said: go thy waye, and I wyl sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israel. And he went & toke wyth hym ten talentes of siluer & .vi. thousande peces of goulde, and ten chaung of rayments. And he brought the letter to ỹ kyng of Israel cōtaynynge thys tenoure. Now when this letter is come vp to ỹ: Beholde I haue sent Naaman my seruaunt to the, that thou shuldest rydde him of his leprosie. And when the king of Israel had reade ỹ letter, he rent hys clothes & sayd: * am I god, to sley & to make a lyue, that he shuld sende to me, for to delyuer a mā frō his leprosie. But consider I pray you & se, how he pyketh quarelles wt me. And whē Eliseus the man of God, hard howe that the kyng of Israell had rente hys clothes, he sent to the kynge sayinge: Wherfore hast thou rent thy clothes? let him come to me, that he maye knowe that there is a prophete in Israel.

And Naaman came with his horses & his charet, and stode at ỹ dore of Eliseus. Thē Eliseus sent a messenger saying: go & washe the in Jordā seuē tymes, and thy flesh shall come agayne to the as before, & thou shalte be cleane. And Naaman was wroth and wēt awaye, and sayd: Behold, I thought in my selfe, he wold haue come out, & stande & call on the name of the lord hys God, & put hys hande on the place of the dysease, and so take awaye ỹ leprosye. Are not Abanah and Pharphar, riuers of Damasco, better then al the waters of Israel? Myghte I not rather washe in them and be cleane? And so he turned and departed in an angre. Then came his seruauntes and communed wt him and sayd: Father yf the prophet had bydd the done some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? How moche rather then shuldeste thou do it, while he saith to ỹ onlie, wash & be cleane. * Then he wēt downe & washed seuen times in Jordā, as the mā of God bade, & his flesh chaunged, lyke vnto the flesh of a lytle boye, and he was cleane. Luke. iiii. e.

Thē he turned agayne the mā of God & all his companye with him, and came & stode before hym & sayde. Behold I know that there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israel. And now I pray the take a blessing of thy seruaūt. But he said * as surely as ỹ lord lyueth before whome I stand, I wyll receaue none. And the other wolde haue cōstrained him to receaue: but he wolde not do it. And Naaman sayde, yf thou wylte not: yet I praye the, maye there not be geuen to thy seruaunte the burthen of two mules of erthe. For thy seruaunt wyl hencefoorthe offer nether burntesacryfice nor offeryng vnto anye other God, then to the Lorde. But herein the Lord be mercyful to thy seruaunte, for whē my master goeth into the house of Remō to worshyp there, he * leaneth on myne hād, & I muste worshippe in the house of Remon, lett the Lorde I praye the be mercyfull vnto thy seruaūt in this case. And he sayd to hi: go in peace. And when he was departed from hym him a furlong of grouñd, Gihezi ỹ seruañt of Eliseus the mã of god, said: se, my master hath kept of, this Syrien Naaman ỹ he wold not receaue of his hand ỹ he offered. As surely as the Lorde lyueth I wyll runne after him & take somewhat. And so Gihezi went after Naamã. And whẽ Naamã saw him come running after hym, he came downe of ỹ charet against him & said: *is al well? And he sayd yee.

iiij.Re.iiij.d But my master hath sent me sayinge: se, ther be two young men come to me out of Ephraim of the chyldrẽ of the prophetes: geue thẽ I pray the, one talẽt of siluer & a couple of good garmẽtes. And Naa-
G mã saide: auenture and take two talentes of syluer in two bagges, with two goodly garmentes, & delyuered them vnto two of his seruañtes, to beare it before hym. And he went in the darcke & toke it of their hãdes & bestowed it in the house, and lett the men go, and they departed.

Then he wente & stode before hys master. And Eliseus sayd to him: whence cometh Gihezi? And he sayde: thy seruaunte wẽt no whether. And he said: wẽt not mine herte wt the, when the man turned & came of his charet agaynst the? Is it a tyme to receaue siluer & to receaue garmẽtes, oliue trees, vyneyardes, oxen, shepe men seruañtes and maydeseruauntes? The leprosye therfore of Naamã cleaue vnto the, & vnto thy seede for euer. * And he wẽt out frõ him a leper as white as snow.

¶ Eliseus maketh yron to swimme aboue the water. The Syriens besiege Israel, so that. ii. wemẽ agree together to eate their owne chyldren.

The. vi. Chapter.

A THen sayde the children of the prophetes vnto Heliseus: se, the place wher we dwel wt ỹ is to lytle for vs. Let vs ther take euery mã a beame & byld vs a place ther, to dwel in. And he said: goo ye. And one sayde: begynne I praye the, and go with thy seruauntes. And he sayde: I will, and so wente with them.

And when they came to Iordan, they cutt downe wood. And as one was heuinge of a beame, ỹ axe heed fel into ỹ water. And he cryed oute & sayde: Alasse master:
B for it was lẽt me. And the mã of god said: Where fel it? And he shewed him ỹ place. And he cut an helue and cast it in thyther, and made the axe heed swimme. And he sayde: take it vp to the. And the other stretched his hand and caught it.

And the king of Syria fought against Israell, and toke councell wythe his seruauntes saying: In soche a place and in soch a place wyll I pytche. And the man of God sent vnto the kyng of Israel sayinge: Beware thou go not by soche a place, for there are the Syrians gone downe. And the kynge of Israel sent to the place whyche the man of God tolde hym and warned him of, & saued him self ther more then once or twyse.

And the hert of the king of Syria was troubled therwith, ỹ he sent for his seruañtes & sayde to them: * wyl ye not shewe me whych of vs telleth the kynge of Israell. And one of his seruauntes sayd: naye my Lorde kyng: Eliseus the prophet that is in Israel, he tellyth the kyng of Israel the wordes that thou speakest in thy slepyng chambre. Then he saide: go and spie wher he is that I may sende & fet him. And one
G told the kynge sayinge: se, he is in Dothã. And he sẽt thyther horse & charettes and a great host. And they came thither by night and compased the towne about.

And whẽ the seruañt of the mẽ of god rose vp erly and was gone oute: Beholde: ther was an host rounde about the towne wt horses and charettes. Then sayde hys lad to him: Alasse master, what shal we do? And he sayde: feare not, ther are mo wyth vs then wt them. And Eliseus prayed and D sayde: Lorde open the eyes of the younge man, & he sawe. And beholde, ỹ mountayne was full of horses and charettes of fyre rounde about Eliseus. And when the soudiars came downe to him, Eliseus prated vnto the Lorde and sayd. Smite thys people with blindnesse. And he smote them wt blyndnes accordyng to the desyre of Eliseus. Thẽ Eliseus sayd vnto thẽ this is not ỹ way, nor this is not ỹ towne: But folow me and I wyll bryng you out to the mã ye seke. And he ledd them to Samaria.

E Whẽ they were come to Samaria, Eliseus sayde: Lord, open their eyes & let thẽ se. And the Lorde opened their eyes ỹ they saw. And behold they were in ỹ middes of Samaria. And then sayde the kynge of Israell vnto Elizeus when he sawe them:

shal I smyte the? shal I smyte the father And he sayd: smyte the not. But smyte the thou takest wyth thyne owne swerde and with thyne owne bowe. But set bread and water before them, & let them eate & drinke and go to theyr master. And he made grea te ordinaunce before them. And when they had eaten and droncke, sent the away, and they went to theyr mayster. And so ỹ Sou dyoures of Syria came noo more into the lande of Israel.

After this Benhadad kynge of Syria geathered all the hoste, and wet & beseged Samaria. And ther arose great dearth in Samaria: for they had beseged it, vntyll an Asses head was worth foure skore sy= of doues dong worth fyue sycles. And as the kyng of Israel walked vpon the wal= les ther cryed a womã to him, saying: help my Lord king. And he sayd: Nay, the lord helpe the. But wherwith shuld I help the, wyth corne or wyne? Then sayd the kyng to her: what ayleth the? And she answered thys womã here said to me, bring thy sõne and let vs eate hym to daye, & we wyl eate myne to morowe. * And so we dressed my sonne & dyd eate hym. And I sayde to her another day, bring thy sonne that we may eate him. But she hath hid her sõne. Whe the king hearde the wordes of the woman he rent his clothes euẽ as he was walking on the walles. And when the people loked vpõ him: se, he was clothed in sack vnder.

Thẽ he sayd: God do so & so to me: yf the head of Eliseus the sõne of Saphat tarie on him thys day. And as Eliseus satte in hys house and the elders wythe hym: thee kyng sent one from hym. But yet the mes= senger came at him, he sayde to the elders:
se you not how the sonne of thys murthe= rar hath sent, to take of myne head? be cir= and shut the doze, & thrust him backe ther= to hym. And he sayde: behold, thys euel is of the Lord, what moare shall we loke for of the Lorde.

The. viii. Chapter.

Then Heliseus sayd: heare the woꝛde of the Lorde: for thus sayth the Lorde: to morowe thys tyme a bousshell of fyne flowre shalbe solde for a sicle & two boushelles of Barleye for a nother in the gates of Samaria. Then a greate Lorde on whose hande the king leaned, an swered the man of God and saide, though the Lord wold make windowes in heauẽ, yet wold not this be. And he said agayne:
Beholde, thou shalte se it wyth thyne eyes and shalt not eate thereof.

And ther were foure lepers set with out the gate of Samaria. And they sayd eche to hys cõpanion, what sytt we here vntyll we die? though we thought that we might come into ỹ cytie, yet is the dearth so great in ỹ citie, that we shal ther dye. And yf we tarye here, we ar but dead also. Now ther= fore come & let vs fle to the Host of the Sy rias: Yf they saue our lyues, we shal lyue And yf they kyll vs, thẽ are we dead. And so they arose in the darke to go to the host of the Syrians. And whẽ they were come to the syde of the Hoste of Syria: se, there was no man there.

For the Lord had made the hoste of the Syrias heare a noyse of charetes & a noy se of horses, & the noyse of a great Hoste.
In so moch that they sayd one to another:
se, the kynge of Israel hath hyred against vs, the kynges of the Hethites & the kyn= ges of Egypte, to come vpõ vs. And vpõ that they arose and fled in the darke, & left theyr tentes, theyr horses, theyr Asses and the felde they had pitched euen as it was, and fled for theyr lyues. And when these le pers came too the edge of the Hooste, they went into a tente and dyd eate and drinke and caryed thence syluer, gould & raymẽt and wente & hyd it: and came agayne and entered into another, and caryed thence al so, and went and hyd it.

Then they sayd one to another: it is not wel that we doo, for this daye is a daye to bring tidinges. And yf we hold our peace & tarye tyl it be daye light, we shal finde a mischeue. Now therfore come, let vs go & tel the kynges housholde. And so they wẽt and called to the porter of the citie & tolde them sayinge: we came to the Pauylyons

of the Sirians: & se ther was no mā ther, neyther voyce of man, but horsses & Asses tyed, & the tentes euen as they were.

Then the porters called & tolde the kinges house within. And the kmg arose in ỹ night and sayd to his seruauntes: I wyll shewe you, how the Sirians haue serued vs. They know that we ar oppressed with hungre, & therfore ar gone out of theyr pauilions to hyde thē selues in the felde saytinge: They wyll come out of the cytie, and thē we shal catche thē a lyue & get into the cittie. And one of his seruaūtes answered & sayd: Let mē take fyue of the horsses that remayne & are left in the cittie. Behold they are as good as all thee multitude that are left in the cytie: and as good as al the multitude of the cytie that are consumed, and let vs send and se. And they toke two charettes of horses, & the kinge sente after the Hoste of the Siriens sayinge: go and se. And they folowed after them euen vnto

And the messengers returned and told the kyng. And then the people went oute & robbed the tentes of the Sirians. And so a bushel of flowre was solde for a sycle, & two busshulles of barley for a sycle, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde. And the kyng set the Lorde on whose hand he leaned, to kepe ỹ gate. And the people troade hym in the gate, that he dyed, accordyng to the sayinge of ỹ mā of God whych he sayd when the king came downe to him. And it came to passe accordīng to the word of the man of god to the king sayinge: two bushelles of barleye for a sicle & a bushel of flowre for another shalbe to morowe thys tyme in the gates of Samaria. And the Lord answered the man of God and sayd though the Lord made wyndowes in heauen, yet wolde thys not be. And the other sayde: Beholde, thou shalt se it with thyne eyes, & shalt not eat therof. And so it chaūced: for thee people troade hym vnder fete in the gate, that he dyed.

¶ Eliseus prophesieth vnto the Sunamite ỹ dearth of vii. yeare. After the death of Benhadad raygneth Hazael in Siria. Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat raygneth in Juda. Edom falleth frō Juda. Ohozias succedeth Jehoram.

The. viii. Chapter.

THen spake Eliseus vnto thee womā whose sonne he had restored to lyfe againe, sayinge: vp & go both thou and thyne house, & sotourne where thou thinkest best, for the Lord wil cal a dearth which shal come on the lande seuen yeare. And the woman arose & dyd after the saytinge of the man of God, and wēt both she and her household & sotourned in the land of the Philistines seuē yere. And at ỹ seuē yeares ende, when the womā was come agayne out of the lād of the Philistines she went out to speake to the king for her house and for her land. And the kinge was talkinge wyth Gihezi the seruaunt of the mā of God sayinge: tel me I praye the, al the greate dedes whyche Eliseus dyd. And it chaunced as he was telling the kyng how he restored a dead body to life againe that the womā whose sonne he recuyued, cryed to the kyng for her house and land. Then sayd Gihezi: My Lord kynge, thys is the woman and thys is her sonne whych Elizeus brought to lyfe agayn. And the king asked the woman, and she tolde him. And so thee kynge sente wythe her one of hys Chamberlaynes sayinge: restore all that pertayneth to her, wyth all the fruytes of the felde, sence the daye she lefte the lande vnto thys tyme.

After that Eliseus went to Damasco, Benhadad the kynge of Siria beynge sicke. And one tolde the kynge sayinge: The man of God is come hether. Thē sayd the kyng to Hazael: * take a present with the and goo agaynst the man of God and aske the Lord by hym whether I shall recouer of thys my disease or no. And Hazaell went to mete him and toke presentes with hym, euen of all the good thinges of Damasco, as moche as fourtie Camels could beare, and came & presented hym self before hym & sayd: thy sonne Benhadad king of Siria hath sent me to the, sayinge: shal I recouer of thys my disease.

C iii. reg. xix.

And Eliseus said to him: go and say to him, thou shalt recouer, howbeit the Lord hath shewed me that he shall surelye dye. And the man of God began * to loke earnestly, in so moche that he was a shamed: and the man of God wepte. And Hazaell sayde: why wepeth my Lorde? And he answered

answered: for I know that thou shalt doo euel vnto the children of Israel: their strōg cities thou shalt set on fyre, & their young men thou shalt slaye wyth the swerde, and shalt dashe oute the braynes of their sucking children, and all to teare their wemen wyth chylde.

And Hazael sayd: what is thy seruaūte which am but a dog, that I shulde do this great thing? And Eliseus sayd for ỹ Lord hath shewed me, that thou shalt be king of Syria. And so he departed frō Eliseus & came to hys mayster, whiche sayd to hym. What sayd Eliseus to the? And he sayde: he tolde me that thou shuldeste recouer. And on thee morowe he toke a roughe cloth and dypte it in the water and spred it on hys face, and he dyed, & Hazael raygned in hys steade.

The fyfte yere of Jehorā sōne of Ahab king of Israel, Jehosaphat being yet kig of Juda, Jehorā the sonne of Jehosaphat king of Juda, began to raygne. xxxij. yere olde was he whē he began to raygne, & he raygned. viij. yere in Jerusalē. And he walked in the way of the kinges of Israel, as did the house of Ahab for the daughter of Ahab was his wyfe, & he dyd that displeased the lord. Neuerthelater the Lord wold not destroye Juda because of Dauid hys seruaūt, as he promysed hym to geue hym a light in hys children all waye.

And in his dayes Edō fel away frō vnder the hand of Juda, & make thē a kyng of their owne. And Jehorā went to Seir, & all hys charettes with hī. And he rose by night & layd on the Edomites, whych compased him in, & ỹ captaines of hys charet & the people fled into their tentes. And so the Edomites slipte away frō vnder the hand of Juda vnto thys day. And thē Lobnah slipt away to, euen that same tyme.

The rest of the dedes of Jehorā & al he dyd are writtē in the chronicles of the kinges of Juda. And Jehoram rested wō hys fathers & was buried wyth his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Ozias hys sonne raygned in his steade. The. xii. yere of Jehorā sonne of Ahab, king of Israel, did Ochozias the sonne of Jehorā king of Juda begin to raygne. Two & twentie yere olde was Ochozias whē he begāne to raygne, & raigned one yere in Jerusalē, his mothers name was Athaliah daughter of Amri, king of Israel. And he walked in the way of the house of Ahab: for he was a sōne in law to the house of Ahab.

And Jehorā the sonne of Ahab wēte to warre with Hazael king of Syria, at Ramoth in Galaad, and the Syrians wounded hym. Wherfore kyng Jehoram went backe agayne, to be healed in Jesrahell of the woundes whych the Syriās had geuē him at Ramoth, whē he fought wyth Hazael kyng of Syria. And Ochozias the sonne of Jehoram king of Juda wēt downe to se Jehoram sonne of Ahab in Jezrahel because he was sycke.

at Hazael brought this weat clothe to him, as though he wold therwith haue coled him, & eased hī of his feruent heate: but dyd in dede strangle hym, after Josephus. He had heard of the prophet ỹ Benhadad shuld recouer, & so shuld it haue bene longe or he had raygned: therfore dyd he ryddе hym, to thyntent that he myght soner come by the kyngedom.

Jehu is made king of Israel, and kylleth Jehorā the king therof, & Ochozias kynge of Juda also: and therto causeth Jezabel to be caste downe fro the of a wyndowe, whom dogges eate.

And Eliseus the prophete called vnto one of the children of of ỹ prophetes, & sayd to him gyrde vppe thy loynes & take this boxe of oyle in thyne hād and get the to Ramoth in Galaad, & when thou comest thether, thou shalt there se Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat thee sonne of Namsi, & go to him, & make him aryse vp frō among hys brethren, and carye hym to a secrete chamber. And take ỹ boxe of oyle and powre it on hys heade and saye, thus sayth the Lord: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel. And thē open the doze and flee, & tary not. And the seruaūt of the Prophet get hym to Ramoth in Galaad, & whē he came, the captaynes of the hoste were sytting tygether. And he sayd: I haue an errand to the. Sir captayne. And Jehu sayde, vnto whyche of all vs? And he he sayde: to the. O captayne. And he arose and went into the house.

And the other powred the oyle on hys head and sayde to hym, thus saith ỹ Lord God of Israel: I haue anoynted the to be kynge ouer Israel the people of the lorde that thou slaye the housholde of Ahab thy mayster. For I (sayth the Lorde) wyl aduenge the bloude of my seruaūtes the prophetes, & the bloude of all the seruauntes Jezabel. of the Lorde, of the hand of Jezabel (for ỹ whole house of Ahab shall be destroyed) and I wyll destroye vnto Ahab what pis-sheth agaynste the walle, and so moche as the presoned or that is forsaken in Israel, and wyll make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam sonne of Nabat, and lyke the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahiah. And as for Jezabell the dogges shall eate her in the felde of Jezrahell, and none shall burye her. And he opened the doze and fled.

And when Jehu was come oute to the seruauntes of his Lord, they sayd to hym: is all peace? Wherfore came this mad fe-low to ỹ? And he sayd to him: ye know the persõ and his cõmunicatiõ. And they said: it is not so. But tel vs a felowshippe. And he sayd, thus and thus spake he to me say inge. Thus sayth the Lord: I haue anoin ted the to be kynge ouer Israell. And they hasted and toke euerye man his mantell & put vnder hym on an hye bẽche at the top of steppes, & blewe a trompett and sayde: Jehu is kynge. And so Jehu the sonne of Josaphat the sonne of Namsi cõspired agaynst Jehoram. And Jehorã had bene wayting at Ramoth Galaad, and all Is-rael with him, for feare of Hazael kyng of Syria, and was returned to be healed in Jezrahel, of ỹ woundes which the Syriãs had geuẽ him as he fought wyth Hazaell kynge of Syria.

Then sayde Jehu: If it be youre myn-des, then let no man escape out of the citie, to goo & tell in Jezrahell. And Jehu rode and wente to Jezrahell: for Jehoram laye there, and Ohoziah kynge of Juda was come to Jehoram. And ỹ watcheman that stode on the towre in Jezrahel, spied the cõ pany of Jehu as he came, and sayd: I se a compañe. And Jehorã said: take an hors-man and sende agaynst them, and let hym aske whether it be peace. And ther wẽt one on horsbacke agaynste him and said: thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? And Jehu an-swered: what hast ỹ to do wt peace? turne and come after me. And the watchmã tol-de saying: the messenger came to them but he cometh not agayne.

Then he sent out another on horsback, which came to them and sayde, thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? And Jehu answered wat hast thou to do with peace? turne and come after me. And the watchman tolde sayinge: he came to them, but he comethe not agayne, & the dryuyng is lyke the dri-uing of Jehu the sõne of Namsi, for he dri ueth as he were mad.

Then sayd Jehoram, make redye. And they made readye his charet. And Jehorã kyng of Israel, & Ohoziah kyng of Juda wẽt out ether in hys charet agaynst Jehu, and mett him in the furlong of Naboth ỹ Jezrahelite. And when Jehoram saw Je-hu, he sayd: is it peace Jehu? And he sayd, what peace shulde there be, so long as the whordomes of thy mother Jezabell & her wytchcraftes are so greate? And Jehoram turned his hand and fled, & said to Ohozi-ah, there is falshed Ohoziah. And Jehu toke a bowe in hys hande and smote Jeho-ram betwene the shoulders, that the arow came out at hys breast. And he fell downe thre folde in his charett. Then he sayde to Badakar a lorde of hys, take & caste hym in the plat of grounde of Naboth ỹ Jez-rahelite. For I remembre as I & thou roa-de to gether after Ahab hys father, how ỹ Lorde spake these wordes agaynste hym: I haue sene yesterdaye the bloude of Na both & of his sonnes, sayde ỹ Lord, and I wyl quyte him in this groũd, sayth the lor de. Now therfore take and cast him in the plat of grounde accordyng to the word of the Lorde. And when *Ohoziah the kyng of Juda sawe that, he fled the waye to the *garden house. And Jehu folowed after him in his charet at the going vp to Sur by Jeblaam, and he fled to Magedo and ther died. And his seruaũtes carted him to Jerusalẽ, & buried him in his sepulchre wi his fathers in ỹ cytye of Dauid. And in ỹ xi. yere of Jehoram sonne of Ahab, begãne Ohoziah to raygne ouer Juda. And whe Jehu was come to Jezrahell, Jezabel her de of it, & starched her eies & tired her heed & looked out at a wyndowe. And as Jehu entered at ỹ gate she said: had Zamri pea ce which slew his master? And he lyfte vp his eyes to the wyndow & saide, who is of my syde who? And there loked out to him two or thre lordes that were chãberlaines. And he said: Throw her downe. And they threw her downe. And he sprinkled of her bloud bloude vpon the walles & on the hozses, & troade her vnder fote.

And then whē he was come in & had eaten & dzoncke, he sayde: go & vysyt I pray you, yonder cursted creature, & burye her, foz she is a kynges daughter. And when they came to burye her, they fouīd no moze of her, then the skulle and the two fete & the two handes. And they came agayne & tolde hym. And he sayde: it is the wozde of the Lozde which he spake by the hande of ¶ Jehu causeth the.lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slaine, & after that.xlii. of hys brethzē. He findethe a meane also to kil all the pzeastes of Baal. After his deethe hys sonne sayneth in hys steade.

The.x. Chapter.

AHab had.lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wzote letters, & sent to Samaria vnto the elders that were Lozdes of Jezrahel, and to them that a+nourced vp Ahabs chyldzē saying: now at the comyng of these letters to you, ye haue wythe you youre maisters sonnes, & ye haue wythe you charettes and hozses, & a stronge citie and harnesse. Therfoze chose the best, & him ỹ most pleaseth you of your maisters sonnes, & put hym on his fathers seate, & fight foz youre Lozdes house. And they were exceedynglye afrayde, and sayde: se, two kinges were not able to stande befoze him, how shall we then stande? And ỹ gouernoure of the kynges house and of ỹ cytie and of the elders and the nources sente to Jehu sayinge: we are thy seruauntes and wyl do al that thou shalte byd vs: we wil make no man king: but do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes.

B Then he wzote another letter to thē saying: If ye be myne & wyl obeye my voyce, then take the heedes of your maisters sonnes and come to me to Jezrahel, by to moztow thys time. And ỹ kinges sōnes were. lxx. personnes wyth the greate men of the cytye whych nourisshed them. And whē ỹ letter came to them, they toke the kynges chyldzen and slue them in nombze. lxx. personnes, and put theyz heedes in cophines and sente them to hym to Jezrahell. And there came a messenger and tolde him sayīng: they haue bzought the heedes of ỹ kinges sonnes. And he sayd: lett thē put thē on two heapes in the enteryng of the gate, tyll it be daye.

And in the mozning he wēt out & stode C and sayd to all the folke, ye be righteouse: foz se, I conspired against my master and slue him: But who slue these? * consydze i. Reg. xxi. d now how there is nothyng of the Lozdes wozde fallē to the erthe, which he spake agaynste the house of Ahab: foz the Lozde hathe done that he spake to his seruaunte Eliah. And so Jehu slue al ỹ remayned of ỹ house of Ahab, in Jezrahell, & all ỹ were great wyth him, & hys companyons & hys pzeastes, vntyll he had lefte hym naughte remayne. And he arose and departed & wēte to Samaria. And as Jehu was come euen to the house wher the sheperdes * binde their shepe by the hye waye syde, he met wythe the bzethzen of Ohoziah kynge of Juda, and sayd what are ye? & they saide, the bzethzen of Ohoziah are we, and go to salute the chyldzen of the kyng and of the Quene. And he said: take them a liue. And they toke them a lyue, & slue thē at the wel besyde the house wher the shepardes bynd their shepe, in nomoze. xlii. personnes, that he lefte none of them.

* That is, where they shere their shepe foz euen thē do they also bind thē.

And when he was departed thence he D met with Jehonadab the sonne of Rechab compynge agaynst hym. And Jehu saluted hym and sayd to hym: is thyne hert right, as myne hert is with thyne. And Jehonadab sayde, ye that it is. If it be, then gyue me thyne hande. And he gaue hys hande, and the other toke him vp to him into ỹ charet and sayd: go wt me & se the zeale I haue to the Lozd, & made him ride wt him in hys charet. And when he came to Samaria, he slue all that remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, tyll he had wypte hym out, according to the sayīng of ỹ lozd whiche he spake to Eliah.

After that Jehu gēathered all the people to geather & sayd to thē: * Ahab serued iii. Reg. xvi. g Baall a lytle: But Jehu shal serue hym a good. Nowe therfoze calle vnto me all the prophetes of Baal & al his seruaūtes & al his pzeastes, ỹ none be lackyng. Foz I haue a great sacrefice to do to Baal: & yf any be misséd, he shal not liue. But Jehu did it for a sotelitie, to destroye the seruaũtes of Baal. Wherfore Jehu sayd: Apoynt a solépe feast for Baal, & they proclamed it. Then Jehu sent thorow oute all Jsraell. And al the seruaũtes of Baall came, that ther was not a man left behynd that came not. And when they were come in to the tẽple of Baal, the temple was ful from one ende to another.

Thẽ he sayd to the keper of the vestrie, bringe forth garmentes for the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought thẽ out garmẽtes. And Jehu went wt Jehonadab sõne of Rechab in to the house of Baal: and sayde to the seruauntes of Baall: searche and loke that there be none here wt you of the seruauntes of the Lord, but ỹ seruaũtes of Baal onlye. And they went in, to offer sacrefyce & burntofferinges. But Jehu appointed him foure skore men without & sayd: If any of the men which I shal bringe vnto your hãdes escape, he that letteth him go shall dye for hym.

¶ And as sone as he had made an ende of offeryng of burntsacrefyce, he sayde to thẽ of the garde & to the Lordes: go in & sleye thẽ, let none come oute. And they smote thẽ wt the edge of the swerde. And the garde & the Lordes cast them out, & went vnto the cytte of the house of Baal, & fette out the Jmage out of the house of Baal & burnt it. And they brake ỹ Jmage of Baal, and brake the house of Baal, & made a sege of it euer after. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Jsrael. But frõ the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Jsrael synne with the goulden calues in Bethel and Dan, Jehu departed not.

Then the Lorde sayd to Jehu, because thou haste lustelye done that pleaseth me, and hast done to the house of Ahab al that was in myne hert, therfore shall *thy chyldren in the fourth generacyon sytt on the seate of Jsraell. But Jehu cared not to walcke in the law of the Lorde god of Jsrael with al hys herte: for he departed not from the sinnes of Jeroboam which made Jsrael synne.

In those dayes the Lorde begamme to cut Jsrael shorte, for Hazaell slue them in all the coostes of Jsraell, from Jordan Eastwarde: euen all the lande of Galaad the Gadites, the Rubenites and the Manassites, from Aroer vpon the ryuer of Arnon, with Galaad and Basã. The reste of the actes of Jehu, and all he dyd, and all his powre, ar writtẽ in the chronicles of the kinges of Jsrael. And when Jehu was layde to rest with his fathers, they buryed hym in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his sonne raygned in his stead. And the tyme that Jehu raigned vpon Jsrael in Samaria, was .xxviii. yere.

Ehoas was seuen yere olde whẽ he was made kinge. And he begãne to raygne the seuenth yere of Jehu, & raigned fourtye yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Zebiah Bersabe. And he dyd that pleased the Lorde, as longe as Jehoiada the Preaste enformed hym. But they toke not awaye the hilaulters, for the people slue and offered styll in the hillaulters.

And Jehoas sayde to the preaste: all the syluer y is dedicat & brought to the house of the Lorde in curraunt money, that is to saye, the moneye that euery man *is set at, with al the moneye that euery mãnes hert geueth him to bryng into y house of y lorde, let y preastes take it to thẽ, euery mã of his aquayntaunce, and lette thẽ repayre y broke places of the tẽple in al places whet ought is found decayed.

For they gaue that to the worckemen, to repayre therewythe the house of the lord. Moreouer they reckened not wyth the men into whose handes they delyuered that moneye to be bestowed on worckemen: But they dyd it euen of fydelite. Howbeit trespace money & synne moneye myght not be brought into the house of the Lorde, for it was the priestes.

Then came Hazael king of Siria, and fought against Geth & toke it, & apoynted him selfe to go vp to Jerusalem. But Jehoas kynge of Juda toke all the dedicate thinges that Jehosaphat, Jehoram & Ochoziah hys fathers kynges of Juda, had dedicate, and that he hym selfe had dedicated, and all the gould that could be found in the treasure of thee house of thee Lorde and of the kinges house, and sent it to Hazael kynge of Siria: and so he departed from Jerusalem.

The remnaunt of the actes of Jehoas and all he dyd, are wrytte in the chronicles of the kinges of Juda. And hys owne seruauntes arose & wroughte treason, & slue Jehoas in thee house Melo, in thee waye downe to Sela. The. xiii. Chapter.

IN the. xxiii. yeare of Jehoas sonne of Ochoziah kinge of Juda, Jehoahaz the sonne of Jehu was made kynge ouer Israell in Samaria, and continued. xvii. yeare. And he wrought wickednes in the syght of the Lorde: for he folowed the synne of Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat whych made Israel sinne, & departed not therfrō. Wherfore the Lordes was angry wyth Israel, and deliuered them into thee hande of Hazaell king of Siria, & into the hand of Benhadad the sonne of Hazael al thyr dayes.

But Jehoahaz besought the Lorde, & the Lorde hearde hym. For he had sene the oppression of Israell, howe the kynge of Siria oppressed them. And therfore the Lorde gaue Israell a delyuerer and they went out frō vnder the handes of the Syrians. And the chyldren of Israell dwelte in theyr tentes as before tyme. Neuerthelesse they departed not from thee synne of the house of Jeroboam whych made Israell synne, but walked therein. And there remayned a groue also in Samaria styll: But ther were left of the people to Jehoahaz, but fyftie horsemen and ten charettes and ten thousande fotemen for the kynge of Siria hadde destroyed them and made thē lyke thressed chaffe. The rest of the actes of Jehoahaz, & al he dyd & hys power are wrytte in the chronicles of the kynges of Israell. And Jehoahaz rested wyth his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria and Joas hys sonne raygned in his steade. In the. xxxvii. yeare of Jehoas kynge of Juda, begame Joas the sonne of Jehoahaz to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria, and contynued syxtene yeare, and dyd vnhappely in the syghte of the Lorde and departed in nothing frō the synnes of Jeroboam the sōne of Nabat that made Israell synne, but walked therein.

The remnaunt of the actes of Joas & all he dyd, and hys power, how he fought wyth Amaziah kynge of Juda, are wrytten in the chronicle boke of the kynges of Israel. And when Joas was layde to rest wyth hys fathers, Jeroboam sat vpō his seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria amonge the kynges of Israell.

When Eliseus was fallen sycke of the sycknesse whereof he dyed, Joas kyng of Israell came to hym and wepte to hym, & sayd: O father, father the charet of Israel & the horsemen of the same. And Eliseus sayd

And he sayde to the kynge of Israell: put thyne hand vpon the boow, & whē he had put his hand vpon ỹ boow, Eliseus put hys handes vpon the kinges handes. Thē he said, opē a wyndow eastwarde: and he opened. D And Eliseus said: shote, and he shott. And he sayd: the arowe of helpe of the lord, and the arowe of helpe agaynste the Syrians, for thou shalt bete the syriens in Aphek til thou haue consumed them.

Then he sayde: take arowes: and he toke. Then he sayde to the kynge of Israell, smyte the grounde: and he smote thryse and ceased. And the man of god was angrie with him & sayde: thou shuldeste haue smitē fyue or syxe tymes, and thē thou haddest consumed them: wher now thou shalt bete them but thryse.

And as sone as the man came and touched the bones of Eliseus, he reuiued and stode vp on hys fete.

And Hazael oppressed Israel, al the dayes of Jehoahaz. But the Lorde had mercye on them and pitied them and turned to thē, because of his appoyntmēt made with Abrahā, Isaac & Jacob, and wolde not destroye them, ether cast them frō him as yet. Selum Selum the sonne of Jabes beganne to raygne the thyrtie and nyne yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Manahem the sonne of Gadi, came vp frō Therzah and wente to Samaria and smote Selū the sonne of Jabes in Samaria, and slue hym, and raygned in hys steade. The reste of thee dedes of Selum and thee treason, which he conspired are wrytten in the chronicles of the kinges of Israell. The same tyme Manahem destroyed Thaphsah, & all that were therein, and the costes theredf from Therzah (because they opened not to hym, he smote and rent al the wemen wyth chylde.

The.xxxix. yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, beganne Manahem thee sonne of Gadi to raygne vpon Israell, and continued ten yere in Samaria. And he dyd euell in the syghte of the Lorde, and turned not all hys dayes from the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne. And Phul kyng of Assiria came vpon the lande. And Manahem gaue Phul a thousand talentes of syluer, to helpe hym to stablische his kyngdō. And Manahem raysed the money in Israel, vpō al men of substaunce, for to geue the kynge of Assyria fyftie sycles of syluer a pece. And the king of Assiria turned back agayne & taried not there in the lande.

E The rest of the dedes of Manahē and all he dyd, are wrytten in the chronicles of the kynges of Israell. And whē Manahē was layd to rest with hys fathers Phaketah hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

The fyftieth yeare of Azariah kyng of Juda, began Phakeiah the sonne of Manahem to raygne ouer Israell in Samaria, and continued two yere, and wrought wyckedlye in the syghte of the Lorde and lefte not of from the synnes of Jeroboam sonne of Nabat which made Israel synne And Phaketh ȳ sonne of Romeliah a Lorde of hys conspired agaynst hym and slue hym in the palayse of the kynges house, wythe Argob and Arieh and fyftye men with hym that were Galaadites: and whē he hadde kylled hym, raygned in his rowme. The reste of Phakeiah and all he dyd F are wrytten in the chronicles of the kinges of Israell.

And the fyftie and two yeare of Azariah kynge of Juda, beganne Phakeh the sonne of Romeliah to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria and continued.xx. yeare, and dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, & turned not frō the synnes of Jeroboam sōne of Nabat that made Israel synne, In the dayes of Phakeh kynge of Israell, came Teglath Phalasar kynge of Assiria, and toke Aion, Abel, Beth, Maacah, Janoah, Kades, Hazor, Galaad, Galile, and all the lande of Nephthali, and caryed thē away to Assyria.

And Hosea the sonne of Elah conspyred treason agaynste Phakeh thee sonne of Romeliah and smote him and slue him and raygned in his stead in the twentie yeare of Jotham the sonne of Ozias. The reste of the actes of Phakeh, and al he dyd are wrytten in the storyes of the kinges of Israell. Otherwise Azariah, or as som wyll Uzziah. G

The second yeare of Phakeh sonne of Romeliah kynge of Israel, beganne Jotham the sonne of Ozias king of Juda to raygne. Fyue & twentie yeare olde was he when he began to raygne, and he raygned xvi. yeare in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Jerusa thee daughter of Zadok. And he dyd that was ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde: euen in al thinge as dyd hys father Ozias, dyd he. But they putte not awaye the hyllaulters: for the people offered and burnte incense styll in the hyllaulters, he bylt the hyghest doze in the house of the Lorde. The reste of the dedes of Jotham and all he dydde, are wrytten in the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda. In those dayes the Lord beganne to sende agaynste Juda, Razin the kyng of Syria and Phakeh the sonne of Romeliah. And Jotham rested with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the citie of Dauid hys father, and Ahaz hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

And he offered and burnt the fatte in the hyllaulters and on the hylles and vnder euerye grene tree. * Then Clap. viii.

B Razin kynge of Syria and Phakeh sonne of Romeliah kyng of Israell came vp to Jerusalem to fyghte. And they beseged Ahaz, but coulde not ouercome hym. At thee same tyme Razin kynge of Syria brought Ailath agayne too Siria. and rydde the Jewes thence. And the Sirians wente too Ailath and dwelte therein vnto thys daye.

Then Ahaz sente messengers to Teglath Phalasar kynge of Assyria, saying: I am thy seruaunte and thy sonne, come and delyuer me oute of thee hande of thee kynge of Siria, and oute of the hande of the kynge of Israell, whyche are rysen agaynste me. And Ahaz toke the syluer and the gould that was found in the house of the Lorde and in the treasure of the kynges house, and sente it for a rewarde to the kynge of Assyria. And the kynge of Assyria herkened to him, and went to Damasco, and toke it, and caried the people away to Kir and slue Razin.

And kynge Ahaz wente agaynst Teglath Phalasar kynge of Assyria, to Damasco. And when he sawe a certeyne aultare that was at Damasco, he sente to Uriah the Prieste thee patern of the aultare and the facyon of all thee workemanshyp thereof. C And Uriah the Prieste made an aulare in all poyntes lyke too thee patern whyche kynge of Ahaz hadde sente from Damasco, and had fynished it by the kinges comynge from Damasco. And when the kynge was come from Damasco and sawe the aultare, he wente to it and offred there on. And he burnte hys burnteoffringe and sprinkeled the bloud of hys peaceofferynge, and powred hys drinckeoffringe and sprinkeled the bloude of his peaceoffringes vpon the sayd aultare. And the brasen aultare that was before the Lord, *‡ he fette from before the house, from betwene the aulter and thee house of thee Lorde and putte it on thee Northesyde of the sayde aulter.

And thee kynge commaunded Uriah the Prieste sayinge: vpon the greate aulter sette on fyre, in the morning burnteoffrynges, and in the euen meateoffringes and thee kynges burntsacrifyce and hys meateoffring, and the burnteoffringes of all the people of the lande and theyr meat offerynges and theyr drynckeofferinges, and powre thereon all the bloude of al maner offeringes. But the brasen aultar shal be for me, to enquyre with. And Uriah the Prieste dyd all thynges as kynge Ahaz commaunded hym. And kinge Ahaz brake the sydes of the botomes and toke thee lauers from of them, and toke downe thee see from of the brasen oxen that were vnder it, and putt it vpon a pauemente of stone. And therto the pulpit for the Saboth that they hadde made in the house, and the kynges entric wythoute turned he to thee house of the Lorde, for feare of the kynge of Assyria. The reste of the dedes of Ahaz whyche he dyd are wrytten in the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And Ahaz layde hym to reste wyth his fathers, and was buryed wyth hys fathers in the cytie of Dauid: and Hezekiah hys sonne raygned in hys rowme.

Hosea kynge of Israell is taken. And he and all hys realme brought to the Assyrians.

The. xvii. Chapter.

N the. xii. yeare of Ahaz king of Juda, Hosea sonne of Elah begāne to raygne in Samaria vppon Israell, and cōtinued nyne yeare, and dyde that displeased the Lorde, but not so euell as dyd the kynges of Israel that were before hym. And Salmanasar king of Assyria came vppon him, and Hosea became hys seruaunte and gaue hym presentes. And the kinge of Assyria founde treason in Hosea, because he hadde sente messengers to Sua kynge of Egypte, and sente no presentes vnto the kyng of Assyria, as he was yearely woonte to do. And Israel deuided them selues, from the house of Dauid, and made Jeroboā thee

And thoughe they feared the Lorde, yet they made them preastes of the loweste of the people, for the Hillaulters, whyche sacrifyced for them in the houses of the Hillaulters. Unto this day they do after the old maner: they nether feare the lord, nether do after their owne ordynaunces and customes, and after the lawe & cōmaundement whych the Lord commaunded the chyldrē of Jacob whose name he called Israell, & made an appoyntment with them & charged thē sayinge: feare not any other gods, nor bowe your selues to thē nor serue thē, nor sacrifyce to them: but to the lord whiche brought you out of the land of Egipt wt greate powre & a stretched oute arme: him feare & to hī bow & to him do sacrifice And ꝑ ordynāces, customes, law & cōmaūdement whiche I wrote for you, se that ye be diligent to do for euermore, & feare not any other goddes. In the thyrde yere of Hosea sōne of Ela, kig of Israel raigned Hezekiah sonne of Ahaz kinge of Juda. Twentye and fyue yere olde was he, when he beganne to raigne, & raigned. xxix. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Abi the daughter of Zacharias, and he dyd that pleased the Lord in all thynge, lyke to Dauid his father. He put awaye the Hyllaulters & brake the ymages & cut downe ꝑ groues, & al to brake ꝑ brasē serpent that Moses made. For vnto those dates the childrē of Israel did burne sacrifyce to it, & called it * Nehustan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israell, so ꝑ after him came none lyke him amonge all the kynges of Juda, nether amonge them that wente before hym. He claue to the lord and departed not from him, but kept hys commaundementes which the Lorde cōmaunded Moses. And the Lord was wyth hym. And what soeuer he toke in hāde he dyd it wyselye. And he rebelled agaynst the kynge of Assyria & serued hym not. He bett ꝑ Philistines euē vnto Azah & the costes therof, bothe in castels of garrisons and stronge cities to.

And Esaiah was skarce gone out into ỹ middle of the citie, but that the worde of ỹ Lord came to hym saying: turne agayn & tell Hezekiah thee captayne of my people. Thus sayth the Lord God of Dauid thy father. I haue harde thy prayer and sene thy teares. Beholde, & I wyl heale the, & B

And I wyl lengthe thy dayes yet.xv.yere, & wyl delyuer both the & this cytie out of the hāde of the king of Assyria, and wyll defende this cytie for myne owne sake, & for Dauid my seruaūtes sake. And Esaiah sayd: bring a lumpe of kygges. And they brought & put it on the sore, and he recouered.

Thē sayd Hezekiah to Esaiah: what is the signe, ỹ the Lorde wyl heale me, & ỹ I shall go vp into the house of the Lord the thyrd daye? And Esaiah sayde: thys signe shalt thou haue of the Lorde, that the Lorde wil do that he hath spokē: shal the shadow go forward ten degrees, or go backe agayne ten degrees? And Hezekiah sayd: it is a light thing for ỹ shadow to go downe ten degrees. Therfore I wil not ỹ: but let the shadowe goo backeward ten degrees.
And Esaiah the Prophet called to ỹ Lord ecc.xlviii.d

sent letters & presentes vnto Hezekiah, for he harde howe that Hezekiah was sycke. And Hezekiah harkened vnto them & shewed them al that was in the spicery house and hys syluer & gould & odoures & precious oyntmētes and his armorye & al that was found in hys treasure: there was nothinge in hys house or in all hys realme, that he shewed them not.

And of thy sonne that procedeth out of the, whych thou begattest, shall ther be carped awaye, and shal be made chamberlaynes in the palace of the king of Babilon. And Hezekiah sayde to Isaiah: welcome be the word of the Lord whych thou haste spoken: so that peace and truthe be kepte in my dayes.

The remnaūt of ỹ dedes of Hezekiah & al his power, & howe he made a pole and a conduite & brought the water into the cytie, are writtē in the boke of the chronicles of ỹ kinges of Juda. And Hezekiah layd him to rest with his fathers, & Manasseh his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ Wicked Manasseh restoreth agayne the Idolles and after dieth, in whose steade Amō hys sonne succedeth, which is kylled of hys owne seruauntes: After hym raygneth karthfull Iosiah

The.xxi.Chapter.

MAnasseh was twelue yere old whē he began to raygne and raygned.lv.yere in Jerusalē his mothers name was Haphzibah. And he dyd that displesed the Lorde, euē after the abhominatiōs of the Hethen whych the Lord cast out before the chyldrē of Israel. And he wente & buylt the hyllaulters agayne, whych Hezekiah hys father had destroyed. And he rered vp aulters to Baal and made groues as dyd Ahab kyng of Israell. And he bowed hym selfe vnto all the *Hoste of heuē and serued them. And he buylt aulters in the very house of the Lorde, of whych the Lord had sayd: *in Jerusalē I wyll putt my name. And he buylte aulters vnto al ỹ Hoste of heauē, euen in two courtes of the house of the Lorde. And he offred his sōne in fyre, and obserued dismal dayes, & vsed witchcraft and mayntened worckers with spyrytes, & tellers of fortunes: & wroughte moche wickednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

And he putt an ymage of a groue ỹ he had made, euē in the very temple of which the Lord had sayde to Dauid & to Salomon hys sonne, *in thys house & in Jerusalē which I haue chosen out of al trybes of Israel, wil I put my name for euer. Neither wyl I make the fete of Israell moue any moare out of the lande whych I gaue they fathers: so that they wylbe diligente to do al I haue cōmaunded thē, & al ỹ law that my seruaunte Moyses commaunded them. But they herkened not: for Manasseh had led thē out of the waye, to do more wyckedlye then dydde thee Hethen people whych the Lorde destroyed from before ỹ chyldren of Israell.

And the Lord spake by his seruaūtes the Prophetes, sayinge: because Manasseh kyng of Juda hath done soch abhominacions, & hath wrought wickedly aboue al ỹ the Amorites which were before him dyd: & hath made Juda synne also with his Idolles. Therfore thus saith the Lord god of Israel. * Behold, I wyl bring soche euel vpō Jerusalē & Juda, ỹ thee eares of al ỹ heare it, shall tingle at it. And I wyll stretch ouer Jerusalē the squaring line of Samaria & the plometh of ỹ house of Ahab. And I wyl wepe oute Jerusalē, as a man wold wipe a dishe, & whē he hath wyped it turneth it vpsedowne. And though I leaue a remnaūt of myne enheritaunce, yet I wyl deliuer them into the handes of thē that hate them, & they shalbe robbed & spoyled of al they enemyes: euen because they haue done wyckedlye & haue angred me, sence the tyme they fathers came out of Egypte vnto thys daye.

And therto Manasseh shed inocēt bloud exceedinge aboūdantly, in so moche that he replenished Jerusalē in al corners, beside his synne wherwith he made Juda synne and to do euel in the syght of the Lorde.

The rest of the actes of Manasseh & all he did & his synne that he sinned, ar writtē in the boke of ỹ chronicles of ỹ kynges of Juda. And Manasseh layde hi to slepe wt hys fathers, & was buried in the gardē of his owne house, euē in the gardē of Oza: & Amon his sonne raygned in hys steade.

Amon was.xxii.yere olde whē he began to raygne, & he raygned two yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Mesalemeth thee daughter of Haru of Jathbah. And he dyd that displeased the Lorde as his father Manasseh did. And he walked in all the waye that hys father walked in, and serued thee Idolles that hys father serued, & bowed hym selfe to them. And he forsoke the Lord God of his fathers and walked not in the waye of the Lorde.

And

And the seruauntes of Amon cõspired against him, & slue him in his owne house. But the people of the lãd slue al that cõspired against king Amon, & made Josiah his sõne kinge in his stede. The rest of ỹ actes of Amõ which he did ar wrttẽ in the chronicle of ỹ kiges of Juda. And thei buried hi in his sepulchre in ỹ gardẽ of Oza, & Josiah his sonne raygned in his steade.

¶ After Josiah heard of ỹ boke of the lawe ỹ was found in the tẽple, he sendeth to Oldah the Prophetisse for counsel.

The.xxii. Chapter.

Josiah was.viii. yere old whẽ he began to raygne, & he raigned.xxxi. yeare in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Jdidah the daughter of Adaiah of Bezecath. And he dyd that semed rycht in the syghte of the Lorde, & walked in all the wayes of Dauid hys father, & bowed nether to the right hand or to the lefte.

And the.xviii. yere of his raygne kyng Josiah sent Saphã the sonne of Azaliah the sonne of Mesulã the scribe to ỹ house of the Lord, saying: go to Helkiah the hye priestc, & lett him summe the syluer that is brought into the house of the Lord, which thekepers of the dores haue gathered of ỹ people, & lett them delyuer it into the handes of the werkmẽ that haue ỹ ouersyghte of the house of the Lord, whych shal geue it to thẽ that worke vpon the house of the Lord, to repayre ỹ decayed places thereof, euen vnto carpẽters and masons, and for to bye tymber and hewe stone to repayre the house. Howbeit lett no rekeninge be made wyth them of the moneye that is delyuered into theyr handes, but lette them doo it of theyr conscience.

And Helkiah the hie priest sayd to Saphan the scribe. I haue found the boke of the law in the temple of the Lord, and Helkiah gaue the boke to Saphan, & he red it And then Saphan the scrybe wente to the king and brought hym word agayne, and sayd: thy seruaũtes powred out the syluer that was found in the temple, and haue deliuered it vnto the workemẽ that haue the ouersyght of the house of the Lorde. Furthermore Saphan thee scribe shewed thee kyng saying: Helkiah the priest hath delyuered me here a boke. And Saphan redde it before the kynge.

And the kyng as sone as he had heard the wordes of the boke of the lawe, he rent hys clothes & cõmaũded Helkiah the preest & Ahikam the sonne of Saphan & Achobor the sonne of Michaiah, and Saphan the scribe, and Asahiah a seruaunte of the kynges, saying: go ye & seke of the Lorde for me and the people and for al Juda, cõcerninge thee wordes of thys boke that is founde. For it is a great wrath of the Lorde that is kendled vpon vs, that oure fathers haue not herkened vnto the wordes of thys Boke, to do in all poyntes as it is wrytten therein.

And Helkiah the hye preest & Ahikam, Achobor, Saphan, Asahiah wẽt vnto Oldah the Prophetisse wyfe of Selum thee sonne of Tekuah the sonne of Harahã keper of the robes, whych Prophetisse dwelt in Jerusalem in the second warde, & communed wyth her. And she said to thẽ: thus sayth the Lord god of Israel. Tel the mã that sent you to me: thus sayth the Lorde: beholde I wyl bring euel vpon this place and on the dwellers therin: euen al the wordes of the boke which the kynge of Juda hathe red, because they haue forsaken me and haue burnte offeringes vnto other Goddes, to anger me wyth all the * workes of theyr hãdes. Therfore is my wrath kyndled agaynste thys place, and shal not be quenched.

But to ỹ king of Juda which sent you to enquyre of ỹ Lord, so shal ye saye: thus sayth the lord God of Israel, as touching the wordes which thou heardest. Because thyne herte dyd melte & thou mekedest thy self before me the lord, whẽ thou heardest what I spake against this place & the enhabiters of the same, how ỹ it should be destroyed & made a curse: and tarest thy clothes and weptest before me: of that also I haue heard saith the Lord. And therfore se I wyl receaue ỹ vnto thy fathers & wyl set the vnto thy graue in peace, thine eyes shal se none of the euel which I wyl bring vppon thys place. And they broughte the kynge worde agayne.

kyng of Babilõ made Mathaniah hys fathers brother, kynge in his steade, & chaũged his name and called him Zedekiah.

Zedekiah was. xxi. yere olde when he begãne to raigne & he raigned a. xi. yere in Jerusalẽ. Hys mothers name was Hamital ỹ daughter of Jeremiah of Lobnah. And he did euel in the syght of the lord, in al poyntes like to Jehoakim. For through ỹ wrath of the Lord it so chaunced to Jerusalem & Juda, vntyll he had cast them oute of hys sight. And the sayde Zedekiah rebelled agaynst the kynge of Babilon.

¶ By the rebellyng of zedekiah is the towne of Jerusalem beseaged of Nabuchodonozor. The towne & the temple are bothe burnt. The sonnes of zedekiah are slayne before his eyes, & after ar his eyes put out. Juda is brought to Babilon, and after is Jehoacin exalted.

The. xxv. Chapter.

A Wherfore in the ninthe yere of hys raygne, the tenthe day of the tenthe monethe came Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon wythe all hys power to Jerusalem: and pitched agaynste the towne and made engynes agaynste it on euery syde. And the citie continued beseged vnto the. xi. yere of kynge Zedekiah. And the nynthe day of the fourthe monethe of that yere, there was so greate hongre in the cytie, that there was no sustynaunce for the people of the lande.

And therto the citie was broke vp: wherfore all the men of Armes fled by night, by away thorow a gate, betwene two walles harde on the kynges garden: the caldeyes lyenge aboute the cytye.

B And ỹ kyng wẽt straycht towarde the desert. And ỹ host of the caldeyes folowed after hym, & toke him in the deserte of Iericho, all his armie beynge scatered awaye frõ him. And whẽ they had taken him they brought him to Nabuchodonozor ỹ kinge of Babilon to Reblah. where they * treasoned withe him. And they slue the sonnes of Zedekiah before his eies, and put out the eyes of Zedekiah, and fettered hym, and caryed hym to Babilon.

that is they enprehẽded hym & fought faute with hym because he had rebelled & brake ẽ his othe

And the seuẽthe day of the fifth monethe which was in the nyntenth yere of kynge Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babilon came Nabusaradan seruaunt of the kynge of Babilon and * cheke Marshal, vnto Jerusalem: & burnte the house of the Lorde

¶ The Genealogie of Rubẽ and Gad & of the halfe trybe of Manasseh

The. v. Chapter.

A Gene. xlix. a. Exodi. vi. b. Numer. vi. a.

THe sonnes of Rube the eldest sonne of Israel: for he was ỹ eldest.* But because he defyled his fathers bed, his birthright was geue vnto the sonnes of Joseph the sonne of Israel, & so he is not rekened vnto the byrth ryghte. For vnto Juda which was mightie amõg his brethren, was geuen the principalitie before hym. But the byrtheryghte was geuen Joseph. The sonnes then of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel, were Henoch, Phalu Hezron and Carmi.

The sõnes of Joel: Samaiah, & hys sonne Gog, & hys sonne Semei, and hys sonne Micah, and thee sonne of hym was Reaiah, and hys sonne was Baal, & Beerah was hys sonne. Wohyche Beerah Thiglath Phalneser kyng of Assyria caryed awaye: for he was a greate Lorde amonge the Rubenites. But vnto hys brethren in theyr kynredes, when they ar rekened after theyr byrth, were Jeiel & Zacharias the chefe heades.

And Bala the sonne of Azan the sonne of Sema the sonne of Joel, dwelte in Aroer and so forthe vnto Nebo and Baalmaon. And eastwarde he enhabited vntyl the wyldernesse, euen vpon the ryuer Euphrates, for theyr cattel was mothe in the B lande of Galaad.

And in the dayes of Saull they warred wyth the Hagarites which were ouerthrowen by theyr handes. And they dwelt in theyr tentes thorowe out al the eastland of Galaad.

And the chyldren of Gad dwelte ouer agaynst them in the lande of Basan, euen vnto Salcah. And in Basan Joel was the chefest and Saphan the nexte, then Jaanai and Saphat. And theyr brethrẽ in the aunciente housholdes of them, were Michaell, Mosolam, Seba, Jorai, Joacan, Zia, Eber & Senen. These were the chyldrẽ of Abihail the sonne of Huri the sonne of Jeroah Galaad the sonne of Michaell the sonne of Jesisai the sonne of Jahado the sonne of Buz. Ahi was the sõne of Abdiell the sonne of Guni the head of an auncient housholde amonge them. And they dwelte in Galaad and in Basan and her townes: & in all the Suburbes of Saron, euen vnto the ende of theyr borders.

And they were al rekened by kynredes in the dayes of Jotham kinge of Juda, & C in the dayes of Jeroboam king of Israel. The sonnes of Ruben of Gad & of halfe the trybe of Manasseh, euen of fyghtinge men able to beare shylde and swerde, and shotte wyth boowe, and taughte to make warre, were foure & fourtie thousande seuen hundred & thre skore that went out to battel. And they fought with the Hagarites & with Jetur, Naphas & Nodab. And they were holpe agaynst them, & the Hagarites were delyuered into theyr handes & al that were with the Hagarites. For they cryed to God in thee battel, and he hearde thẽ, because they trusted to hym. And they toke of theyr cattell fyfftie thousande Camelles, and two hundred and fyfftie thousande shepe, and two thousand asses, & of the people an hundreth thousand: for there fell manye dead because the warre was of God. And they dwelte there in theyr steades vntyll the tyme that they were caryed awaye.

And the chyldren of halfe thee trybe of Manasseh dwelt in the land, from Basan D vnto Baal Hermõ & Samir & vnto moũte Hermon, & they were manye. And these were the heades of the aunciente housholdes of thẽ: Epher, Jesi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaiah, Jehadiel, men of great power, men of name & heades of the auncient housholdes of them.

But whẽ they hàd trãsgressed agaynst thee God of theyr fathers and had gone a whoringe after the Gods of the people of the land, which God destroyed before thẽ, God stered vp the spyrite of Phul king of Assyria and the spyryte of Thiglath Phalneser Kyng of Assyria, and caryed awaye the Rubenites, the Gadites and the halfe trybe of Manasseh, and broughte them vnto Helah, Habor, Hara and to thee Ryuer Gozan, where they remayne vnto this daye.
